The problem that India faces is a world-wide one, but Indians are reluctant to recognize it as such. The global struggle is one between democracy and totalitarianism, and so far as India is concerned it is posed in its most acute form as a choice between the democratic West and the Communist bloc. One of the discouraging facts of life is that nations, like individuals, can only learn in the hard school of experience—and often the lesson comes too late. Indians have yet to learn the lesson that Communism is evil whether it be exercised in Russia, China or anywhere else outside or inside of India. Mr. Nehru wants to follow an "independent" policy, which is like trying to place one's self beyond good and evil. We may feel sure that he will ultimately have to choose the democratic bloc, but, of course, Indians do not yet see the picture in that light. The proposed measure to curtail the constitutional right of freedom of expression is just another effort to avoid facing the true issues.

However, as in all problems concerning India today, these political differences between East and West are entirely extraneous to the great humanitarian need of preserving the Indian people from famine. One has to be careful in these arguments to keep the two issues apart. If there has to be a choice, let us feed starving Indian bodies first and argue about their political souls later.

Public Menaces

(From OTTAWA CITIZEN)

THE Ottawa area's appalling automobile accident toll during the weekend added almost a dozen names to the list of those killed and injured so far this year in such mishaps. The intensive educational campaigns carried on by provincial and municipal authorities in the past few years, the improvements achieved in road and vehicle construction, have not reduced accidents by very much. In fact, in the first three months of this year, Ontario alone had 164 traffic fatalities, against 119 in the same period of 1950. To reduce the carnage, the time may be ripe for more stringent measures than have hitherto been used.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has reported that in 1949 (the last year for which complete national figures are available) the leading cause of accidents were: driving too fast for road and traffic conditions, travelling on the wrong side of the road, and driving while not having the right of way. Intoxicated drivers were directly involved in only one per cent of the accidents. The DBS concluded that "the real cause of motor accidents is a widespread lack of care, patience and courtesy, coupled with too many slow brains driving fast cars." This opinion is endorsed by Ontario Department of Highways authorities, who attribute 80 per cent of accidents in this province to faulty driving.

There is such a thing as a driver who is "accident prone." He is a motorist who cannot concentrate on his driving, but lets his mind wander from the roadway; or he is of such impatient temperament as to be unable to follow the ordinary, common sense rules of safety. The provincial authorities could use the Highway Traffic Act as an instrument for dealing with such motorists. Under the Act, a motorist convicted of careless driving—and that includes every kind of negligence, even to driving through a puddle so as to splash pedestrians—may have his license suspended indefinitely by the provincial authorities. But in practice, Ontario motorists convicted of careless driving do not have their licenses suspended for much more than three months.

Stricter enforcement of the law seems needed. If motorists are convicted of careless driving two or three times, this might be taken as evidence that they are accident prone and not to be trusted with a motor vehicle. The number of such drivers might be relatively small, but if they were refused permission to drive altogether, or even if their licenses were suspended for at least a year, the public would benefit enormously. A menace would be removed from the highways, and the lesson that his pleasure car can also be a lethal weapon would be driven home to the accident prone driver.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

For we that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened: not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life. Now he that wrought us for the selfsame thing is God, who also hath given unto us the earnest of the Spirit. Therefore we are always confident, knowing that, whilst we are at home in the body, we are absent from the Lord. . . .

We are confident, I say, and willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord. Wherefore henceforth know we no man after the flesh: yea, though we have known Christ after the flesh, yet now henceforth know we him no more.

Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become anew. (II Cor. 5: 4-6, 8, 16, 17.)

For our conversation is in heaven; from whence also we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ: who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able even to subdue all things unto himself. (Phil. 3: 20, 21.)

Letter To The Editor

THE REPROOF VALIANT

Sir: Would you be kind enough to print a few lines for me in answer to your item, "Hardly Confused."

In this item it stated there was no signal given. This is not true. There was a proper signal given by the arm. My car was travelling at a very low speed. I stopped as soon as I heard the swish of the other car. We would all have been badly injured or dead had the Higgins car hit us. It was travelling at a very high speed. When my car stopped it was decidedly still on the right side of the road, and not far enough out to hinder any decent driver from passing quite safely. Mr. Higgins did not mention he had the biggest part of the road, and he didn't mention how far he was safely past us before he went in the ditch. Eye witnesses could see no reason why he left the road except he was travelling very fast. It certainly must have been poor driving, confusion of the mind or speeding on a city street.

Truly hoping this will clear up the nasty insinuations. The law requires a driver to keep a proper lookout and his vehicle under control at all times.

The Press In Chains

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

Announcement in Buenos Aires that La Prensa will soon be reopened as "a daily for Argentine workers" is a mockery of justice and the cause of labour. The great Argentine daily was not shut down because of any exploitation of the workers, but because it dared criticize President Perón. Its employees were well content with conditions, in fact, they made several attempts to reopen the plant in defiance of government orders and were stopped by hired thugs who did not hesitate to shoot them down.

The government could find no way to end the agitation except by officially expropriating the plant, by act of Congress, and forcing its owner to flee the country under threat of arrest.

Now it is to liv[illegible]in, but as an echo of Peron policy. Th[illegible]d will not be deluded by such announcements.

Krieger Blanks Springfield In 6-0 Triumph

By The Associated Press

Kurt Krieger, Rochester Red Wing shutout ace, is putting up a strong case for an early recall by St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cards shipped the 25-year-old righthander to their International League farm for more work. He's getting it. Last week he threw a one-hitter at Syracuse. He blanked Springfield 6-0 Thursday night with five hits.

Hal Rice, another Cardinal in spring training days, led the 10-hit attack with a home run and triple off loser Frank Marino. Don Richmond, the 1950 batting champ just sent back from St. Louis, rejoined the Wings and came through with two hits.

Nino Escalera, 20-year-old Puerto Rican rookie who has been struggling in the .150 class, broke loose with five hits in Syracuse's 8-4 win over Baltimore. Carden Gillenwater had three hits, including a homer in the Chiefs' 13-hit blast off Baltimore pitching. Art Hartley pitched a four-hitter but one was Al Cihocki's three-run homer in the fifth.

Montreal maintained its three-game lead with a three-run rally in the ninth to nip Ottawa 6-4. Tom Lasorda, third of four Montreal pitchers, was the winner over Red Hardy.

The Buffalo-at-Toronto game was postponed because of wet grounds.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Eddie Roach said Thursday that he'll sell his house, if necessary, to raise the money to send his daughter, Mrs. Winnie Roach Leuszler, to Europe for an attempt to swim the English Channel.

The 25-year-old Toronto housewife, mother of three children, hopes to become the first Canadian woman to try to swim from France to England. If she succeeds, she will be the first Canadian, male or female, to complete the channel swim.

Friends have raised $251 to help with her expenses, but she estimates she will need $3,000.

Winnie placed second in the 1947 Canadian National Exhibition two-mile swim, two months after the birth of her first child. She placed third in 1948 in the same event and second in 1949.

Los Angeles boxing promoter Joe Lynch Thursday won a $40,000 breach of contract judgment against lightweight champion Ike Williams.

Lynch contended that Williams reneged on an agreement to fight John Thomas here in May, 1947.

Williams pleaded a broken hand, but Lynch's lawyer, Ronald Walker, showed that the champ fought five times between February, when he turned down the Thomas bout, and May of that year.

At New York, The Pimpernel, two-year-old chestnut colt, established a world record for 4½ furlongs Thursday by traveling down the Widener chute at Belmont in 49 45 seconds. The former world mark was 50 2-5 seconds, set on the same course on May 27 last year by Black Douglas, another two-year-old.

East and West German sports officials failed to agree Thursday on how to form an all-German Olympics committee, precondition for admitting German athletes to the 1952 Olympic Games.

A brief communique issued after a three-hour conference said the question was discussed in the "spirit of good sports comradeship," but the conversations had not resulted in any agreement.

Formation of an all-German group was directed by the international Olympic committee (IOC) at its recent Vienna conference.

McMaster University Mauraders, the new entry in the Senior Ontario Rugby Fotball Union, will be coached by Al Smith whose appointment to the Hamilton University's physical educational department was announced Thursday.

He produced three champion football and two title-winning basketball teams in his four years at Ottawa Tech.

Williams Not Great Hitter Cobb Opinion

By RUSS NEWLAND

ATHERTON, Calif., May 18 — (AP)—Ty Cobb, one of the most feared batters in baseball history, says Ted Williams cannot be classed as "a great hitter."

The old Georgia Peach, whose flashing performances as a Detroit Tiger wrote vivid chapters in the record books, pulled no punches while discussing the Boston Red Sox slugger.

"Williams has fine ability but he cannot be classed as a great hitter," Cobb said. "No player can be called a truly great hitter unless he can hit to all fields."

Conceding the Red Sox star has the power to lose a ball if he connects solidly, Cobb contended that that alone does not make a top batsman. He said that Ted maces balls so consistently to right field that opposing teams shift their outfielders and second baseman far over with impunity.

Must Hit All Over

"In my book you have to be able to hit them to all fields," he said.

Of Babe Ruth, Cobb said simply:

"Ruth could choke up his bat and hit to left field any time he wanted. He had everything necessary to earn his place among the baseball immortals."

Ruth was Cobb's keenest rival, particularly when Ruth was sold to the Yankees in 1919 and started clouting his way into the headlines. Cobb already was an established batting, base-stealing and outfielding star with the Tigers when the Babe reported as a rookie to the Red Sox in 1914.

Others Cobb thinks belong in the category of "great hitters" include Rogers Hornsby, George Sisler and Joe DiMaggio.

Trotting Race Betting Now Supervised

OTTAWA, May 18—(CP)—Betting at pacing and trotting race meets in Canada is being brought under government supervision.

A bill amending the horse-racing sections of the criminal code to make pari-mutuel regulations apply as they do on running horse races Thursday was introduced in the Senate and given first reading. Senator Wishart Robertson, government leader, indicated it will be debated early next week.

A spokesman for the Agriculture Department, which administers pari-mutuel betting, indicated growth in popularity of trotting and pacing meets, particularly in Ontario, engendered the move. He said it had been sought by trotting associations anxious to place betting on the same supervised basis as that applying to ordinary horse racing.

The bill lays down the same regulations as set out for running races—no more than 14 days of racing and eight races daily. It sets out the percentage of the total amount staked which may be retained by the association.

The association take ranges from nine per cent on the first $20,000 on a sliding scale down to five per cent on takes of more than $50,000.

The main portion of the pari-mutuel betting pool goes back to the bettors. In addition to the percentage taken by the Racing Association, there is a provincial tax which varies from province to province. Provincial taxes totalled almost $6,000,000 last year.

Cricketers Playing

Oshawa and the local cricket team will stage a friendly match Saturday in the Oval, these teams meeting again here on June 2 in a Toronto and district series contest, the return being at Oshawa on Aug. 4. From now on the local "A" and "B" teams will be engaged in Toronto district matches, the full schedule being available shortly.

On May 26, the P-W club plays TCS at Port Hope while the local "B" team opens at the Oval against a new council team, Avroe, made up of players working at the Malton Airport.

The proposed match against Waterloo County at Galt this Saturday was postponed and the Peterborough team has not been advised as to the date it will be staged.

VISA TROUBLE

A French Foreign Office spokesman said Thursday the refusal of a French visa to the veteran German tennis star, Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, was founded "on Cramm's attitude during the war." Von Cramm was blacklisted by the Nazis between 1937 and 1941.

Cramm had been invited by the French Tennis Federation to enter the international championships.

One Set of Rules Used For Golf

LONDON, May 18—(AP)—One set of golf rules for the wrole world has been agreed upon, it was announced Thursday night by representatives of the United States Golf Association and the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, whose rules are followed almost everywhere except in the US.

The recommendations, which still need to be approved by the executive committee of the USGA and by the membership of the R and A, include:

1. Abolition of the stymie.
2. Allowing the small British ball to be used in the United States.
3. Allowing the goose neck and other legal American putters to be used in the rest of the world.
4. A standard penalty of stroke and distance for a ball lost, unplayable or out of bounds.

If they are approved, the new rules probably will go into effect Jan. 1, 1952.

Queen Mary Wins

Queen Mary girls took a 32-29 softball verdict over King Edward yesterday in a wide-open and free-scoring affair. The winners ran wild in the fourth to take the duke after a big second heat by King Edward. Hits were a dime a dozen with runs rolling in in every inning, and some loose work seen afield. It was a tough one on the pitchers. Teams:

King Edward—M. Foster, N. Davis, D. Moffatt, J. McMillan, D. Turner, C. Dorrington, A. Halcrow, G. Heard, J. Hughey, C. Heard, S. Reynolds, J. McIntyre.

Central seniors of the School Softbal League trounced Prince of Wales 27-8 at Central, rain halting it after five and a half innings Wednesday. The losers made one bid in the fourth to squeeze over five runs. Coit, Godfrey, Peirson and Downer went best for them, as Craymer and Gardner were good for the winners, Brooks pitching neatly. Teams:

Prince of Wales: Downer, Johnson, Godfrey, Coit, Heron, Chambo, Hancock, Douglas, Peirson.

Tricounty Loop May Be In Groups

LINDSAY, May 18—The new two-group setup approved by the Tri-County Baseball League recently has forced president Roy Scott to call a special meeting at Little Britain Friday night.

The new plan which joins the two four-team east-and-west groups into one eight-team section was almost unanimously approved by representatives at Manilla, but since then the Port Perry club has dropped out, due to the longer trips. Fenelon Falls, Cambray and Bobcaygeon have also indicated their opposition to the idea which was approved to give the fans a chance to see more teams. Schedules will be released following the meeting, which will decide on a two or three-group league.

The five-team Central League schedule will open May 29 and the new Beaverton entry opens at Woodville June 1.

Cobourg To Play In Peterborough

COBOURG, May 18—Cobourg Pavs, intermediate AA ladies' entry in the Provincial Women's Softball Union, will play in the Peterborough City League this year, according to an announcement by Thomas Shaw, president of the Lakeshore League. Shaw is an executive and coach of the Cobourg club this season.

The Peterborough league has agreed to play home games with the Cobourg entry. Teams in the loop are Westclox, Outboard Marines and Ashbys (intermediate 'A') and Dominions ('A' junior club).

Cobourg will open the home season here on June 8.

Being Able To Putt Well Essential In All Players

By JIM FERRIER
Former P. G. A. Champion

With par golf, putting is about 50 per cent of your score.

You count half of your strokes on a 60-foot green.

So I don't have to impress upon you the importance of this phase of the game.

Good putting, like anything else in golf, takes practice. Hence, to be fair with your game, about half your partice time should be spent on the putting green.

Almost every golfer should be able to putt well, yet few can.

Putting merely is the simple procedure of hitting a stationary target with a moving object. You don't have to be a skeet shooter to putt.

And certainly two putts should be the maximum for any green.

Instead, the average golfer makes a real problem out of putting by not following fundamentals.

First, line up your putt. Notice the roll of the green as well as its speed as determined by the length and grain of the grass.

Remember that a wet green is slower than a dry one.

Play the ball toward your left foot, your palms directly opposed to one another in the grip, hands close to the body with the left elbow held out to point at the hole.

Bend your knees slightly to give you a spring and keep you from becoming too rigid.

Do not hold the putter so tightly or tensely as to prevent a smooth, easy stroke.

Once you have acquired this position, hold it through the complete troke—until the ball has dropped in the cup or stopped rolling.

NEXT: More on putting by Jim Ferrier.

PUTT IT THERE—Al Ciuci plays the ball toward his left foot, the palms directly opposed to one another in the grip, hands close to the body. He is Fresh Meadow's famous playing professional.

Russ Slater may be in the lacrosse lineup tonight for the Petes as they open here against Hamilton Tigers. So will Arn Dugan. We mention these two in particular as Russ led the OLA senior "A" loop last year in goals scored, while Dugan led the whole shebang in points counted. A number of the newcomers to Peterborough will see action in the opener, and 'tis hoped to get off on the right foot with a victory against the bolstered Tigers. If the weather is anyway right at all, this senior lacrosse fixture should draw a big crowd of gutted-stick followers.

Coming back this season as OLA referees are Jack Williams, Sandy Milne and Mickey McDonald of Mimico fame. And Fat DePippo of Torontos, and Owen Sound's Marlow Woods. Back again for another whistle-tooting season are Joe Murphy, Lou Vipond, Roy Morton, Don Willson, Bun Barnard, Doug Cove and Max Peart of Port Colborne. After success as a hockey official, Weston's Jack Shropshire will take a hand in lacrosse refereeing, if he can get away from Georgetown." What about Piper Bain?

An OASA bulletin has this special message to all coaches: "During the past season many episodes were reported of ungentlemanly conduct of coaches and players in minor-age groups. You as a coach have the responsibility of teaching your boys to play ball, to become good sports, to develop into good citizens. These young players look up to yu—they will imitate you, whether your actions are right or wrong. You, therefore, must teach your players the right way; you must teach them to respect law and order; remember, the umpire on a ball field is the equivalent of a policeman in civilian life. Teach them to respect the umpire. Disrespect of an umpire is not tolerated by this Association. Do not allow your players to learn the hard way—by earning a suspension or causing forfeiture of a game."

Senior Ball Commences

The Viaduct Baseball League schedule opens in Toronto tomorrow with Oshawa playing Kingsway, and Petes meeting Staffords. Next Tuesday, the Petes are at Crofton's, while Staffords open here on May 24 under the lights. Schedule runs till Aug. 19, playoffs then following to declare a senior "A" winner for OBA playdowns in September. All clubs have been building up during the spring and it should make for a classy brand of ball this summer. Work is proceeding at Riverside since the waters left the park, and the diamond will be in fine shape for the holiday game next week. Petes' executive has been busy, too, and Manager Ed Whitehill and field assistants Cy Whatley and Cliff Cadd are lining up a contending club.

* * * * * *

Pitchers are Lefty Dadson, Bill Edger, Doug Plunkett, Knobby Clark (of Ottawa) with an American outfielder-pitcher due in a week, besides the Gunner if needed. Al Menzies and Bill Huntley—who came here from Ottawa to play football—are the catchers, and one may take a turn in the garden. Present infield has Joe Stewart and Bunny Maeson (of Oshawa) for first base, Fred Plato (cager here last winter) on second, Freddy Garvey at short, and Johnny Denofrio of Ottawa at third. Another USA infielder is due shortly, and Howie Dalton says he'll be out in a few days. Present outfield consists of Joe Lowrey, George Brabin of Oshawa, Andy Milne—Eagles' puckist last winter—and Jake Wade. That's the setup at the moment but the lineup has not been closed off yet. The Petes should do okay in this circuit.

Yanks Still Win At Home As Cleveland Bows 1-0

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

When did New York Yankees last lose a ball game at Yankee Stadium?

The answer is Sept. 26, 1950. A world series and 10 straight 1951 victories have passed and the end is not in sight. It must be discouraging for the tourists.

Paul Richards takes his upstart Chicago White Sox to New York today, prepared to feed southpaw pitching to Casey Stengel's children. Maybe that will work. It hasn't so far.

You won't see many better-pitched games than Early Wynn threw at the Yanks Thursday. Still he lost 1-0 as his Cleveland Tribe left 13 on the bases.

Joe DiMaggio applied the clincher with an innocent first-inning single scoring Dr. Bobby Brown. Wynn gave up only one more hit in his seven-inning stay, a triple by Gerry Coleman in the eighth.

All day the Indians labored, combing Allie Reynolds for nine hits. But it did no good.

Home Streak Continues

Big Gus Zernial continued his home-run streak with his seventh in four consecutive games for Philadelphia A's. Gus tied an American League record set by Tony Lazzeri in 1936, but fell one short of Ralph Kiner's major-league high, hung up in 1947.

With the help of Zernial's two-run homer in the first, the A's crept out of the cellar on a 7-6 victory over St. Louis Browns. Eddie Joost's ninth-inning single scoring Ray Murray was the clincher for reliefer Bobby Shantz. Al Widmar was loser.

Connie Marrero shook Washington out of a four-game losing streak by beating Detroit 11-6. Although clipped freely for 16 hits, Marrero went all the way for his fifth straight win. Sam Mele led the attack on Freddie Hutchinson and four others with two triples and two singles.

It's still only three games from top to bottom in the National, with Brooklyn on top and the 1950 champion Phillies in the cellar.

Power Missing

The vaunted Dodger power was missing at Chicago, where Frank Hiller spun a 7-0 seven - -hitter while Ransom Jackson and Hank Sauer ripped into Erv Palica for home runs.

Keeping pace with the Cubs, Pittsburgh Pirates moved within one game of first place by knocking off New York, 12-7. Ralph Kiner had a big day with his sixth homer and a double to drive in five runs.

Nine pitchers saw action—five Giants and four Pirates—with the win going to Murry Dickson and the loss to Monty Kennedy.

Cincinnati crept even with the .500 mark on a 6-5 edge over Boston's Warren Sphan. Willard Ramsdell weakened in the eighth when the Braves scored four, and Harry Perkowski bailed him out. Frank Smith rushed to the rescue of Perkowski when the Braves threatened in the ninth.

Rookie Joe Presko pitched his first complete game in the majors to whip the Phillies 2-1. The St. Louis Cardinal quickie lost his shutout bid when Andy Seminick homered in the ninth.

The Cards scored both runs in the first off Robin Roberts on four hits and an error.

Cold postponed the scheduled Chicago White Sox-at-Boston game in the American League.

Remember 'When—

By The Canadian Press

Man o' War rated by many as the best racehorse ever foaled in the United States, was at the peak of his career as a three-year-old when he won the Preakness Stakes 31 years ago today. Man o' War set five records at distances from a mile up in that campaign. The great horse died in 1947 at age 30, after earning $1,000,000 in stakes, stud fees and sale of foals.

Harness Racing Horses Flex Muscles For Summer

For the past month, the cream of local harness racing horses have been working out on the exhibition race track preparing for another season around the Ontario and the United States circuit.

Just like baseball players, horses after the winter months must wear off excess weight and begin to flex unused muscles for the season ahead. Every day 18 horses varying from colts to four-year-olds are jogged for five miles on a small track beside the barn.

The jogging is only part of the conditioning for every Tuesday and Friday, either morning or afternoon, the horses clip around the track for five miles. This is usually completed by first with a "doubleheader" (a two-mile jaunt) followed by three single mile trips.

Most of the horses now stabled there are veterans of the track, either in Ontario or United States. Practically all, except the colts who have not started yet, are known well from appearances during the exhibition.

Although not stabled here, Victory Hi, a blind horse, owned by Stan Blewett of Peterborough is the favorite subject of talk during workouts. A favorite with the exhibition fans, the game horse won renown in 1950 by becoming the world's champion heat winner, capturing 66 firsts.

Usually brought in for workouts by van from Indian River, Victory Hi has as stable-mates the well-known pacers, Vivian McKinney and Lee Mainsheet. Both appeared with Victory Hi throughout Ontario last year.

Destined for American competition this year are Stewart Direct and Stewart Worthy, both of Hugh Stewart's stable. Both horses have enviable records on the track with Stewart Direct clocked at 2:03.4 minutes at Santa Anita, California, and Stewart Worthy at 2:07.4 minutes.

Hugh Stewart Jr. who is now acting as trainer for the Stewart stable proudly displays two colts, Stewart Worthy's Sister and Beth Direct. They are expected to become headliners for the stable.

Another horse, a three-year-old Jimmy Forbes, will make his debut in harness racing this year under the J. J. Crowley colors. Most horses start racing when they are three years old. Plans call for its entry in most of the classics for beginners across Ontario this year. A four-year-old, Buster Brown, who is clocked at 2:15, will be also raced by Crowley this summer.

Well-known around the Thorncliffe racetrack, Andy Price's Redstone and Parsons, both formerly owned by Hugh Davis, will be in Quebec racing in two week's time. The Gratton horses, Blanche and Gertrude, owned by the same stable will see action this year.

Back on the tour of exhibitions this year will be Jim McIntyre's Turnabout which is clocked 2:14.8 minutes and Charles Quinlan's Peter G. Lee, clocked at 2:15 minutes. Turnabout may be seen at Thorncliffe this season.

Others in stable at the exhibition are Nancy Budlong and Lady Victoria from the Johnson stable, Black Beauty from the Lemoire stables, Lena Direct Belwin and Rose Belwin from the Milton Post stables.

Lacrosse Off To Hot Start

VANCOUVER, May 18—(CP)—West coast lacrosse has pulled away to its hottest financial start in more than a decade.

Crowds around the five-team Inter-City Lacrosse League circuit have been away over pre-season expectations.

Victoria is the hottest spot, where the Shamrocks pulled in 4,500 fans Wednesday night. Vancouver Combines drew 2,100 to the small Kerrisdale arena here the other night, the biggest early-season crowd in years.

Things are so rosy, in fact, that the league commission decided it didn't need its publicity man any more and fired him this week.

Last years' six-team circuit was cut to five clubs this year by combining the two New Westminster teams and the two Vancouver teams and giving a franchise to Nanaimo Native Sons.

New Westminster's Adanacs, last year's Dominion finalists, and Salmonbellies became the Commandos. Vancouver Burrards and Richmond - Kerrisdale became Vancouver Combines. North Shore Indians, Victoria and Nanaimo make up the five.

East Side Of Village Asks Fire Protection

HASTINGS, May 18 (ENS)—The regular meeting of the Hastings Council was held in the council chambers. Reeve J. S. Stevenson was in the chair and Councillors J. R. Jones, W. A. Thomas, J. Lynch and W. Peck were present.

Accounts were moved paid to the matfo$nuo the amount of $1,198.05.

A delegation interviewed the Council regarding fire protection at the east end of the village, and were informed that the Council would have the fire department make a test.

The School Board interviewed the Council with a request that the Council pass a bylaw for the erection of a new Public school in Hastings at the Department of Education's approval of the cost of $80,000, of which the province's share would be 60 per cent., with an approximate cost of $32,000 to the village.

The clerk is to write the Department of Highways asking approval of the bylaw regarding parking.

The motion regarding the agreement with the firemen was rescinded on motion of Councillors Thomas and Lynch.

Scientists Have Rough Trip After Indian Island Survey

NEW DELHI — (CP) — Three scientists who made a successful mission into an island of "rats, bats and cats" to survey skin disease ended up fighting for their lives against a cyclone in the Indian Ocean.

The men arrived here recently after a three-month journey into the Maldive Islands, on the equator about 400 miles west of Ceylon.

The trio, Dr. M. O. T. Iyengar, of Calcutta, M. I. Mathew and M. A. U. Menon, of Travancore, told of their work in the islands and of the storm that smashed at their tiny 50-ton vessel for 42 hours.

Their assignment came from the World Health Organization of the United Nations. It asked them to survey the disease called filariasis, or elephantiasis, which causes a person's skin to hesemble an elephant's hide.

Used Small Schooner

They completed their work by the middle of March and then learned there was no steamer available to take them home. So they set out for Ceylon on the small government schooner on which they had been living during the survey.

The vessel was caught in a westerly drift and carried far out into the Indian Ocean. But the schooner survived the battering and 15 days later struggled back to Male, the Maldive capital. There they were picked up by a steamer which was diverted from its course to Colombo, and brought back.

Rugged Isle

During their stay on the islands the scientists had to contend with a monotonous and unappetizing diet which led to dysentry.

Dr. Iyengar explained "there is no agriculture on these islands, and no animals except bats, rats and cats, plus a few domestic fowl. The people live by coconut farming and fishing."

He said that of 4,000 persons examined there one in every three suffered from filariasis. Altogether, they visited 33 islets in the three southern atolls of the Archipelago, where filariasis is a serious problem.

In a small laboratory aboard the schooner the scientists checked various specimens of mosquitoes believed transmitters of the disease, as well as malaria. They investigated breeding spots and were able to recommend simple and inexpensive methods of controlling the sources.

Missed By Bullets

CHATSWORTH, Calif., May 18 (AP).—Two boys narrowly missed being hit by machine-gun bullets, apparently fired from a plane, as they returned home from school Wednesday. The boys told police that about two dozen bullets slammed into the road and adjacent fields near them.

PEACE RIVER, ALTA.—(CP)—Three Anglican laymen will be ordained as Deacons here May 20 by Bishop R. J. Pierce of the Athabaska diocese. They are F. Sanger-Davis, J. Dunster and E. Houndle, all licensed lay readers.

New Building Trend

OSLO—(CP)—Post-war home building in Norway is characterized by a steady-growing trend toward multiple-unit dwelling and smaller apartments. New building projects are stressing integration with environment.

Wonderful!—

NORWICH, England — (CP) — John Galbert, 74, flew back to his home in Canada after a 10-day holiday commenting: "I had a wonderful time. I think I did a good job, too." He said he had come to England to spring-clean his brother's house.

2 Holdup Suspects Make Guilty Plea

SUDBURY, May 18 (CP)—Two of three suspects in the daylight holdup of two Bank of Commerce employees near Sudbury March 9, pleaded guilty Thursday to armed robbery.

They are J. Marcel Tremblay, 26, and Jack Prefontaine, 24, both formerly of Ottawa.

The third suspect, Marcel's brother, Clifford, 24, was granted a separate trial on an armed robbery count. He previously had been charged jointly with the other two.

Liquor In Accidents Discussed By Circle

MILLBROOK, May 18 —(ENS) —Members of the Golden Links Mission Circle of St. Andrew's United Church were the guests of Mrs. Eric Fallis of the Fallis Line on Tuesday evening. There was a record attendance of 37.

The worship service was conducted by Mrs. T. Wideman and had as its theme, "Recruiting for full-time service in the church." She was assisted by Mrs. Ernest Powell, who gave the scripture reading, and by Mrs. Lawrence Winslow, who read a poem, "To My Son."

Minutes were read and the roll called by the secretary, Betty Lunn.

Mrs. David Lunn gave the temperance report by reading an article, entitled "Women Can Talk the Liquor Traffic to Death." It suggested that a record be kept from the daily papers of accidents in which the driver was actually drunk or not, or whether he had a drink before driving. Women had always been accused of being great talkers. They might, if they chose, talk to some purpose in this regard.

The president, Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, received congratulations on being a prize winner in the Presbyterial essay contest for circles held recently.

The poem, "A Child Is Crying," from the Missionary Monthly, was read by Mrs. Bruce Ingham.

The study period took the form of questions and answers conducted by Miss E. M. Clarke and Mrs. Hobbs. Those taking part were Mrs. D. Lunn, Miss Jean Burnham, Mrs. G Sedgewick, Mrs. L. Winslow, Mrs. McKnight, Miss Mary Widdis, Mrs. Ernest Armstrong, Mrs. Robert Ridge, Mrs Melville Ball, Mrs. Aubrey Fallis, Mrs. Bruce Dawson, Miss Edith Sheppard, Miss Marjorie Skitch, Mrs. Marshall Fallis, Mrs. Clarence Ball, Mrs. Arnold Fallis, Mrs. Cecil Hubbeard, Mrs. Henry Gray and Miss Nan Pitchford. The subject of the discussion was "Vocations for Young Women in the Church."

The honorary president, Mrs. W. E. Ball, was welcomed back to her first meeting of the circle since her return from spending the winter in Florida. Mrs. Ernest Harkness was also welcomed after her recent trip to England.

Supper hostesses were Mrs. Cecil Hubbeard, Mrs. Lavern Gibson and Miss Marjorie Skitch.

Pension Cheque, High Costs Said Wiping Out US Hobo

B SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP)—Because of increasing paternalism in government and the high cost of living, the American hobo is rapidly becoming extinct.

"If this keeps up, there won't be one left in 20 years," says Ben Benson, four-time king of the hoboes ("Don't," he warns, "go putting quotes around my title because it's official, damn it").

Ben is five feet tall, weighs 110 pounds, uses a hearing aid and talks faster than a used-car salesman. In the last 50 years of bumming, he has covered more than 500,000 miles, he estimates.

"Been on the road since I was 17," he says. "Never seen anything like it. Not one-tenth the boys travelling nowadays there was 10, 15 years ago.

Quite A Change

"Right here in New York, out of 10,000 men on the bowery, maybe 6,000 used to be travelling bums, now they're on relief or old age pensions. Can't travel. Got to show permanent residence to get those cheques."

Migratory workers, Ben reports, don't get the work they used to around harvest time because of the increasing mechanization of farms. Besides, freight trains operate more efficiently, with fewer stops for block signals. Diesel engines pick up speed faster than the old locomotives and it's harder for a hobo to jump a freight.

Once A "House-Cat"

"Been doing a lot of that myself ately," Ben says. "More comfortable. Meet a better class of people, who slip you a buck or a meal now an' then. Also, much cleaner than the hot shots (fast freights).

"The high cost of living is changing everything. I used to specialize as a house cat. Sure, I ate in jungles now and then but most of the time I bummed at the back doors of houses. In the old days, when food was cheap, they wouldnt turn you away.

"Now, they don't have enough food for themselves. Why, even the Salvation Army and other missions don't put up the feed the way they used to."

Character Changes

The character of American hoboes is changing, too. They used to be more intelligent, Ben reports, more interested in the working man, if not interested in working themselves.

"Now everybody is afraid of being called a Communist," he says. "Last summer, out in Colorado, a farmer asked me if I wanted a short job. How much? I says. Dollar a day, he says. Nothing doing, I says. I want three dollars a day, good food and a good place to sleep, not in the barn next to the cows. He called me a Red."

Ben was elected to his fourth term as king of the hoboes at a convention last year in Britt, Ia. He is 67.

"I positively won't run for a fifth term," he insists. "I want to get out of the hobo movement. Want to get into the youth movement."

Communist Writer Blasts Hungarian Clothing Makers

BUDAPEST—(Reuters) — The Hungarian garment industry is under heavy fire for turning out shoddy, ill-fitting clothes. The main reason for the poor clothing apparently is the workers' attempts to keep up with production quotas by sacrificing quality to quantity.

Istvan Gyorgy, writing in Szabed Nep, central organ of the Hungarian Communist party, blasted the Sopron garment factory for turning out "zoot suits" for the peasants.

The jackets of these villagers' clothes were "zoot suitish" lengths which no respectable peasant would wear, he said.

The Shirt Manufacturing Enterprise, on the other hand, made only small-size shirts on the assembly line because with such sizes it could make more shirts and achieve "better production performances."

Commenting upon complaints by workers of faulty and sloppy manufacture of ready - made clothes, Gyorgy declared that exceeding the five-year plan target should not mean merely "to produce more in quantity but also to improve quality."

Of Different Shades

He complained about the Kispest men's garments enterprise which allegidly is making "suits of which the trousers are of different shade from that of the jacket and in which the hems of the trousers are uneven."

Recently, he added 20 men's suits were tested in the number 5 storeroom of the men's clothing wholesale enterprise. Each of them was found to have faulty measurements.

Other enterprises are making carelessly finished garments, leaving out button holes and such.

"Such shortcomings" Gyorgy said, "have resulted in storing up more than 40,000,000 forints ($22,500,000) worth of unsaleable clothing in the state-owned department stores."

The Szombathely Shoe Industry, he went on, has been manufacturing women's shoes from leather sujtable only for sandals, while using good quality leather for sandals. The mistake, he said, was only discovered after 8,000 pairs of shoes had rolled off the sembly line.

Innocent Bystander

WAKAW, SASK. —(CP)—Anton Terry, a motorcyclist from Quebec, was unhurt when his machine exploded here. But a woman who ran to call the fire department, Mrs. F. Mamchur, tripped and fell and needed hospital treatment.

THE HONOR OF BEING THE FIRST WOMAN to sit on an arbitration board in Quebec province goes to Miss Jeanne Theoret, (right) who sat with M. A. Fels, (left) along with Judge Rene Lippe, chairman to settle the dispute between the Bessner Building company and its employees, members of the Building Service Employees' International Union. Proceedings began last Friday and are expected to be completed this week.

Boston Man, Carpet Bag Father Of Express, Originated Modern System

By JEAN E. STENTON

A man with a carpet bag who travelled back and forth between Boston and New York in 1839, laid the foundations of a concern that revolutionized commerce and industry in the United States and Canada. That was the first railway express.

Its development in both countries is one of the most romantic stories in the history of business. Our express companies can truthfully be called unique, because no country outside North America has developed a system like them even today.

What the express companies did for the United States they did for Canada too. The railways of each country linked the people and developed political unity. But the express companies, manned by men of daring and vision, opened the way for the great industrial operations we have today.

The Dominion Express company had only half a dozen loyal employees, one horse and a second hand wagon when they signed an agreement with the CPR at Winnipeg in the summer of 1882. These were used to cover their first western territory of seven small agencies. Few outside the organizers themselves could foresee that through the building up of markets and such things as the COD system, this small company would become the great Canadian Pacific Express Company of today with hundreds of employees all over Canada and the world.

Ancient Express

Although the express business was not invented by the American Express Co. of Buffalo, it was early in the enterprise. Primeval origins trace back to Persian couriers referred to by Herodotus. They carried small articles as well as the king's mail. The runners who brought fresh fish to Imperial Rome were in a way expressmen as were drivers of stage coaches who undertook to deliver parcels along their routes.

Express in the true sense of a private company engaging to carry goods, valuables and money swiftly and safely to their destination is an American invention and precedes the American Express Company by 15 years. Historians disagree, but one group gives the credit to L. B. Earle and his brother B. D. Earle who started carrying express between Boston and New York in 1835. Others claim it was Silas Taylor who ran an express car on the short railway from Boston to Lowell, Mass.

Whatever the differences on earlier operations, authorities agree that the man who really got the business going on a big scale and earned the title "father of express" was William F. Harnden. It was the ideas introduced by this man and his successors of the American Express Company which laid the foundations for the efficient Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Express services in Canada.

Grew Quickly

Harnden began with an advertisement in The Boston Transcript of February 13, 1839, offering an express service to New York leaving once a week by train and boat. He soon got ...ore business than he could carry and branched out till he developed a triangular service between Boston, Albany and New York with connections to the Southern States.

As his Albany agent, Harnden engaged Henry Wells and picked the right man for the job, for he chose the greatest expressman of them all. But he didn't keep him long.

Wells proposed inaugurating the express business to the thriving point of Buffalo where travellers stepped westward. Harnden would have none of it and one writer records Harnden as saying:

"If Mr. Wells chooses to run an express to the Rocky Mountains, he may. I would not do it." And that is just what Mr. Wells did.

So the story of American Express really begins in 1841, nine years before the founders signed an agreement. Wells resigned then from Harnden's service and joined with George E. Pomeroy and Crawford Livingston of New York to form the firm of Pomeroy and Coy.

Wells made the first historic trip to Buffalo. He carried a heavy carpet bag which contained gold, silver, currency and commercial paper consigned to Buffalo business men. Mr. Wells bought two seats, one for the bag and one for himself. It took three nights and two days to reach his destination.

Fight With Government

Buffalo banks and business men gave Wells help and encouragement. He worked out an agreement for closer co-operation between the railways and the express and even carried the mail at a cheaper rate than the government in 1845. It was largely due to the cutthroat competition between the government and Wells that the United States got the uniform 3-cent postage.

Before very long Wells entered another partnership which was to be famous for years across the western states—the Wells-Fargo company. Fargo was a freight agent of the Auburn and Syracuse railroad and he had a thorough knowledge and vast enthusiasm for the transportation business. Wells hired Fargo in 1843 to be an express messenger. In 1844 they entered their first partnership and organized an express line from Buffalo to Detroit. In 1845 this became the Western Express operating by stage, steamer and wagon train since there were no railroads to Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati.

Then followed a series of shifting partnerships until the competition of three growing companies drove them together. At a special meeting the Livingston, Fargo & Coy, Wells & Coy and Butterfield & Wasson all sold their businesses to the newly formed American Express company. All these partners became directors of the new firm and it was Wells who set the famous express standard of politeness to the public.

In 1852, Wells and Fargo formed the Wells and Fargo Company to break an existing monopoly in the West and this company became the leading express concern there. The business was divided by the line of the Missouri River—the American Express handling shipments to the east and the Wells Fargo Company shipments to the west.

Another First

Another first for the American Express company was the invention of the COD system. This helped develop an entirely new line of business as did their invention of money orders and travellers cheques.

It was with such examples of daring and success that the Dominion Express company was born in Canada.

The Dominion Express company was incorporated in 1873, but it was not until 1882 that it began operations in the west. The president of a United States company turned down an opportunity to place the service of his company on the Canadian Pacific Railway. He said that in his opinion, this railway would shortly go under the auctioneer's hammer at a sheriff's sale.

Prior to 1882 a small delivery service was operated and owned by a group of Winnipeg business men under the title of the Canada Express Company. This territory was acquired by the Dominion Express Company under the presidency of G. A. Kirkpatrick of Kingston.

It was felt that a more complete service with sufficient organization and capital should be made available, so a contract was signed between Dominion Express and William C. Van Horne, president of the CPR. The former purchased the property and good-will and acquired the charter of the Canada Express Company. The new company operated under the title Dominion Express Company until September 1, 1926 when it was changed to Canadian Pacific Express. The new name was chosen because of their foreign business and travellers cheques. It was felt that Dominion Express was comparatively unknown to other countries, while the name Canadian Pacific was quite familiar.

Early Operatons

With lines extending only from Rat Portage (now Kenora) to Oak Lake, Man., and with the head office of the company located at Winnipeg, a young but experienced expressman, Walter Scott Stout, was brought from the United States and appointed superintendent.

The Canadian company made a wise choice. Stout had joined the United States Express Company at 17 years of age as an office boy and messenger. He gained rapid promotion in that firm until he left for Manitoba.

Stout was charged with providing complete and efficient service along CPR lines as well as planning and supervising future developments. In 1884 when the head office was moved to Toronto the entire staff there totalled 10—made up of three clerks, four drivers, Mr. Stout as superintendent, an auditor and a chief clerk. At the time of his death in 1945, Stout had served as superintendent, general manager, vice president, president and chairman of the board of the Canadian Pacific Express Company.

In the 69 years of its existence, the company has had only three presidents: Stout, Thomas E. McDonnel (who died in 1940) and J. Edgar Coulter, 1940-1951.

In 1884, the system had been extended from Rat Portage to Prince Arthur's Landing (now Port Arthur). A joint traffic was formed with the Vickers Express company for all business to and from Toronto and they employed steamers between Owen Sound and Port Arthur's Landing. This system remained until eastern and western rail lines joined on the north shore of Lake Superior.

Wagon Stages

In advance of the rails of the CPR, the Canadian Pacific Express Company progressed by means of stage wagon routes, some of which lasted a number of years. The Ayr, Paris and Brantford route opened in 1892 and continued until 1903. The Galt, Preston, Hespeler and Kitchener-Waterloo stage service operated till the opening of the Grand River Railway in 1905.

Two other important stage routes operated closer to Peterborough for 25 years prior to the opening of the Lake Shore line in 1915. They were the Myrtle, Whitby and Oshawa route and the Ivanhoe-Belleville. The Ivanhoe stage route is still in existence and runs from Ivanhoe to Madoc now as a truck service.

Stout and his few assistants had an uphill fight. They not only had to move traffic, but they had to create it. They had to find Canadian and foreign markets for Canadian products. In those days they were free agents in naming rates, just as merchants set their prices.

They quoted low rates for the farmer, fruit grower and fishermen without regard to immediate profit, but with a view to building markets. As an aid to inducing settlers to take up land and in encouraging these people to remain until the usual market organization had grown up to serve them, officers of the company spent a lot of time and energy in locating customers and markets for butter, fish, eggs, fruit and other perishables.

Special cars for ventilation and refrigeration were designed, built and operated by the company. The important British Columbia fruit industry is reported to have been largely formed through the efforts of agents of CP Express. It was early realized in Canada that the growth of the population and industry was linked with the transportation problem and development was mutually interdependent.

Reason For Express

While railway freight have always handled the big percentage of traffic moving, express became necessary to handle the small package traffic of perishable and rush shipments. Through an agreement with the railways, they undertook to handle this business on passenger trains. Before parcel post, express was the only service that specialized in handling small shipments. It gave assistance in building up what is now called the mail order catalogue system of merchandising.

Canadian Pacific Express officials claim about the only thing they don't handle are live human beings. The passenger department reserves that right. In addition to regular merchandise, the company handles corpses, a considerable amount of bullion, currency, jewellery, precious stones, elephants and operates cars for the movement of horses and livestock and for large shipments which must be forwarded as quickly as possible.

The COD system of transporting merchandise and collecting for it and remitting the proceeds to the shipper was originated by express companies.

Because the shipment of money, silver and paper currency had been a profitable function of the early express business, the American Express originated the first express money order. Until long after the Civil War, the use of financial paper was limited and even banks settled their differences by shipping cash to each other

Invents Money Order

An ingenious employee of the American Express, Marcellus F. Berry, was asked to invent a money order form that would be foolproof and couldn't be raised. He produced a form which went or sale in 1882.

The Canadian Pacific Express was slow to engage in the money order business, fearing the spread of negotiable paper through new territory would meet considerable risks. Once started in 1895, however, their convenience made them popular immediately. Commercial and industrial firms, as well as individuals, use them and they can be cashed almost anywhere.

Shortly after the invention of the money order the same man originated the traveller's cheque. The American Express Company president had taken a trip to Europe and found difficulty cashing his letters of credit. On his return, he asked Mr. Berry to create a piece of paper that would be almost as acceptable as currency and yet safeguarded against loss.

This problem took several months to solve, but his simple device revolutionized industry.

The original cheque was copyrighted in 1891 and was almost like the traveller's cheque used today.

Tom Gard's Note Book

The clean-up campaign is over and I can relax again and tend my own garden. I thoroughly enjoyed being one of the judges of the beautification competition as it took me into many gardens I had enjoyed from the street. We found the winner of the contest cleaning up his glad corms for planting while we were doing the judging. Rember to treat your corms for thrips before you plant them if they were not dusted with DDT last fall.

Rustic Fences

The prize for the most attractive fence went to one made from small cedar poles. You may be interested in copying the pattern used.

Another novel idea noticed during my rounds was a method of making a flower pot fit a jardiniere. The rim of the pot was too big to fit into the container. So, by using a hack saw, the rim was quickly and easily removed allowing the pot to be completely hidden by the jardiniere.

Shadow Boxes

One of my regular ports of call is a small dairy in the Cornwall area. I can always count on picking up several butter boxes in good condition for my stock pile beside my work bench. There seems to be no end to the things that can be made from butter boxes, orange crates and nail kegs. I have promised to make a small shadow box for our living room on the next rainy Saturday. The pattern to be used is shown. By carefully puttying the joints before it is painted a serviceable box can be made quite inexpensively.

Anchors Aweigh

Now that the outdoor living room will be in use again, try your hand at making this large serving tray with a nautical theme. You will find it light, attractive and sturdy.

GUILDHALL WINDOW—Bonds between Windsor, Eng., and Windsor, Ont., were cemented when a stained glass window with the arms of both cities was dedicated by Princess Elizabeth in the refurbished Guildhall of the English Royal Borough, shown here.

Boston Man,

In Canada today, while most banks have their own domestic travellers cheques, the majority supply either Canadian Pacific or American Express travellers cheques for use in foreign countries.

Here More Than 61 Years

For more than 61 years, the Canadian Pacific Express Company has been operating in Peterborough. Although records are hard to obtain, the first office apparently operated on George St. about the spot where the Laura Secord store is today. At that time it was a joint grocery and liquor store run by two brothers.

By 1890, the first salaried agent, Mr. Thomas Boddy, was sent here. His office was on the corner of George and Charlotte Sts. where Anthony's fruit store is now situated. Mr. Boddy looked after all the ticket, telegraph and express business.

As the business expanded, the express finally decided to branch out in an office of their own. A lease on a Hunter St. property to run two years, dating from February 15, 1901, was signed, and they have remained in the same spot for almost 50 years. At the time they first rented it, it was occupied by Miss E. Melville Co., fancy goods dealers.

The first Canadian Pacific Express driver in the city was Mr. William Lewis, father of the late Norman Lewis, who worked in the post office for several years.

He Was Staff

There was no eight-hour day at that time and no depot staff. In addition to picking up and delivering shipments, Mr. Lewis also met all trains and loaded and unloaded all traffic night and day. Outside of the agent, he was the staff.

By 1911, the business had grown to the extent they had to have a staff of three at the depot at nights, with Lewis in charge. But during the day, there was no one at the station so a clerk from the Hunter St. office and three drivers looked after those trains.

Today there is a regular staff of 21 with six or seven part-time helpers; 10 trucks and a platform tractor. At the time the company changed from horse - drawn vehicles to trucks it was considered that each truck replaced two of the wagons.

In the 49 years from 1902-1951 that the company operated from 138 Hunter St. W., there have been 11 agents, the most colorful of whom was probably A. G. Carruthers, known to many as "the Major."

Carruthers came in 1906 and remained until he enlisted in 1915 with a Peterborough company of a unit which trained at Belleville. He was quartermaster overseas and had previously been an officer of the 57th Regiment before the war.

Saw Railway Built

In his earlier railroading days, Mr. Carruthers had acted as train messenger when the CPR was being built through the Rockies. He ran from Calgary to the end of steel. Later he was transferred to Toronto and then on to Peterborough.

The other agents were: G. Laverty who took over from August 14 and remained until September 21 of 1902; L. D. Oakley (1902-1905); A. J. Curtis (November 25-December 4, 1905); Mr. Laverty (December 5, 1905-January 14, 1906); Mr. Oakley (January 15-May 8, 1906); Carruthers (1906-1915); D. F. Martin (January 14-May 28, 1915); T. H. McGarrell (1915-1917); J. H. Seels (1917-1935); G. M. Stenton (1935-1950); and A. W. Browne 1950 to the present time. Of this group, only Oakley, Stenton and Browne survive.

While the Canadian Pacific Express service started on boats, stage lines and operated on the railways as they were constructed on this continent, the company has kept pace with the times. They arranged transportation by plane as soon as airlines became established, though a large percentage of the express business still moves by train.

Plane Overturns

LOS ANGELES, May 18—(AP)—The Los Angeles County Federation of Women's Clubs wants legislation to prohibit union picketing at funerals. Allied Radio Putting Bite On Kremlin

MUNICH, Germany, May 18 (AP).—Radio free Europe is putting the bite on the Kremlin and the Communists are furious.

They've paid the anti-Communist transmitter here its biggest compliment: trying to satirize its work.

This is a sure sign, say radio free Europe men, that their programs are having an effect behind the Iron Curtain.

Radio free Europe inaugurated its big medium-wave sender here this month. Short-wave versions have been hammering away at the Communists since last June.

Staff men at the stations, made possible by contributions from the United States, say that their "correspondents" in Iron Curtain countries testify to the effectiveness of the short-wave programs.

Escapees who filter out to the west say people in Russian-dominated countries are listening to the anti - Communist broadcasts. Some who live in the Soviet satellite bloc smuggle out letters paying tribute to radio free Europe.

One of the newest signs was a savage attack made on it by the Communist radio in East Germany which broadcast that all who worked for the station would be executed as war criminals when Allied West Germany is "liberated" by the east.

Radio Moscow paid the supreme compliment. It instructed some of its satellites to try to ridicule radio free Europe. Radio Bucharest aped a radio free Europe program in an effort to counteract is influence. Other Communist stations stir the air in the east in counter broadcasts.

Indonesia Reverses Stand On Red China

JAKARTA, Indonesia, May 18 —(AP). — Indonesia's Foreign Minister Thursday reversed his stand on trade with Communist China, and said his rubber-producing country will obey any embargo voted against the Reds by the majority of United Nations members.

But Foreign Minister Achmad Soebardpo, in an interview, simultaneously urged that the United States pay more attention to Indonesia's needs and give her economic aid.

Soebardjo's oral statement to an Indonesian correspondent on May 7 that Indonesia would "sell to the devil" if it helped his country, provoked widespread protests in the western world.

Marmora CW To Cater For Holy Name Dinner

MARMORA, May 18 (ENS)—The May meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in Sacred Heart parish hall Tuesday evening. The president, Mrs. Charles Cook, occupied the chair, and thanked the members for their support and confidence in her.

Mrs. Rose Johnston gave her report on work for the western missions. Mrs. Jos. O'Neill and Mrs. Ford Woodhouse volunteered to visit the sick and shutins for the coming month.

A discussion was held regarding the catering for the Holy Name banquet to be held May 23 and members offered donations.

Group 9 was asked by the president to do the catering and serving at the dance to be held in the parish hall May 18.

The president advised that it was decided at an executive meeting that a Mass would be offered for members who were seriously ill instead of sending flowers to them.

The Rev. J. A. O'Neill congratulated the members on the catering at the wedding dinner last week.

Mrs. J. Black, program convenor, then took charge and Mrs. C. T. Nicholson gave a reading entitled, "Flowers for Our Lady". Mrs. Hugh Brady sang "Ave Maria," with Mrs. Black at the piano. Mrs. H. English gave a reading, "For Mother's Day" and Mrs. Black also gave two readings, "God Bless Mother" and "Ireland's Queen."

The president asked the ladies to come to the hall on Tuesday evening to set tables, for the banquet

Moose Killed In New Zealand

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z.—(CP)—For the first time for more than 20 years a moose has been shot in New Zealand. It was one of a small herd which inhabits New Zealand's Fiordland in the extreme south-west corner of the country and which is the only moose herd in the southern hemisphere.

Four bull and six cow moose of Saskatchewan stock were liberated in Dusky Sound, in the wild, uninhabited area in 1910. Earlier efforts to establish moose in New Zealand had been unsuccessful, but this herd survived.

Dusky Sound has one of the heaviest rainfall records in the world, with an annual fall of about 300 inches, and the wetter and warmer climate has caused the moose to change their natural habits drastically.

Dangerous swamps in the valleys have forced them to move to drier gullies and steep slopes, where their chief food appears to be fern, native grasses and moss. There is little of the soft vegetable food they like, but though not increasing greatly in numbers, the herd appears to be holding its own.

The last hunter who succeeded in shooting a moose in New Zealand did so in the '20s. Several parties have searched for the herd in vain as the country is heavily forested and very rugged. R. V. Francis Smith who located the animals recently, estimates that the herd numbers only about 30. The moose he shot was a fairly young one in excellent condition.

Economy Wave Makes Change In Film Revues

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, May 18 (AP)—It was just like old times. Well, almost, anyway.

There was Joan Blondell, looking as blonde and brassy as ever. She was onstage in a flossy costume and singing a tune about a sugar daddy, just as she had done in "Gold Diggers of 1933" and 1937, Footlight Parade," "Dames," etc. And directing the number was Busby Berkeley, who supervised those musical productions of years ago.

But this was 1951 and the picture was called "The Blue Veil" and something was different. After Joan came off the stage, I asked her what it was.

"It's easy," she replied. "In the old days, you would have come from a close-up of my face and panned over to see a hundred chorus girls. Now all you see is me."

Economy Drives

Ah, that was it. The long hand of economy had taken the multitude of girls out of the number and left only Blondell.

"I remember one picture that Busby was doing," she mused. "It was being shot on an outrageously big stage with at least 300 beautiful girls, plus a make-up man for each of them and a woman to rub each of them down when they got tired.

"The production manager came on the set and blew his top. All these people were just sitting around while Busby was up in the rafters shooting a close-up of somebody!"

I sighed that the movies have lost the magic of those days. What does she think is lacking?

"I don't know," she answered blandly. "I don't go to the movies."

Famed Engineer Declines United Nations Offer Of Job

By J. C. GRAHAM

WELLINGTON, N.Z.—(CP)—Few men nowadays would turn down a job offering $38,000 a year—tax free—and stick to one paying about $5,000. But New Zealand's Deputy Works Commissioner, F. M. Hanson, is a man of faith and resolution and he's done just that.

He was offered the post of assistant secretary-general in the Middle East for the United Nations, at a salary said to be the highest ever offered to an engineer in New Zealand. Neither the job nor his decision to decline it surprised the men who fought under Brigadier Hanson in the last war when he won the DSO and Bar and the Military Medal. He also holds the OBE.

Field Marshal Viscount Alexander, now Governor-General of Canada, said once that the engineers Hanson commanded set a standard of military engineering which would probably stand for all time. Their work was a large factor in the fame attached to the New Zealand division for its battles in Italy and the Middle East.

"Bull" Hanson and his engineers developed mine-removal tactics in the western desert which were followed in Field Marshal Montgomery's great battle at El Alamein, and later became standard practice.

Expert Builder

One of the world's leading experts on road-building, Hanson played a large part in getting the New Zealand division through "impassable" country in the desert. In Italy, the campaign time and again depended on the speed with which rivers could be bridged and here the New Zealand engineers continually exceeded expectations.

Hanson's men often got bridges across so fast that formations on their flanks had to come over and use them to keep up.

Expert In Work

The post which he was offered recently would have involved work in an area with which he is closely acquainted, requiring supervision of projects in which he is an acknowledged authority. These are highway and bridge construction, irrigation works, housing and farm development throughout the Middle East.

Hanson considered the offer carefully before reaching his decision. "I am first and foremost a New Zealander with a great faith in the future of this country," he said, "and that was of most weight towards the decision not to accept, greatly attractive though the offer was for work in so wide a field."

He is already near the top in government engineering service in New Zealand, and cannot hope for any great increase in his present salary. But he doesn't see anything remarkable in his decision to stay on here..

Top Amateur Comet Chaser Got Start Picking Fruit

DELPHOS, O.—(AP)—Leslie C. Peltier is probably the world's best amateur astronomer because he once picked 900 quarts of strawberries.

That was 35 years ago when he needed $18 to buy a telescope. Picking strawberries was the only way the 16-year-old Ohio farm boy knew to raise that much money.

After 35 years of deep-space fishing, the 51-year-old furniture designer now owns a heavenly harem of 10 bodies — 10 new comets man had never seen before. Each is named after him.

These discoveries and 90,000 reports on changes in variable stars have brought Peltier unusual honors. He is the only honorary life member of the Amateur Astronomers' Association. He received the first award of merit of the Association of Variable Star Observers.

He holds the Amateur Astronomers' Medal "for meritorious service to the science of astronomy in the field of discovery and observation of comets and other celestial objects." His was the second such award.

Greatest Non-Professional

In 1934, he heard Dr. Tarlow Shapley, director of the Harvard University observatory, introduce him as "the world's greatest non-professional astronomer."

On a typical evening, Peltier comes home from his work of designing juvenile furniture at the Delphos Bending Co. plant. He'll grab a bite to eat, bundle up in his overcoat and walk out to his little tin observatory in his backyard.

There he trains his telescope on the sky and begins fishing for a star. Ten times in 35 years he has hit the jackpot. The first one came Nov. 14, 1925. It's known as Peltier 1925A. The A means it was the first new comet reported that year.

1943 Big Year

Peltier reports with pride his banner catch in 1943—two new comets that year.

In 1936, Peltier found a new comet that reached its brightest peak July 1. It was so bright that it could be seen on that day by the naked eye before disappearing again in space.

But hundreds of nights have gone by without any such discoveries. The only thing that happens is the slow, careful compilation of information about changes in the brightness of stars that vary.

Peltier has found out many things about comets in 35 years of chasing them through outer space. You may think comets are always globs of light with long tails. Peltier knows they may be just hazy spots in the lens without a tail. If there is a tail, the chances are the tail will be out front.

Doesn't Know Origin.

He still can't figure out where comets come from. For that matter, other scientists are just as puzzled.

He designed his own tiny observatory in the corner of his backyard, a unique tin shack on a turntable.

"There's not another like it in the world," he says proudly.

About seven feet square, the tiny building is mounted on four steel wheels on a circular track in cement. From the inside, the observer can rotate the entire building by an automobile steering wheel and a rope and pulley arrangement.

Peltier uses a six-inch telescope given him by Princeton University in 1923. It replaced a four-incher donated by Harvard University in 1919.

Make Mind a Blank Good Sleep Recipe

MONTREAL (CP)— The trick of getting a good night's sleep involves leaving your mind a blank—not by counting sheep—says Dr. Norman Viner, an authority on the subject.

Some reasons for lack of sleep are unavoidable such as money problems, family problems, actual miseries of the day or a guilty conscience.

Another way to miss your beauty sleep and sit up all night is to chase sleep, says Dr. Viner, and a great many people do.

Most of the offences against sleep are normal. Only where the lack of it is due to causes such as mental or physical disease does it need to be treated on medical line.

If a person has not been impressed by the suggestion of the ill effects of coffee before bedtime, a cup or two will not hurt, he said.

Be careful of sedative drugs, warns Dr. Viner. They may be useful servants, "but often they turn out to be very bad masters." Too many people rely on them until they cannot do without them.

Main Purpose Of Festival To Develop Art Of Music

"The purpose of a festival is not primarily to give awards, certificates or marks nor is its primary purpose the production of musical geniuses and star performers."

This statement was made by John Clements at the Kiwanis Club luncheon meeting Thursday. Mr. Clements and Gordon Thorne, adjudicators at the Kiwanis Club Music Competition Festival, were guest speakers at the meeting.

"The main purpose of a festival," Mr. Clements contended, "is to bring as many people as possible into the making of music at whatever standard it may be."

Both adjudicators in their remarks congratulated the Kiwanis Club on its sponsorship of the festival and emphasized the importance of such events.

"Here in this festival there may be budding musicians who will develop Canadian music in the next generation," Mr. Thorne remarked. "Canada is too young a country to have a strong musical tradition and the young people to whom you are giving the opportunity to perform may be the ones that give this country that tradition in the future."

An Art Not A Science

Mr. Clements termed music an art, not a science, and explained that through music festivals this art develops taste, imagination and experience. This drawing together of people not only to perform but to listen makes them better able to appreciate professionals and discriminate between the good and the bad in music. In addition, any boy or girl who had gone through the mill of a music festival will become a better citizen.

"The job of the committee arranging this festival," this speaker concluded, "is not to educate the youngsters, but to educate the parents. It should be explained to them how these competitions should be run and why they are run, and also the importance of bringing young music students not only to the events in which they are to perform, but to all performances possible. If this were done the committee would not come up against the usual petty squabbles and criticisms.

Greater Than The Individual

"People must be made to realize that the festival is far greater than the individual who participates in it."

Mr. Clements and Mr. Thorne were introduced by president G. C. Hancock and thanked by Vince McCabe.

W. M. Gemmell, chairman of the festival committee, announced that Monday, at 10.30 a.m., Mr. Thorne and Mr. Clements had agreed to meet with all music teachers of Peterborough and district for a discussion period at Murray St. Baptist Church.

Guests attending the meeting were Walter Case, Montreal, and George W. James, Bowmanville. Guest Kiwanians were Walter Connor, Toronto, and Bob McCoy.

Pool Water Tested Every Day

Followed Regulations 100 Per Cent, D. Anderson States

Tests of water at the Lions Club swimming pool in Riverside park were made every day last year, Doug Anderson, club member in charge of the pool, assured the Examiner today.

"It was our first year of operation, and we may have made some mistakes," said Mr. Anderson. "But we were very careful. We had a book with the regulations of the province concerning swimming pools and we have abided by it 100 per cent.

"We were careful about the children and adults we let in the pool, too," he said. "Nobody with an open sore or rash was allowed in the pool."

On Wednesday, Dr. R. A. Kelly, MOH, told a Board of Health meeting that the Lions Club would have to make some changes before opening its pool.

One Of Eight

Dr. Kelly said that only one of eight changes he suggested to the club had been made.

He had suggested, he told the board, that daily tests be made to check on chlorine concentration and residue. The pool water should test as weak alkali and also pass as Class A water in a bacteriological test.

The chlorinator should be sectioned off, and no more than three swimmers to each thousand gallons of water should be allowed. He said he also suggested that a daily record of all tests be kept.

Mr. Anderson said Thursday that the club had sectioned off the chlorinator as Dr. Kelly had suggested.

SOME OF THE LOOT stolen from farmers in Peterborough and Victoria counties, that provincial police have recovered in the last few weeks, is shown ABOVE. It includes iron sap kettles, wrenches, acetylene torch equipment and farm machinery. It may not look so valuable to a city resident, say OPP officers, but many farmers find these items almost irreplacable. BELOW is a truck, loaded with scrap metal, seized by the provincials from two Hamilton men. They are Clarence Sholder and Lloyd Cooper, charged with theft of the truck load of scrap from the North Monaghan dump.

Govt. Promised Cobourg Depot

Peterborough city council had received information several weeks ago of a federal army project to be located somewhere east of Toronto, Mayor Swahston said today in regard to the announcement of its location on the outskirts of Cobourg. (See story, on Page 3.)

"We had a meeting of the industrial committee with Ald. Braund presiding to see whether there was anything we could do in the interest of Peterborough," His Worship said. "But, the very next day I had a confidential letter from Toronto that Cobourg had been promised this ordnance depot. There was nothing more we could do then. It was reported Cobourg offered the government 75 acres as a site."

This was probably the "industry" Port Hope was thinking of as a factor to influence CNR in continuing the operation of the Peterborough-Port Hope railway.

Fires In Past Few Days Have Given Reporters And Photographers Busy Time

Examiner reporters are sending up a few prayers in the direction of the fire gremlins today in the hope it may earn them a quiet week-end.

Six big or unusual fires in the past seven days have kept them busy. After five of them were routed from their beds after midnight Thursday, they've decided it was about time to call a halt.

The gremlins opened their bag of tricks first on Saturday when an arsonist set fire to the home of one of the reporters. Sunday afternoon the farm home of the Chretien family was destroyed in North Monaghan. Monday noon a reporter and photographer were sent to Otonabee to record the destruction of the Little family farmhome.

Just as the boys were beginning to settle back in their chairs, they were sent to Apsley Tuesday when a mill was destroyed by flames. Tuesday night when the Moldaver lumber yard suffered $25,000 damage, one reporter, one editor, and one photographer were hauled out of bed and another reporter never got as far as the pillow.

Wednesday, to everyone's relief, the fire department took a rest. But Thursday night, they were in action again. This time it was an empty house on River Road next to the previous Saturday arson victim. Before the night ended, one editor, one photographer and three reporters were answering telephones.

Beside answering questions from firemen and police, one reporter was kept busy putting out sparks on the roof of his house, serving coffee to visitors and firemen, and rescuing another member of the staff from arrest after she had been held as a suspect firebug.

So several reporters today are hoping, that maybe they'll have a few hours to enjoy the nice weather and a little sleep at the week-end.

When Money Is Once Voted Board Needs No Dictation

City Council's recent witholding of permission for Civic hospital to repair its linoleum came in for criticism by John R. Marshall Thursday night. Mr. Marshall, chairman of the hospital's board of governors, said he didn't think it was any of the council's business how the governors spent the money, as long as they kept within the amount given them.

"If the council has given us this money to finish the hospital with, and then won't let us spend it, we'll have to take it out of our yearly expenses," said Mr. Marshall.

Defends Action

Ald. Hugh Waddell, council's representative on the board, said he understood one member of council had "some facts" about the linoleum problem which should be presented to the council in committee of the whole. Ald. Waddell said he understood committee of the whole had not yet discussed the matter.

"This is something that has to be repaired," Mr. Marshall said. "So long as we don't overspend . . . I don't think council should stand in our way. I don't think a person should be given money to spend and then told not to spend it here or there."

Ald. Waddell suggested a joint meeting between members of the council and the board of governors to clear the matter up.

ILLNESS ON WANE

Civic Hospital superintendent John Hornal reported Thursday night to the board of governors that illness among nurses was on the wane. The hospital was hard hit during the near-epidemic of influenza during March. Twenty-seven nurses were absent through illness during April, compared to 118 in March.

Delay Decision On Recognition Of New Union

Decision as to recognition of the union at Civic Hospital will be delayed until results of the union's application for certification to the Ontario Labor Relations Board are known.

This was the decision Thursday of the board of governors.

Earlier, the board had discussed the advisability of declaring that the Labor Relations Act did not apply to the hospital. Legal advice received since these earlier meetings was to the effect that such a declaration was possible.

Employees Could Strike

But the board was also advised that if such a declaration were made, the employees could strike for recognition without violating the statute.

Under the Labor Relations Act, if application for certification is made, strikes are outlawed until the Labor Board's findings are made known.

Ian F. McRae remarked that "the situation is more tenable now." He admitted there had been delay on the part of the board, but said that there was no reason to officially recognize the union until results of the Labor Board's hearings are known.

A delegation from the Allied Labor Council, headed by Alfred Barber, urged that the governors come to some decision. Members of the delegation charged that the board had been "dilly-dallying."

Service Station Gets Okay From Planning Commission

One service station was given the green light and one other was put in the position of "let's see what the neighbours think," by the Peterborough City Planning Commission at a meeting Thursday night.

The committee decided to recommend to the city council that the Trinidad Leasehold Co. be given permission to put up a service station on the northeast corner of George and Perry Sts.

The committee members thought it would be "the honest thing to do" to let the residents of north Water St. near Argyle St. express their opinion about a service station on the Sanitary Ice Co. propery now owned by G. Ferguson.

Would Be Asset

Mr. Ferguson asked the committee permission to erect a service station on the north half of the property. He said he intended to clean up the property and the service station would be a real asset from an appearance viewpoint.

The block is zoned as a top priority residential area by the planning committee. Members immediately thought of the furore aroused a year ago by a request by an oil company to put up a service station on the northeast corner of Parkhill Rd. and Water St., two blocks south.

Residents of the neighborhood objected strenuously and no permission was given.

At its previous meeting, the planning committee refused to change the zoning of the northeast corner of Perry and George Sts. and so leave the way open for a service station to be erected.

Reversed Decision

Thursday night, they reversed their decision, but felt that altered circumstances warranted the change about. Previously a real estate firm wrote the committee making a request. Thursday night the request came from Trinidad Leasehold who sell Argo gas.

That section of George St. is zoned central commercial, making a service station permissible. Leasehold representative, Wilfred H. Zohr, said the company would comply with any regulations the city council made about how the property should be used.

At present the property is some feet above the level of George St. Alderman Norman Graham observed that the high ground created a traffic hazard because it was difficult to see to the north from a car entering George St. from Perry St. on the east side.

James Hamilton, a member of the committee, said he thought the council would want the land lowered to the street level. He thought it would be the only practical way to use the corner for a service station.

OPP Net Six, Crack Down On Thefts

Farming Machinery, Sap Kettles Stolen In Theft Epidemic

With the arrest of six men within the last week provincial police at district head quarters here hope they have just about wiped out an epidemic of petty thefts that have recently plagued farmers in Peterborough and Victoria counties.

Farmers—particularly in the region of Kinmount, Minden, Ops and Emily townships—have been complaining of farm machinery, sap kettles, tools and odds and ends of scrap metal being stolen.

Sap kettles have all been put away for the year but OPP headquarters are warning farmers to keep their machinery and other equipment close to their barns where they can keep a watchful eye on it.

Today in Lindsay police court, two Peterborough men—Gordon Moore, 26, Hurley St., and Allan Hansford, 24, Stormont St., pleaded guilty to theft of a mower from the farm of Ted Shaw, Emily township.

They were each fined $15 and costs.

Arrested Saturday

Hansford was arrested Saturday night by Constable Gordon Trennum and OPP Sergeant Lloyd McClure, and Moore was taken into custody the next day by Sgt. McClure and OPP Constable F. N. Clarence Sholder and Lloyd Cooper, two Hamilton men, were arrested by OPP Constable Jim Healey and remanded to Monday on a charge of stealing scrap metal from the North Monaghan dump. When arrested they had a truckload of scrap.

They are being held in custody in Peterborough jail. A check is being made to see if they have a previous criminal record.

Two Emily township men were remanded to May 22 without plea in Peterborough police court today on charges of stealing sap kettles from Robert J. Tully, Smith township.

They are William Martin, 19, and Ivan Morin, 29. OPP Sergeant McClure and Constable C. A. Naismith arrested them Thursday in the St. Thomas region and they appeared in court today.

PUC Gives Employees Living Cost Increase

A cost-of-living increase of 10 cents an hour for the employees of the Utilities Commission was adopted at its meeting Thursday afternoon. For the salaried staff the increase is $4.40 a week. It was also decided to review salaries and wages at the end of the next quarter in August.

G. S. Matthews, chairman, said the cost of living had advanced 12 points since the last increase in covering allowance. The general practice was to provide one cent an hour for every rise of 1.3 points in the cost of living index. The other Commissioners, G. A. Macdonald and Fred Hills, were present.

NO PATIENTS

Early this month, there were no potients in the communicable diseases division of Civic Hospital, superintendent John Hornal reported to the board of governors Thursday night. This is the first time this has happened since the new hospital opened, he said.

City Should Pay

Cost of extra lighting of the new city hall block should be paid by the council, according to the opinion of the Utilities Commission Thursday. They are asking R. L. Dobbin for a detailed report, including expense, and prospect of delivery of materials.

Ornamental standards are mentioned in the request from the council. Sentiment of the commission was that the council "would do the fair thing". In the meantime, plans for the project will be considered, "and we can settle about payment at a later date."

2 PCVS Groups Given Highest Festival Awards

The PCVS Choral Club and Concert Band in their performance at Murray St. Baptist Church Thursday night were awarded the highest marks received up-to-date at the Fifth Annual Peterborough Kiwanis Club Music Competition Festival.

The choral group, singing in class 76—girls' chorus, under 21 years, were awarded 87 for their rendition of Slumber Song by Challiner and 88 for Dance to Your Daddy (traditional folk song).

Excellent Performance

"This was an excellent performance," commented Adjudicator John Clements. "I can find practically nothing to criticize. This choir sang with beautiful tone, balance and tuning. It is the first time in this festival that there has been no need to discuss technical points."

The Choral Club was directed by Melville Curtis. The adjudicator was equally enthusiastic in his praise for the PCVS Concert Band performing in class 217—boys' and girls' band. They played two selections, Lead Kindly Light and Spirit of Youth, under the direction of Albert Croasdale.

Mr. Clements, in his comments on the second selection said that he had heard this played several times before in Canada, but had never heard it played as well as the PCVS Band played it.

"This band has an excellent warm tone and sense of phrasing and a good deal of precision," he stated. "They never blew beyond artistic or musical taste."

Both these groups were the sole contestants in their respective classes.

2nd Mystery Blaze Causes River Road Residents To Fear Firebug Is Active

Following Saturday's Attempt To Burn Duplex On River Road, House Next Door Completely Destroyed

Douro residents in the River Road district, northeast of the city, are in a state of jitters after what is believed to be the second case of arson in less than a week. A mystery blaze that broke out shortly after 12:30 a.m. today caused at least $3,500 damage to the two-storey, wooden frame house of William Spencley of Spencley's Lane, just outside the city boundary. Last Saturday a deliberate attempt was made to fire a duplex, immediately to the south of the Spencley property. After removing a screen and forcing a cellar window the arsonist started a blaze in the basement and another in the bedroom.

In the basement straw from a packing box was used to ignite the mattress of a folding bed, and in the bedroom at the rear of house paint thinner was poured on a blanket and a linen box.

The tenants of the northern duplex—Mr. and Mrs. James English and M. G. Cook—were absent at the time. Neighbors snuffed out the two blazes before they did any damage.

Provincial police and J. C. P. Lucas, inspector of the fire marshal's office, are linking the two mysterious fires. Their investigation is continuing today.

Possible Firebug

That the neighborhood is alert to the work of a possible firebug is shown by the fact that the city fire department received its first alarm at 12.47 a.m., rapidly followed by four other alarms. Fifteen other calls were recorded at the hall.

As there is no working agreement on the fighting of fires between Douro township and the city, the department did not automatically send aid.

(The only working agreements with surrounding municipalities are with Smith township and Lakefield. Both of them have fire fighting apparatus. Other municipalities, if they want assistance, must get the permission of the mayor or somebody in authority in the city council.)

Permission was finally obtained, 23 minutes after the first alarm, when Alderman A. B. Burrows, chairman of the fire, water and light committee, authorized it. Alderman Pat Anglesey phoned his city hall colleague to see if something could be done.

"I took the responsibility for sending them," said Alderman Burrows. "After all the River Road is the dividing line between the city and Douro. The city has water nearby and I thought we could be of assistance. It's too bad we couldn't have got there sooner."

Assistance Sent

A pumper and six men under Assistant Fire Chief Virgil Carr were sent to the blaze. But by the time they got there the rear of the building, a wooden lean-to used as a woodshed and summer kitchen, was leaping with flames and beyond saving.

Firemen then concentrated on saving the rest of the house. The flames had such a hold on the wooden structure that firemen were unable to prevent them from starting to eat into the main building.

The east end of the building and the shed were destroyed, the floor torn up in several places and only about four of the seven rooms escaped heavy damage.

"The whole thing might as well have burned considering the condition it's in now," said Jack Montgomery, son-in-law of the owner.

Motorist Discovered Fire

First person who is known to have seen the fire was an unidentified motorist who drove up and down that section of the River road, sounding his horn and trying to wake the sleeping residents.

W. H. Long who lives immediately north of the Spencley property looked out of the window and saw the northeast corner of the woodshed going up in flames, and flames were also roaring up a nearby pine tree.

"I immediately thought of our barn," said his sister, Miss Eva Long, "and we went out and played the hose on it."

Miss Long and Mrs. Ethel McFadden, who lives with the Longs, both said that they, like most of the neighbors, have been nervous of another outbreak since last Saturday's arson attempt.

The Longs soon observed that the light wind was blowing in the opposite direction and they were in no danger of losing their barn. So they stopped their preventative firefighting measures.

Earlier in the day some children had been playing about the vacant house. (There is no furniture there and nobody has lived in it for two months. Mr. Spencley is sick in Civic Hospital). The children were shooed away but there remained another rumor that a woman, a nearby resident, was suspect.

Inspector Lucas of the Fire Marshal's office, was already in the city investigating recent fires in this district. And he was right on the spot to see the Spencley fire. Also in Peterborough is R. E. Nelson, of the fire underwriters.

OPP Constable Jim Healey is also investigating.

Eight Junior Project Clubs Under Way With 152 Members....National Dairy Advertising Re-Financing In June....Crop Improvement Convention Report Available....Shorthorn Bull Brings $15,000 At Edmonton Sale.

Peterborough's eight junior project clubs are now fully organized with a total membership of 152 boys and girls, as compared with 117 last year.

They are: Winter wheat club, organized last September, 23 boys and girls; Alan Drummond, leader.

Swine club, 18 members; George Shoniker, leader.

Tractor maintenance club, 16 members; Irvine McIntosh, leader.

Apsley forestry club, 19 members; William Houle, leader.

Robert E. Bell, assistant agricultural representative, said Thursday: "All the clubs are off to a good start, and are sponsored by the Junior Farmers of Peterborough. Two meetings a week from now until the end of September provide at least one a month for each group.

The tractor maintenance group, all boys, had a profitable meeting last week at Stewart Hall's shop on Queen St., under the leadership of Irvine McIntosh.

Stanley Wood Host

East side dairy calf club met this week at Stanley Wood's farm. Mr. Wood is always co-operative with us, and this was an outstanding meeting. We had two judging classes or junior calves and second calf heifers. Keith McIntyre was in charge.

All but two of the 27 members were present. It happens that their calves are all Holsteins.

Norman McConkey gave an interesting talk on the care of the dairy calf. Attendance included some of the parents, and also boys and girls who are not members.

First Apsley Club

Our Apsley forestry club is the first junior group to be organized in that part of the county. The officers are: president, Ken McCauley; vice-president, Gary Hall; secretary, Mary Jean Wilson, all of Apsley.

I think we have been very fortunate in enlisting as club leader, Mr. William Houle, an Apsley school teacher who is keenly interested and has been most helpful in getting organized."

The townships represented by the boys and girls of the eight clubs are: Emily, in Victoria; Cavan in Durham; and in Peterborough: Harvey, Ennismore, Smith, North Monaghan, Otonabee, Douro, Dummer, Asphodel, Chandos and Anstruther.

We are happy about covering more territory, and are grateful to the many parents for their support. Some of the teachers should also be included in our promoters."

JERSEY BREEDING UNIT

Elgin county Jersey Breeders have their own artificial insemination unit, one of the first in Ontario, at the farm of George Silcox of Shedden. They recently bought a young sire from the B. H. Bull and Son's herd at Brampton. It is Brampton Belmont Garat by the imported bull, Belmont Royal. The dam is the Excellent cow, Brampton Mary Basil, with a production record at four years of 13,398 pounds of milk and 855 pounds of butterfat on twice-daily milking.

LIVESTOCK TO MEXICO

Seven carloads of Canadian livestock recently left for Mexico. Included were dairy cattle, horses, pigs, sheep and pheasants. The animals were selected by Dr. Jose Figueroa of the Mexican Department of Agriculture, some of them being for private breeders and others for the Mexican government.

The largest livestock group consisted of 56 head of purebred Holsteins. Two high class bulls headed this shipment, one being a son of Glenafton Futurity from Jas. T. Brown, Newcastle, Ont. Futurity was All-Canadian Bull Calf in 1948 and was Reserve All-Canadian in 1949 and 1950. The other bull was Pioneer Lodge Pathfinder secured from James T. Beaton, Hamilton. This bull is by a son of Montvic Pathfinder and is out of Pioneer Lodge Aggie Pontiac who is the world champion milk producer in the senior three year old class of the 365 day division on twice-a-day milking with her record of 26,083 lbs. milk containing 889 lbs. fat and has a seven lactation lifetime total all on 2X of 147,911 lbs. milk containing 5,237 lbs. fat. Her dam in turn is a Gold Seal producer with her eleven lactation 2X lifetime record of 189,773 lbs. milk containing 6,867 lbs. fat.

Forty-eight of the Holstein heifers went to Jose Garcia Valseca, Queretaro, Mexico, while six of them went to Dr. Lauro Ortega, Mexico City. Dr. Ortega personally visited Canada to select these animals.

The balance of the shipment consisted of Guernsey and Ayrshire cattle, Percheron horses, Yorkshire pigs, Suffolk rams, and fourteen pheasants.

CROP IMPROVEMENT REPORT

The Ontario Department of Agriculture has issued a full report of the addresses and proceedings of the annual convention of the Crop Improvement Association. It is a book of 175 pages devoted to discussions of general crop subjects, registered seed and potato problems. Any farmer wishing to obtain a copy should write the Department.

The following are two brief quotations from an article on soil productivity, yesterday and tomorrow, by Dr. Ford A. Stinson, who resigned from OAC to take a remunerative post in Rhodesia.

"There were some individuals early in the present century who began to realize that the soils were not so productive as before, but they were in the minority. Plant and animal breeders were equipped and trained, and they were turning out enough to keep production data showing declines.

"Whenever soil fertility was considered, it was a matter of how soon and to what extent the investment in manure or fertilizer or a green manuring crop could be recovered rather than any long-term plan for soil development or preservation . . .

"Evidence of the general lack of interest of Ontario people in soil problems as late as 1920 is seen in the fact that early attempts to survey and map soils in such a way as to form a basis for their future use and development, virtually died for lack of public support. Furthermore some long-term fertility studies were initiated from time to time on general farm soils throughout old Ontario during the period between 1920 and 1940, but these too did not meet with popular support and had to be discontinued."

DAIRY "ADS" FUND

The set-aside of one cent a pound butterfat in June, continuing the national financing plan the dairy industry adopted a year ago, is another of recent reminders of the enlarging fact that the farmers of this country are doing things for themselves on a steadily expanding scale.

And these engagements reach from the national to the school section level in multiple activities which farmers themselves hardly realize unless they put on the brakes long enough to get a good look at themselves.

From Farm Forum and Junior Farmer groups all the way up to national organizations and their executives rural people are more receptive to new ideas and inclined to be more responsive to them, and beyond that, more willing to contribute personal effort, than they have been in the last 50 years.

Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario's Minister of Agriculture, pointed up that spirit of progress in his comment to the effect that the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board in their new contract with Britain had erected "a milestone in agricultural history in this province. It is the first time that Ontario producers have dealt directly with the British government."

Of their own initiative and through the Federation of Agriculture, they have virtually a unique achievement in the Farm Radio Forum.

Dwelling on its features of education and communication within their own ranks is no longer necessary, although there are still too many farmers who have not yet associated themselves with the Forum groups.

It is Not a "Levy"

The replenishing of the advertising fund of the Dairy Farmers of Canada during June is another enterprise now reaching the first year of its operation.

Instead of the word "levy," Mr. Gilbert McMillan of Huntingdon, Que., president of the national Dairy Farmers, uses the euphemistic phrase "set-aside," conforming with its literal meaning. Farmers are setting aside one cent a pound for every pound of butterfat or milk equivalent marketed by them next month.

This funding plan costs the average milk shipper less than $5 last year. The cream shipper paid about $2. Some forms of publicity they financed since the advertising was begun in December have been enumerated as follows:

3368 daily newspaper "ads;" 23 full color magazine ads; 26 others in trade papers; and in farm papers 42; 3322 radio spot messages; 260 minutes of special radio commentary prepared by Marie Fisher of the Dairy Foods Service Bureau.

Their Own Accomplishment

Authority for the second campaign was given by dairy producer groups across Canada who, in recent meetings, voted to support and sustain the advertising of their products.

The slogan for next month is: "June is Dairy Month." Theme of promotion will be dairy foods related to summer meals, featuring fluid milk, ice cream, butter, cheese, cottage cheese, evaporated milk and sweet cream.

Of special interest on the side of responsibility are these aspects: the advertising scheme has been conceived and promoted by dairy organizations, it has been authorized by dairy farmers, and it has been planned in detail by their direction.

$15,000 FOR SHORTHORN BULL

Thirty Shorthorn bulls sold for a total of $76,300, an average of $2,543, at the Killearn Farms sale at Edmonton, Tuesday, May 8.

Top price was $15,000, a new Canadian high price for purebred Shorthorns. It was paid by William Melnyk and Cons of Chipman, Alta., for Killearn Max William, a full brother of the bull that headed the sale last year at $10,000.

The Calgary Herald report of the sale commented: "There were many breeders both Canadian and American in the crowd of 1,000 who could more easily have afforded to lay $15,000 on the line for the classy young bull than the quiet-spoken Ukrainian-born farmer from the Chipman district north of Edmonton. But, he was determined to acquire the animal, and he beat them off one by one until the auctioneer, J. W. Durno of Calgary, finally knocked him down to Mr. Melnyk.

"The Melnyks are no strangers to Southern Alberta livestock men. They have topped the Shorthorn division at the Calgary bull sale for several years. One of the sons, Walter, does the fitting and showing."

Second highest price was $4,500; the next two were at $4,250; and fifth highest $4,000.

The biggest price for a bull going to the United States was $3,600. It was bought for the University of Utah.

Killearn Max William is 13 months old. He is described as follows: "Solid red in color, low to ground with great depth and a straight backline and good quarters, this bull also boasted a masuline head and horn of great quality."

He was sired by Killearn Max 5th, now nine years old. And the dam was one of the best cows of the Killearn herd owned by Charles Gallinger of Edmonton.

Highest Record In April By Lifloc Cow

Forty-seven records were completed in April by Canadian Holsteins, each exceeding 700 lbs. of fat, according to George M. Clemons, secretary of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada.

Altogether, 1,380 Canadian Holsteins qualified in Record of Performance during the month. One record exceeded 31,000 lbs. of milk, two were above 1,000 lbs. of fat; eight were from 800 to 900 lbs. fat.

"The top record of the month was that of Lifloc Macaber Re-Echo owned by N. W. McConkey, Peterborough. As a senior four-year-old she produced in 365 days on three times-a-day milking 31,058 lbs. of milk, containing 1,132 lbs. fat; average test 3.64 per cent butterfat.

This record stands second for milk and second for fat for all time in Canada in the senior four-year-old class. In the same lactation Macaber established a world record for milk production in 305 days on three times-a-day milking with 27,978 lbs. milk containing 995 lbs. fat. This record also stands second for all time for fat in Canada in the class."

Fred McIndoo Reviews Chick Market Revival

Since the loss of the British egg contract in 1949, the Canadian poultry industry has recovered to a strong and healthy position, said Fred McIndoo of Cavan in his radio broadcast over CHEX last Saturday. This was one of the series arranged by the Peterborough Federation of Agriculture, and was timely, interesting and authoritative.

With closing of that outlet at the end of 1949, the industry faced "a catastrophic situation," and even that McIndoo adjective was not too strong in describing the plight and reaction of most producers in this country.

"They had to choose one of two courses, either sell their hens on an already glutted market, or hold their stock and wait for things to adjust themselves.

So many farmers followed the first course that those who kept their flocks proved to be the wiser group. Today the market is definitely competitive, with no hangover from the troubles of 1950.

Chick production was down 20 per cent in 1950 as compared with 1949. This brought 14 per cent fewer eggs during the first quarter of 1951 than for the same three months in 1950. Egg prices have strengthened in recent months, and are the highest paid to producers since the early 20's, for eggs produced at this season of the year.

Prices of poultry meat are likewise strong, with storage stocks of dressed poultry down 40 per cent from a year ago. These higher prices are necessary and justified in view of the present feed costs.

More Eggs in Fall

"The market is faced with a relative shortage of summer eggs, both fresh and oil processed, but an increase of laying stock is in prospect for fall production. Hatches for Jan., Feb., and March are up 15 per cent over 1950; April hatches and May settings are about the same as last year. Thus the increase is in early hatched chicks which will help to balance egg supplies in the fall months, which are the months of greatest scarcity for fresh eggs.

It is interesting to note that in January 1950, the Poultry Industry of Canada recommended a reduction of 20 per cent in chick hatches, and final figures showed that they got it.

In 1951 they asked for a 15 per cent increase and the figures just quoted show they are gaining the attention of producers as manifested by actual response."

Mr. McIndoo told his radio audience that he had verified his statistics by consulting Prof. Ross Cavers, head of the Poultry Department of OAC.

Mr. McIndoo also discussed the subject of seasonal hints from his own experience.

"At this season we are concentrating our attention on good range for our growing stock. It is the real break we get in the year from excessive feed costs.

Feed Bill $100 a Day

The feed bill on our own farm has been running close to $100 a day; so, naturally we welcome any avenue of relief, provided it takes full care of nutritive requirements of growing birds.

A good grass range supplements a lot of the high priced proteins and contains vitamins and minerals that I claim can never be as potent coming from a feed bag in a synthetic form.

Be sure your shelters are on clean ground; keep the grasses short. We expect to move our range in about two weeks time.

Less Mash Needed

Reduce growing mash as the age of the pullet advances. February hatched pullets should require very little growing mash right now, if on good grass, and fed a good quality mixed scratch grain, containing lots of oats. Don't neglect grit, even if they are on the range.

This year the Peterborough Exhibition Board have offered our Peterborough branch of PIC the opportunity of putting on a special project at the Ex in August.

We shall endeavor to make the utmost use of this opportunity to put on an educational exhibit that will be of interest to both urban and rural people. Broiler production will be featured, and we plan to stimulate your appetite for chicken to the extent that you will never want a "big juicy steak" again."

HERE'S WHY WE RECOMMEND THE FUL-O-PEP PULLET GROWING PLAN

1 YOU USE LESS MASH! The high quality nutrients of Ful-O-Pep Growing Mash allow you to feed less mash and more grain. You save on mash and grow sturdier, more mature birds for the laying pen.

2 GROW HEALTHIER BIRDS Ful-O-Pep Growing Mash supplies the vitamins, proteins and minerals your birds need for sound growth and proper development!

3 GET MORE EGGS Because the Ful-O-Pep Plan grows mature birds for the laying pen and avoids forcing pullets, you get more (and bigger) eggs!

4 AVOID LAYING HOUSE LOSSES Ful-O-Pep grows stronger, healthier pullets, with sound bones, rugged health and more stamina. You get less mortality in the laying pen.

Doctors Debate Fee-Splitting

HAMILTON, May 18. (CP) — Dr. Floyd Dyer, publicity spokesman for the Hamilton Academy of Medicine, said Thursday night that labor's years of fighting for medical benefits would be wiped out if doctors signed a letter recently sent out by the General Hospital's Boards of Governors.

He spoke at a meeting of the board of governors and the Academy of Medicine called Thursday night to discuss the fee-splitting issue.

Dr. Dyer said the academy was against fee-splitting, but prepaid medical schemes pay only the surgeon and allow nothing for the physician. The only way the physician can be paid is by splitting the surgeon's fee.

"If this is fee-splitting," he said, "then we are all guilty. We can't do it any other way."

West Oil Boom Ignites • Willow Boom

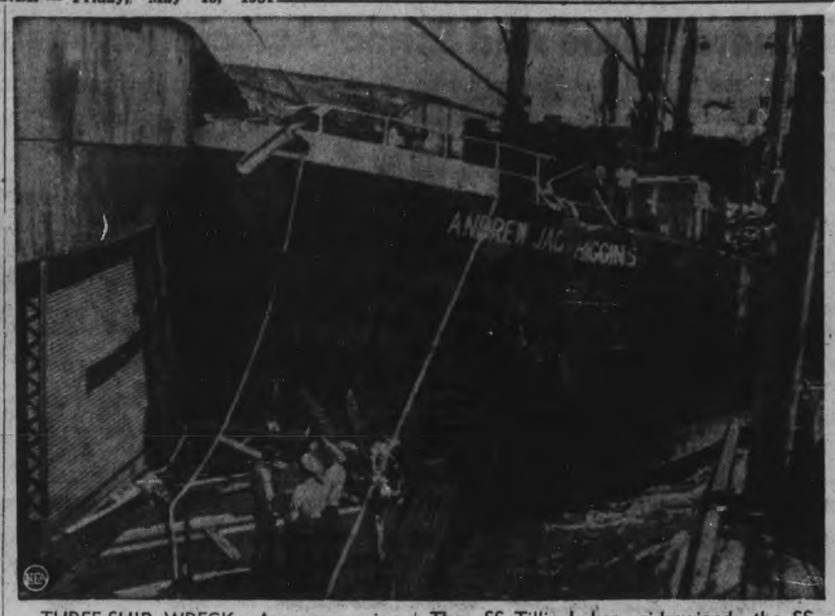
HOBBEMA, Alta. (CP) — The Hobbema Indians once again are going to the post. And the posts are piled high outside the stores of this village that borders the highway about 50 miles south of Edmonton.

The Indians are harvesting willows—for sale as fence posts. They've done it every year since 1915.

It's big business. Some years they've shipped out a million posts ranging from two to four cents apiece. Farming districts are the principal market.

When the Leduc oil fields boomed about 30 miles north, so did the Hobbema willow post business. In the first years of the oil boom the oil companies took thousands of the sharpened willows.

Exploration crews have since been probing around Hobbema itself. But whether they find oil here or elsewhere, the Indians figure they are part of the game.



The Indians spend the winters cutting and sharpening the willows. At this time of year, they haul them to the village where they are bought by the storekeepers for re-sale.

Sometimes the poles are piled outside Hobbema's stores as high as a two-storey building and for about a block in length.

Naturally, the area is getting a little thin in willows. But it still is a lucrative business for the indians

However, it is not their only means of livelihood.

They ship out cattle and have shipped up to 500,000 bushels of grain a year. Ninety per cent of the commerce of the village — which you can drive through so quickly that you hardly notice it—comes from the money belts of th Indians.

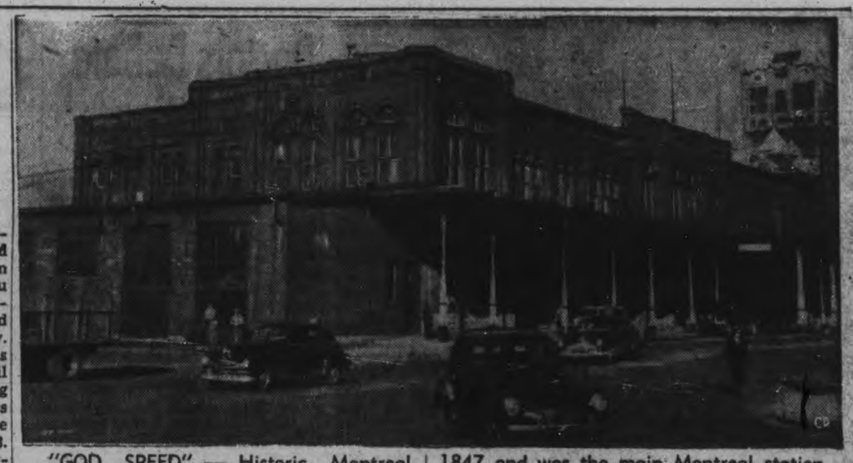
PICKFORD STATUE—This is an artist's conception of a statue of Mary Pickford proposed by a group of her admirers to be placed in front of the Sick Children's Hospital in Toronto, where the house in which she was born used to stand. The city's works committee turned down the proposal, but the question was expected to be taken to the City Council.

More Colonies Of Rare Bird Found In N.Z.

By J. C. GRAHAM



DUNEDIN —(CP)— More living specimens of the rare bird notornis have been discovered in mountainous Lake Te Anau region of New ealand's fiordland in the almost uninhabited extreme southwest of the country.

For half a century the notornis were thought to be extinct until Dr. G. B. Orbell found a living colony of the birds—a flightless swamp hen species about the size of a turkey—in the area in 1948. So little has the region been explored, however, and so broken and difficult is the heavily-forested country, that widespread searches for more colonies have all been unsuccessful until now.

During the present summer a party of field officers of the Wild Life branch of the Internal Affairs department has been living in the area and conducting an intensive survey. It has been found that colonies of notornis live in six valleys and breed in at least four. It is highly probable that there are still further colonies in even more inaccessible portions of the regior

The original colony was thought to contain no more than 20 birds, but at least 30 or 40 were seen in the various valleys visited during the survey, so that the future of the species now seems much brighter. As a result of trapping of staots and deer—enemies of the notornis—by field officers, five chicks have been reared in the original colony this season, a higher proportion than in the past.

The discovery of the new colonies has revived the possibility that pairs of young birds will be removed to a more accessible district and efforts made to breed them and examine their habits. This project was abandoned when the smallness and precarious existence of the original colony was realized, as it was considered that it would be unsafe to remove any of the few known birds.

The Canadian Family owes much to . . . Switzerland

A Tribute from Calvert to Canadians of Swiss Descent

THE STRENGTH of a nation stems from the character of its people. Canada owes much of her growth, vitality and the rich quality of its democracy to the blending of racial and cultural heritages from many lands.

Switzerland has contributed many of her sturdy sons, and they have united themselves with other racial groups, to comprise the great Canadian Family.

Among the first Swiss to come to Canada were soldiers who helped Lord Selkirk defend his Red River Colony. These were quickly followed by skilled watch and clock makers and musicians.

Today the names of many Canadians of Swiss descent figure prominently among our artists, musicians, writers and poets, while the unmatched skill of Swiss watchmakers has contributed much to Canada's industry.

Calvert, founder of Canada's first colony at Newfoundland in 1622, was head of the famous Calvert family. Calvert's ideals of democracy, ideals which were perpetuated by his descendants, helped set the pattern for the freedom we now enjoy.

Rollicking Flemish Comedy Wins Adjudicator's Praise

By KAY REX

LONDON, Ont., May 18 (CP)—A rollicking Flemish comedy Thursday night tickled the funny-bone of a Dominion Drama Festival audience and drew high praise from adjudicator Jose Ruben.

"A most enjoyable evening," the New York theatre director said of "Les Gueux Au Paradis" (The Beggars at the Gates of Paradise), presented by Les Compagnons De Saint Laurent, a Montreal French-language troupe.

It was the fifth production in the 1951 festival which continues tonight with George Bernard Shaw's "In Good King Charles' Golden Days," produced by the University Alumnae Dramatic Club of Toronto.

The Montreal company Thursday night served up a dish of humor which won applause at every turn. It didn't seem to matter whether members of the audience understood French. They all shared in the fun.

"Yet with all the fooling there is a certain undercurrent of human tenderness which enhances the substance of this play," said adjudicator Ruben.

The play, by Martens and Obey, is about a couple of rogues who suddenly find themselves at the gates of Hades. They talk themselves out of this predicament and finally end up at the pearly gates, only to find they must go back to earth.

Liked Modern Sets

Adjudicator Ruben liked the modern sets. These included a black-and-red interpretation of Hades remotely suggestive of the interior of a nightclub.

He also appreciated the lighting and sound effects and said the costumes "were typical and amusing."

All members of the 20-man cast did a good job. Mr. Ruben particularly mentioned Guy Hoffman as the butcher "Boule," Jean Coutu as the slinky sexton, and Yves Letourneau as Boule's pal "Reitje."

In conclusion, the adjudicator offered special congratulations to the diector, the Rev. Emile Legault.

This was the first time in three years that Les Compagnons have taken part in the festival. In 1947 the last time the contest was in London, they won the Bessborough Trophy, highest award in the annual competition.

The 14-year-old troupe is the only professional company in the 1951 festival.

ON LOAN — Harvard trainers of the United States Air Force are on indefinite loan to the RCAF. To date 25 have arrived at the RCAF station at Trenton—complete with American markings—where they will be conditioned for use at various Canadian airfields.

Maugham Satire Amuses British Artists

LONDON —(CP)— Somerset Maugham says that beauty is as transitory as everything in this world.

Beauty, he said in a speech at the Royal Academy's annual banquet, "depends on the climate of sensibility and that changes with the years."

The 77-year-old British writer, perhaps the most widely read of living authors, delighted a distinguished audience — including honorary extraordinary member Winston Churchill—with an anecdote of the "Lady who doesn't know anything about art but knows what she likes."

This was an eldery woman in well-cut tweeds, a woman who was going to "do" the academy with her nephew, a woman who was a little nervous because her nephew said he had had to scrap Cezanne because he was really too pretty-pretty—in short, the woman everyone had heard about but never met.

Doesn't Last

Maugham quoted the woman as saying she herself didn't know anything about art but what she always said was, a thing of beauty is a joy forever. Maugham said he agreed that Keats had said that—but only once. He added:

"And then I said that if Keats said that it always retained its beauty he was wrong, because beauty is as transitory as everything in this world.

"Sometimes it has long life, like classic Greek sculpture. But classic Greek art, partly owing to the contact we have made with Chinese and Negro art, is no longer having a long life."

Maugham sat down amid applause and laughter. Afterwards he said he had committed his speech to memory.

Needs Of Youth Stressed In Bank Letter

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

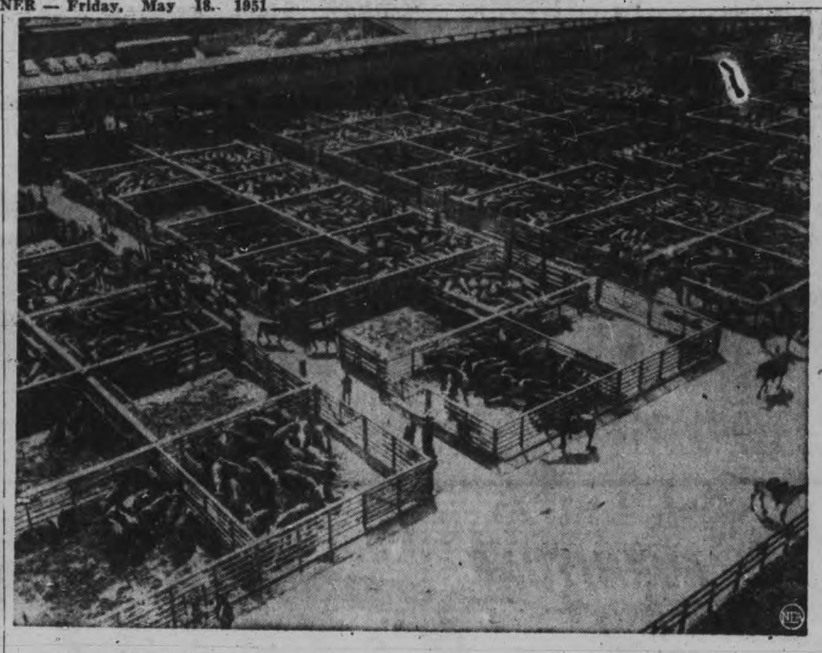
This being the "graduating" season, the Royal Bank of Canada devotes its curernt monthly letter to the "impertive needs of youth."

It is filled with both homely and idealistic observation, and here is one quote:

"No preparation, no planning and no strategy can guarantee success; one can only deserve it. But if one has fun trying, and finds his happiness along the road, then it doesn't matter if the journey never ends."

Here are some other items from recent news releases:

The University of British Columbia will pioneer a course in life insurance in its School of Commerce, the first to be offered in a Canadian University.



Dr. Norman MacKenzie, U.B.C. president, states that sufficient financial support has been advanced by life insurance companies in Canada to guarantee continuance of the course for a minimum of two years. He added:

"I believe this will be the beginning of a series of courses on insurance in this university." It gives preparation for a variety of careers in insurance, including field underwriting, administration, investment and other departments."

The Canadian Beautification Association announces that, in keeping with the defence program, this year's national beautification campaign will stress preservation of property. Supporters of the campaign include a wide variety of industrial and public bodies. Its slogan will be "Clean Up!" "Paint Up!" "Plant UP!" "Light Up!" Dates of local campaigns may vary, but the national campagn is scheduled for May 12-28.

Canada and Dominion Sugar Co., Ltd., in its publication "Up And Down The Rows" sees little difficulty in obtaining sufficient labor for the 1951 sugar-beet crop in eastern Canada. It says that housing and lagging defence contracts have limited the expected exodus of farm workers to industrial centres. In addition, many immigrants from Europe have settled in Western Ontario, and 225 displaced persons have been promised by the immigration department in time for beet work.

Japan will take part for the first time in the Canadian International Trade Fair at Toronto May 28-June 8. Some 55 Japanese firms will exhibit sports goods, bamboo work, toys, foods, silk wearing apparel and various other items.

BEEF RELIEF—Cattle pens at Chicago's Union Stockyards are nearly full as about 17,000 head, the largest run in several months, were brought in. Marketing was heavy as many farmers tried to beat the meat ceilings which go into effect next week.

Vancouver Gets Empire Games

LONDON, May 18—(CP)—Approval has been given for the 1954 Empire Games to be held in Vancouver, it was announced today.

The announcement came from the British Empire Games Federation, which also said it has agreed to a revised version of regulations governing the games.

Under the revised plan, scheduled to be submitted for approval to the federation's general assembly during the 1952 Olympic games at Helsinki, obligatory sports in the Empire Games will be athletics, boxing, cycling, lawn bowls, rowing, swimming, diving and wrestling. In the 1954 games, there will also be weight-lifting and fencing.

Women's shot-put and discus events will be included in future games and there will be only one women's relay.

Regulations have been drawn up governing British Empire Athletic records. These may be held only by athletes who are British subjects or citizens of a constituent part of the Commonwealth, and may be set up only within the Empire and Commonwealth. Distances will be in English measures.

Roll With Punch

LOS ANGELES, May 18—(AP)—General Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said Thursday he thinks United Nations forces can stop the new Communist offensive in Korea, but added: 'We may have to roll with the punch." He added: "It's really on the way. This is the way they do it. They find weak places and pour men across.

Finally Get House

PONTYPRIDD, Wales, May 18—(Reuters)—A man who applied to the local town council for a house 24 years ago finally received one Thursday. "It has been worth the wait," said truck driver Douglas Tuck, 49. He and his wife have been living with his parents ever since their marriage in 1927, waiting their turn for a house.

May Take Over

LONDON, May 18—(Reuters)—British movie magnate J. Arthur Rank, who sailed for the United States Thursday, may take over all British activities of 20th Century Fox films, the London Daily Graphic says today. The company announced this week that it is stopping British operations and dismissing many employees because of heavy losses.

Schools Closed

GUATELMALA CITY, May 18—(Reuters) — All Guatemala's schools closed Thursday because 6,000 teachers went on strike, most of them claiming they had not been paid for 90 days.

Just Beginning

NEW YORK, May 18—(AP)—Government controls so far placed on United States industry "have been little more than curtain-raisers," a National Production authority told a convention of lead industry leaders Thursday. "In the months to come, material scarcities will become increasingly acute, and as a result our responsibility for controlling the distribution and use of the scarce materials cannot be avoided," said Erwin Vogelsang of the N.P.A.'s tin, lead and zinc divisions.

Warble Fly Inspector Reports On Spraying

NORWOOD, May 18—(ENS)—Asphodel township council met with all members present. Bruce Warr, inspector for warble fly treatment, was present and reported 3,825 cattle had been sprayed and 475 had been treated by the brush method in the first treatment. Mr. Warr reported splendid co-operation from the cattle owners.

After some discussion it was decided to purchase 1,500 yards of crushed gravel.

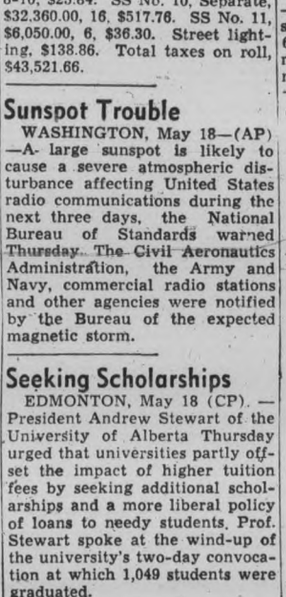
Sunspot Trouble



WASHINGTON, May 18—(AP)—A large sunspot is likely to cause a severe atmospheric disturbance affecting United States radio communications during the next three days, the National Bureau of Standards warned Thursday. The Civil Aeronautics Administration, the Army and Navy, commercial radio stations and other agencies were notified by the Bureau of the expected magnetic storm.

Seeking Scholarships

EDMONTON, May 18 (CP). — President Andrew Stewart of the University of Alberta Thursday urged that universities partly offset the impact of higher tuition fees by seeking additional scholarships and a more liberal policy of loans to needy students. French Authority Urges Balanced Diet Necessity

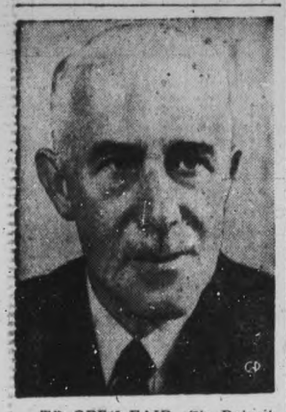
PARIS—(Reuters)—A leading French nutrition expert is waging a campaign against "wasteful eating for purse and stomach."

Professor Hughes Gounelle, president of the French clinical and biological research unit on nutrition, a Rockefeller Foundation set up in 1940, believes that the majority of people, irrespective of income, are still unable to eat sensibly.

He says that the average Frenchman who is obliged to spend 57 per cent of his earnings — the highest in Western Europe — on food still does not eat to the best advantage for his health. By organizing his meals on a rational, balanced basis, the average Frenchman could eat more healthily for less money, he says.

Gounelle has these comments on:

French kitchens: Among the best in the world. The American kitchen comes after the French. There is no such thing as an English kitchen. Tasteless food is one of the unfortunate results of English cooking. Many valuable salts and minerals are lost through overcooking.



Makeshift Meats

"Makeshift" meats: Whale, goat, reindeer and beaver may not suit everyone's taste but they have as much nutritive value as pork, beef or mutton.

Cafeterias, particularly the kind in the United States: "The nutritive value of the meal is wastefully offset by the atmosphere of noise, haste and nervous tension in these rapid self-service restaurants."

Sugar: sugar is one of the greatest enemies of healthy nourishment. In 1823, the average American consumed eight pounds of sugar a year; by 1940, it had risen to 101 pounds. Too much sugar, by unbalancing a body-building diet, is a common cause of rickets among children and early tooth decay. Children are given too much candy.

Opposed equally to over-eating and eating too little, he frowns upon the American habit of eating a large quantity of meat before the night's rest. But he favors dinner, the American's main meal of the day, eaten in tranquility after the day's work.

TO OPEN FAIR—Sir Robert Sinclair, immediate past president of the Federation of British Industries and chairman of Imperial Tobacco, Bristol, England, will open the Fourth Canadian International Trade Fair to be held in Toronto May 28 to June 8.

Hospital Needs Man To Collect Accounts

Civic hospital treasurer T. T. Rodger renewed his request for a man to make collections for the hospital on Thursday night at a meeting of the board of governors.

In his report, he noted an increase in the amount of unpaid accounts. He said it was a further indication of the need for a man to collect accounts receivable.

Balance of accounts receivable at the end of March was $108,871.08. At the end of April the balance was $114,137.29. Cash collected from patients' accounts during April totalled $47,558.95, and earnings from patients were $55,252.43.

They are Rev. John Joseph Hickey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Hickey of Peterborough; Rev. Timothy B. Coughlan of Hastings, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Coughlan; and Rev. Raymond Hart, son of the late Frank Hart and Mrs. Hart of Colborne, Ont. They are now candidates from Minor Orders.

Rev. T. B. Coughlan is the second and younger son of an old Hastings family to enter the priesthood. He is a brother of Rev. John Coughlan of St. Peter's Cathedral staff.

Their family has been linked with the Trent Village from the days of its pioneers. John Coughlan, grandfather, and their father Timothy A. Coughlan, were both well known here and in Peterborough and Northumberland counties. Their father was for years proprietor of a drug store in the village, and the telephone exchange for that community, extending into Percy and Asphodel townships, occupied part of his store.

In the absence of their parents by death, the dedication of these two brothers to the religious life will be recognized by the friends of the family and especially in the community of Hastings.

Rev. T. B. Coughlan received his education at Hastings Separate School, Campbellford High School and St. Michael's College, Toronto. In Sept. 1944 he entered St. Augustine's Seminary, Toronto, to begin his studies for the priesthood.

On Sunday May 20, Father Coughlan will celebrate his first Mass in the church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, at Hastings.

Born In Peterborough

Rev. John Joseph Hickey was born in Peterborough son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Hickey, 633 Gilmour St. He was a graduate of St. Peter's High School in 1942.

In the followig September he entered St. Augustine's Seminary where he studied philosophy and theology.

At the conclusion of his philosophical course he received the degree of Bachelor of Arts from the University of Toronto.

Rev. Father Hickey is a representative in the fourth generation of a Peterborough family, long prominent in the Cathedral parish. He will celebrate his first high mass Sunday May 20 at St. Peter's at 10.30 a.m.

From Colborne Parish

Rev. Raymond Hart is a son of the late Frank Hart and Mrs. Hart of Colborne, Ont. He received his primary and secondary education in his home village, and began his studies for the priesthood at St. Augustine's Seminary. He will celebrate his first mass at St. Mary's Church, Grafton, Sunday, May 20.

Fisherman Stole Reel Fined $50 And Costs

A Toronto fisherman, Henry Stevens, pleaded guilty in police court Thursday to charge of stealing a spinning reel from the Hec Bait Co. just outside Lakefield Wednesday night.

He was fined $50 and costs.

"You can't expect a great deal of sympathy," said Magistrate W. R. Philp KC. "You come down here for fishing and are expected to conduct yourself like an ordinary citizen and instead you conduct yourself like a thief."

Provincial Constable James Healey testified that this morning he had been called to the bait shop owned by Hector Edwards.

There he learned that Stevens had come into the bait shop Wednesday night to buy some minnows. After Mr. Edwards had gone out to get the minnows and watched his customer leave, he noticed that one of his reels valued at $23.95, was missing.

Mr. Edwards searched the area because he knew Stevens was fishing in the area. Early this morning he saw the accused fishing at the power house in the village.

In a search of the car, provincial Constable George Rose found the reel under the front seat.

Rita May Hide Famous Legs

NEW YORK, May 18 —(CP)— Movie star Rita Hayworth's famous legs may have to go into hiding.

The spiritual head of the Islamic Mission of America, Shaikh Davoud Ahmed Faisal, said Wednesday that if the screen star raises her daughter Jasmin as a moslem she (Miss Hayworth) will have to veil her legs in a kamis—a loose-fitting chemise-like dress which covers about everything but the face and hands.

Miss Hayworth has announced she will seek a divorce from Prince Aly Khan and will raise their 15-month-old daughter as a Moslem. In return, the Indian prince is requested to set up a $3,000,000 trust fund for Jasmin.

If the red-haired actress brings up Yasmin as a Moslem, the Shaikh said, she must practically become a Moslem herself. That would mean Rita would also have to give up bathing suits, pork, screen kisses and cigarettes.

Royalty In Festival Colors On Opening of Big Event

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON —(CP)— In London's most glittering season since 1939, feminine eyes turn with interest to the wardrobes of the Royal Family.

Women still discuss the exact shades of blue and pink worn by feminine members of the Royal Family at the official opening ceremony of the Festival of Britain, held in St. Paul's Cathedral.

Some say it was true delphinium, others hydrangea, lilac or hyacinth. All, however, agree that the Royal choice for the opening ceremony stressed the colors of the Festival emblem—pink and blue and the delicate cross shades pertaining to these colors.

Clothing shops of all kinds, from hat shops to large departmental stores, are already playing up the Festival colors, including gold.

Seated in the cathedral the Royal party gave the impression of a blended floral display. The one outstanding difference in color, which only added to the floral theme, was in the dress of Princess Elizabeth. She wore a beautiful shade of cypress green in a tailored coat of silk faille. The dark green sheen of the silk was likened to the leaf of a young rose.

Millinery Note

Elizabeth did not, however, completely desert the pink and blue. Her close-fitting Tudor-shaped hat was piped in moss rose which toned with the ribbon backing the glittering diamond star of the Order of the Garter.

The Queen's dress and caped jacket were a deep shade of delphinium blue with fox fur, dyed to tone, dipping down the back. Her matching hat of cobweb straw was trimmed in feathers, and diamonds sparkled at her ears, wrists and in the great diamond star flashing under her cape.

Seated next to Her Majesty, Queen Mother Mary wore a paler shade of blue with pink flowers in her traditional toque bonnet. Her soft grey fox collar matched the grey of her diamond-studded parasol.

A full-skirted, tightly-waisted ribbed satin coat of pale blue shot with grey was the choice of Princess Margaret. Worn over a hyacinth-pink dress it gave a Dresden-China look that was accentuated by the bolt-upright hyacinth decorating her crochet straw hat.

Another truant from the blue and pink was the Duchess of Kent. Under a coat of snuff-brown faille she wore a champagne-colored apron-fronted silk dress and her close-fitting hat had pale fawn feathers flecked with yellow. Her daughter, the young Princess Alexandra, wore a schoolgirl's coat of kingfisher blue over a straw-colored dress.

Of Interest to Women

Cheese Cake the crust is patted into small loaf pan to line bottom and sides. The filling is poured in to fill this. Some of the crumbs should be leftover to pat over top. The cake should be firm before removing from oven. It is better when it is served cold after standing in refrigerator a few hours, and cut into small wedge-shaped pieces.

Thank you Mrs. Rudow. This is delicious. Let me help you sometime.

QUESTION: Please send me the calorie chart and other suggestions on dieting. Mrs. Henry F.

ANSWER: A new supply of calorie charts will reach me soon and I will forward one to you.

It is an easy way out to say that the extra weight we put on is from the extra food we eat and that only. This is true. But so many people are not dieticians or doctors or experienced in the art of counting calories that that statement means very little.

It is also simple to say do not eat fats or sugars or any sweets. Some people do not know what manufactured foods contain fats and sugars and other sweets.

A good rule is to tell them what they can eat—and that all other food is "verboten." Here is a list of things you can eat in any quantity:

(1) Clear soups, bouillons or tomato juice. These and unsweetened canned fruit juices are just the thing when you are so hungry you are tempted to go off the diet—especially about 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

(2) All vegetables — but no butter or gravy or sauce on them.

(3) All salad plants and tomatoes This is included in No. 2 actually but repeated so you will eat half of your vegetables raw. No mayonnaise or dressing.

(4) All lean meats, poultry, fish. These must be cooked without use of fat, and served without fat or gravy. Broil, boil or bake.

(5) Eggs: Poached or boiled only. Eat at least 1 per day. No butter.

(6) Potatoes: These are mentioned alone because there is almost no way to serve them without use of calorie-high ingredients. If you want them enough to eat them baked with skins on and flavored with salt and pepper, have one per day. One good trick is to add sprinkling of grated skim milk cheese.

(7) Drink your tea or coffee clear or with milk and no sugar.

What's Right?

You are making a telephone call.

WRONG: Start in to talk without identifying yourself.

RIGHT: Give your name before starting to talk.

Seek Ring Owner In Dominion

VANCOUVER — (CP) — Two months ago a plain gold ring arrived here, sent by a woman in London, England.

In a letter accompanying the ring a Mrs. Sheila Rands, said it had been left in her keeping by a Flying Officer, Eric W. Erickson, who valued it highly as a gift from his mother.

Mrs. Rands said that Erickson's parents, to the best of her knowledge, are retired Winnipeg people now living in British Columbia.

The ring, showing faintly the initials "S. T.", is waiting at Mayor Fred Hume's office for ex-Flying Officer Erickson to come and get it.

But so far, all efforts to locate him or his family have been fruitless.

The mayor's office said that the ring would be turned over to the police department's bureau of missing persons.

Donations for a gift to a council member now in hospital suffering from cancer were taken.

A letter from the Silver Cross Chapter of Peterborough offered support in urging the Dominion government not to proceed with certain proposals which would tend to sever Canada's ties with Britain as they are contained in resolutions from Truro Council of Women now before the National Council.

In reply, citizenship convener Mrs. E. B. McWilliams asked the presidents of affiliated societies and conveners to attend a meeting next Wednesday at the YWCA to discuss this matter.

Semi-annual meeting of Provincial Council is to be at Hamilton May 29 and 30, and the president, with Mrs. McWilliams, Mrs. F. Merrett, Mrs. A. W. Nelson and Mrs. K. Simpson are to be official delegates. A motion to pay their expenses was carried.

An executive meeting to be held at two o'clock next Wednesday at the Y will make decisions on the voting at the Provincial Council meeting. At this time, three new conveners will be named to fill the vacancies of radio, cinema and printed matter and a new convenership, recreation.

Another letter dealt with the preparation necessary in the home for the census which is to be taken shortly. The president asked the women to make sure they had details of the jobs of all members of their household.

Lawyer Gives Own Views On Economics of Taxation

Indirect taxes which are providing a far greater income to Canada's government than the sum collected in income tax from the individual who also pays the indirect tax, whether he is aware of it or not, are the object of investigation by Miss Harriet A. L. Clark, member of a Toronto law firm and first vice-president of the Toronto Women's Law Association.

"Less spending, not more and better taxes" is the slogan Miss Clark would like the Dominion government to adopt. However, she blames the people to a great extend for the increased spending each year.

Addressing the Local Council of Women Thursday evening at the YWCA she said: "We want the government to give us more in expensive, fancy function (baby bonus, old age pensions), but we don't want to pay for them." She pointed out further: "The increase for national defence is not equal to the increase which will be necessary to provide pensions to all Canadians over 70 years."

Pension Too Low

Miss Clark is not against the payment of old age pensions. She feels it is very necessary that they should be paid in some cases, but that the amount of $40 per month is very much below what is needed for decent living today. Hearty nods of agreement were given by the audience who were all housekeepers and know well how limited would be their living on such an allowance.

In the matter of baby bonuses she feels that there is too much mis-use of the money with no check being made and that parents who desire to support their children themselves and refuse the baby bonus are being unfairly treated in the payment of income tax.

"The largest number of people in Canada earning more than $10,000 a year are civil servants," Miss Clark stated. She feels the plan for taxing large incomes is wise but that it seems not a good thing to have taken income tax off small incomes for this makes people in the lower brackets inclined to demand more of the government.

The Hidden Taxes

Under the heading of "indirect taxes" Miss Clark gave detailed explanation. "Sales tax" which is carried through from the manufacturer, to the wholesaler, to the retailer, to the consumer, exempts only 95 per cent of food, fuel and building materials, but the retailer's "turnover tax" is payable on these items as well. "Pyramiding taxes" are a source of greater burden to the consumer. The businessman must pass on added taxes to the consumer for he cannot pay them otherwise, she said.

There has been consideration of allowing the provinces the right to impose indirect taxes and Miss Clark feels this would be a mistake. Excerpts from debates which she read indicated this would tend to bring unfriendliness and rivalry between the provinces. She said the "Succession Duty field" had been relinquished to the Dominion government and it is now a large source of income.

"Your government is constitutionally non-money-making and depends on you for income," Miss Clark reminded.

Study of Economics and Taxation is now being taken up by many Local Councils. The Peterborough women had specially requested a speaker on this subject for the May meeting and Miss Clark was suggested by Miss Grace Gordon of Toronto who is convener of law on the Provincial Council.

In thanking Miss Clark, Mrs. E. B. McWilliams said: "I feel we should have some capable women, possibly lawyers, in the Government. I believe they are able to spend more economically than men and have a better understanding of what is needed."

Following the meeting, tea and refreshments were served under convenership of Mrs. Allan B. Mann and Mrs. F. Merrett.

Fiance Puts Quick Damper On Sensitive Woman's Tears

DEAR MISS DIX: I am very sensitive and easily hurt, and when I am wounded I can't keep from crying. This disgusts my fiancee. He says I can keep from crying, and when I burst into tears he is very inconsiderate. I thought if he loved me he would try to comfort me instead of making things harder as he does. So I have resolved never to cry before him again even if I have to leave him abruptly when I feel I am going to weep. I know I am a cry-baby, but things pile up and up inside of me until I must have a good cry. I feel so much better afterward. I think I would be miserable if I could not cry sometimes. What do you think about it? D.M.

Dorothy Dix

Florence M. Leach R.O.
GRADUATE OPTOMETRIST
Location 406 George
3 DOORS NORTH OF HUNTER STREET ON THE EAST SIDE

ANSWER: I am no crier myself but I know lots of women who are free weepers who seem to get a great deal of pleasure out of it and who come out of a debauch of tears looking as refreshed as a flower does after a rain. No doubt a psychologist would say that crying releases some sort of a nervous tension in them and leaves them at peace with themselves and the world.

Personally, I have never had the slightest sympathy with the cry-baby woman. She has always seemed to me a weak and contemptible creature, one who sat down and howled for what she wanted until somebody gave it to her to stop her yapping; one who used her tears as a coward's weapon to keep everyone around her walking on eggs for fear of her turning on the water works.

Use Unfair Tactics

Why everybody should be so terrorized of crying women, I don't know, but they are. There is something in women's tears that just seems to melt down our backbones and make us incapable of dealing with the weeper as we should. Millions of women have used tears as an excuse for their shiftlessness and laziness. They just sat down before a hard job and cried until somebody did their work for them.

I can but congratulate your fiance, though, on his farsightedness in putting a damper on your tears instead of encouraging them. It is the only way he can save himself from a lifetime of slavery to a woman who can never be treated like a rational human being and who will always have to be coddled and spoiled in every way to keep her from dissolving in tears.

And that gets pretty tiresome as the years go by, for the weeping woman, as Mr. Mantilini in Dickens' story used to say, is "a demmed, moist, unpleasant body." As your boy friend appears to be of the same opinion you are wise to decide to do your crying in private. Only that will take all the pep out of it because weepers weep to be seen and made much of.

DEAR MISS DIX: My mother and father go somewhere nearly every night. My two younger sisters and myself are left alone constantly. We have asked them not to leave us alone but they don't pay any attention. What should we do? ALICE.

ANSWER: It beats me how far some parents will go to ask for trouble. And they're the very ones to scream loudest when their children begin stepping out every night. I grant that parents should have some social life of their own, but while children are small enough to need supervision, they should not be left alone with too much frequency. Of course, if very young they should not be left alone at all.

Even older children need the companionship of their parents, and as the father usually is not home during the day, some evenings of the week surely should be set aside for family discussions, conferences or just plain sociability. Try pointing some of these things out to your father and mother, Alice, and see if you can't make them see some sense to your viewpoint.

DEAR MISS DIX: We fell madly in love when we first met. He told me he was married, but that he would ask his wife for his freedom, which he did. His wife graciously consented to divorce him because she said that was the only decent thing to do. I expected him to leave her immediately and so did she, but he has not done it. I am beginning to wonder if this man is really worth while and if there is a chance of his growing tired of me some day and leaving me for another woman. It could happen again, you know. Besides, his wife is a lovely woman in every respect and I wonder how he could prefer me to her. I love him more than life itself, or else I wouldn't be letting myself in for such a mess. But is he worth it? PORTIA.

ANSWER: He certainly doesn't look it. A man who leaves a fine wife for no cause at all except that he is fickle, is not likely to be faithful to any woman. The girl who marries him takes a long shot at happiness.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Suggest Some Tasty Dishes For Girls With Small Grills

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer ....

Live if you must in a two-room flat but that doesn't mean you have to get all your meals in restaurants.

It's possible to cook some mighty tasty dishes on a two-burner grill and the National Health Department has put out a booklet to show you how to do it—nutritiously.

In "Meals for One Or Two," the department has listed the equipment necessary for the makeshift kitchenette. It also trots out some hints on how to cut down on the housekeeping bill.

Covered jars are best for staple goods—these could be old tobacco or candy tins painted over.

A pressure-cooker saves time and heat.

In the food line salads are cheap and easy to arrange. The department suggests: grated carrot and cabbage; tomato, lettuce and green pepper; spinach leaves, cabbage and radish slices; celery, cabbage and raisins; orange and grapefruit sections, chopped apples and sliced bananas.

Suggestions for desserts: pudding; such as rice and tapioca served plain or with fruit flavors; gelatine desserts such as plain jellies, fruit jellies (when almost set fold in fruit).

Buying For Two

When shopping for two you can count on two servings from half a pound of cold sliced meat; three fish, fruits and vegetables.

Three servings from half a pound of cold sliced meat; three to four servings from half a pound of cottage cheese; four to five servings from a 20-ounce can of fruit, vegetables or juice.

You can count on six to seven servings from a 28-ounce can of tomatoes; 24 to 28 slices from a 24-ounce loaf of bread.

This is asparagus time and home economists of the consumer section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, recommend buying only asparagus that's a good green color. It also should be crisp and moist.

Asparagus may be served hot with a cheese sauce, a cream sauce or just with a little lemon-butter. If any of the stalks are left over they are excellent cut up in salads. Asparagus sandwiches, either rolled or plain, also are tasty.

Quickbreads—tea biscuits, muffins and so on—can be tasty or they can be otherwise. It all depends on the way you make them. Home economists of the agriculture department's consumer section have come up with a four-point suggestion for assuring that they turn out the way you want them to.

1. Use a reliable recipe and follow it carefully.

2. Use good quality ingredients and unless the recipe says to have them hot or cold, use them at room temperature.

3. Follow the mixing directions carefully.

4. Bake in a well regulated oven

And, finally, serve quickbreads dripping with butter, honey, maple syrup or jam. Makes your mouth water thinking about it, eh?

As we treasure the image of you.
—Ever remembered by daughters Edith, son-in-law John and grandchildren.

GUNN—In loving memory of my dear husband, Daniel Gunn, who passed away five years ago today.
The world may change from year to year,
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one I loved
From memory pass away.
—Ever remembered by his wife, Rose.

HARPER—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Norman Harper, who passed away one year ago today.
Gone into that light that shines so fair,
Gone from the earth of sorrows and care;
Resting those hands that toiled their best—
Gone dear dad, gone to rest.
—Ever remembered by his wife and daughters.

VOLLANS—In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Joseph Vollans, who passed away May 18, 1950.
One year has passed, dear father,
Since you were called away,
How well do I remember
That sad and weary day.
You suffered much you murmured not,
We watched you day by day,
We cried and prayed that your dear life,
Would not be taken away.
—Ever remembered by his children and grandchildren.

VOLLANS—In loving memory of my dear husband, Joseph Vollans, who passed away one year ago today.
God called him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts we love him still;
His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away.
We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
—Sadly missed by his wife.

4 MEN BURIED IN DEBRIS IN BUILDING

SEVENTH FIRE IN SEVEN DAYS broke out at 5:30 a.m. today at the rear of Agnew-Surpass store in the Zacks block on George St. between Hunter and Simcoe Sts. The flames leaped the building firewall and spread north into the top of the Braund block next door and did considerable water damage to the IOOF Hall, a stock market, dentist's, insurance and law offices. Also damaged by water and smoke were street-level stores, clothing, dry goods, book store and drug store. Estimated fire damage to the business blocks at press time was $350,000 but water damage was not included in this figure.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

7 Firemen Caught Roof Cave-In

Two Upper Floors Collapse On Men Working Underneath

Seven firemen and volunteers were buried under a pile of debris as two charred upper floors cracked and fell from above to where they were working on the ground floor of what appeared to be the Ed Riley store at 10:15 a.m.

They were George Reynolds, fireman, 316 King St., Orville Rome, fireman, 308 Margaret Ave., Earl Spencely, florist, Lansdowne St., west; Grover Deck, 516 Wolfe St.; A. Vinette, 56 River Road fireman, Peter D. Nicholson, 745 Water St., and Harold Black.

With that sudden turn of events, this morning's fire took its first casualties, the full extent of which could not be immediately determined. However at 11.30 four had been removed with Rome, Spencley and Deck still believed in the building.

"I'm afraid their chances are slim," was the opinion of Fire Chief George Smith expressed to the Examiner at 11.30 a.m. today as to the fate of the three firemen who were buried in a collapse of a east-west firewall and burned timbers of second and third floor in this morning's down town fire.

The men who were believed to be hopelessly trapped are: Orville Rome. Grover Deck, George Reynolds and Earl Spencley, a volunteer helper, but Chief Smith said he had heard one report that Spencley had got out.

Several of the firemen working from a roof said they had seen the men on the ground floor, and had shouted to them when they saw the tall firewall beginning to wave as if about to fall.

The crash carried through to the basement, evidently crushing the men beneath the pile of debris as it settled in the basement.

Believing the fire was fairly well under control, firemen and volunteer fighters had entered the Riley store about 10:15, then the ceiling gave way, pinning the men to the floor with plaster and structure timber.

The 3,000 spectators on the street fell back quickly as the ceiling hit the floor, the concussion throwing the glass clear across the street. The models in the window dropped over as though they were people dead or injured.

Then other firemen, dazed for a second, raced into the building. The crowd was hushed, realizing that the men were trapped under the debris.

Surrounded by grimy firemen the first firefighter came staggering out of the store. He was Bob Webb, 698 George St., a volunteer fighter. Badly bruised and shocked he managed to breath out, "Boy, was I lucky."

Wanting to walk away on his own, Webb was practically carried by first aid women, firemen and spectators to a waiting am-

Report $300,000 Damage As Fire Sweeps George St. Business Block

Early estimates of damage by the fire that swept through a George St. business block this morning placed the loss at about $300,000. A total loss is the building that houses Tip Top Tailors, Pulver's, Agnew-Surpass and Ed Riley's. Damaged on the fourth floor is the building housing Elliott's drug store, Dickson's dry goods, and Deyell's stationery store. Harry Zacks is owner of the gutted building and the corner building is owned by the Braund estate. The fire was first reported at 5:30 a.m. after Constable Douglas Farthing, patrolling the lane behind the buildings, saw a second-storey window blow out. Smoke and flames spewed out into the alley and up the walls.

Cause Unknown

Cause of the fire is unknown. It is believed to have started near the elevator shaft at the rear of the Zacks building. Flames shooting up the elevator shaft set the upper storeys on fire.

The fire got into the Braund building by leaping a firewall about an hour after the fire was first reported.

Heavy Explosions

At about 6.45 a.m., a series of heavy explosions rocked the buildings, showering glass and burning particles of wood into the faces of firemen on the aerial ladder.

Thick, greyish-yellow smoke poured out of the front and rear of the Zacks building. From points of land around the city, a three-mile-long pall of the smoke could be seen moving slowly from the centre of the town to the north-west part of the city.

After the flames leaped the firewall into the Braund building, small flames danced under the north eaves and dense smoke swirled out through cracks in the windows and woodwork.

Flames 20 Ft. High

Three-quarters of an hour later the first large flames shot about 20 feet out of a window in the top floor of the Braund building on the north side.

From George St., damage to the Zacks building seemed to be confined to the upper two storeys. But from the rear of the building, it could be seen that only a shell remained.

On the streets police spread ropes along the parking meters to hold the crowds back. Hunter St. between Water and Aylmer Sts., was roped off, and George

Salvation Army Out On Job With Coffee To Help Weary Firemen Battling Flames

Hard-working firemen battling the George St. fire this morning got welcome relief from three Salvation Army workers bringing coffee and sandwiches around.

The busiest was Bill Parsons, who carried gallon jugs of coffee up ladders and even up to the roof. Working with him were Major Cyril Everitt and Mrs. Everitt.

The Salvation Army workers estimated that about 300 to 400 cups of coffee were drunk and and unknown quantity of sandwiches eaten.

As early as 6 a.m., half an hour after the fire was first reported, a crowd estimated at 1,000 had gathered. By press time, the number had swollen to about 7,000.

Overhead, a single-engined light plane and a twin-engined airplane circled, with news photographers taking pictures for Toronto newspapers.

On Hunter St., a smiling six-year-old achieved a dream he'd had for some time. He was sitting at the wheel of one of the ladder trucks, playing fireman with real equipment.

Embattled US Division Withdraws, Fights Way Out Of Trap

TOKYO, May 19. (AP)—A regiment of the embattled United States 2nd Division withdrew today under heavy Communist attacks on the flaming central Korean front. The division had fought out of a Communist trap Friday and killed 10,000 Reds. There was no fresh word from the critical eastern front where Reds surged south through a gap in United Nations lines. The Red chain-reaction offensive spread Saturday to the western front. A battalion of Communists attacked South Korean troops northwest of Seoul. It was the strongest Communist attack in weeks in that area.

However, a US Eighth Army briefing officer sounded the first optimistic note since the second Red spring offensive broke four days ago.

"The situation is shaping up," he said.

A Chinese patrol of 10 or 15 men ran into barbed wire Saturday morning on Seoul's outer defence perimeter. The patrol was fired on immediately.

Heavy Pressure

An Eighth Army briefer said the 2nd Division regiment fell back before "heavy pressure" from Chinese who slipped through a gap left by a South Korean withdrawal on the second's right.

Nothing was heard from the South Korean division, crumpled by the Reds on the first day of their drive.

An officer said this could be explained by the fact that most communications have been disrupted in the Allied withdrawal and by the fierce battles along the front.

The 2nd Division was bearing the brunt of a Communist drive for the fifth time in the war.

Get Through Mine Field

A US army task force operating in the same area broke through a Communist minefield and poured tank and [illegible] fire at the Communists. There were no further details.

Tornado Kills 2 100 Injured

OLNEY, Tex., May 18—(AP)—A vicious tornado slashed through this north Texas town of 5,000 yesterday, killing two persons and injuring 100 others.

Homes and businesses destroyed or damaged totalled about 300, said Mayor E. C. Hallman.

S. Richardson, city utility supervisor, made a tentative estimate of $1,000,000 damage, but said he had heard estimates up to $3,000,000.

A late count showed 18 persons still in the hospital with fractured bones and lacerations. Three were seriously hurt.

Only a few sections had electricity. Gas was turned off to prevent fires from leaking mains.

3 Bombs Explode In Tripoli Parade

TRIPOLI, Libya, May 19 (Reuters). — A bomb exploded today as Mohammed Idris El Senussi, Emir of Cyrenaica, drove through the streets in a ceremonial parade. Two more bombs exploded an hour after he had passed.

Three spectators were reported wounded.

Authorities said the bombs were planted by political parties opposed to the federation of Tripolitania, Cyrenaica and the Fezzan, scheduled for January.

When the federation takes place the Emir will become King of the new Libyan state.

Telegraphers End Stoppage

NEW YORK, May 19 —(CP)— Work stoppages which have tied up Western Union's telegraph operations in six key areas appeared ended today.

Most workers were back at their jobs in Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Boston and Buffalo. Members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union (AFL) at Detroit and the San Francisco-Oakland area had voted to return.

The men have pulled work stoppages since last Wednesday in protest against a management program of training non-union supervisory employees in operating jobs.

The company has agreed to postpone the program, which it called a routine system of making executive and supervisory personnel familiar with new mechanical techniques.

The union said it was an attempt to train the non-

Truman Makes Unity Appeal

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP) —President Truman's new appeal for national unity in the face of the MacArthur controversy was ranged today alongside a Republican Senator's "whitewash" charge against Democrats.

Truman declared Friday night that "we are in the midst of one of the greatest crises this country has ever faced." He added that unless the free countries successfully meet the challenge, "The casualties in Korea will be one small drop in the bucket" compared to those "from one of those horrible [illegible] much about."

That was an obvious allusion to what the President feels would happen if an atomic attack was loosen against the United States and its allies.

Bid For Unity

Truman bid for unity in a brief informal speech at a National Armed Forces Day dinner here.

At the same time, Defence Secretary Marshall said the Allied forces in Korea "have dissipated the defeatism of a year ago," and have given new life to the UN, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and the free world generally.

Neither the President nor Marshall made any mention of Truman't dismissal of Gen. MacArthur from his Pacific command.

A few hours before the President spoke, Senator Alexander Wiley (Rep. Wis.) had charged that a majority of the Senate Committee investigating dismissal of MacArthur has "a frantic desire to cover up and whitewash."

Wiley set forth the contention in a letter to Senator Richard B. Russell (Dem. Ga.), chairman of the combined Senate Armed Forces and Foreign Relations Committees conducting the inquiry.

British Note Warns Shah Of Serious Consequences

LONDON, May 19. (AP) — Britain warned Iran today that failure to negotiate a new oil agrement would have "the most - serious consequences."

In a firm note delivered to the Iranian foreign minister in Tehran today, she said that one-sided action by Iran to take over Britain's giant oil concessions "could not fail to gravely impair" friendly relations between the two countries.

She offered to send a mission immediately to Tehran to negotiate a new agreement.

The Foreign Office released the text of the note soon after Am- [illegible] delivered it.

The note said the British government still hopes the oil problem can be settled by negotiation and it added: "The interests of His Majesty's government and the Anglo-Iranian Company (which holds the Iranian concessions) in this matter are identical."

Iran has passed legislation through parliament which in effect already has nationalized all foreign-owned oil-development projects in the country.

Strongly Portested

Britain already has strongly protested against Iran's parliamentary action.

The British note argued that, because the government owns a majority of the shares in the Anglo-Iranian oil company, Britain has "the fullest right to protect its interests" in every way she properly can.

Then it added that Britain would have an unanswerable right under international law to take up the case and, if [illegible] it expedient, to bring their complaint against the Iranian government before the International Court of Justice at The Hague.

In that contingency, they would hope that the Iranian government would collaborate in enabling the Town Too Hot For Him Wants To Live, Will Move

BENTON, Tenn., May 19 (AP)—A haggard, life-long resident says he is planning to sell his business and leave Benton as soon as possible.

"I'm getting tired of dodging every time a car passes," he told a reporter. "When I leave Polk county, I'm going to wash my hair, my clothes, my car and my shoes. And I never want to see this place again."

He is another victim of jitters resulting from a political war which has destroyed government as an operating agency in Polk. And in this mountainous southeast Tennessee section, politics has come to involve not only government but personal and immediate safety.

Four deaths in less than three months have been attributed to conflict between the Democrats and bipartisan Good Government League. Tension has reached a new high since the ambush slaying of Democrat leader W. A. Lewis May 11.

Sheriff John Edwards slept in the jail this week. "A man's family is safe if he's not there," he told a reporter. Edwards, a GGL leader, is directing a search for Lewis' slayer.

Predictions are made freely that other slayings will result from the conflict. Shades are drawn at night and rifles are kept within easy reach since Lewis was shot down in the yard of his home.

Believe Walsh To Get Brigade

OTTAWA, May 19 — (CP). — Present indications are that command of Canada's new 27th Brigade will go to a 41-year-old engineer, Brig. Geoffrey Walsh, CBE, DSO, of St. Catharines. He is a tall, dark husky veteran of 21 years' army service.

The brigade is being mustered around the framework of 42 reserve force units and is primarily slated for service in Europe as part of Canada's Atlantic Pact contribution.

It needs between 5,500 and 6,500 men for the brigade itself, and will need almost as many more as rotational replacements. [illegible] announcement of Brig. Walsh's appointment probably would be followed by a [illegible] tour to stimulate recruiting.

There also have been reports that one of the three infantry battalions will be commanded by Lt.-Col. John K. Mahoney, VC, 39, of New Westminster, BC, who has been director of Army Public Relations for a couple of years.

In the cases of all the top commands it is believed the government has been waiting to see if qualified officers would offer from the reserve force.

Says Women Talk Too Much On Phone

CHICAGO, May 19 (AP) — Most women talk too much on the telephone, Judge John T. Zuris agreed with Steve Kenyeri, 36, Friday.

Kenyeri was in domestic relations court on complaint of his wife Sophie, 31, that he struck her. Kenyeri said he had protested their telephone bill was too high.

"I have the same trouble with my wife," Judge Zuris said. "But no husband can tell his wife how much she can talk."

The judge added he didn't think such matters should cause any marital rifts.

Nehru Defends Press Controls

NEW DELHI, May 19. [illegible] — Prime Minister Nehru today defended a bill to widen controls over freedom of expression saying the government believes firmly in freedom the press.

Nehru said there is no question of using the proposed controls to stop criticism of other countries. The proposed controls give the government the right to intervene in the interests of "public order" or on the behalf of friendly relations with foreign states.

The prime minister questioned whether freedom of the press is extensive in India now "when huge press chains spring up preventing all individual freedom of the press and when practically all the press is controlled by three or four groups of individuals."

The bill was referred to a parliamentary committee which will make its report on the measure May 23.

It has been attacked by Indian newspapers and today the All-India newspaper editors meet here to discuss it.

The editors' main objection is that its terms are too vague, and that it would give parliament excessive powers to legislate against freedom of speech and expression, particularly where the press is concerned.

Sleeper Awakened By Smell Of Smoke

Awakened when smoke caused him to cough violently time after time, Philip Gallagher jumped from his bed shortly after 5:30 a.m. today to rush his family from the Zacks building.

Occupying an apartment at the rear of the building on the second floor Gallagher then heard the windows blowing out into the alley at the back and firemen began to pound on the door.

He rushed his wife and child out the front door along with Miss Irene Conroy, who has an apartment on the same floor.

Thinking of his new furniture, a stove, refrigerator and washing machine, Gallagher went back into the apartment to rescue some. But by this time the smoke filled the rooms and he was forced to flee out a rear window and down a fireman's ladder.

By this time the flames were licking at the rear of Ed Riley's store and were starting to creep up the wall by the chimney.

United States Tells Soviet To Keep Hands Off Iran

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER.

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP) —A clearly-implied warning to Russia to steer clear of the British-Iranian oil dispute as an excuse for moving into Iran was seen today by diplomatic authorities in an American statement urging a friendly settlement of the controversy.

The statement was issued by the State Department last night and supported "a sincere desire on the part of the British to negotiate with the Iranians on all outstanding issues."

At the same time it called on both countries to "avoid intimidation and threats of unilateral action" as means of trying to force the settlement.

May Pull Out

Further, the United States told Iran that American oil companies have told the government they would not be willing to operate the Iranian fields in the event the Iranians forced the British operating company out.

The statement concluded:

"The United States has repeatedly expressed its great interest in the continued independence and territorial integrity of Iran and has given and will continue to give concrete evidence of this interest."

Diplomatic authorities said Iran's independence and territorial integrity are not involved in the dispute between Iran and Britain, but conceivably could be threatened by Russia if the situation developed to an extreme point

CHEX To Broadcast Talks Introducing Peterborough

Beginning Monday May 21 and continuing until Saturday, radio station CHEX is broadcasting daily from 1 to 1.15 p.m. a series of community sketches introducing six Peterboroughs to one another.

The script message from Peterborough, New Hampshire, will be heard on Tuesday in that quarter-hour; Peterborough, England, Wednesday; Peterborough Ontario on Thursday, May 24.

The others are: Peterborough, New York; and two Peterboroughs in Australia.

These towns and cities of the same name are united not only nominally, but also through their common language and inheritance. There is also a link of kinship which should be stimulated by this enterprise of Carleton A. Wheeler of Peterborough, N.H., who conceived the interchange of greetings and introductions.

Originate in Boston

They are originating from the short-wave station WRUL in Boston, and are being rebroadcast from this city through the co-operation of Russell A. Baer, manager of CHEX, and also with help of city clerk E. A. Outram, who prepared the script delineating Peterborough, Ontario.

The preface to the series by Mr. Wheeler on Monday is in itself an interesting account of one man's efforts in bringing six Peterborough's more closely together in awareness of each other and in sentiment, apart from other work he has carried on in creating better understanding among communities and their people.

He first developed a weekly program known as "World Youth Speaks," which continued for five years.

Heard Around World

To quote his reference to that work: "It was an avocation that proved to have all the interest I had looked forward to in entering upon the adventure. Heard around the world, and productive of listener letters from the remotest corners of civilization, it kept us all on our toes, and it resulted in the formation of pen-pal groups, some of which I know to be continuing to the present moment."

Mr. Wheeler retired from the teaching staff of Tufts College, five miles from Boston, in 1943, but had to wait eight years "before an opportunity came to profit by the facilities and purpose of WRUL, owned by the World Wide Broadcasting Foundation, a non-profit institution dedicated to enlightenment."

The inception of the present series of Peterborough programs is mentioned herewith: "When last January, manager of Wyman Holmes of the Boston office of WRUL, came to Peterborough, NH, at my invitation, to speak on 'Radio and Public Opinion,' to our Peterborough Maymen's League, I was moved to suggest that I would be glad to help arrange a broadcast exchange between Peterborough, NH, and Peterborough, England.

"I was the more ready to suggest this project, as we had been informed in Mr. Holmes' talk that WRUL was at the time arranging such an exchange between Salem, Mass., and Salem, England. Mr. Holmes was hospitable to my suggestion, knowing of my former connection with the station, and receiving from me the assurance that I would arrange all the details."

Reviews Results

Mr. Wheeler reviews the results of his communications with the Peterboroughs other than his own town in New Hampshire.

Of this city he says: "Our town clerk, Algie Holt, was acquainted with city clerk E. A. Outram, who was at once interested, and has fully maintained operations in Canada.

"One of our leading citizens was acquainted with a former resident of Peterboro, NY. Efforts to locate him were without result, so I wrote the postmaster there. The daughter of the postmistress, Miss Vivian Gough, took up willingly the task of bringing her Peterboro (spelled without the 'ugh') into line with the rest of us, and has done her full duty."

Mr. Wheeler devoted considerable time to the active response he has received from Peterborough, England.

Incidentally, Mayor M. J. Swanston may succeed in expanding the relations between three or four of those communities. With the authority of the city council, he has already written the mayor of Peterborough, England, inviting him to the opening of the new city hall here. In a reply this week, Mayor-Elect Chamberlain gratefully accepted, and wrote that his wife, the mayoress, would probably accompany him.

It is likely, too, that the mayor of Peterborough, NH, will also be invited.

Police Capture 3 Escaped County Jail

Like To Talk It Over

But, the note said, Britain would prefer to talk the whole thing over.

The British note—drafted after talks with the United States—asserted that the government has never disputed Iran's rights to nationalize commercial enterprises. It added, however, that "the essential point is that the Persian (Iranian) government, in effect, undertook to exercise this right and the real issue is therefore the wrong done if a Sovereign state breaks a contract which it deliberately made."

Earlier it was reported that Premier Mohammed Mossadegh had refused to see Shepherd or accept the note.

After a 35-minute conference with Foreign Minister Bagher Kazemi, the British envoy drove to the Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi's palace, presumably to inform the ruler of Britain's stand.

St., between Simcoe and Brock Sts.

Injured Early

Two firemen—assistant chief Virgil Carr and Hubert Kennedy—were injured fighting the fire. Carr suffered a rupture when a hose got out of control, and Kennedy suffered a broken heel bone when he slipped climbing a ladder.

Constable Farthing said he was patrolling the alleyway at the rear of the building at 5.30 when a window blew out and "flames shot right up the wall".

After turning in the alarm, the officer went to the front of the building and woke up two couples in the apartments at the front of Zacks' building.

"One elderly lady thought I was kidding," said the constable, "and she went right back to sleep. I just about knocked the door off waking her the second time. I don't know any of their names."

Individual Estimates

Individual estimates of damage ranged from $21,000 to $70,000. Fred Pulver, manager of the ladies' wear store, placed his damage at the highest figure.

Ed Riley placed his loss at about $50,000. He said it was far from being all insured. Furniture stored in the Zacks building by Ben Schwartz was destroyed. It's value was set at between $25,000 and $30,000.

Value of stock in the Agnew-Surpas store was estimated at $30,000.

Store owner Fred Pulver complained that police failed to notify him of the fire. "Why, people two blocks away from the fire were called at six this morning. I wasn't notified until after seven, and then it wasn't the police who called," he said.

Whole Department Out

All members of the fire department were on the job, working with two ladder trucks and three pumpers.

Volunteers Plentiful

Volunteers from the crowd were plentiful, and they aided firemen hauling hose. One of the most energetic was Fred Rathburn, who heard reports of the fire over the radio at 6.30 a.m. He came immediately to help.

From then until press time at least, he worked steadily, chopping holes in the roof for hose to go through, and playing one line of water on the fire. Firemen said he was as much help as several men.

Tenants In Building

Tenants in the Zacks building are: First floor, Agnew-Surpass, Ed Riley's, Pulver's, Tip Top Tailors; second floor, Dr. E. M. Crough, Merton Storey, real estate; Personal Finance Company; two apartments; storage space; third and fourth floors storage space.

Tenants in the Braund building which was damaged by fire and water in the attic and slightly water-damaged on the third floor; Deyell's book store, Dickson's dry goods; Elliott's drug store, Sands and Bateman, Jim Merrett's tobacco shop; second floor, Canada Life, Gordon and Lillico, Dr. R. A. Sheehy, Biggar and Crawford, Canadian Institute for the Blind, Ed Faux; third floor, IOOF rooms; fourth floor, attic.

supposed to have the right to send troops into the country in the event a third country should send troops to use Iran as a base against Russia.

The extreme situation which Washington now hopes will not arise might develop if Iranian popular excitement over the oil nationalization issue led to rioting in which British lives were lost. In that event Britain conceivably would use force to protect their nationals. The Russians then might put their own forces into Iran, claiming that such action was warranted by their treaty arrangements.

He managed a grin for The Examiner reporter, a friend, and then told his story:

"We were taking away parts of the ceiling to play the hose on the burning parts when suddenly the roof fell in. Beams fell along with the plaster. I dove or tripped and luckily landed under a platform or selling case."

Calls were sent out immediately for ambulances and doctors. Fireman Vinette was the first man carried out of the smoke and tangled ruin of the block of stores. He was almost unrecognizable in sot and grime on his face as he was laid on an ambulance. He asked for a cigarette, and was hurried to an ambulance through the rear lane leading to Hunter Street.

Vinette did not appear to be seriously hurt. Robert Webb had made his own way out of the building before him. Peter D. Nickolson, fireman, was also brought out and taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Fate of the men who were caught under that collapse of the floors was obscured in the anxiety of the first attempts at rescue.

Garnet Brown and Joe McDonald, two of the firemen, hesitated to express an opinion from what they had seen of the pile-up.

Third Floor Dropped

Brown's first action was to order a dozen pairs of leather gloves and shovels for a swift attack on the pile-up of burnt beams and other debris.

Chief George Smith said he was coming down a stair between the first and second floors when he heard the loud crack from above Apparently part of the third floor dropped, and carried through the second.

Robert Reynolds a volunteer was carried out at 10.34. Firemen and police in the rear lane were struggling under the menace of towering and weakened three-storey walls. Police Constable H. Mesley cleared the lane of spectators, leaving only firemen and several doctors.

Crash of a second wall occurred at 10.45. There were then ten or twelve men working in the interior. First victim of that crash to be helped was Fireman Vic Barry. When he was being placed on a stretcher, he said: "Go back; the other fellows are still in there."

A young volunteer bleeding profusely at the mouth was the next of the injured removed to hospital. He was caught in the second crash.

By 11 a.m. eight fireman and a volunteer helper had been admitted to the two city hospitals.

In Civic, with injuries received when trapped by the crumbling roof were:

7th Youth Arrested In Rape of Girl, 16

TORONTO, May 19—(CP)—A seventh suspect was arrested late Friday in connection with an attack on a 16-year-old salesgirl Tuesday night in west-end Willowdale park.

Robert Blair, 21, was charged with rape as detectives pressed a search for several youths still sought in the case.

Five others, aged from 14 to 16, are held without bail on a charge of rape. Another, aged 16, has been charged as a material witness and released on bail.

The pretty blonde girl said she was stripped and raped by 11 youths while her 12-year old sister was kept from making any outcry.

Hint US To Aid Chinese People

NEW YORK, May 19—(AP)— Dean Rusk, Assistant Secretary of State, hinted Friday night that the United States would aid the Chinese people in any revolt against their "colonial Russian government."

The state department's Far Eastern chief also pledged continued aid to the Chinese Nationalists, but he warned that such American assistance in itself would not decide the future of China.

"The decision and the effort are for the Chinese people," Rusk said, "pooling their efforts, wherever they are, in behalf of China."

Rusk spoke at the 25th annual dinner of the China Instituute. Another speaker, Ambassador John Foster Dulles, backed Rusk's stand and said the Kremlin has been using China as a puppet to win South Korea as a strategic base against Japan. He vowed that Communist Mao Tse-tung would have no voice in framing the Japanese treaty, which Dulles is negotiating.

Douglas also pictured the Peiping regime as a Russian "puppet" and called for American aid to both the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa and the guerrillas on the mainland.

Rusk said the United States recognizes the Nationalist regime, although its territory is restricted, because "it more authentically represents the views" of a China demanding "independence from foreign control."

Canadian Soldiers In Korea May Get Tax Exemption

OTTAWA, May 19. (CP)—Tax exemptions for Canada's fighting men in Korea—or comparable fiscal concessions—were proposed in the Commons again yesterday. Finance Minister Abbott cooked a sympathetic ear. The Finance Minister said he still is against over-all tax exemptions for the boys in Korea because he considers the exemptions unfair and inequitable. But he promised to discuss with officials various suggestions—ranging from foreign-service pay to an additional $1,000 income-tax exemption. He indicated a government decision will be made shortly.

The debate came as the House studied Mr. Abbott's budgetary tax-resolutions. The resolutions were passed and the budget bills themselves—on which Mr. Abbott said any changes decided on could be made—were introduced and given first reading.

Public Support

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, generally supported tax exemptions for the men in Korea. Because a private would benefit to the extent of $6.85 a month compared to $142 by a brigadier was not a valid argument.

John Diefenbaker (PC, Lake Centre) said the government already has set a precedent for giving allowances to members of the External Affairs Department serving abroad. Tax exemptions for the troops now in Korea would not cost more than $1,000,000 a year.

Clarie Gillis (CCF, Cape Brenton South) said $6.85 a month is a lot of money to a private "and a lot of beer."

He joined others in suggesting the men in Korea be given another $1,000 a year exemption from income tax in addition to existing $1,000 basic exemption for single men and $2,000 for married men.

Tom Goode (L, Burnaby-Richmond) said it was a matter of morale. No matter what the government did it should not take $6.85 a month from the privates fighting in Korea.

Others who joined in the plea for some concession included Victor Quelch (SC, Acadia), Percy Wright (CCF, Melfort) and H. W. Herridge (CCF, Kootenay West). J. L. MacDougall (L, Vancouver-Burrard) said he didn't think Korean-bound troops objected to paying income tax. It didn't "mean tuppence" to them.

Mr. Abbott said he thought "the suggestion I have been hinting at, of some form of combat pay or foreign-service pay, would probably be considerably more expensive from the point of view of the treasury."

"But I suggest that they are infinitely fairer than this haphazard impact of a general exemption of service pay and allowances either for overseas service or otherwise."

Toronto Group, Shaw Play Draw Praise

LONDON, Ont., May 19 — (CP)—A lengthy Shavian drama reaped an adjudicator's praise in the Dominion Drama Festival last night.

The play — "In Good King Charles' Golden Days"—was produced by Toronto's University Alumnae Dramatic Club, described by adjudicator Jose Ruben as a good company in which the actors "play well together."

The New York Theatre expert praised the work of Director Herbert Whittaker. He said the latter, who is drama critic for the Toronto Globe and Mail, saw to it that the mood of the play was reflected intelligently and in a clean-cut manner.

Of the play itself, Adjudicator Ruben said "no one could be as endless as Mr. George Bernard Shaw." As a dramatist he was "quite a problem" because he ignored the fact "the day has only 24 hours and not all of them can be devoted to seeing his plays."

Charles II

Some 1,200 persons saw the three-hour production which, as a slice of 17th-century English history, brings in personalities known in court circles at the time of the "Merry Monarch," Charles II.

The play was the sixth in the week-long competition which will wind up tonight when competing troupes will learn where they stand. Announcement of the winner of the coveted Bessborough Trophy—for the best production—will follow on the heels of the final entry in the festival, Sean O'Casey's "Juno and the Paycock." This will be presented by Welland (Ont.) Little Theatre Players.

Charlottetown Little Theatre Club will produce Patterson Green's "Papa Is All" at the matinee.

Heavy drama rather than comedy has been the tone of the 1951 festival in which Canadian-written works have been conspicuous by their absence.

Short Putt Never Sinks So Always Hit Ball

By JIM FERRIER
Former PGA Champion

A thing to make sure of in putting is the position of the putter blade.

Keep it square with the desired line of putt.

Bring the club back and then, holding steady all the time, let it drop with its own force.

The [illegible] of ha[illegible] same arc as [illegible]

Make sure that you hit the ball parallel to the ground.

Do not hit down on it or lift it.

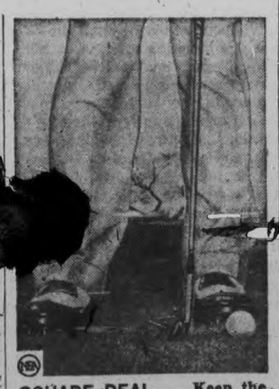
The stroke merely is a pattern of hand-and-arm action to control the path of the club.

As in all good strokes in golf and other sports, follow through completely on a straight line toward the hole or on your line of putt.

Don't be afraid of hitting your ball. That's the idea in putting. A putt that's short of the hole never has a chance to go in.

Be careful of going too far past the cup, especially on a downhill putt, but always play for a hole-in-one when you're on the green.

Consider the lie.



Decide the approximate force to use.

Hold your position until the shot is completely away.

Use only your arms and hands to execute the stroke.

Hit the ball. Don't push or baby it.

With the application of the correct principles and enough practice, every golfer should be able to putt like a champion.

SQUARE DEAL — Keep the putter blade square with the desired line of putt.

Mediterranean Mystery

Several reports in the news recently have dealt with a matter regarded as a mystery by observers in the three nations in the eastern Mediterranean area. The three nations are Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia. The mystery is one of United States foreign policy, and it is found in a contrast.

* * *

The United States is pouring billions into western Europe to create a pool of little more than forty divisions, to counter the threat of Soviet aggression there. Judging from the rate of progress to date, it would seem that 1953 or 1954 is the earliest date the completion of such a force could be expected. To meet even that deadline there must be sharply accelerated progress in the near future, and before that can be accomplished somewhat reluctant governments and indifferent peoples in some western European nations must be aroused to action.

* * *

In contrast, a potential fighting force of approximately seventy divisions exists at the eastern end of the Mediterranean. This is composed of the armies of Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia. The willingness and ability of these forces to fight is unquestioned. It would not be necessary to pour out billions to prepare them as highly effective defence forces in the event of Communist aggression. That could be accomplished by an arms program which would be inexpensive in comparison with that proposed for western Europe, and by a strengthened diplomatic alliance.

* * *

There have been reasons, of course, for hesitation in developing an arms program for these nations and extending North Atlantic Treaty organizations alliance to embrace them. For that matter, there is said to be opposition in all three countries, in varying degree to proposals of membership in the Atlantic alliance. Among some members of the Atlantic Pact there is a feeling that reaching out to the eastern end of the Mediterranean might prove a hazardous expansion of the common defence area. In addition, there is, in the case of Yugoslavia, a lingering reluctance to help build up the armed might of a former ally of the Soviet Union. There appears to be nothing to justify this reluctance, yet it remains.

* * *

Nevertheless, it cannot be forgotten that the western democracies, including the United States, have compiled an unfortunate record of losing ground in many areas throughout the world because of inaction or inadequate action. The eastern Mediterranean could become another such area if nothing is done to bolster the armament programs of the three nations mentioned above, and if nothing is done to unite them to make a strong defensive force, fitted in some manner into the system for western security. It is not contended that the course indicated would encounter no obstacles or that it would be inexpensive, except by comparison. It does appear, however, that the western democracies are overlooking one of the best opportunities open to them to make a great gain in strength, to make it quickly, and at a reasonable cost.

Sterner Measures

The public has been shocked in the last few days by reports of two disgusting crimes. In both cases a young girl has been set upon by a gang of ruffians and repeatedly raped in a public place, silencing her outcries with the utmost brutality. There is a feeling that the law has been too lenient to juvenile offenders. The maximum penalty provided by the criminal code is death or life imprisonment and whipping. While it is certain that these extreme penalties will not be imposed we feel strongly that a severe sentence is what is needed in this case to deter these nasty little cowards.

The public has a right to expect that the streets and public places shall be kept safe for law-abiding citizens on their lawful occasions, and crime of this sort must be punished rigorously when it occurs. Nevertheless the law exists solely to punish offenders: it is not its province to attack the root of the problem. This is something that has to be done by society as a whole, working as individuals or in groups. If the juvenile gang problem is tackled firmly there is a reasonable chance of success, whereas the sex maniac who commits a crime individually is mentally unbalanced, the members of these gangs are not necessarily abnormal. Students of crowd psychology are well aware that a body of people can be influenced to perpetrate acts that they would never dream of doing by themselves, such as lynching negroes. The young are specially susceptible to this mass hysteria, as was recognized by Hitler and Mussolini. These youths may possibly be of low average intelligence, but they can only be regarded as abnormal when under the influence of mass suggestion.

One of the most potent causes of these outrages is the decline of parental influence, particularly that of the father. That in itself would not be enough reason; there are countless instances of men reared under the worst possible conditions who have triumphantly overcome their handicaps. Nevertheless the weakening of family bonds under the conditions of modern urban industrial civilization is a serious factor in juvenile crime. It is easy under modern conditions for a youngster to get a job and live more or less independently of his parents.

Concurrent with the decline in the influence of the family is the decline in the influence of religion, more especially in our larger cities. The churches are still doing too much preaching to the converted, not enough to the outcasts. Religion has more or less degenerated into respectability. There are many signs of a change for the better in this respect, and the Salvation Army is a shining exception, but church leaders are agreed that the churches have still a long way to go to recapture the old missionary zeal.

Secular organizations concerned with youth work are doing a fine job as far as their resources allow, but they are hamstrung by lack of funds and personnel. They are entitled to more support from the public than they are getting. More useful outlets must be found for the restless energies of youth. Their enthusiasms can be directed towards worth-while objects, but they urgently require more leadership of the right kind. If these outlets are not provided "Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do."

The two incidents which we have mentioned both occurred in Toronto. Peterborough, however, is growing in size. New houses are going up each year. New industries have been established. Are we paying enough attention to our youth? It is not enough to ban the sale of comics or to confiscate pin-tables. We must provide greater and more varied opportunities for them to develop into useful citizens. Every penny spent in this cause is an investment in our future, the greatest potential asset that we possess. At the same time the law must be enforced, and incorrigible hooligans deterred by heavy sentences in order that the public may be protected.

The French Elections

French politics have always presented a somewhat bewildering spectacle to the foreigner, and this is true not only of pre-1940 France but also of today. The system of proportional representation favours the growth of a large number of small parties, each holding different shades of opinion and usually grouped round a leading personality. Nearly every French cabinet has to be composed of men from different parties. The constant upsets in government are not to be taken so seriously as they would be in Canada or Britain. When the government is defeated there is usually a shuffle of personalities, and the new government more often than not is comprised of much the same members, though in different capacities. Unlike the position in English-speaking countries the defeat of the government is not necessarily followed by a general election; the national assembly usually runs its whole term. Nevertheless elections have been called in France owing to the failure of the government to bring about a revision of the electoral laws, and will be fought mainly on that issue. The present system of representation, though it works, makes strong and effective government impossible. Every new contingency that has to be met involves protracted negotiation between the leaders of the various parties of the government, with their divergent aims.

The [illegible] of France's economy [illegible] off of the [illegible] Gaulle's National Rally Party [illegible] premiership [illegible] present they comprise the largest single party in the Chamber of Deputies. The prestige that they acquired during the German occupation is waning, and the fact that French lives are being lost in Indo-China and Korea as a result of Communist action should tell against them. On the other hand, every instance of high-handed American action is being avidly snapped up by the Communists as evidence of "Yankee Imperialism." French pride, a national characteristic since Louis XIV, has been more touchy than ever since the blow that it received in 1940.

Nevertheless we make bold to forecast that the moderate parties will make definite, though limited gains. In spite of rather exaggerated feelings concerning "l'honneur de France" the average French elector is a canny and cautious realist, not easily led astray by high-sounding slogans. He is a marked individualist, and that is why it is unlikely that France will ever go Communist. Even if she did, her Communism would probably be of such a distinctive nature that the pundits of Moscow would scarcely recognize it as the real thing.

Diary of Horses And Babies

SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Spent most of my morning in the company of some very nice horses and the very nice people who own them. One of the horses was being trained for an appearance in the show-ring; a fine horse and a fine rider, in a Spring paddock, makes a fine sight, and a blessed relief from all the grand pianos, actors, chunks of scenery, dull concerts, wads of newsprint, writers, public meetings, printers, angry subscribers and other afflictions which have monopolized my attention for the past eight months. I am no horseman, but my forebears on both sides were perhaps a little too fond of these temperamental animals for their own good; something of this ancestral enthusiasm still lingers in my blood. The smell of a stable, full of ammonia, hay-dust and dried and pulverized horse-sweat, has a powerfully stimulating effect on me. I have never been interested in cars except as a means of conveyance, but I can tell the make of a horse pretty well at sight.

MONDAY: Across the street from my office window is an apartment which has a bay-window at my level; during the past few weeks a baby has been making regular appearances there, so that the doings in the street below may entertain it. I judge that it is a male baby, and it is a fine, large child, with a solemn and philosophical countenance. The baby views the street and I view the baby. I like babies, under special circumstances, and by a lucky chance the relationship between me and this particular baby perfectly fulfills all my conditions. I can see it, but I cannot hear it; I can admire its winning ways, and laugh indulgently when it topples over, but it is not near enough to wet me; when it wants anything, a pair of hands appear from behind it with the desired object. This is ideal, and I am thinking of putting this baby in my will. I believe that if the truth were known, my attitude toward this baby is that of most adult males; men like children, but they do not like them to be too close. Some barrier—as for instance a wide street, filled with traffic—between a man and a baby, acts as a powerful stimulant to affection between them.

TUESDAY: "What pretty china!" exclaimed a guest who was taking a dish of tea at Marchbanks Towers this afternoon. "Madam," said I, in what I hope was a polite tone, "that is not china, but crockery, and if you don't know the difference between the two it is time you found out"....The North American continent is afflicted with a vast amount of pseudo-gentility; we hate to call things by their proper names, and as a result we degrade and debase a number of fine words. Any fool knows china when he sees it; it is a type of porcelain, has an unmistakable glow and finish, and can be wrought much thinner than crockery; crockery — which includes most of the vessels from which we eat and drink—is thicker, and in spite of its glaze it has no glow. It is made of clay, and looks it. There is no shame in using crockery; it is good, honest stuff and some of it has great beauty. But why pretend that it is china? If you can judge the height of the tea through the side of the cup, you are drinking from china; if you can't, you aren't ....It is this same mealy-mouthed prissiness which describes any old chunk of cloudy bottle-glass as "crystal".

WEDNESDAY: To a concert given by a male quartette, with a heavy heart, but it was on my subscription ticket, and I am not a man to waste money. Since childhood I have never liked male quartettes, just as I have never liked single-sex choirs; there is a monotony and narrowness of range in their performances which nothing can conceal. But in addition to their musical disabilities, quartettes always look funny. There never was a quartette, I suppose, in all history, which did not show a remarkable range of height and physique. This particular quartette was unusual in that the second tenor did not wear spectacles. It had, however, the usual fat bass, who leaned forward when he wanted a low note, as though he hoped to sneak upon it from underneath. Basses come in two grades: the short and fat, who think it is funny to have a deep voice, and the tall and lean, who look upon all life as a tragedy, for which low notes give the only possible expression. Baritones have baritone faces—dull, useful, middle-of-the-road faces. Tenors of course, look as if they were not quite as other men — which may, of course, be true.

THURSDAY: A medical acquaintance mentioned idly today that you can tell a good deal about the age of a human being by pinching the skin on the backs of the hands; according as it retains the shape of the pinch, the patient is advanced in decay. Spent much of the rest of the day pinching the skin on the backs of my hands, which snapped back into place very quickly at some points, and at others remained obstinately curled up. From this I conclude that my skin reflects the character of my opinions, [illegible] which are young and fre[illegible] ility.

FRIDAY: Had [illegible] some [illegible] lousy, [illegible] place much [illegible] off [illegible] of food and drink, the fare at the Towers, though good, is plain. But if the sort of thing I ate today is typical of what tourists are offered in most restaurants, I am surprised that we have any tourist trade at all. The meat, though over-cooked, was edible. But the vegetables had been cooked too long, and I do not think that they were of good quality when they went into the pot. Surely, at this point in human history, the cooking of vegetables is not a mystery, confined to a guild of master-cooks? The Chinese have known for two thousand years that vegetables should rest in boiling water only long enough to make them tender without destroying their crispness; part of the fun of eating vegetables is to feel them crunch under the tooth. And why must mashed potatoes be served from an ice-cream scoop? Are we Canadians really barbarians, or is it just that we have barbarous restaurant food?

SATURDAY: Confined to my bed today with an illness which my physician mentioned by name, but it was such a long and depressing name that I was unable to retain it in my mind. However I know it to be a version of an illness from which I have been a lifelong sufferer, namely the Wibble Wobbles. It is a disease of some historic importance, and evidence suggests that Julius Caesar was troubled with it. It is an ailment which often appears in people who write for a living, like gout. Let Ben Johnson and Sir Osbert Sitwell have their gout; Caesar and I have our Wibble Wobbles (not that Caesar was much of an author, but at least he had a more chaste style than General MacArthur). It is the fashion in our day to treat the complaint with mild sedatives, and for much of the day I lay in a relaxed, slightly melancholy state, heaving myself up on my elbow from time to time to drink some fruit juice. I can't imagine why my doctor likes to give me sedatives; I seem to be about half-alive without them. A really good stimulant, with no nasty [illegible]

KIBITZER'S DELIGHT

Tito's Planners Change Minds

By A. V. SHERMAN

TITO'S economic ideology is now showing signs of change, which should not only facilitate present negotiations for loans from Britain and the World Bank, but may have an important practical effect on Yugoslavia's economic planning. One effect is already visible in the Government's first step, taken this month, towards freeing agriculture from compulsory purchase measures.

✧ ✧ ✧

UNTIL very recently Titoite attacks on Stalinist policies left, Soviet economic ideas virtually untouched, apart from some demonstrative measures of 'decentralization' which made no real impact either on policies or on the concentration of economic power in the hands of the Politburo. In fact, in Yugoslavia Communist dogmatism in the economic field was intensified. The Government stressed its intention to carry through its quite unrealistic economic plan, and ruthlessly purged dissenters who asked for a slower pace. Advice from the West suggesting more attainable targets, was denounced right through until 1951 as the desire of capitalist vested interests to keep Yugoslavia as a backward, exploited source of raw materials.

✧ ✧ ✧

EXPERIENCE of British and American willingness to give economic aid without political strings, coupled with repeated failures of his own Soviet-style planning has slowly convinced Kidric, Tito's Chief Planner, that advice from Britain is not motivated by a desire to exploit Yugoslavia. The three year process of change in the Yugoslav mental climate which began with the Cominform attack on Tito has now reached a new stage with the final recognition by Yugoslavia that the Western economies are superior to that of the Soviet Union.

KIDRIC now calls on Yugoslav economists to study capitalist experience and theories subsequent to the death of Lenin (whose ideas are still held sacrosanct in Yugoslavia) in 1924. He also advises them to adopt a more critical attitude to those Soviet characteristics which are still a marked feature of Yugoslav economic theory and organization. How far this criticism will be able to proceed in practice, so long as Marx-Leninism is given state protection against criticism, remains to be seen; sooner or later the Yugoslav Communists will have to face up to the fact that given Leninism, a good deal of Stalinism follows logically. Nevertheless, the results of even this partial re-orientation of economic outlook may be considerable.

THE new Government decree for the gradual abolition of compulsory purchase in agriculture implements a decision which was taken in principle last year. The decree allows peasants to fix their own prices for meat, milk, and potatoes and confines government compulsory purchase to a few staple products like grain, fats and wool. It is intended to abolish compulsory deliveries of these commodities also as soon as conditions permit.

THIS step has been facilitated, of course, by the government's large holdings of American food-aid sent after last summer's drought menaced Yugoslavia's economy and consequently her defensive strength. These stocks allow the government to exert some influence over food prices by normal economic methods. Besides encouraging higher production by the peasants, the relaxation of compulsory purchase will help more realistic planning. By studying market prices and quantities of food actually forthcoming at these prices, government economists should be able to gauge more accurately the numbers of workers they can afford to employ in industry, and the wage levels necessary to attract them. This calculation should save them in future from a repetition of the fiasco they experienced in their building plans. Then a third of the labour they had planned for failed to materialize, so that very few of the large operations begun were successfully completed.

YUGOSLAVIA'S negotiations with the World bank and the British Government for large investment loans have so far been held up largely by Yugoslav suspicions of British proposals that the bulk of any loans should be used for projects such as mining and forestry which yield a reasonably quick return. The Yugoslav Government's recently published investment plan for the coming year, shows, however an increased attention towards these extractive industries (copper, lead, zinc) products of which have ready markets in the West. A successful conclusion of these loan negotiations and a further development of the present economic re-orientation, would strengthen the Tito government both internally and in relations to its hostile neighbours.

Plan For Drama

(Ottawa Citizen)

Having in mind the fact that one-act plays are unsuitable for Dominion Drama finals, Arthur Clare of Kemptville has proposed that small town and rural groups conduct a festival just for the fun of it and without competition. Idead behind his suggestion is that encouragement and constructive criticism would be given to the amateur players. A similar project in the Toronto district has already brought participation by 18 one-act play groups. The idea seems a good one. Drama is more likely to become firmly rooted Mind you—yesterday's weather was enough to take the edge off any Festival Spirit.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then said one unto him, Lord are there few that be saved? And he said unto them, Strive to enter in at the strait gate: for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able.

When once the master of the house is risen up, and hath shut to the door, and ye begin to stand without, and to knock at the door, saying, Lord, Lord, open unto us; and he shall answer and say unto you, I know you not whence ye are: then shall ye begin to say, We have eaten and drunk in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets.

But he shall say, I tell you, I know you not whence ye are; depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity. There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth, when ye shall see Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the prophets, in the kingdom of God, and you yourselves thrust out.

And they shall come from the east, and from the west, and from the north, and from the south, and shall sit down in the kingdom of God. And, behold, there are last which shall be first, and there are first which shall be last. (Luke 13: 23-30.)

For if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die: but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live. For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God....

The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God: and if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ. (Rom. 8: 13, 14, 16, 17.)

Out Of The Blue

(Windsor Star)

Since science fiction established itself as a form of entertainment, we've all become familiar with pictures of adventurers on airless planets moving about with transparent globes over their heads.

But what for years has been in the field of fantasy now is being brought home to us. A new device to protect fliers escaping from jet planes is reported to take the form of a capsule, which completely covers the airman. It would be let down by parachute.

Presumably it would enclose the flier, providing pressurized air, as he sat in the cockpit. In an emergency he can touch a lever or button and be shot clear of the plane.

Need for some protective device is established by experiences of airmen who have found it necessary to escape from damaged jet planes streaking along at 600 m.p.h. or better. Just the other day one of those displaced persons had a leg broken by pressure of the furious upper winds, while his face was cut by ice particles.

Necessity being a fine inspiration for invention, the protective capsule already is less than an oddity, although it's still pretty much on the U.S. Navy's secret list.

Dangerous Precedent

(Windsor Star)

There is a sharp point to that story from Duesseldorf, Germany, saying that bayonets are being manufactured by the Hoerster Steel Company of Solingen in the British zone. The bayonets are of British pattern and are being manufactured for a foreign country.

It means that a German steel firm is engaged in the production of weapons. If bayonets are being made, then what else is being produced? Possibly this is the only warlike item at present, but what is going to be next?

The whole world fears the German munitions industry. It geared Germany in 1914 and again in 1939 for attacks against the world. The Germans almost won both wars. They are still thinking in terms of winning wars and they still dream dreams of conquest.

That news about making bayonets is disturbing to anyone who realizes what the Germans think in terms of eventu[illegible]

First District Telephones Installed In Lumber Office

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

Only a year or two after its invention, the first two telephones in the district were installed in the home and office of Mossom Boyd, Bobcaygeon lumberman, Nov. 16, 1877. These were sold to him by W. J. Fowler of Peterborough, appointed local Bell telephone agent in Oct. 1877. On Jan. 11, 1878, Mr. Fowler gave a demonstration of the telephone in the Opera House, at which several citizens talked to others at the Dominion Telegraph office, and over the telegraph wires to persons in Port Hope and Lindsay. When Mr. Fowler died in Nov. 1878 (without having sold an instrument in Peterborough), he was succeeded by W. J. Nesbitt, who sold the next two telephones to the Victoria Railway agent at Lindsay, an. 1879, connecting his home and the station. Soon after, the Dominion Telegraph Company took over the local telephone agency. The new agent, R. Fairbairn, signed up Dr. H. C. Burritt on Nov. 28, 1879, for the first telephones in town; the two instruments, which cost him a total of $10 per year, connected his home and his office. By the end of 1879, R. Fairbairn, Wm. Cluxton and W. H. and I. I. McBain had telephones also; the wires were strung to the Telegraph Office, whence subscribers could call each other or neighbouring towns. On Dec. 19, 1879, The Review reported: "SUCCESS OF THE TELEPHONE . . . It is not many years since it required months of travel between Peterborough and New York. Now by aid of steam one can reach New York in two days, and by aid of the telegraph one can have his correspondence transmitted within the hour. But what can be said of the telephone? It is more than wonderful. People can hardly believe that one can stand in the Dominion Telegraph Office on Hunter St., Peterborough, and converse with a friend in Port Hope . . . The Review reported among others had a conversation of some length with Mr. G. B. Salter at Port Hope, hearing his replies from that distance quite distinctly . . ." The next year, the Bell Telephone Company was incorporated, and began to spread its own network over the country.

Another Link

Peterborough has another link with the pioneer telephone. Mrs. Agnes Brodigan, a young bride, was visiting in the fall of 1877 at the home of the Rev. Thomas Henderson in Brantford. On his newly-installed telephone, Mr. Henderson called Professor A. M. Bell (the inventor's father) at his home three miles away. Professor Bell asked the young girl to sing to him, and "Kathleen Mavoureen" quavered over the the wires, probably the first song ever sung "over the air." Later, when Mrs. Brodigan became a widow, she spent many years in Peterborough before her death.

In other ways, Peterborough was losing its sense of isolation. People travelled more than in previous decades. In 1876 people attended the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition, often making the Grand Tour around by Boston, New York, Washington, Detroit and Chicago before returning. Others travelled westward to the prairies of Canada and the United States, and on to California and Australia. Those whose ties with the British Isles were still strong often went home to visit relatives, when they could afford it, and some youths went to study at Oxford, Cambridge, Edinburgh, and Dublin.

At Feet of Disraeli

Mr. E. H. D. Hall, a young Peterborough lawyer, in 1878 got into an overcrowded meeting in Albert Hall, London, England, by posing as a "Review" reporter, and was given a privileged seat within a few feet of Prime Minister Disraeli on the platform. Travel and culture were making the more fortunate part of the population more cosmopolitan, polished and world-minded. It was significant that the papers in this era began to devote much more space to news not only of the rest of Canada, but of the United States, the British Isles and Europe.

Communications were also improved in 1871 by the introduction of registered mail, and postcards delivered anywhere in Canada for one cent. In that year Mr. H. C. Rogers, who had sold out to his partner H. Strickland in 1869, became Peterborough postmaster; Capt. Rogers was prominent in the militia, and later became Lieut. Colonel of Cavalry. In 1872 the postoffice was moved across to the new Chambers Block at the southeast corner of Water and Hunter Sts. In 1877 it was moved again to the northeast corner of George and Brock Sts., where a new brick block had been built; there it remained until the present postoffice was built in the next decade. People still went to the postoffice to collect their mail, an hour or two after the Port Hope train pulled in.

Local Newspapers

W. H. Robertson, proprietor and editor, began publication of the Peterborough Times as an independent weekly on Feb. 17, 1872, in the former Simpson's Saloon on George St. The Conservative weekly, the Review, was sold by Robt. Romaine in 1878 to E. J. Toker and John Carnegie, who began that year to publish a daily edition also (thus contributing to the Conservative election victory in 1878); the establishment of a daily paper was proof of Peterborough's reviving prosperity and increasing urban importance. The Examiner continued as a Liberal weekly (now of eight pages;) when editor James Stratton in 1876 became customs collector (in addition to being school superintendent), his son James Junior took over the newspaper.

Not all the writing of the period, however, was printed in the three local newspapers. In that more leisurely time, many people both young and old kept diaries and carried on voluminous correspondence, in addition to composing reams of amateurish poetry; much of this material was decently interred in fireplaces and stoves as the years went by, but enough was preserved in attic trunks to give us many valuable insights into the life of the 1870s. Not many poets were as well-situated as Alexander Graham of Otonabee, who was an "Examiner" printer; his collection of poetry, covering the period 1840-73, was published in book form by the "Examiner" in the latter year under the title "Leisure Hour Musings." One of his poems was diplomatically dedicated to his boss, Mr. Stratton, and its zeal is clear even if the metre is shaky:

"All you who true reforms seek,
And plead for truth and light,
If the Examiner you don't take
You stand in your own light!"
It has the ringing exhortation,
"Ye who have not subscribed for one,
Go do it right away!"

The only others of Mr. Graham's verses worth mentioning here are a stirring ballad about the burning of Hunter St. Bridge in 1871, entitled The Auld and New Otonabee Briggs," and a very moral Temperance Tale about the reformation of Wild Archy, the Dissipated Drunkard of Otonabee:

"A piece of work he'd hardly do Without supplied with mountain-dew," and working up to the happy ending:

"He signed the pledge then right away,
And keep it to this very day!"

LEGUME INOCULATION

Though the air over every acre of land contains tons of nitrogen it is of no use to most plants. But this nitrogen can be utilized by legumes properly inoculated with a certain soil bacteria called rhizobia. Legumes have the ability to live co-operatively with rhizobia which cause the formation of nodules on the plant's root system, says F. D. Cook, Soil Research Laboratory, Swift Current, Sask. Conversion of atmospheric nitrogen to a form readily used by the legume is carried out in these nodules. Thus, leguminous plants have an advantage over other plants because they have access to a supply of nitrogen other than that already found in the soil. When the leguminous crop is plowed under it releases nitrogen into the soil for further use by crops planted later on the same land.

Council Came To The Aid Marmora's Needy Farmers

By W. J. COTTRELL

MARMORA, May 12. — Eighty names were submitted on the list and James Bailey, a little self conscious over his new job, scanned the handwritten pages.

To each of the 80 persons, all farmers down on their luck, he had to give a share of seed grain. The Lake township council had voted him $360 with which to buy the grain and $25 for doing the job.

It was the spring of 1863 and $360 was a lot of money to invest in farming. For the council was not giving the grain away. In the fall they expected to get the grain back, plus an extra peck for each bushel they gave out on May 29.

At the same council meeting, the reeve was authorized to travel to Belleville and there sell township debentures and bring back $1,200.

The council's record of their meeting shows that the council of 1863 had just as wide a variety of matters to trouble them as in 1951.

January 19, 1863, the council voted to pay James Taillon $11.39 for a coffin and other necessities for the burial of Peter Shoro.

In 1863 the council was embarrassed by a letter from T. S. Ryan, superintendent of schools. Mr. Ryan laid a proposition before the council. He asked the council if it would put up $10 for prizes for top scholars. The Hon. Billa Flint had offered to give $10 and the Chief Superintendent would contribute $20.

The council stalled. It laid the matter over for consideration. But the subject was not mentioned again for 16 months when Mr. Ryan wrote another letter. He again asked for $10 and told the council that the Hon. Mr. Flint was still willing to contribute $10. No mention was made of the Chief Superintendent's offer of $20.

The council apparently ignored the letter and went about its business of appointing William Phillips, father of Robert Phillips still living in the village, as township clerk to replace William Armstrong.

In August 1867, the Marmora township council voted to pay the Gilmour Co. and others $200 to repair the road from Two Sisters in Marmora township to Nicholson's Landing at the foot of Wetstone Rapids in Lake township.

The council that year consisted of Reeve James Hamilton and councillors Solomon Johns, Hugh Jones, George Wiggins, and Adam Airhart. All except Solomon Johns have descendants living now in Marmora.

That was the year that the confederation of Canada took place, the start of the Dominion. But no word of it appears in the council records. It was apparently a matter of indifference to them whether a dominion was born or not.

In 1927 there were still a few men in the village who had reached the voting age the year of confederation. They said the village held no official celebration. A few men ventured to Belleville where the residents were a little more public spirited and had arranged a celebration. It was a quiet beginning.

Begonia Tubers Should Be Planted Now

By HENRY PREE, NEA.

Gardeners who purchased tuberous begonia tubers at the spring flower shows, or from dealers, should pot and start them into growth at this time.

These colorful plants take 10 to 12 weeks from the time the tubers are planted until they reward you with their first blooms. So by planting now you will have a splendid display by the middle of June.

Tuberous begonias are a very satisfactory plant to raise and with reasonable care can be grown anywhere in this country The size of the tuber does not indicate the size or quality of the flower. However, the larger tubers start easier and will produce a larger plant.

For best results a sprout should appear before the tuber is planted. Tubers showing sprouts should be planted in pots or flats while those still dormant should be placed in a flat of moist sphagnum or peat moss, just barely covered, and kept in a warm room until sprouts appear.

The old gardener suggests a potting soil made up of one part old barnyard manure, three parts sandy loam and six parts compost or other humusy material.

For best results, the soil, both in the pot and in the garden, should be fairly loose, but with sufficient body and nutrients to allow the plant to develop.

A sandy soil may be made productive by adding a lot of humus while a clay soil requires both sand and humus to insure satisfactory plant development. A growing temperature of 70 to 75 is best.

Drainage is important, so, when planting the tubers be sure that there is a piece of broken pot over the drainage hole in each pot, or that there are holes or spaces in the bottom of the flat. The pot is filled one-third full with the potting mixture and a tablespoon of a good organic fertilizer, preferably fishmeal, is sprinkled over this. Then cover the fertilizer with an inch of the potting mixture, place the sprouted tuber on this and just barely cover. After potting, water well but do not water again until the soil indicates dryness.

Do not overwater as rot often occurs when the tubers are kept too moist before they start growth. Plants should not be set out until the earth has become truly warm.

Ladle In A Pot Of Gold

Portuguese Sonnet

Go from me. Yet I feel that I shall stand
Henceforward in thy shadow. Nevermore
Alone upon the threshold of my door
Of individual life, I shall command
The uses of my soul, nor lift my hand
Serenely in the sunshine as before,
Without the sense of that which I forbore
Thy touch upon the palm. The widest land
Doom takes to part us, leave thy heart in mine
With pulses that beat double. What I do
And what I dream include thee, as the wine
Must taste of its own grapes, And when I sue
God for myself, He hears that name of thine,
And sees within my eyes the tears of two.

Gardening Questions

Q—Can African violets be grown from seed? L. H. K.

A—Yes, if you have the know-how. Seed, which is as fine as face powder, is available at a few seed houses. Under favorable conditions, bloom will appear in seven to 10 months after germination. Growers prefer to sow seed in late autumn.

Q—Nothing will grow in my copper "planter's plate." The holder is not large enough for a pot, and the leaves of plants put directly in the copper holder turn brown and wilt. How can this be prevented?—D. T.

A—The average "planter's plate" is much too shallow for successful culture of house plants. Also there is no chance for drainage, so the soil becomes waterlogged. Overwatering, not the copper plate, is the reason why the leaves turn brown and wither. A soil mixture of sand, loam and vermiculite plus careful watering and the use of shallow rooting plants might prove satisfactory.

Males And Their Attire

Gents In Cocoa Vest, Green Suede Shoes

By BON VIVANT

Every once in awhile I pick up the paper and see where some character, usually designated as a prominent "Master Tailor", has given tongue concerning the fact that the clothes of men are too drab. Odious comparisons are made between the duds of the male biped and the colorful skins, pelts or feathers of the beasts of the field and birds of the air. A good word, from time to time is also put in for fish.

Having come across one of these annual beefs by a prominent master tailor (my private suspicion is that he runs a cleaning and pressing plant, one of those that either breaks or loses all the buttons off your suit.) I decided, in my role of researcher into the odd ways of our modern world, to check up on this crack about the sterner sex.

You can take it from me, whoever this master tailor may be, he hasn't been getting around in the proper places. Man is a pretty gaudy bird, given any encouragement, and there is a certain class, known in their line as sharpshooters, who are gaudier than the rest. In the event you aren't acquainted with any sharpshooters, they are gents who are hot on the trail of a fast and frantic buck. They may be selling advertising deals today, encyclopedias tomorrow and cemetery lots the next day, with the odd oil well on the side.

These quaint lads have two costumes. One their front window dressing, and the other, usually inherited from a more prosperous pal, which they wear when times are hard and they've popped the front for beer money. We aren't concerned with the second outfit, just as long as it makes their appearance in public one step removed from indecent exposure, the boys will wear anything. The front is the thing.

Tie Bumps And Grinds

My sharpshooting pal, who took me to the bistro favored by these gentry, was tastefully garbed in a pale purple suit with a white polka dot pattern, the whole set off by a double-breasted cinnamon vest, tan shoes and a sort of pocket edition of a ten gallon hat. The piece de resistance was the tie. This was of a blush pink, and hand painted upon it was the figure of a dancing girl. My chum was more than a little proud of his ability, by getting his Adam's apple behind the collar button, and then jerking it up and down, to cause the maiden to perform some realistic bumps and grinds.

Another of these lads rather shook me by appearing in a midnight blue suit, black tie, black shoes and sox, white shirt, complete with bowler and rolled umbrella. He enlivened this funereal get-up with a brilliant scarlet vest with brass buttons.

A third one had green suede shoes, gabardine bags, a tartan jacket and a yellow vest, the whole topped with a Balmoral. There were several others, not so startling, but none the less gay in garb having given full play to their odd whimsies as to what was natty. I wish my master tailor could have seen these. I felt they were quite colorful enough for anyone.

Weary Business Suits

There are, however, two places where I think the male is losing ground. I attended the Royal Alex the other evening and saw only one black tie. No whites at all, the majority of the cash customers being just as they had come from the office. I do think this is too bad. Nothing is less inspiring than to see a female parade down the aisle aglitter with gems, probably paste, and showing just as much of herself as she lawfully can in an evening gown held up, I am convinced, with sticky tape skillfully applied, escorted by a male in a world-weary business suit. It spoils the whole effect.

I am all for a revival of evening dress at the theatre. I'll even settle for dinner jackets, or if you prefer, "tux."

The second spot I've noticed my contemporaries looking pretty seedy is on the golf course. The average man seems to think the golf course is the spot to wear out any clothes too disreputable for fishing. A great many of them, unless they are carrying clubs, could easily be mistaken for waifs or strays about to haunt the steward for a hand-out.

I'm an admirer of the Jimmy Demaret school of golf attire. Jimmy not only enlivens the game with his skill but also with his sartorial perfection on the course. This seems to me a very good thing. I've yet to meet male or female who admires those of frowsy appearance, and just why a man should lug around about $200 worth of iron and incidentals, while costumed as a rag picker, I fail to understand.

Color On Golf Course

The golf course is one place where a man can give full play to his desire for color and not be thought odd. A pair of lemon slacks and green polo shirt might not be just the thing when trying to bite the ear of your banker, but on the 'links' it has a place.

If I can ever locate one of these anonymous master tailors I propose giving him some new observations for the next time he talks to the press. You, gentle reader, can get in ahead of this if you pick up a few hints from my sharpshooting pals. Even a study of the wardrobe of the three time winner of the 'Masters' could provide a few hints as what is fitting for the royal and ancient. Definitely not that stuff you're wearing now, old boy. Weight with a large stone and decently inter in the closest large, deep body of water.

Springville Has Gone Way Of Many Hamlets Of 80's

Situated on the boundary between the townships of North Monaghan and Cavan and the counties of Peterborough and Durham lies the hamlet of Springville seven miles southwest of Peterborough. This hamlet like many others in Ontario today is only a fraction of the size it was seventy years ago. All due to modern methods of transportation and the vast changes made in merchandizing.

Named Springville on account of the numerous springs in the hill on which it is situated the church has always been the centre of the community. But this community once boasted of a drill shed, several stores, a hotel, a post office, a blacksmith shop, together with a number of homes.

The township of North Monaghan and north section of Cavan were surveyed in 1818 and the district around Springville was opened up a year later and prior to any settlement in Peterborough.

By 1834 the people in that area were connected with the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Peterborough under the Rev. J. Morrice Rodger. Mr. Rodger for some years held services in the homes and in a school house two miles west of the present hamlet. However in 1847 a church was built on the southwest corner of the four corners at Springville.

Here a burial ground had previously been established. Worship continued in this church until 1855 when a brick church was built on the site of the present building. In January 1881 the church was burned and that same year work commenced on the present building.

At the foot of the hill and to the south of the first church stood the drill shed where Captain John Dundas was for years the OC of the company.

All buildings were frame and the fear of the pioneer, fire, wiped out many of the buildings, the hotel, the drill shed and the stores.

A man has to stick up for his own country, you know.

This week my contemporary Bob Turnbull of Toronto blasted the fishing tactics at Bobcaygeon for all he was worth. His reports came from members of the East York Rod and Gun Club who deplored the goings-on of hooligan fishermen on opening day. It was said that "hundreds of undersized fish were taken and great numbers being tossed away into nearby bushes to rot."

That isn't the way I heard it.

There were three game wardens and a paid deputy on the go day and night from Friday midnight until Sunday. These officers are reported to be a pretty tough crowd and really made the fishermen toe the line all last season. There is no reason why they should slacken off this year. And they didn't.

They did not miss a trick. Bobcaygeon couldn't afford to get a black name after all the tourist promotion they have done. Did you know they have built and man one of the finest tourist information booths in the province, if not in Canada?

To be fair about the thing, though, after clearing 'Caygeon' black name, the slaughter of pickerel at the lower locks of the Otonabee River is a nest to be cleaned up in our own yard. Three different fishermen—friends of mine—reported one character with 60 pickerel in his possession and still he continued to haul them in. Here is the place some members of the Peterborough Fish and Game PROTECTIVE Association could step in and take a hand to run guys of this calibre off the Kawartha fishways. How about that? Let us hear what you are going to do or have done about it.

• • • •

Now about the general pickerel picture. It was good, very good. There were good reports from every direction, especially from our vanguard of visiting American fishermen; they couldn't say enough in their praise of opening week-end. There have been some negative reports, of course. Funny thing I hear these from the same people each year—it is always poor with them—so, I have entered them in my little black book under the section of those who don't know how to fish, anyway.

The Laurentians, Ottawa Valley, Da Swisha

Was a guest on the initial run of the Colonial Coach Lines Toronto-Peterborough-Pembroke this week. On the 170-mile haul from here to Pembroke the route passes through some of the most amazing country in this part of the province. Most district people are familiar with the scenic Highway 28 route as far as Paudash Lake. This is only a start. There is a height of land just north of Paudash which divides the watershed between southern Ontario and the Ottawa Valley. And this is where the scenery begins.

Distances are so immense in this area of the Laurentians that one could spend hours looking in all directions from several dozen vista spots. There is a sweep and majesty to the great valley dotted with lakes and streams. Sections of the Highway are being improved and Hydro lines are pushing steadily down from the Ottawa River country.

Although the bus route along this leg ends at the thriving town of Pembroke, connecting lines to North Bay and Ottawa offer additional breathtaking scenery. To the west the route passes Petawawa military camp, the entrance of the National Research Council Chalk River plant, the Chalk River townsite of Deep River and the Des Joachims power dam—Da Swisha that generates half a million horsepower daily. Its size and efficiency would drive a Hollywood superlative hunter crazy. 'Nuff said that it is the second largest power development project in Canada. Shipshaw in Quebec tops it in power output. A note of warning here. Do not plan a trip thinking you can visit the plant from stem to gudgeon because a security measure has closed it to visitors. The whole immense layout can be studied from a highway observation turn-in.

Congratulations to Colonial Coach on their new Algonquin Route. They really have something for the ordinary traveller, the tourist and the fisherman. It is tops.

Tapeworms, Caterpillars, Partridge

Fishermen are getting a bit steamed up about the appearance of white, flat, ribbon-like tapeworms in pickerel. They are common to all fish, especially pickerel and bass. Fish which are left about for several hours before cleaning show tapeworms attempting to leave the carcass. Department biologists say that these tapeworms have no effect whatever on fish eaters even though it is a repulsive sight.

• • • •

Hope your summer cottage is well insured, and the insurance paid up. For, if you start to monkey around with a blow torch on caterpillar nests, you are really asking for trouble. Water sprays in hand force pumps is the safe answer to this pest problem.

• • • •

Cottagers will certainly find that many things have happened at Bide-A-Wee over the winter. Look around a bit. Harry Huff at the Duck Pond, Stony Lake, for instance, saw a partridge fly out from under his verandah. Down by the summer water pipes he found a nest with 12 eggs. He says he will do without water service until the eggs are hatched and the chicks have flown. Perhaps YOU have been dogged by a housing shortage, too, and will understand such things.

Petes Tame Tigers, 11 To 6 In Front Of 2,000 OLA Fans

The Petes trimmed Hamilton Tigers 11-6 before 2,000 fans last night in Miller Bowl to open their OLA senior "A" schedule. Though minus Bob Thorpe, Nit O'Hearn and Russ Slater, the local lacrossers had an edge on play in a speedy and fairly rugged encounter. They outlasted the scrappy Tigers in the last two quarters after a rough second stanza with several fights almost breaking out. Hamilton drew nine of the 15 penalties, including majors to Crowe and Grainger.

The score was 4-2 for the Timbermen in the first frame and they still had a two-goal margin at the half after a hot 2-2 second chukker. Despite a hard drive by Tigers in the third, the Petes outscored them 3-1 to lead 9-5 going into the fourth when it was 2-1 for the winners. The visitors had more shots on goal but Lloyd (Moon) Wootton was in great form to thwart their thrusts time after time in every inning.

Good Lacrosse

For so early in the season, it was good lacrosse and generally exciting until out in the fourth quarter when the result was a foregone conclusion. Hamilton kept hustling and they were at full strength. The Petes showed the result of hard practising, as they clicked well for the first game. Wootton took a minute out late in the tussle to get patched up from a cut in the face, and there was nearly a free-for-all at another stage when two Hamilton players charged him in the crease and were roughed up by his mates. However, only the second period saw much rough stuff and the referees kept it in hand.

Tall Harry Wipper shone for th Petes with a four-goal effort, having obtained permission to play this game while his transfer from St. Catharines is being considered. Arn Dugan tallied twice, as single goals were counted by Don Crowe, Don Ashbee, Dootch Vitarelli and Em Creighton. Three assists went to Jerry Fitzgerald, with one each garnered by Ike Hildebrand, Curly Mason, Ashbee, Mick Magee and Andy Milne. Big Ross Powless checked hard throughout.

Barney Welch scored twice for the Hamilton crew, with Merv McKenzie, Jack Dorney, George Masters and Al Doyle hitting the hemp once each on good efforts. Dorney had two assists, Welch, Gair and McKenzie each aiding once. Goalie Doug Favell had little chance on any that beat him, a few from a piece out being of the screened variety as was one that got by Moon Wootton. The teams:

Hamilton: Goal, Flavell; defence, McKenzie and Doyle; centre, Masters; wings, Grainger and Edmunds; rover, Love; alternates, Lee, Welch, Guthro, Gair, Digby, McDonald and Dorney.

Petes: Goal, Wootton; defence, Fitzgerald and Powless; centre, Dugan; wings, Vitarelli and Ashbee; rover, Creighton; alternates, I. Hildebrand, Mason, Crowe, Whitnell, Milne, Magee and Wipper.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Gavilan Wins Welter Crown In Decision

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, May 19 (AP) — They whooped it up for Kid Gavilan in Havana and New York today. The sleek Cuban had a rougher time with his jubilant countrymen than he had with Johnny Bratton in Madison Square Garden last night.

The flashy hawk of Cuba won the world's welterweight championship (not counting Britain and parts of Europe) by outclassing Chicago Johnny from here to Havana in their 15-round title scrap. The decision was unanimous and decisive.

Kid Chocolate

For the kid there'll be plenty of time for the rhumba and gay fiestas and everything else his compatriots are cooking up to celebrate Cuba's first boxing champion since the glory days of Kid Chocolate back in the early '30s.

For Bratton, it was a dream turned into a nightmare. Not only did he lose his National Boxing Association crown in his first defence, but once again he finished with a broken jaw and maybe a busted hand. In addition there was a report that the government had slapped a lien on his estimated $14,311 purse for back income taxes.

Maybe Quit

"Maybe I ought to quit," said the disgusted Bratton. "When the breaks go against you, maybe it's time to get out before you get banged up all over."

Gavilan was feted into the wee hours of the morning by his cheering followers. Several thousand Cubans were among the 11,747 paying customers in the Garden and about 15, including Ambassador Machado, succeeded in getting into the ring to embrace the grinning champion.

Gavilan will be back for his first defence against New York's Billy Graham in the Garden in July. They've met twice before, each winning once.

After that "maybe Eddie Thomas (the English and European champion) or Rocky Graziano," said co-managers Angel Lopez and Fernando Bolido.

There were no maybes from Gavilan. "I fight anybody," he said.

Besides winning Braton's NBA crown, Gavilan added New York's recognition as world champion. The only dispute to his claim comes from England where they believe Thomas, a Welshman, should get a chance to horn in on the proceedings.

Almost knocked out in the first round when he took 36 straight punches from Gavilan while pinned to the ropes, Bratton rallied to give the fast-punching keed a whale of a fight for seven rounds. The 23-year-old Negro was sharp on his counters and at the end of almost every one of the early rounds they belted away at each other in torrid exchanges. But from the eighth on, it appeared that Bratton had shot his bolt.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

One of the outstanding events scheduled to take place on the local greens this summer is the Ontario provincial playoff. This is the first time this honor has come to Peterborough; in fact it is the first for th edistrict. It is the premier event of lawn bowling fo this province. It includes rinks, doubles and singles, and is set for the last Saturday in August.

This competition starts in each club around July, and the winners g oto the towns to compete, and then the winners of these series meet the district winners until it reaches the semi-finals in each event. These semi-finalists meet at Peterborough to decide the Ontario championships of each event. Last year the final games were played in Ottawa, and two local boys, W. Jeffries and H. Newman, were runners-up in the doubles.

It is expected that this year there will be a junior boys' competition added and this will increase interest.

These games are sponsored by the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association, and suitable prizes are awarded to the winners.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

With nary a thought of war, the Olympic Committee has admitted the Soviet Union to the Olympic Games for 1952 in Helsinki. But will the Soviets admit representatives of other countries to Helsinki? Anyway, the Russians agreed in writing to abide by the Olympic rule to bring together the youth of the world without regard to race, color, creed or politics. When the Olympics were held just before the last war in Germany, Hitler—who didn't dream then that he'd wind up a cellar suicide—refused to present a trophy to an American Negro, Jesse Owens. Wouldn't surprise us if the Reds made an excellent Olympic showing. They'll be afraid to fail!

In Lindsay on May 24, a bunch of stock car races will be held at their exhibition grounds, starting at one. A big field of Canuck and Yankee drivers, we hear, open to anyone foolhardy enough to risk life and limb as these drivers do. Stock car racing differs from all other types of auto races in that it's perfectly legal to crash or upset any competitor. And the race is not stopped for upset cars unless the drivers are injured. In such case, they flag 'em down and hold up the crash-bang proceedings until the remains are swept up. Sounds pretty gory to us but we suppose it's one way of making a living—if you live.

* * * * * *

Yes, Busy Times Ahead

With the publishing of the Viaduct Major League baseball schedule, we can now sit down and figure out how many lacrosse and ball nights we'll be working. Too many, no doubt. Both have pretty hefty campaigns lined up till playoffs commence late in August. We note the Petes' ballsters frequently have to play two games on successive nights, one here and one in Toronto. So, they'll need lots of reserve strength. Injuries, sickness, holidays, work, etc., can cut down a squad late in a hard grind, just when every game is most important. Manager Ed Whitehill realizes this from years of diamond service, and he's building with an eye to late July and all August.

* * * * * *

He has two catchers in Al Menzies and Bill Huntley. Pitchers are Bill Edger, Lefty Bill Dadson, Doug Plunkett, Knobby Clark, an expected USA addition (who also plays the garden) and the Gunner himself if needed. A good staff. Infielders include Joe Stewart, Bunny Maeson, Fred Plato, Freddy Garvey, Johnny Denfrio, another American chap to come, and Howie Dalton—who hasn't come out yet but expects to shortly. Outfielders at present are Joe Lowrey, Andy Milne, Jake Wade and George Brabin, with possibly one or two more if these don't shape up. Also Huntley or Menzies might take a turn in the outer patches when the other is catching. Sounds like a pretty sound senior ball squad to us. They play Staffs in Toronto today.

* * * * * *

That's One In The Bag

Nothing much wrong with that senior lacrosse opener here last p.m., huh? A nice 11-6 win for the Petes o'er Hamilton Tigers and some good, rousing gutted-stick play served up. Quite good for an opening game, as both sides showed plenty of foot over the distance. It would have been much, much closer but for a standout performance in goal by Lloyd (Moon) Wootton. He's been at the game for 10 years and just last fall helped bring Owen Sound the Mann Cup, so he isn't lucky in the cage — he knows the answers. Hamilton pressed plenty and had more shots on goal, but Wootton was the difference. Some 2,000 fans saw for themselves why the Petes wanted him on their side.

* * * * * *

Harry Wipper also showed his stuff by scoring four goals. He got permission to play this game for the Crowe crew, but his transfer from St. Kitts hasn't yet been okayed. We don't know how they can keep Wipper and O'Hearn from moving here, but the OLA makes up rules as it goes along. No one seemed to know why Russ Slater wasn't on deck, either. Bob Thorpe is expected out next tilt, which is a week away. Arn Dugan and Jerry Fitzgerald were in there tallying, also, and Don Ashbee was another with a couple of scoring points. The squad did okay for a start and when at full strength will really roll, though we look for lots of fight from the Tigers next time out. As well as from the other OLA teams. They're all building and there'll be few if any soft touches in the lengthy schedule.

Brantford Belts Galt 18-5 Leads League

By The Canadian Press

Two teams remain undefeated and two others are hunting for their first victory as the end of the first week of the Inter-county Baseball League schedule approaches.

Unbeaten are Brantford Red Sox who won their third in a row by walloping Galt Terriers 18-5 Friday night and Waterloo Tigers who picked up their second straight with a close 4-3 win over St. Thomas Legionnaires.

The loss was the third straight for St. Thomas who with London Majors have yet to win a game in the young season.

In Thursday night's other game, Kitchener Legionnaires took over third place by defeating Guelph Maple Leafs 6-3. London, which has played only one game to date, wasn't in action.

Meet Today

The perfect records of either Brantford or Waterloo is likely to be broken today when the two teams meet at Waterloo. St. Thomas visits London and Guelph is at Galt in the other Saturday games

Brantford got both hitting and pitching in the one-sided win over Galt. Alf Gavey pitched a four-hitter and his mates used 11 hits and six Galt errors for their big margin. Bill Leader who hurled one-third of an inning and gave up five runs was the loser. Gavey let up in the ninth and Galt got four runs on three hits and four walks.

At Kitchener, southpaw Norm Shoemaker scattered a dozen Guelph hits in the 6-3 win. Legionnaires got only six hits off 19-year-old Jackie Bowes who pitched the last 6 2-3 innings but they managed an equal number of runs with the help of two costly Guelph errors. George Boniface led the Leafs with four hits in four trips and a walk. Burrichter had three for four with Kitchener.

At St. Thomas, the home club took a three-run lead in the first inning on a walk and two doubles. But Tigers got one back in the fourth and added three more in the fifth for the necessary runs to win 4-3.

Walter (Doc) Doherty went the route for St. Thomas in the team's home opener before 1,700 fans. Red Tallevi hurled the first three innings for Waterloo. He was lifted for a pinchhitter and Bill Russ who finished got credit for the victory.

Central Girls Win

Central school girls edged Queen Alex 10-9 in a tidy softball struggle at Central. They scored five runs in the first, one apiece in the second, fourth and fifth—the winning marker—with two in the third. Queen Alex made a bid with two in the fifth after getting three each in the first and fourth and one in the third. B. Simpson and J. Smith clouted homers for them. Royals Win 3-2 Behind Hurling Of Podbielan

Bud Podbielan's brilliant pitching may earn the Montreal right-hander another shot with the parent Brooklyn Dodgers before the season ends.

Podbielan, who divided the 1950 season with Brooklyn and Fort Worth of the Texas League, has been one of the prime reasons for the Royals' first-place berth in the International League.

The Dodger chattel turned in his best game of the season last night as he pitched the Royals to a 3-2 13-inning victory over Buffalo Bisons.

Podbielan scored 12 hits, while the Royals collected only nine off Rudy Minarcin, who went the distance for Buffalo. Bob Morgan broke up the game with a bases-loaded single in the fourth overtime. The victory was Podbielan's fifth against a single setback.

Lead 3 Games

The victory enabled the Royals to hold their three-game lead over the runner-up Syracuse Chiefs. The Chiefs cooled off Rochester Red Wings 3-2. Bob Habenicht wild-pitched one Chief run home and Bob Tiefenauer wild-pitched the winning run across in the seventh.

Ottawa edged Toronto Maple Leafs 6-5 in 12 innings to move into third place. Johnny Metkovich singled Neal Watlington home from second base with two out to win the game. Stan Jok homered in the ninth to send the game into overtime.

Big Paul Stuffel pitched Baltimore Orioles to an 8-3 decision over Springfield Cubs. Stuffel allowed five hits, fanned 14, but was in hot water throughout because of 10 walks.

Preakness Race Keeps Expert Still Guessing

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE, May 19 (AP).—You could get a bet on which will be the favorite, no less the winner, in today's 75th Preakness at venerable Pimlico.

That's how hard it is to separate in advance the eight three-year-olds expected to be at the post at 5.15 p.m. EDT.

Pimlico anticipates 35,000 to press into its 81-year-old track. Another 20,000,000 persons are expected to watch the jubilee Preakness on television.

New Race

The Preakness situation of no standout is the same which prevailed before the Kentucky Derby —perhaps worse. For none of the first five Derbyites was eligible for the Preakness, so it's an entirely-new race.

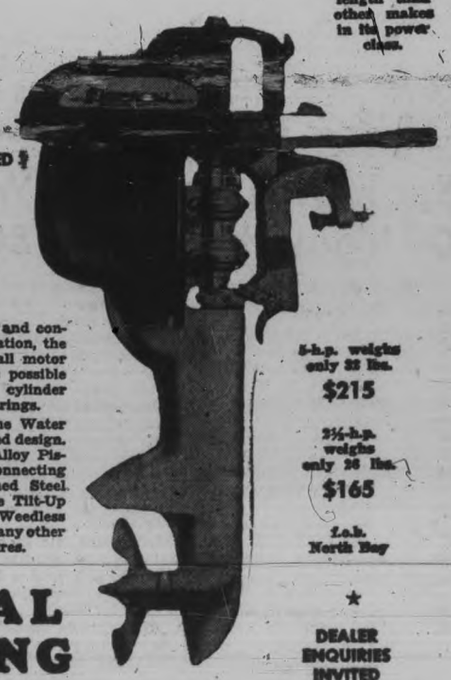
The best the experts could agree on is that three colts, Hampton stable's Alerted, Greentree's Big Stretch and Brookmeade's Bold, will vie for first choice. But no matter which the particular price-maker liked, the odds of about 3 to 1 weren't enough to make much difference.

Bold, which will be ridden by Eddie Arcaro, has run only twice this year and was beaten the second time by Alerted in Monday's Preakness prep.

Alerted has a respectable background, winning three other times in 12 races, but beaten three times by Mrs. Nora Mikell's Repetoire. Still Repetoire, winner of four straight stakes before his 12th in the Derby, is no better than fourth choice in the Preakness.

Big Stretch

Big Stretch is among the favorites because of belief he's got to be better than shown so far. The best he's done in four 1951 races is a second and in the Derby he was 18th.



Jockey Ted Atkinson seems to think so, too. He's switched to Big Stretch after riding stablemate Hall of Fame in the Derby. Headley Woodhouse of Vancouver will have the mount on Hall of Fame in the Preakness.

The others, particularly C. V. Whitney's Counterpoint and Mrs. Wallace Gilroy's Timely Reward, aren't counted out. Mrs. George D. Widener's Knowitall is considered the real outsider because he's started only once—and won —this year to be an unknown quantity.

Trainers Sylvester Veitch of Counterpoint and John Gaver of Big Stretch are keeping the most-alert weather eye. Counterpoint improves in the mud while Big Stretch suffers. The forecast is for fair and cool.

Victory will be worth $80,820 to Alerted, Repertoire or Timely Reward and $82,935 to one of the other five. There's a net difference because the three were supplementary eligibles on April 16 while it cost only $135 to nominate the others.

Preacher Roe Saves Dodgers Pitches 6-3 Win Over Cards

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Preacher Roe, the lean Brooklyn lefty, is no Carl Hubbell but, like the immortal New York Giant, he's a "meal ticket."

Roe, who seems to improve with age, is Brooklyn's stopper. The hill-billy from Arkansas usually puts the skids on a Dodger losing streak.

The Dodgers entered St. Louis last night dragging their tails. They had absorbed two bad beatings from the Cubs in Chicago and another loss would have knocked them out of the undisputed lead in the National League.

Old Preach bailed them out. Using all of his cunning, Roe pitched the Dodgers to a 6-3 victory over the Cards before 26,014 fans, largest home attendance of the season for the Redbirds.

Seven Hits

Roe surrendered seven hits including a two-run homer by Peanuts Lowrey. The home run was the ninth yielded by Roe this season, but as the "Old Bag of Bones" said recently, "I don't care how many home run balls I throw just as long as I win." The victory was Roe's fifth without a loss.

The triumph kept the Dodgers one game in front of the tightly-bunched National League. Chicago Cubs replaced Pittsburgh in the runner-up slot by trouncing Philadelphia Phils 18-9, while the Pirates dropped a 12-3 decision to Boston Braves. The Pirates dropped to fourth and the Braves took over third.

17 Hits

Chicago pounded four Philadelphia pitchers for 17 hits and scored all but one of its runs in the first four innings. Ransom Jackson, Hank Sauer and Jack Cusick slammed home runs. Jackson has banged out eight hits, including four homrs, in his last 14 trips. Cusick legged out an inside-the-park homer with the bases loaded.

The Braves scored seven runs in the second inning under the lights at Pittsburgh and Max Surkont breezed to his fifth victory. Surkont let up in the eighth and threw home-run balls to Ralph Kiner and Wally Westlake. Walker Cooper, with a home run, triple, and three singles was the big man for the Braves. Mel Queen, making his second start in as many days, was the loser.

Cincinnati's Ken Raffensberger held the Giants hitless for five innings but lost his stuff in the sixth as the New Yorkers shoved four runs across the plate and went on to post a 4-3 triumph. The squeaker ended a five-game Cincinnati winning streak. Sal Maglie was the winner.

Yanks Beaten

Chicago White Sox handed the New York Yankees their first loss of the American League season in Yankee Stadium, 7-4. Ed Stewart socked a grandslam homer in the eighth inning off Spec Shea to break a 3-3 tie and win the game.

Nelson Fox also homered for the Sox who hold second place, two games back of the Bombers. Bill Pierce went all the way for the surprising White Sox and scattered 11 hits.

The third-place Detroit Tigers scored six runs in the ninth inning to beat the Athletics 9-6 in a night game at Philadelphia. Steve Souchock started the rally with his third home run of the season. Five singles and an error by pitcher Bob Hooper did the rest. Dave Philley of the A's hit a grand-slam homer. Bob Cain gained credit for the victory.

Boston Red Sox edged the slipping Cleveland Indians 2-1 in a day affair at Fenway Park. Vern Stephens drove in both runs with a pinch-hit single in the eighth off reliefer Lou Brissie. Mickey McDermott, making his first start of the year after successful relief work, went all the way for Boston.

St. John's, Ida, Celebrating 132nd Anniversary In June

CAVAN, May 19—(ENS)—High on a hill overlooking the villages of Cavan and Ida stands St. John's Anglican church. The present church—the third St. John's—is a red brick building 85 years old.

The first church, a log building, was put up in 1819 under the direction of the Rev. Joseph Thompson, who came out from England in that year as a missionary. It was located just west of the middle road of Cavan in the 10th concession.

Tall, white-trimmed windows made up of many small panes of clear glass overlook Ida to the north and Cavan to the south. Surrounding the church is its cemetery, which slopes gently to the south boundary of church property.

When he talked of building a church, Mr. Thompson found the majority of the pioneers eager to help in erecting a place where they could meet and worship God.

It did not take long to cut and hew the logs and erect the little building. It was ready for the first service which was held the first year of his arrival 1819. It was built on the southeast corner of the property and was used for three years until it was destroyed by fire in 1822.

Mr. Thompson then divided the property for a church and cemetery and chose as a site for the second church a place about half way up the hill near the centre of the present cemetery.

Here a frame church was built which served the congregation for 43 years. It was struck by lightening and burned to the ground in 1865. Just one year later the willing and hard working pioneers completed the building of the third church.

The site was changed to the top of the hill and there it has stood for 85 years. When the church was completed the members of the congregation wanted to have a church bell, but the getting of it was a problem as the nearest place one could be procured was at Toronto which was 75 miles away. There were no railroads in that part of the country then and it was a long drive to take with horses. After much discussion a member of the parish, Thomas Foster volunteered to go for it. He hitched up his team of horses and made the long, slow journey, returning proudly with the bell in the back of the wagon.

The church has a seating capacity for about 175.

In summer one may sit and gaze through the quaint windows which open inward like doors out across the well-kept cemetery. Looking to the south one may see the first monument marking the place of the first burial in the cemetery, John Dawson, a child aged four, who was buried at the foot of a pine tree near the centre of the cemetery on September 30, 1822.

On entering the church, the attention of the visitor is attracted to the large memorial window in the chancel, just above the altar. It is in memory of the Rev. Samuel Armour, who was rector of St. John's for 20 years from 1833 to 1853. It was placed there by his grandson, Eric Armour, Toronto.

A finely wrought brass reading desk is in memory of the Venerable Archdeacon Thomas W. A. Allen who was rector of St. John's for 53 years. It was placed there by the congregation. Beneath the memorial window is the altar table of polished oak, placed there in memory of Jessie, wife of Archdeacon Allen, by her sons.

The pulpit, also of polished oak, was a gift from the late Margaret McNeil in memory of her husband, the late Charles McNeil.

The baptismal font was a gift from the late Vivian Simpson, in memory of her husband, Archdeacon Simpson, who was rector of St. John's from 1928 to 1942.

A brass plaque at the front of the church at the right of the reading desk is in memory of William Howe Lough, for many years church warden of St. John's.

A bronze plaque on the north wall of the church was placed there by Major Stewart Douglas Armour, DSO, to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the assumption of the rectorship of the parish by his great-grandfather. It bears the inscription to the men of Cavan who died in the First World War.

A plaque on the south wall is in memory of Henry Sisson, people's warden of St. John's for 21 years.

The Rev. Joseph Thompson, 1819-1933; the Rev. Samuel Armour, 1833-1853; Ven. Archdeacon Thomas W. A. Allen, 1853-1905; Canon W. C. Allen, assistant rector and rector, 1883-1928; Archdeacon Simpson, 1928-1942; the Rev. A. E. Chevis, 1942-1945; the Rev. C. W. McLean, 1945-1949; and the present rector, the Rev. A. Chote.

The Rev. Joseph Thompson, the Rev. Samuel Armour, Archdeacon Allan, Canon W. C. Allen and the Rev. A. C. Chevis are all buried in St. John's Cemetery.

The first death recorded in the records was that of Christopher Hagermore, on August 16, 1819, at the age of 50 years. Another death was that of James Murphy, Cavan, October 14, 1819.

The oldest headstone in the cemetery bears the names of Jane Staples, wife of Thomas Staples, who died in 1823.

Each year a remembrance Sunday is held in June when relatives come from near and far to lay flowers on the graves. The throngs who gather for this service overflow the church and a loud speaker is used so that those who have to remain outside can take part in the service.

Many interesting stories have been handed down from Cavan Blazer days. One is of a lad fourteen years of age, James Story, a son of a Cavan Blazer, who heard that one of the masons who helped to build the church had stood on his head on one corner of the present church tower. He came down one moonlight night and successfully repeated the performance. Later he went to live in Oshawa and founded the Oshawa Gas Fittings. He has always retained an interest in St. John's Church and community, and when the parish hall was built in 1925 he sent a generous donation.

An interesting story is told of Dr. H. A. Turner's father, also a doctor, who came out from Ireland and settled in Millbrook. He attended church at St. John's one Sunday dressed in a swallow-tailed coat and silk hat. He left his hat on a ledge at the back of the church and took a seat near the front. The service over, he went to get his hat, but it was not there. Hearing boisterous laughter and shouting outside, he went out and found some of the Cavan Blazers kicking his hat back and forward as a football. Tiring of this, they pulled it apart and each took a few shreds home for a souvenir.

When this church was first founded it was in the Quebec diocese, but some time later became part of the Toronto diocese.

Should Bible Be Censored?

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

"God's mills grind slow but sure," wrote the poet, George Herbert, and that variously requoted fact was manifest in the course and destiny of the Southern Kingdom of the Jewish people, the Kingdom of Judah, and the two tribes that remained loyal to Rehoboam, when the 10 tribes revolted under Jeroboam.

That Kingdom lasted for 136 years after the Northern Kingdom fell, but it began under a king, Rehoboam, threatening to chastise his subjects with scorpions, where his father, Solomon, had chastised them with whips. It was a bad beginning, and most of its course, and its kings, continued the evil.

There is, indeed, much of bloodshed and tragedy in the historical books of the Bible, along with so much that is good and noble, that a correspondent who reads my column has suggested that for the reading of the Bible today much of the records of cruelty and bloodshed should be omitted.

It is a suggestion with which I cannot agree, though it is justified in a limited way. It is obvious that certain parts of the Bible are not well suited for public or family reading, and this fact has led to the compilations of selections well adapted for such use. Many years ago, in Ontario, where the reading of a portion of Scripture each day was mandatory in the public schools, the Hon. G. W. Ross, then minister of education, issued such a compilation, which I think was excellent for its purpose; but his political opponents made a great outcry, as if he had blasphemed against the Good Book, in doing what other reverent hands have since done again and again.

But for my own part I do not want expurgated books. I assume that if they need censoring I am as competent to do my own censoring as to have it done by some, possibly incompetent, censorious person. And above all, I do not want my Bible expurgated or censored.

I count it one of the great glories of the Bible that it is a book of remarkable realism and honesty. It does not suppress facts unfavorable to the Jewish people, or to their greater leaders and heroes. Their faults and mistakes, their very sins (often deep-dyed, as in the case of David's virtual murder of Uriah), are set down with grim honesty, and without any alleviating word.

A history of our times would be wholly dishonest and wrong, if along with all that is good and sublime in our times, it did not record the horrors of Hitlerism, and the later horrors of Soviet concentration camps.

New Algonquin Road Opens Virgin Tourist District

By NICK NICKELS

On Wednesday at 2 p.m. driver Victor Swinton of Colonial Coach Lines trundled bus 4576 out of the Peterborough terminal bound for Pembroke, 170 miles to the northeast. It was the pilot run over the new "Algonquin Route," Toronto-Peterborough-Pembroke. By reason of a sign inside the bus warning passengers to watch the sunken aisles, the vehicle was dubbed just that by the passengers. This, then, is the log of the "Sunken Aisles."

The trip ran into rain before reaching Paudash Lake on Highway 28. It poured until sundown but the bus drove into each way station on time. At Bancroft, a village that now may well boast of being the "Southwestern Gateway To the Ottawa Valley," Reeve Theodore Tryon climbed aboard. The trip continued through some of the most magnificent scenery in Ontario, so an official said, but rain streamed against the windows and the general effect was lost.

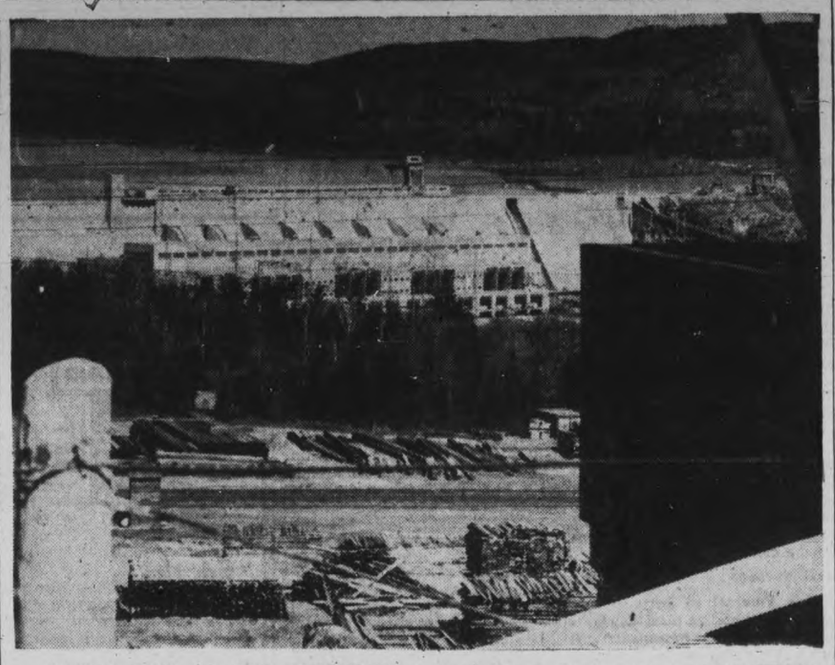
MAIN ST. TOPICS

GIRLS FOUND



Two teen-age Toronto girls were picked up by city police Friday night after they had run away from home. They were found in the exhibition grounds. Their parents will be notified and they will be sent home.

VISITING CHOIR

The choir of High Park United Church in Toronto under the direction of Roy Grass and the George St. United Church choir directed by Charles Allen will visit each others church Sunday morning. The High Park choir will sing numbers by Stevenson, Bach-Gounod and Noble Cain.

STOLE TREES

Charles Scott of Guilford township Friday pleaded guilty in Lindsay to two charges of theft. Scott was said to have stolen 33 trees off the property of H. G. McKinley of Toronto. The trees ranged in size from 12 inches across the base to 30 inches. The other charge was stealing furnishings from the McKinley cottage. Scott said he was prepared to make restitution. Magistrate E. A. Gee postponed final disposition of the case for three weeks.

Two Cars Damaged In Crash At Corner

Two cars cracked together at Aylmer and Sherbrooke Sts. Friday evening as one driven by Cyril Monkman, 626 Gilmour St., was making a left turn to go east on Sherbroke St.

Downtown Fire Snarls Traffic

Downtown traffic was snarled by the business block fire as city buses and cars tried to find their way around the streets that were blocked off.

Constable Douglas Farthing who discovered the fire and Constable Dennis Traynor were putting up rope barriers at six a.m. But some drivers didn't see them and others ignored them when they became slack and drooped to the ground.

Shortly after nine a.m. the police station asked the board of works to put up wooden barriers that could not be mistaken.

Pedestrians were the worst offenders in crashing the rope barriers. Several times, firemen turned their hoses on the crowd as it surged forward and started to hamper the movement of the fire fighters.

City buses were rerouted around the block. Hunter St. from Water to Aylmer Sts. was roped off. George St. from Simcoe St. to Brock St. was also blocked off.

City police called on the provincial police to help deal with traffic at the downtown corners by sending two constables, after the OPP had offered aid.

The east sidewalk of George St. between Simcoe and Hunter Sts. was jammed wih people watching the fire and the firemen fight it. They offered all sorts of explanations on how the fire could have started and how much damage was done in the stores.

Boys' Solo Class Described Best Of Canadian Festivals

"The best performances both musically and technically that I have heard in this festival and the best boy's solo work I have heard in the Canadian festivals, at which I have been adjudicator." This was the comment of John Clements, adjudicator, after hearing six boys sing the vocal solo, O Had I Jubal's Lyre by Handel, Friday afternoon at the Peterborough Kiwanis Club Music Competition Festival in Murray St. Baptist Church.

Mr. Clements awarded the top marks of the festival, 88, to Robert D. Willis, boy soloist of Toronto who placed first in this class. Second place went to Ian Condie, Willowdale, with 87 marks and third place to Herald Jenkins, Oakwood, with 83 marks.

The largest class of the festival also took place during Friday's sessions. A total of 36 children under 11 years competed in class 127—The Gay Cavalier by Dunhill. The class was divided into two sections—the first was held in the morning and the second in the afternoon. Three winning contestants were picked from the two sections and competed in a final adjudication class Friday evening.

The final marks for the winners in this class were totals of the marks given in their first performance and their performance in the final class.

The winners were: 1—Phyllis Beebe, Bailieboro (168); Roberta Wilson, Peterborough (165); Michael Triggs, Peterborough (164).

Mr. Clements also adjudicated this class.

POLITE BLACKMAIL

The Women's Auxiliary of Civic hospital is going to present an oxygen tent to the hospital, but the board's woman members, Mrs. E. C. Braund, resorted to a bit of polite blackmail after she made the announcement Thursday night.

She asked the members of the board if they knew where the auxiliary would get the money. Innocently, they admitted they didn't know.

"From our penny sale," said Mrs. Braund. And it just happened that she had some tickets handy.

Rescues Chum Fell Into Lake

HAVELOCK, May 19 (ENS)—Alvin Chase, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Chase of Belmont Lake, saved the life of his chum Bobby Graham, 9, when the latter fell in the lake while fishing on Friday afternoon.

The boys decided to go fishing after school and were fishing from the shore on the Chase property in front of what is known as the old cottage. Bobby got what he thought was a bite which pulled him into the wa[illegible] as the water is very deep at that spot. Bobby was about 15 feet from the shore when Alvin reached him but he managed to swim back with him safely to shore.

Bobby Graham is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graham of Victoria, near Belmont Lake.

Three Youths Arrested By OPP In Stolen Car

Three youths were captured single handed by OPP Constable A. L. Kitching, Bowmanville detachment, Friday afternoon in a woods a mile north of Newtonville. They were lodged in Bowmanville jail and face a charge of stealing a car from Toronto.

The three are Roy Giroux, 17, St. Catharines; Robert Sim, 16, Thorold south; and Roy Fiwchuck, 18, Thorold.

Constable Kitching was patrolling Highway 2 when he noticed the three hitchhiking near the abandoned stolen car. When he stopped to question them they fled, but he captured them shortly afterwards in the bush. They offered no resistance.

Ten Editors Visit CGE Plant

Industrial Giant Seen At Work By Technical Writers

Ten editors of technical magazines visited the Peterborough plant of the Canadian General Electric Company Friday and watched an industrial giant at work.

Welcomed by assistant works manager James E. Girven, the journal men were conducted through the plant by Dr. G. R. Langley, works engineer, Roy T. Bogle, general superintendent and J. Fred Reed, assistant general superintendent.

What they saw was a highly complex, smoothly running production machine accelerating to keep up with expansion and increased demand.

Mystery to Most People

A familiar sight to most Peterborough's residents from the outside, it remains a mystery to a large extent to people who hear only about "fractional motor," "switchgear," and "induction motor," but have only the vaguest idea what the names mean.

Much of what goes on is also something of a mystery to a large percentage of the 4,800 odd men and women who work there. Few of them know what is going on in other departments than their own.

The industrial giant is many things. It is an engineer with a slide rule in his hand, sitting in a crowded office room, staring blankly but seeing problems and solutions to hundreds of puzzles for which answers must be found to keep the giant working.

The giant is a man wiping his oily hands on a rag as he pauses for a minute in the day's work. It is one girl in a long row of girls winding copper wire for coils in small electric motors. It is one huge bulding after another which make a railroad box car shunted inside at one end for loading seem insignificant. It is many things.

The Peterborough plant is the engineering heart of the CGE. This year it is celebrating its 60th year of production, being in continuous production longer than any electrical plant in Canada.

More than half of the Canadian General Co.'s engineers are employed at Peterborough. The company has 12 plants, all taking their origin, directly or indirectly, from the Peterborough plant. It is also the centre of the test course in which young engineering graduates are trained when they join the company.

The Peterborough works produces giant generators used at hydro development plants in Canada and in many parts of the World; it produces induction and fractional motors of all sizes and types; motor-generator sets, industrial control panels, motors and control equipment for diesel-electric locomotives and for trolley coaches; insulation materials, arc welding sets and electrodes, battery chargers, panel boards, giant complicated switches, lightning arresters, wire and cable and porcelain products. Its products are sold to consumers and used in its own plants.

The plant builds from the ground up. For instance the company ships in large coils of copper rod. From this rod it makes wire of all sorts. It stretches it, shaves it and cuts it to all sizes down to hair-like wire, some of it six one thousandths of an inch in diameter.

Some of the wire is coated with varnish for insulation. Other has asbestos blown on it and then has a cotton sheath woven over it to produce the familiar iron and kettle cords.

Complex Job

All the thousands of parts that go into a giant generator are made within the plant. The parts are brought together along the assembly lines and fitted into place. It is a complex job of

GORDON S. MATTHEWS

Gord. Matthews Retiring As Plant Manager

Gordon S. Matthews, general manager of Canada Packers Limited for the 32 years since 1919, announced at a recent staff convention his intention of retiring in July.

Grandson of the founder of the Peterborough branch of the company, Mr. Matthews has been in charge of the business here through four phases of its development and change of name. It was known as Matthews-Laing Company when he succeeded his father, the late T. Frank Matthews as general manager; then became Matthews - Blackwell Company; Canadian Packing Company and finally Canada Packers Limited.

The first unit of the plant was built by George Matthews who had come to Peterborough from Lindsay with the experience he had obtained there in the meat packing business. With him in the management was his son, T. Frank Matthews who succeeded his father and eventually enlarged his interests by amalgamation with the Laing, Blackwell, McLean and other meat packing firms.

Mr. G. S. Matthews told a recent foremen's convention that he had decided to retire this summer from the position of general-manager.

He said that from their long association at the plant, he wished to take them into his confidence. He remarked that when one reached the age of 55 years he was inclined to think of such matters as retirement from activities as a change which came to everyone in the course of life.

Man Injured Truck Car Crash

Fenelon Falls Man Critically Hurt In Head-On Crash

LINDSAY, May 18— One man was critically injured and his wife and a three-and-a-half-year-old son were injured when his car and a truck smashed head-on in about the centre of Highway 35, nine miles north of Lindsay Friday about four p.m.

In serious condition in Lindsay hospital is Stephen Wortham, Peace Valley storekeeper. His son suffered two broken legs and his wife, Felicity, suffered lacerations about the face. Their eight-month-old baby escaped any injury.

Driver of the truck, George Bryant, Norland, had a bruised knee. The car and the truck were welded together by the impact and completely wrecked.

The car had been travelling south and the truck north, but no one has yet offered an explanation of how they collided near the centre of the road.

Name Howard Powell Assistant Manager

W. Howard Powell has been appointed assistant general manager of the city's public utilities.

"We want Ross Dobbin (general manager) to take things a little easier," said Gordon S. Matthews, chairman, speaking for the Utilities Commission at its Thursday meeting.

It was said that Mr. Powell could gradually assume more of the responsibilities of management. He came to Peterborough July 1, 1949, from Kingston where he had been engaged for a time as assistant manager of the public utilities in that city.

It was then the intention of the Commission to engage an engineer gradually to learn the background of Peterborough's three utilities, water, electricity and gas. There was an element of probation in the engagement but that period, it was said this week, was now passed.

Mr. Powell is a graduate of the University of Toronto, is married and has two children.

Compares Britain To Family Who Has Seen Better Days

By JACK SCOTT

VANCOUVER, May — Imagine for the moment that there is a certain family in your neighborhood who have passed through terrible times

In the last dozen years they've gone from prosperity to the very brink of bankruptcy One of their sons—the most promising — has died a violent death The family lives from day to day on the barest esentials, struggling to keep up a front of respectability.

Imagine further that this family, living like this, announces an open house for all the neighborhood and that this affair turns out to be one of the most stimulating parties in anyone's memary....

This is the way, it seems to me, to think of the Old Country and its Festival of Britain.

In the last week I've had letters from three friends, who toil in Fleet Street—men with sensitive fingers on the pulse of England. Each carries the glad tidings of a new spirit abroad in th Old Land.

One puts it this way: "We needed a party like this as a sort of reminder that there'll always be an England. The Festival may have only a small effect economically, but there's simply no question of it being a shot in the arm for morale. People already are talking of this show as the real beginning of a return to brighter times."

Another (and no lover of the Labor government) has this to say: "We all seem to be dreadfully out of practice when it comes to making merry, but I do believe we are re-learning. The summer weather is here, there's music in the air, and, by God, it looks as if the old Island isn't going to sink beneath the waves after all."

The third puts it very simply: "Come on over, old cock, and have some fun with us."

I find all this evidence of vitality particularly exciting because so many North American interests seem eager to bend over the broken body of Great Britain for the ten-count. And—praise be!—the body just refuses to lie down or, indeed, to stop fighting.

Since Attlee's Labor government came to power the great bulk of the anti-Socialist press on this continent has been something less than fair to Britain. In their single-minded desire to discredit the Socialist experiment they've had to discredit the people of Great Britain as well.

Recently I interviewed a world-travelling representative of the British steel industry, a man with some cause to feel cool to Messrs. Attlee and Company.

"You people are being completely misled about what is happening in England," he told me. "Our trouble is not Socialism. That is merely a mild irritant. We're having these times simply because now we must ready for the next one. No one in England really believes that a Conservative government under Churchill or anybody else would have made any appreciable difference."

It is my own belief that when the next election comes around—almost certainly within the next year—the Attlee government will be defeated.

This is not because Attlee brought Socialism to Britain. He did not. It will be because the experiment never had a fighting chance from the beginning and because the necessity for rearmament now gives it less chance than ever.

I believe, further, that England will return to Socialism, when it has the vigor to carry it through.

Time Magazine, which always has a sharp harpoon ready for socialism, recently described the British brand as "a dry and appalling doctrine."

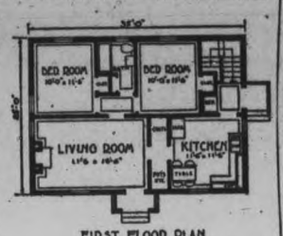
This is reasonable as a prejudiced opinion, but it is pretty poor reporting. For that "dry and appalling doctrine" is a thing that millions of Britons look to for salvation and a decent life. It is at once a promise and a hope and even socialism's critics concede that it has never had the opportunity to succeed, thus cannot be called a failure.

Real Purpose

This Festival of Britain was born, of course, as most pageants are, for economic reasons. It will bring many thousands of tourists from all parts of the world, particularly from the United States. It will increase Britain's trade potential.

But there's every indication that it will have a good effect on the people at home, as well. When a people straighten up in their hour of trial and sound the trumpets for a fair then you know they're a long, long way from being beaten.

I've been reading the words of the Archbishop of Canterbury, spoken at the opening ceremonies of the Festival, and in these lines it seems to me is the real spirit of Great Britain today.



"The chief and governing purpose of the Festival," he said, "is to declare our belief and trust in the British way of life, not with any boastful self-confidence, nor with any aggressive self-advertisement, but with sober and humble thoughtfulness for the creation of our traditions by those who have gone before us, for their preservation through every peril, and for the blessings which have thereby been brought to us and to others, and also with a sober and humble trust that by holding fast to that which is good and rejecting from our midst that which is evil, we may continue to be a nation at unity and of service to the world.

"It is good at a time like the present so to strengthen, and, in part, to recover our hold on the abiding principles of all that is best in our national life."

Those are noble words for a noble affair. I just wish I were going to be around to join in the fun.

HOUSE NO. 1002—Although this red brick cottage was built in North Toronto a number of years ago, it stands out today as a fine example of small house designing. It contains only four rooms, carefully arranged for pleasant living. Space economy demanded omission of vestibule, or front hall. Revival of the attractive hip-roofed cottage of old Upper Canada days is worthy of praise. Here is dignity and economy all rolled ito one. Many variations of this beautiful style are possible. Such homes are an asset to any community. Notice particularly the millwork detail. Chimney on the kitchen side could be eliminated for further economy—For working drawing write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Newsprint Union 40-Hour Week

TORONTO, May 19 (CP). — Company executives and union officials Friday laid the basis for an agreement for some 18,000 workers in 11 of Canada's biggest newsprint mills.

The agreement contains an undertaking from the manufacturers to institute a 40-hour week, with 48 hours' pay as soon as the necessary manpower and housing facilities are available.

On their part union officials agreed they would suggest the institution of some Sunday work to their members with a view of increasing production.

Companies granted a wage increase of 14 per cent. with a minimum of 16 cents an hour to paper - makers; retroactive to May 1.

Junior Says: He Hurt Me

By NANCY CLEAVER

Junior and Tommy are playing with a little train set. Suddenly a struggle arises over the possession of the engine. In the tussle, Tommy's superior size is just on the point of winning the coveted toy, when Junior makes a quick motion and bites Tommy's fingers, which are clenched around the engine. With a howl of rage and pain, Tommy, dropping the toy, runs to tell his mother and show her the marks of Junior's teeth!

What is Tommy's mother likely to do? What line of action will Junior's mother take? What would you do if you were either of these two?

Tommy's mother knows his hand will not have any serious injury, but she is furious to see him suffering from a bite, of all things, from a playmate! She comforts him, diverts his attention to some play activity. Tommy must learn to take small injuries without too much fuss. On the other hand, if Tommy is too passive and never stands up for himself, his mother must encourage him to look out for himself.

If, in her annoyance, Tommy's mother takes her screaming son over to Junior's house and proceeds roundly to condemn the other child before his mother, the fat will be in the fire! How many quarrels between households have arisen from just such a situation? Children are blessed with comparatively short memories. If left alone, Tommy and Junior will in all probability, play happily together the next day. But if Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Jones "have words" over this episode, they may not be on speaking terms for weeks—or even months!

There is no one rule for the parent to follow if one child has hurt another child. What seems to work with one youngster is a failure with another. Some parents are very sure that if one child bites another, the "biter" should be bitten by the parent on the same place he has inflicted his bite on his chum's skin. Others advise a good sound spanking. These methods are not to be commended. Although they may seem to meet the immediate situation, they do not get at the root of the trouble.

Of course, a child must learn not to hurt others. But if he is frequently in hot water over biting or scratching or pinching, or hair pulling, or simply hitting a chum, the child is in trouble within himself. An occasional incident is not serious, but if this is a persistent habit, the child who hurts is expressing his own uncertainty. His jealousy, or frustration or insecurity is finding expression in this anti-social act of harming another person.

What can Junior's mother do? She should try to discover, by quiet observation, the underlying reason for his actions, and do what she can to meet his need. She will not help Junior by scolding him for being a "bad boy." Rather she should give her son the feeling that she loves him and knows that he will learn not to hurt another child.

Mother can also avoid many painful incidents by sufficient supervision. Children who are beginning to quarrel can be separated. A new activity may be suggested if children are becoming bored. Possibly the child who hurts another, just like the adult who indulges in ridicule or sarcasm, rather enjoys the little scurry of excitement which he has caused!

The child must learn that to hurt another is not the thing to do! This will demand understanding and patience on the part of his parents. So does any other type of behavior problem. No one ever claimed that bringing up a child was a simple task. But to a true parent it is the most rewarding job in all the world.

New CBC Montreal Centre Busy Place at Opening

MONTREAL, May 19 (CP). — One of the world's largest and most up-to-date radio network centres was officially opened here tonight—the Radio Canada Building of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

The new radio centre on Dorchester Street, formerly the Ford Hotel, is at the heart of the CBC system which operates longer networks and broadcasts in more time zones than any other.

The official opening at 9 p.m. included brief messages from Dr. J. J. McCann, minister of national revenue; A. D. Dunton, chairman of the Board of Governors of the CBC, and Dr. Augustin Frigon, CBC general manager. A program of highlights of the last 20 years in Canadian radio was written and produced by Gerald Arthur, French-language supervisor.

More than one-third of the system's 1,500 employees in Canada, about 600, are located in this building which has 26 studios originating programs for Canada

RADIO "PALACE"—This is the main lobby of the CBC's new building on midtown Dorchester Street in Montreal. Marble columns, terazzo floors and mahogany-panelled walls are features of the interior. Two large studios can be viewed from the lobby, one of which can be seen through the stairway window.

18 hours a day, and world programs by short-wave in 14 different languages.

Busy Spot

From this building go programs to four 50,000-watt transmitters at CBM, CBF, Montreal, and the international service shortwave transmitters at Sackville, NB. They also feed two FM transmitters, two shortwave transmitters for northern and western Canada, and three networks in Canada, the Trans-Canada, Dominion and French networks.

Three other studios are being developed for television programs that will be broadcast from the new CBC television station on Mount Royal.

Here the three main technical elements in any radio production are grouped in an integrated system—the studios themselves, the master control room and the recording room.

Studios on Springs

The studios where programs originate are a sample of the planning that went into this development. Each is suspended on springs or rubber within the framework of the walls. Inner walls, ceilings and floors are specially treated to preserve the required acoustics, and outer walls are similarly treated.

Within the studios themselves all acoustic tile has a different pattern on its reverse side, so that by reversing a few tiles within the study different acoustical results may be achieved.

The master-control room is designed to carry a heavier program load than any other in North America. It is geared for five transmitters, eight outgoing networks, seven incoming networks and the output from the building's 26 studios.

This master control can route 27 individual programs simultaneously, including 14 to the recording machines. Through the master control different language announcements can be combined with the same musical program for broadcast to different language zones.

Has Master Clock

The building has a master clock which regulates the transmitter clock, and in turn the latter drives nearly 100 smaller timepieces throughout the building, each ticking off the seconds in synchronization with the transmitter clock.

The building's electronic equipment employs more than 1,000 radio tubes of all shapes and sizes. Five hundred of these are in the master control, 200 in the recording room and the rest in the studios.

The 600 staff members housed in the new centre include announcers, producers, operators, technicians, stenographers, writers and maintenance workers. A modern cafeteria serves hundreds of meals daily. Two separate lounges for radio artists are located adjacent to the studios and storage space for instruments and equipment are provided.

Scientifc Names Of Birds Conceal Romantic Touch

By PERCY GHENT

Don't let the scientific names used by highbrow Ornithologists discourage you. There's a touch of romance and poetry in some official labels for our Canadian birds when you ponder them.

Take the nighthawk, for instance, whose "peent" call is familiar on spring and summer evenings. He has been tagged Chordeiles minor, which freely translated, means "little harp of evening." This because the "peent" call suggested all the strings of a harp sounded in one sweep of a finger — or the beak of a bird.

Evening grosbeaks, the bird with striking plumage of gold, jet and white who are spring visitors from northland forests, often in great flocks, have the scientific label Hesperiphona vesspertina.

When, more than a century ago they appeared in Eastern Canada from North and West, a man of science remembered his mythology and gave them the name which tells of those legendary "daughters of the night" who dwelt at the Western rim of the world and but rarely visited the haunts of men.

Cave-Mouth

And the shy whip-poor-will — that's exactly what he says — in a call mournful yet melodious, has been burdened with the tag, Antrostomus vociferus, meaning "strong-voiced cave-mouth."

That bird's call seems loud and clear because it is usually heard in the stillness of the evening. Big, the mouth certainly is, but hardly cavernous. Besides, the whip-poor-will needs a large mouth to accommodate the large meals. There is no more efficient animated insect trap than poor will, a true friend of farmer and fruit-grower.

St. Lawrence Gannets

Bonaventure Island, Anticosti Island, and several islets off the coast of Newfoundland, thanks to Canadian conservation measures, have become the sanctuary and stronghold of that snow-white seabird, the gannet.

On shelves and ledges of these islands and bird rocks in the Gulf of St Lawrence the gannets nest and breed, and the granite heights there in spring and early summer look as if they were covered with feathery snow. True birds of the ocean they dive from great heights, at times, for their finny prey. Even their nests are made of seaweed.

Snakeskin Trimming

When wandering in Canadian woods in summer from Southern Manitoba to the Maritimes, the crested flycatcher, easily identified by its aerial insect catching and its brief but jaunty crest, is worth looking for.

This olive and brown bird, its call a loud "whee-ee-eep," has a singular habit which has long intrigued ornithologists. Rarely is this flycatcher's nest found without the adornment of a cast snake skin. It is thought to be placed there to warn off predators, not by the sight of the skin, but because the snake odor is said to cling to the skin and radiates warning.

Plans Big Display At 1951 Trade Fair

LONDON — (CP) — Robert Asquith, president of an association which does a £2,000,000 (6,000,000)-a-year business in Canada, claims the association will have the largest British section at the Canadian International Trade Fair in Toronto this year.

Asquith told reporters that the Machine Tools Trade Association has ordered 32,000 square feet of show space—to display everything from a dentist's drill to a 30-ton machine that presses out automobile bodies.

Asquith was one of 200 exporters attending a reception at Canada House. Also among them was Sir Colin Gubbins, wartime head of an organization directing sabotage and underground activity. Part of his peacetime job is selling carpets and textiles to Canada.

Marked Man

BIRMINGHAM, ENGLAND — (CP) —A. E. Tipton, 65, claims that he is England's most-marked man. His art gallery includes tattooings of Queen Victoria, King Edward VII, Queen Alexandra, King George V, The Crucifixion, Britannia, his parents' graves and, around his neck, a string of birds.

STATE EDUCATION

Education in Finland was transferred from the church to municipal authorities in 1866.

Peterborough Choirs Compete Tuesday

Peterborough choirs are preparing to compete for one of the highest awards offered for festival choral competition in Canada—The Lincoln Trophy.

Peterborough's participation in this competition, which has national scope, will take place at the final competition session of the Kiwanis Festival Tuesday evening in Murray St. Baptist Church.

The six choirs will be judged along with choirs from British Columbia to Saint John, New Brunswick.

Gordon Thorne, adjudicator at the Peterborough Kiwanis Festival, in his cross-Canada adjudicating tour, has been marking choirs for this trophy that was presented to the Canadian Musical Festivals by the City of Lincoln Music Festival, England.

At the conclusion of the tour he will advise the secretary of the Canadian Federation of Music Festivals the name of the choir that has won the award. The winner will be announced at the annual general meeting of the Federation.

The Peterborough choirs competing are All Saints' Anglican Church choir, The Coventry Singers, St. Andrew's United Church choir, George St. United Church choir, Trinity United Church choir and Murray St. Baptist Church choir.

The music festivals competing for this award are Toronto, Kingston, Chatham, Peterborough, Fort William-Port Arthur, Stratford, British Columbia, Calgary, Manitoba and Saint John.

In addition to this special choir competition Tuesday evening, the festival adjudicators, Mr. Thorne and John Clements will give their closing remarks.

Mother's Tea By Supper Club Fetes Grads

Mothers of the girls of the Friday Night Supper Club were honored guests Friday at a very delightful afternoon tea in the YWCA Green Room which was quite largely attended.

The tea also marked the conclusion until October of the weekly supper club meetings and was a "bowing out" of this years' executive.

Retiring president Miss Betty Scollard introduced the officers who will be in charge of the '51-'52 season: Miss Lois Bearne as president, Miss Anne Lewis as vice-president, Miss Joanne Curtis as secretary and Miss Beth Davidson as treasurer.

Lovely bouquets of spring flowers and tree blossoms around the room and a tea table bouquet in which the tulips had been carefully selected for their attractive coloring were complements to the charming hostesses. These were gatherd and arranged by a decorating committee of Misses Barbara Clark, Beth Davidson and Beth Powell.

Co-conveners of the tea were Misses Betty Anne Wilkinson and Betty Jones, and both were excellent in this capacity.

Special guests present were Mrs. C. S. Browne, Miss M. McIntosh, Mrs. C. G. Collins, Miss L. Brownscombe, Mrs. T. Cook, and Mrs. J. Campbell, but Mrs. Paige Rowell, Mrs. J. Donoghue, Mrs. J. W. Freestone and Mrs. T. J. Carley were unable to attend.

Effective piano music during the tea was by Misses Margaret Martyn and Janet Estlick.

Receiving were president Miss Betty Scollard and Mrs. R. Beck of the Y staff, and their mothers, Mrs. W. Scollard and Mrs. Whitehead of Winnipeg, were pouring tea.

The servers were Misses Arleigh Brotherstone, Joyce Copp, Joanne Curtis, Evelyn Doherty, Shirley Austin, Helen Bradley, Mary Roberts and Gwyn Blackwell.

IODE Plans To Sell Rights To Design Of Royal Carpet

TORONTO, May 19 (CP)—The copyright for Queen Mary's carpet has been assigned to the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire and will be sold to the highest bidder.

Mrs W. R. Walton, Jr., of Oakville, who has been in charge of the handsome piece of needlepoint since the order took charge of it 10 months ago, said today in an interview that money from the sale of the copywright will go to swell the dollars-for-Britain fund established by the IODE to buy the carpet for Canada.

The carpet, 10 feet two inches by six feet 9½ inches, was donated by the Queen Mother to the British government to raise dollars for her country. The original intention was to auction it to the highest bidder in Canada or the United States on the understanding that it would be placed eventuall; in a public institution.

Tour Unsuccessful

It was taken on a tour of 28 US cities and six in Canada. But the bids resulting from the tour were not suitable. The IODE offered to establish a public fund of $100,000 to buy the carpet for Canada.

Sale of the copyright means that the unusual floral design of this carpet which the Queen Mother, in her 80s, worked on during the Second World War, eventually may appear on china or on furniture.

The designs were adapted, on the Queens' instructions, by the Royal School of Needlework from 18th-century originals at London's Victoria and Albert Museum and elsewhere. They have never before been used in their present form.

The price the IODE hopes to get for the copyright was not mentioned but it will be as high as possible. At present the general carpet fund is some $13,000 below the $100,000 minimum which the IODE was pledged to raise within a year of the carpet's purchase.

Donations Solicited

"We have solicited donations from prominent Canadians and we expect that IODE chapters will send in contributions," said Mrs. Walton. She hoped the minimum would be met by the time the IODE national annual meeting gets under way at Saskatoon May 26-30.

The carpet, which has travelled some 15,000 miles, has been seen in 63 centres by more than 300,000 Canadians.

"We've received hundreds of poems and songs about Queen Mary and the carpet," said Mrs. Walton. "It has been simply amazing the way people have queued outside fire-halls, high school auditoriums — in all weather — to see this royal treasure."

It also was taken outside Canada—to the Bahamas in February and Bermuda in April.

The carpet still is travelling. In Sarnia May 16-19, it will visit Estevan, Sask., May 23-24. Possibly it will be on display in Saskatoon at the Order's annual meeting. It will arrive in Winnipeg June 7. Brandon residents will see it June 11-13.

The famed piece of needlepoint is destined eventually to be placed in the National Gallery at Ottawa. But before it goes there, the IODE would like to see it travel a few more miles.

"We would hope that it could be loaned to Britain, to give the British people a chance to seee it," said Mrs. Walton. "And perhaps it could be taken for another visit to other parts of the Commonwealth."

Flower-Filled Tea Room Delights St. Andrew's Guests

It was designated as a "Lilac Tea" by the ladies of St. Andrew's WMS when they made plans several months ago but their choice of Friday, May 18th, as the date was evidently not suitable to the lilacs. So, very few of the lilac branches in the baskets decorating their tea room showed fully opened petals.

The lack of lilacs was not damaging however for branches of lovely pink-tipped apple blossoms and tulips and daffodils in profusion made up. Very striking and colorful artificial flowers, some arranged on a rose trellis others in a tall white standard and more on the mantelpiece gave an effect that seemed to set a delightful mood for the tea and promote in the guests the friendliness extended by the hostesses.

In the tea table bouquet were several dozen pink tulips, the petals opened just enough to show the color, and these were from president Mrs. F. W. K. Harris' own garden. Pink tapers in triple graduated height holders on silver candalabrae highlighted the table and the very dainty cloth of white embossed, sheer organdy.

Mrs. E. F. Reid was responsible for the decorating and Mrs. H. Tremain and Mrs. E. Hawley convened the refreshments and tea arrangements.

Tea pourers were Mrs. C. M. Scott, Mrs. R. Y. Kenny, Mrs. W. J. Stacey and Mrs. F. S. Milliken and servers were Mrs E. Reid, Mrs. R. Jones, Miss E. Scott, Mrs. F. Gillespie, Mrs. F. McNeeley, Mrs. R. Hardie, Mrs. H. Davis, Mrs. J. Boyd, Mrs. V. Hamilton and Mrs. F. W. Moeser.

Hostesses in the tea room were Mrs. B. King, Miss M. Ferguson, Mrs. B. F. McNeeley, and Mrs. T. Skinner. Mrs M. J Aiken was assisting Mrs. Harris to receive and Mrs. A. A. Munro was taking tickets.

About 175 guests attended.

A novelty table operated by the Evening Auxiliary and convened by Mrs. R. M. Hardie featured large-size stuffed toys for the children as well as small novelties, knitted garments for babies, children's dresses and aprons and a good supply of candy. The salesladies were Mrs. Rod Blackwell, Mrs. L. Wood, Mrs. J. Mitchell, Mrs. Walter Edkins and Miss Marion Manning.

cornflower pattern and a set of cream and sugar on a tray in hobnail pattern on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Arkils, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Irish, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reycraft and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wartman.

The Rev. J. M. Ritchie, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, read another address and they were presented with a set of dishes from their daughters, Marjorie and Jean Rogers, a pair of embroidered pillow slips from Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie, and a china cup and saucer from Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rogers.

A lovely lunch was served by Mrs. Thos. Rogers and Mrs. Roy Rogers, and an enjoyable evening was brought to a close.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Forbearance, Cooperation Essential In Son-in-law

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widow of 41. I have only one daughter whom I have raised myself, and I had a very hard time getting her through school.

Dorothy Dix

We were very close to each other, and very happy until she married over a year ago. She married a boy who doesn't care anything about me, or her people. He never asks me to come to see them. For my daughter's sake I have been to their home, but when I go he doesn't speak to me or even stay in the same room with me. They live about 400 miles from me. He has no reason to treat me like this.

Before they were married I was always nice to him. I have never asked them for help, though they have plenty of everything. I am able to work and make my own living. It hurts my daughter, too, to see her husband act this way toward me. She tells me to ignore him, but that, of course, isn't as easy to do as to say. She has talked to him and asked him to be different, but but with no effect.

Keeps Her Away

He won't come with her when she comes to see me, so she doesn't get here very often. His people are very sweet to me and they don't approve of the way he is acting. His father offered to get me a job in the town they all live in so I could be near my daughter but my son-in-law, of course, objected. Do you think it would do any good to talk to him myself and ask him why he treats me so coldly?

L. A. O.

ANSWER: This is an in-law angle that doesn't crop up as frequently as some other problems. We're always hearing about the mother who wants to continue to run her child's life even after marriage, or the son who marries and promptly forgets he ever had a mother, but most sons-in-law will get along with their wives' mothers if given the least bit of encouragement. Remember the saying, "The groom's mother loses a son, but the bride's mother gains one."

Your son-in-law seems to be a cold fish beyond the reach of any reasoning. I doubt if talking to him will do much good. It's probably best to take your daughter's advice: ignore him as much as possible, pretend not to notice his odd behavior and one of these days when he needs you he'll sing a different tune.

The in-law problem in one form or another poses one of the queerest quirks in human nature. It certainly is one of the most frequent causes of marital disaster, although in the vast majority of cases it shouldn't a problem at all. A little forbearance; a little understanding; a little cooperation and all parties concerned would get along without strife.

If a mother would just let her married child go from the parental nest with grace and tact she would find far less heartache than she does in battling the situation. If a young wife would only realize that her husband still owes some allegiance to his mother, and not tug so hard to break his home ties, she would reap a bountiful harvest of friendship and love from her mother-in-law; if a new benedict would accept the fact that a mother and daughter relationship cannot be disrupted by a few words spoken at the altar, and perhaps look ahead to the time when he'd be darn glad to have grandma in to baby-sit, the trials and tribulations of in-law difficulties would vanish like a breeze.

Instead, the trouble begins on the wedding day, if not before, with sonny's mother hating her new daughter-in-law, and convinced that the girl's only object in life is to keep her husband away from his mother. The wife's mother is equally convinced that her daughter's life will be wrecked by the improvident wretch she has chosen to marry. The wife knows beyond all question of doubt that her mother-in-law is out to ruin the marriage as quickly as possible and the husband sees his in-laws parked on him as permanent spongers.

Trying to talk anyone of them into a different attitude would be a harder task than cleaning the Augean stable. If each one would just confront the situation wisely, and see it in its true light, the problems would disappear and young marriages would get off to better starts.

Of course there are in-law situations that are well-night insoluble, but these are not too common, and if the "bears" of marriage—"bear" and "forbear" mother-in-law jokes would soon be outmoded.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: How can a boy acquire the art of keeping a conversation going with a girl who has almost no conversation when he is not so talkative himself? Is talking a gift, or is there a way to learn the thing? Should one prepare a conversation before going out. If so, how? And if not, what do you suggest?

M. E. C.

ANSWER: The gift of gab is something that comes by nature and I doubt if it can be acquired. It is impossible to prepare a conversation in advance because you cannot possibly know what trend the talk is going to take, and the charm of all conversation lies in itis spontaneity and freshness. The only thing for you to do is to pick your company and associate with people who like to do all the talking and who would be perfectly fascinated with you as a listener.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"George planted the trees to hang a hammock—he's practicing to get the feel of it now!"

Readers' Saturday Column Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION: I would like to try canning egg plant and green peppers, (whole so they could be stuffed) and wondered if you had any recipes for these. Also for a catsup similar to bought. I can never get mine thick enough. I always read your article and have enjoyed many of your recipes. Mrs. Pauline M.

ANSWER: If you intend to can eggplant you must be very strict about your sterilizing. It should be done in a pressure cooker, but if you do not use a pressure cooker it must be processed 2½ hours in hot water bath after it is sealed.

Canned Eggplant

Peel and cut into ¼ or ½-inch slices or ¾-inch cubes. Boil 3 minutes. Pack hot into hot sterile jars. Fill jars to overflowing with the water in which eggplant was parboiled. Seal at once. Process 60 minutes in steam-pressure cooker at 10 lbs. pressure (240 deg. Fahr.) or 2½ hours in hot water bath. Never loosen seal. Do not add salt.

✧ ✧ ✧

Canned peppers are soft so it would be difficult to stuff them when opened.

Canned Peppers or Pimientos

Can with the outside skin-film on. Wash and cut slice from top to remove seeds and side cords. Boil 5 minutes. Flatten and pack tight in hot sterile jars at once. Add 1 teaspoon salt to each quart. Fill with cooking water, seal, and process 15 minutes in pressure cooker at 10 lbs. pressure (240 deg. Fahr.) or 45 minutes in hot water bath. Never loosen seal.

The thick bright red catsup you buy is made with very expensive special equipment. The catsup manufacturers have stainless steel rapid evaporators. Commercial catsup making it a scientific process. You cannot hope to match it in a home kitchen.

Here is a good recipe for homemake catsup.

Tomato Catsup

One-half peck tomatoes, 3 red peppers, 2 medium onions cut fine, 2 tablespoons salt, ½ cup sugar, 2 cups vinegar, 2 teaspoons each celery seeds, mustard seeds, 1 tablespoon each whole allspice, cloves and broken stick cinnamon, 1 teaspoon or 2 of ground paprika. Do not use ground spices except paprika—for they darken the finished catsup.

Wash and cut up tomatoes. Let stand one-half hour covered. Drain off watery liquid which collects. Add cut up peppers and onions and cook without adding water until all are tender. Press through strainer and measure pulp. There should be 4 quarts. Add the salt, sugar and spices tied in a bag—also the ground paprika. Cook together at a rapid boil for 1 hour. Add vinegar and cook until of thick consistency. Seal in hot, sterile jars. Catsup thickens a little when cold.

QUESTION: I too am one of those heavyweights, and like my eats, but I have no chart to go by. Therefore would appreciate it if you would send one, as my weight is 195 lbs.; age 63.

I also enjoy your column and recipes — especially that club chicken casserole. Mrs. B. P.

ANSWER: This is an answer to all who are waiting for Calorie charts: Don't despair; they are coming from the printer soon. Meanwhile stop eating fats and rich desserts and you won't need it! I will mail the charts to all of you who asked for them as soon as I have delivery.

What's Right?

A girl breaks her engagement to a young man, after he has given her a ring.

WRONG: She keeps the engagement ring.

RIGHT: She returns his ring to him.

Destroy Nylons Despite Shortage

HEANOR, Eng., May 19—Cutting the tops and toes off nylon stockings to prevent women buying them is just part of the job for 18-year-old Jean Taylor.

Jean is a mender in a nylon factory in this Derbyshire town, and she has to mutilate all faulty stockings that are not worthy of repairing.

"If we just throw them out," said assistant manager Tom Whitby, "they would end up on London's Oxford St. in the hands of a 'spiv' trader and sell for $3 a pair with the holes not even mended."

Women are "mugs over nylons," he added.

The mutilated nylons are finally reprocessed for use in making nylon ropes and fishing nets.

HISTORICAL ERROR

The West Indies were so named by Columbus in 1492, when he believed the island were the western limits of India.

Fashion Flashes

Available without restrictions is alligator, and that's why the stores are all blossoming out with alligator bags—both imported and domestic—at various price levels. Smart is an occasional box in red or navy alligator, with a platform base and double basket handles. It fastens with a gilt-metal framed elongated flap and is lined in contrasting colored leather.

✧ ✧ ✧

The metallic look has captured the lingerie world. Strapless slips have elasticized bodices with gold metallic thread, and there are metallic gold prints. A pretty petticoat in white nylon tricot has a metallic print of tiny gold fans and masks.

✧ ✧ ✧

Perfect for a happy, young dancing evening is a gown of strapless white net foaming over white silk taffeta, with streamers of pink and pale blue chiffon looped on the skirt in garland fashion.

✧ ✧ ✧

It's the detail that tells the story and separates really fine clothes from good or average designs. A full-length boxy coat of chalky grey tweed, with white wool in the weave, is distinguished by beautiful detail. The lapels, collar and cuffs have central insets of dark grey tweed—the two tones separated by dark red piping.

✧ ✧ ✧

Holding its own, despite the emphasis on co-ordinates and mix-match items, is the separate skirt, now here in its summer version. Navy, red, black or green chambray, all-over embroidered in white braid, is used for a full skirt with a slim velvet belt.

✧ ✧ ✧

"Sensational" is an overworked and often unjustified description, but it's the only label we can pin on the new designs of a famous woman furrier. A year-round coat is of black Persian lamb set over black lace, with wide bands of the fur alternating with narrow lace bands, and a lace-over-satin lining.

A tonic for a plain navy or grey tailored suit is a neat little hat of spanking white pique and six or eight-button gauntlet gloves of matching pique.

Getting together for smart summer wear are beautiful coats and dresses, such as a dark blue taffeta sheath and a-belted coat of dark blue net. The coat has wide ruffles below the belt line, trimmed with tiny white ball fringe, and the sheath bodice is topped with matching fringe.

number of machines used to turn out the parts. One machine, a multiple drill, has about eight types of drill bits around its circumference. Each drill does a different operation of cutting and shaping the cap end of small motors. The operator pulls a switch and eight drills come down into place and grind away. When each operation is done on the caps, the drills automatically stop. The The operator takes off one completed cap and puts another rough one in its place and stars the eight drills in motion again. Thus some eight operations are performed on one machine with a minimum of handling and transportation.

But the prize machines are the four which occupy the million dollar corner in the generator assembly building. Two of the machines are lathes which tool into shape the giant generator shafts which weigh about three tons. One of the lathes handles shafts up to 112 inches in diameter and 24 feet long. The other handles shafts up to 66 inches in diameter and 36 feet long.

The two others in the million dollar quartet are boring mills. One, among the largest machine tools on the continent, can bore parts up to 40 feet in diameter. The other, handles job

Lingerie Show Too Much For Reportr

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, May 19 (AP)—Dear Boss:

As you have said, the job of covering Hollywood calls for fearless reporting. I have tried to keep that in mind, whether I was reporting a wedding, divorce, funeral, night club brawl or taffy-pull. That resolution was strained to the breaking point this week when I accepted the assignment of covering a lingerie show.

I tried to view the whole thing dispassionately. But I must admit there were times when I was more interested in the models than the filmy things they were modelling.

Oh yes, this was a showing "for men only" at the Salon of Juel Park. She's the gal who whips up the unmentionables for the movie stars.

Poor Pooch

Motif of the showing was shades of amaryllis, which were described as clear pink tones. One of the models even led out a clipped French poodle which was dyed pink and called Amaryllis. I called "here, Amaryllis!" but got no reply. Later I found out the unhappy pooch's name is really Queenie.

The audience, which was a strange contrast of press and sugar daddies, was reasonably well-behaved. There were a few remarks passed, most of them sly, rather than raucous.

Highlight of the show, which was largely devoted to negligees, was a $1,500 item called "Queen's Ransom." This was described as a bridal ensemble of French satin with nylon and Belgian rose point. Miss Park later confessed to me that this was a "shock item."

After the Show

After the show, champagne and goodies were served and everyone seemed to have a fine time.

Everyone, this is, except Amaryllis the dog. I mean Queenie. A fancy hat-maker up the street sent up a bonnet for her to wear. She did it like a lady but she seemed to indicate that humans can be pretty silly. What do you think?

Your fearless reporter,
Bob Thomas.

Truck Overturns Driver Escapes

BONARLAW, May 19 (ENS) — Ernest Conkright, 69, who lives on the 8th line of Thurlow township, escaped with a cut on the forehead and a severe shaking up Friday afternoon after his truck overturned on the 9th line of Sidney township, two miles south of Stirling.

Conkright, who was driving home from Stirling, broke over Oak hill and slammed on his brakes to avoid a cow. He skidded on the newly-graded gravel road and his half-ton truck plowed into a rail fence and knocked down the mailbox of Mrs. Alfred Lake on the 9th concession.

The truck overturned, temporarily trapping Conkright in the cab.

Mrs. Lake rushed out with a hammer to help him escape from the truck, but he was able to open a cab door after being temporarily stunned.

Mrs. Lake and another neighbor gave Conkright first aid and he made the return journey to Stirling to look for an insurance adjuster. He had originally gone into the village to get some teeth for his cultivator.

The widshield was smashed and the cab of the truck was caved in.

Medieval Custom Keeps Quebec Church Spotless

QUEBEC, May 19 —(CP)—The corvee, a custom borrowed from the middle ages, still plays a big part in the life of a small parish on the St. Lawrence River.

And it's all because French-speaking Canadians can be stubborn about certain things, says Cure Maurice Tessier.

The people of Quebec City's Notre Dame de la Garde parish take pride in having their little church spotless and twice a year they hold a scrubbing-bee.

Just Right

Everything had to be just right recently for the spring visit of "Monseigneur L'Archeveque"—Archbishop Maurice Roy of Quebec—and the confirmation rites of small children from the parish.

Out came the pails of hot water, cakes of rough yellow Canadian soap, hard-bristled brushes and wash rags. Men, women and children scrubbed and polished for two days.

The job didn't cost the parish a penny and will be repeated just before next Christmas.

In feudal times, peasants were required by law to do a few days' unpaid labor each year on manorial estates. This was known as the corvee.

Now Voluntary Job

The custom, toned down to a voluntary basis, was adopted at Notre Dame de la Garde in 1877 when the church was built on Quebec Harbor piers near Wolfe's Cove.

In those days the custom was to sell church pews to families of the parish. The first cure of Notre Dame de la Garde sold the pews—with perpetual rights of legacy—for 75 cents a year with owners responsible for the church's upkeep.

The arrangement has continued to this day, although, now, more volunteer corvee - workers than pew-owners do the work.

The parishioners, mostly stevedores and dock workers, cling to the tradition.

Dean of the corvee-workers is Mrs. Alfredine Dion, a widow, who has been doing odd chores around the church for almost 40 years. She fills in as sexton.

For her work she received the medal of diocesan merit in 1946 from the late Cardinal Villeneuve, then Archbishop of Quebec.

CHURCH CLEANING—Members of Notre Dame de la Garde parish on Quebec City's waterfront hold a scrubbing-bee twice a year to keep their little church spotless. The traditional "corvee" started when the church was built in 1877 on harbor piers; pew-owners were held responsible for the upkeep of the church. Mrs. Alf Morissette does her bit by cleaning one of the old wooden pews.

U.S. Envoy Hopes For Seaway

CORNWALL, May 19 (CP). — Hon. Stanley Woodward, United States ambassador to Canada, said Friday night he is hopeful of a start on the St. Lawrence seaway.

Mr. Woodward said the joint Canada-U.S. project—endorsed by Canada but bogged down in the U.S. legislative machinery for 10 years—has been given a high priority by President Truman in his legislative program.

In an address prepared for delivery the ambassador said he is certain the navigation - power scheme will get a proper hearing before U.S. Senate and House of Representatives committees.

The project now is being considered by the House public works committee—which is to visit the area of the proposed development in June—and is to be studied later by the Senate foreign relations committee.

New Algonquin Road Opens Virgin Tourist District

Villages and settlements showed faintly through the storm—Barry's Bay, Wilno, Killaloe and Eganville. Within the last few miles of the trip's destination the rain stopped and dusk dropped across Lake Dore. The bus pulled into the bustling town of Pembroke at exactly 9.30 p.m., on time.

Most Prosperous Centre

Many things have happened in that part of the upper Ottawa River valley to make Pembroke prosperous. First there is the hydro development of the river. Immense power houses and dams at La Cave, Chennaux, Stewartville, Barrett Chute and, of course, famous Des Joachims, known in that country as "Da Swisha."

Then there is the newly-developed secret plant of the National Research Council at Chalk River and its townsite of Deep River. A stepped-up military program at Petawawa Camp floods the town with troops. A combination of all these things brings dollars to Pembroke and a substantial concrete community centre building is evidence of good times.

On Thursday morning a sightseeing trip was arranged west towards North Bay, on as far as Da Swisha. A recent security measure prevents visitors from going through the immense power house, second largest in Canada, but it is believed that half a million horse power is being generated and distributed to industrial southern Ontario every day. A luncheon was provided at noon at the outskirts of Pembroke and was presided over by C. H. Belford, superintendent of transportation.

Hiss Worship J. J. Carmody of Pembroke offered the town's welcome and Peterborough's Alderman James Gillespie, who represented Mayor Max Swanston, thanked Mr. Belford for his hospitable outing.

Southbound Trip

The bus left the town at 2 p.m. on its first official southbound run and of the eight passengers who got aboard, Miss Gertrude Wolfram of Deep River, had the honor of being No One passenger of the new Algonquin Route run.

The weather was fine and passengers were able to enjoy the scenery. Everyone aboard agreed that the beauty of the surrounding country could not be surpassed anywhere in the province. Rolling hills and wide valleys dotted with lakes and rivers spread in all directions in great immensity of space. Improvements to parts of the highway and a new hydro line driving south tell of a general improvement and development of the country.

Colonial Coach people have spent months making an exhaustive route survey and are well satisfied that the new country is a "virgin" tourist district. Fishing is excellent, from all reports, and the thousands of square miles of forests would also suggest good fall hunting.

The passenger list was as follows: A. H. Lewis, president of Kawartha Coach Lines; Alderman James Gillespie; Eldon Purvis, and the Examiner, all of Peterborough; Edgar Phillips of Port Hope; Bob Trotter of Lindsay; Reeve Theodore Tryon of Bancroft; Bert Smart, J. Markham, and G. Bottrell, all of Toronto; D. Brickelle of Oshawa, S. A. Thomson, town clerk of Pembroke and two supervisors, Eric Gill of Peterborough and Gerald Devine of Pembroke.

Woman Dies At 104 Years

GLENCOE, May 19 (CP)—Mrs. Sarah McAlpine Campbell, 104, died Thursday, at her home in Mosa Township where she had lived all her life. Until six months ago she had enjoyed good health, and was active.

Her husband, Duncan L. Campbell, died several years ago, after farming in Mosa most of her life.

Married one year after Confederation, Mrs. Campbell then moved from her home to occupy the farm homestead where she died.

She was a daughter of the first settlers in the Glencoe region.

Killed In Accident

LONDON, May 19 —(Reuters)—George St. Lawrence Ponsonby, 19-year-old younger son of the Earl and Countess of Bessborough, has been killed in a car accident in Western Germany, where he was serving as a second lieutenant in the 9th Lancers, it was announced Thursday. Ponsonby was born in Montreal in 1931 when his father was Governor-General of Canada.

Water Turbidity Alarms PUC Commissioners

The Utilities Commission made no mention of the word "conservation" from the lexicon of agriculture at their meeting Wednesday afternoon. But manifestly they are for it and all that it implies. As far as it concerns the Commissioners it has been only a minor seasonal problem at the waterworks during the freshet weeks of the Otonabee River.

Before them was the infrequent phrase "turbidity of the water" in the April report of R. L. Dobbin, general manager. Its simple meaning was that the water was muddy, causing accumulation of the floating content in the filters at the waterworks plant.

"It was a run-off of what appeared to be clay, rather than sand, because sand has a tendency to settle in water," Mr. Dobbin suggested. "You see it in the Mississippi."

Quite a Problem

"We haven't seen the Mississippi," said Gordon Matthews, chairman, "but the recent silt was quite a problem down at our CPC plant. We had to shovel it out."

So, that is an aspect of the general policy of conservation which is being advocated with deepening concern by governments and their agents.

A lot of that "mud" was "top six inches" of the soil in the watershed of the Otonabee River.

The paragraph in the Dobbin report was: "High water in the river (during April) resulted in a very turbid water supply to the filter plant. Alum dosage was heavy to remove this. Organic and animal growth normally appearing at this time of year was not evident".

Soil Loss Alarming

Loss of top soil has been alarming agriculturists for years, and somehow they have permitted their campaigning to become more or less impeded and weakened by the obscurant word "conservation".

Mr. Dobbin's note directly relates to the frequent rains this spring, causing erosion of the soil on the slopes leading to the Otonabee River and its chain of lakes. This is the sad story relating to the word turbidity in the phaseology of waterworks engineers.

Webster defines turbid as troubled or disturbed. It is from the Latin turbare, to trouble; and the noun turba, a crowd; hence turbulence suggesting a commotion of assembled people. In a specific sense it signifies the disturbance of the lees as when the wine cask is shaken and the material content or residue from the grapes is brought to the top, making the wine turbid, and if potent enough it could cause turbulence.

Communist Losses Reported 904,788

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—The Army Friday estimated Communist losses in Korea at 904,788 through May 7.

This is 11,126 more than was reported through April 30.

Chinese and North Korean battle casualties were placed at 631,607. Non-combat casualies were estimated at 125,880. In addition 147,301 Red prisoners of war have been captured by actual count.

His Turn Now

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 19. (AP)—Judge L. D. Miller, who has heard more than 20,000 divorce cases in 20 years on the bench here, became a defendant Thursday—in a divorce case. His wife, Mrs. Edith McAllister Miller, filed a suit charging cruel and inhuman treatment. The Millers have been married 27 years.

FIRE TRUST FUND OPENS WITH $5,000

WHERE THE BODIES OF FOUR FIREMEN were found is marked ABOVE with a circled X. They died fighting the half-million dollar blaze that gutted a George St. business building Saturday. The last body was found at 3:15 a.m. Sunday morning, almost 24 hours after the fire is believed to have started.

Volunteers, Firemen Work Hours Removing Tons Of Debris Before Bodies Of Victims Found

Volunteer Helpers Form Human Chain To Clear Wreckage

By DAVE WHITE

In the glare of floodlights and surrounded by the still-smoking ruins of the Zacks building, city firemen and civilian volunteers at 3:15 a.m. Sunday recovered the body of the last of the four buried fire victims.

Spurred on by the slight hope that even one of the men might be alive the would-be rescuers dug frantically in the main-store section of Ed Riley's to reach them.

The body of 34-year-old Earl Spencley, a George St. florist who volunteered to help fight the fire, was found in the basement at 3:15 a.m., about 22 hours after the fire started and nearly 11 hours after the first rescue attempt was begun.

The cave-in that trapped the men occurred about 10 a.m.

Twice in the afternoon squads entered the Riley store from the rear and twice they were driven out by the hazard of falling timber and bricks from the front wall and the hinge of roofing dangling from it.

Final Rescue Started

At 7:30 p.m. the smouldering debris was given a final damping down by hose lines, some of the more hazardous sections of the upper storey front had been pulled away, and the final rescue drive was on.

Once again a human chain was formed from the rear of the building by volunteer helpers. City business men, workers who had just come from their jobs, relatives of the trapped men, and others from outside the city, vied with each other for a place in the 100-foot lineup.

Shortly afterwards a second chain of volunteers was formed through the George St. entrance. And 15-20 men worked at top speed to keep up the outgoing flow of debris.

With advance contributions of nearly $5,000 citizens formed today the Mayor's Fire Trust Fund in aid of the four families bereft of their bread-winners in Saturday's down town fire.

Mayor Swanston presiding over the spontaneous meeting of 60 men and women broadly representative of the people of Peterborough announced the following subscriptions:

J. David Eaton and the T. Eaton Co.	$1,000.00
Donald A. McGillis	1,000.00
Rotary Club	1,000.00
Quaker Oats Co.	500.00
Grafton & Co.	500.00
Peterborough Examiner	500.00
Labatt Brewing Co.	250.00
G. A. Gillespie	100.00
Wilson & Cousens, Toronto, dealers in fire equipment	50.00
Thomas Doughty	25.00

His Honor Judge Sheldon L. Smoke was nominated by Mr. Harold L. Garner to head the Trust Fund, and to select other persons to act with him in his discretion.

One of the first steps was to decide on establishing a Fund in Trust for the families of Firemen Orville Rome, Grover Deck, George Reynolds, and volunteer helper in fighting the fire, Earl Spencley.

Cummer Treasurer

Mr. Charles S. Cummer, retired manager of the Bank of Montreal, was named treasurer, and was authorized to choose an assistant.

Mr. Reg. Reid, who is president of the association of industrial personnel, and is with Outboard Marine & Manufacturing Co., was nominated to the subscription committee as representative of the manufacturing industry of the city, including the companies and their employees.

An active fund-raising committee was drafted in preliminary form to set in motion at once the wishes of the citizens. They met until noon suggesting various details for consideration. Their number will be reduced to a smaller group, meeting for the first time Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

G. K. Fraser, M.P., proposed that the Jaycees tourist booth, on Charlotte St., be transferred to George St., at the scene of the fire in the Zacks building as a detail of publicity and receipts accommodation. Wilson Gemmell of Royal Bank volunteered the services of all the banks in receiving contributions.

2-Minute Silence

James Fraser, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, suggested that industry throughout the city be stilled for two minutes at the time of the joint funeral Tuesday afternoon.

He said he believed that tribute of sympathy and respect would be adequately expressive, and that probably employees would be willing to give their pay for an hour or two. There are 13,000 workers in the city, and if they agreed to contribute $2 each, their mass subscription would amount to $26,000.

B. H. Myers of Imperial Bank suggested that at the opening of this community effort an objective total should not be set. That comment related to the remark of D. A. McGillis that the four families should receive from the citizens at least $10,000 each.

Tom Doughty said that if the committee wanted the Jaycee tourist booth moved, he would do it.

Colonel Wallace Bunton of Toronto, former officer of the Salvation Army in Peterborough, told the committee that the Toronto headquarters would be glad to co-operate in any helpful way.

Ald. T. D. Miller proposed that a mass religious meeting be held Sunday evening, possibly at Civic Arena, as a memorial for the purpose of taking a collection.

Harold Yelland of Canadian Legion said that Peterborough branch was considering a public meeting at Ashburnham Bowl Sunday evening.

Other Offers

Various other ideas were put forth during the two meetings. The Civic Events Committee of which William G. Ovens is chairman was mentioned as assuming co-ordination of any promotional affairs for the benefit of the Fund.

Major Cyril Everitt of the Salvation Army spoke as president of the Ministerial Association offering several suggestions. Support of the Examiner and CHEX in news and broadcasts was also volunteered.

Eleven Men Trapped In Two Cave-Ins Of Business Block

By JIM ENGLISH

The bodies of three firemen and a volunteer were taken from the wreckage of the George St. business block gutted by a $500,000 fire Saturday.

They were trapped by the collapse of the roof and upper floors which drove the main floor down into the basement.

They are: Orville Rome, 42, of 308 Margaret Ave.; George Reynolds, 66, of 316 King St.; Grover Deck, 29, of 517 Rose Ave.; and volunteer Earl Spencley, 34, of Lansdowne St. west.

Dr. Herbert Young, coroner, announced that there would be an inquest and that Dr. Smirlie Lawson, chief coroner for the province of Ontario, would preside. No. date has as yet been announced.

Damage $500,000

Cause of the fire is unknown, but the chief said there is definitely no connection with any of the other city fires during the week that started May 12. He said he did not believe arson was the cause.

The top floor of the building on the southwest corner of George and Hunter Sts. was damaged heavily, but nothing was stored there. It is owned by the Braund estate.

The business block to the south, owned by Harry Zacks, was completely gutted. Estimates of damage to individual stores and stocks ran as high as $70,000.

Eleven Men Trapped

Two cave-ins occurred — the first when seven men were trapped and three escaped and the second when five were caught and all freed.

In the first cave-in were: Rome, Reynolds, Deck, Spencley; Adelard Vinette, 56, River Rd. Robert Webb, 19 Charlotte St.; and Harold Black, 745 Jane St. Webb is a volunteer.

Trapped in the second collapse were: Victor Barry, 491 Aylmer St.; John LaPlante, 764 Brown St.; Peter Nicholson, 745 Water St.; and Robert Reynolds, 316 King St.

Black, uninjured in the first collapse, was caught by the second as he worked to free the others.

Those injured were reported to-

Bullet Misses RCAF Navigator

HAMILTON, May 21 — (CP). —A low-flying Air Force training plane was fired on from the ground Sunday and a rifle bullet ripped through the rear cockpit, just missing the navigator, FO. Thomas Low.

The bullet smashed the plexiglass cockpit canopy and splinters of glass cut into Low's shoulder. He was treated for cuts when the single-engined Harvard trainer returned to Mount Hope RCAF Air Station.

Provincial Police combed a mile-square area near Carlisle, 15 miles north of Hamilton, hunting for the person who fired the shot, believed to have been from a .303 rifle.

The Harvard, flown by FO. Arthur Brown, DFC, on a low level Cross-country flight, was about 50 feet up when the bullet smashed the canopy, entering from the left side and passing out the other side.

Low, who like Brown, is from Hamilton, said he was bending over his maps at the time. Otherwise, he said, the bullet would have struck him in the head.

Before returning to base, they pinpointed the area in which the shot was fired and reported it to police. Neither member of the crew saw anyone who might have fired the shot.

Pats Second Advance Meets No Opposition

WEST - CENTRAL SECTOR, Korea, May 21—(CP)—Pouring rains, perhaps the onset of the long-anticipated rainy season in Korea, failed to dampen Canadian enthusiasm today as troops who have been sitting in defensive positions for three weeks registered another move.

(Boss reported Sunday night that the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, had registered their first move in almost three weeks, leaving strong defensive positions north of the Han River and moving into hills several thousand yards northwest.)

Their spirits high, and with jokes flashing back and forth along the column, the battle-tested Canadians again moved forward unopposed. Today's move represented a 5,000-yard advance.

British and Commonwealth forces also gained, but the Scottish and Australian troops who scored it had to fight most of the way through mountain country.

Rescues Baby Son

AYR, Ont., May 21 (CP)—Mrs. Wilbert Gillespie, a non-swimmer, waded into water almost up to her neck to rescue her two-year-old son Barry as he was about to be swept over Jedburgh dam into the Nith river rapids in this town 14 miles southwest of Kitchener. The boy tried to retrieve a ball he was playing with and started "floating" away.

Reds Retreating Along Front

TOKYO, May 21. (CP)—Communists began withdrawing from half of the Korean central front today after losing nearly 60,000 men, by Allied estimates, in their five-day offensive. Lt.-Gen. Edward M. Almond announced his 10th Corps killed or wounded 48,341 Reds on the east-central front. Sunday's total alone was 24,700, he said, the biggest one-day total of the war. Allied officers estimated 10,220 other casualties were inflicted on the west-central front, AP correspondent George A. McArthur reported. In this sector, Reds gathered 3mx nn hrdiu uun retreated through a driving rain. Front-line dispatches Monday night told of Communist withdrawals before advancing Allies across more than 20 miles of the front.

Reds were reported abandoning their bridgeheads below the Pukhan and Hongchon Rivers, and pulling back toward Chunchon in the centre.

In their new drive, the Reds fell before the tremendous fire power of UN artillery, planes and automatic weapons . . . were trapped on barbed wire entanglements . . . blown up by mines.

The enemy "may be getting ready to strike again," Almond said, "and if he does we are prepared to meet him

Line Holding

"We have a line across the peninsula and we are holding it. We have a line of fire that operates day and night, rain or shine. . . ."

Much of Sunday's record casualty toll, he said, was compiled when artillery caught the Chinese trying to carry off their dead all along a 2½-mile valley.

Eighth Army reports and field dispatches had given no hint of heavy Red assaults Sunday.

UN forces suffered "comparatively few casualties" from the Reds' human sea wave attacks, Almond reported. "And the 2nd Division is still in good shape."

A spokesman at Tokyo headquarters said the Indian Head Division apparently inflicted more than 30 casualties for every one it suffered.

Meanwhile UN troops hit back hard at the Reds on the west-central front to re-enter Munsan and Uijongbu.

Man Battered To Pulp Left To Drown In Swamp

NORTH BAY, May 21. (CP)—Condition of 31-year-old William Lellava of Chalk River, today was reported as "slightly improved but serious" by hospital officials after an attack which police described as the most vicious beating they had even seen. Lellava was found beaten and battered beyond recognition Saturday, face down in a swamp with a rock tied to his shoelaces.

In court today Lellava's wife, Stella, 32, and Albert Rante, 23, and Jakko Ranta, 36, were charged with assault occasioning bodily harm and remanded to may 29 without plea.

Three boys, Edmand Amond 13, David Brooks 12, and Alvin Telford 12, who said they witnessed the brutal beating, were responsible for saving Lellava from a quick death.

They told police they were returning from fishing in Mud Lake two miles from North Bay, when they saw Lellava get into an argument with a woman over $3. They said he struck her and then he was knocked down and kicked and beaten for 15 minutes by two other men.

Woman

Edward Amond said the woman joined in the attack. "She kicked him and scratched him until his face was a mass of blood."

David Brooks said the trio dragged Lellava off the road and into a swamp and then tried to drown him. They kept shoving his head into the water and they had his feet tied together and weighed down with a rock."

Young Amond hurried by bicycle to his father, Lawrence Amond. The elder Amond came

Remove Safety Pin In Child's Throat

KITCHENER, May 21—(CP)—A throat specialist today removed an open safety pin from a Kitchener child's throat. The 1½-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Merner swallowed the pin Sunday night and instruments which had just arrived at Kitchener-Waterloo hospital were used to remove the pin.

Previously similar cases from the district have been rushed to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto. A rush trip to the Toronto hospital was planned if the operation didn't prove successful.

The little boy is reported in good condition.

Prisoners Riot, Seize Guards As Hostages In Prison

POINT-OF-THE - MOUNTAIN, Utah, May 21 (AP).—Two hundred prisoners took eight guards as hostages at Utah's new "escape-proof" penintentiary Sunday night and rioted through the buildings and corridors for 4½ hours.

The only persons hurt were several prisoners beaten up by their fellows.

None of the prisoners escaped, but two of the guards held as hostages succeeded during the height of the excitement in breaking out through barred windows. They shinnied down from the second storey on ropes made of torn sheets.

The other six hostages were released after a delegation of convicts met with Warden Alvin O. Severson. The warden promised to consider the prisoners' complaints if the prisoners would release their hostages, return to their cells and clean up the mess they had made.

Spontaneous Outbreak

Prisoners told officials the riot developed spontaneously when word spread that several were disciplined Sunday for a previous disturbance which occurred Friday. But Warden Severson said this disciplining was for a disturbance at church a few hours earlier.

The riot started with seizure of the unarmed guards. The prisoners released six men in death row and others. They later agreed to the terms and the hostages were released. More than 200 of the 532 inmates of the prison took part.

A number of prisoners were expected to be "pretty sick" before morning, said Dr. W. H. Horton, prison physician. He said the men had imbibed paregoric, denatured alcohol, and other concoctions from the prison hospital.

Aluminum, Brass To Be Rationed

OTTAWA, May 21. (CP)—Production Minister Howe today announced that rationing of aluminum, copper and brass will come under compulsory government control beginning June 1.

Previously, these items were rationed informally and on a voluntary basis by the producing companies to manufacturers.

Under the compulsory control scheme, rationing from mills to manufacturers will be on the basis of 100 per cent of 1950 purchases. That will mean that if a manufacturer used 100,000 tons of copper in 1950, he will continue to get monthly allotments on that basis.

However, officials said the Canadian defence effort will be getting first call on these items and within a matter of months it appeared likely that certain non-essential manufacturing using these items will be cut.

The order embraces primary and wrought aluminum, primary copper, brass mill products, copper wire rod and copper wire.

National Registration Said Not Needed Now

OTTAWA, May 21—(CP)—A national registration is not needed now, the national advisory council on manpower told the government Saturday, but it advised planning for a quick registration in case of an emergency.

The council said its information shows manpower requirements for the defence program on its current scale present no immediate problem warranting a national registration.

In fact, the council was told by Arthur MacNamara, deputy labor minister, that a general registration might not be needed for even a greatly expanded preparedness program, though he said it might be necessary to register specific occupational groups from time to time.

Gloucesters War Cry As British Rush Hill

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA, May 21 — (Reuters). — British troops, shouting "Remember the Gloucesters," charged headlong up a rugged hillside and into battle with the Chinese Sunday. The troops were part of a strong British, Canadian and Australian reconnaisance patrol.

The battle cry started when a Sten gunner caught a Chinese full in the chest with a burst of fire and cried: "That was for the Gloucesters" — the British unit narly annihilated in the early days of the present Chinese offensive.

Troops all around him took up the cry: "The Gloucesters—Remember the Gloucesters," and the hills rang with the sound.

Find First Victim Of Halifax Crash

HALIFAX, May 21—(CP)—A land party continued its search today through Labrador's untrodden bushland for three of the four airmen who disappeared Monday after their RCFA Dakota crashed during a navigational training hop.

The Air Force announced Sunday night that a land party made its way to the crash scene and found the body of Flying Officer Owen Foster, 23, of North Vancouver.

Search and rescue officials declinec to speculate on the fate of the other three crew members.

The twin-engined craft plummeted to earth about 130 miles southwest of Goose Bay. The wreckage, strewn over a wide area, was found Saturday after a large-scale air search by more than 40 planes.

Iran Rejects Arbitration Plan

TEHRAN, Iran, May 21 (AP). —Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh has rejected a proposal by Britain to arbitrate the explosive dispute over nationalization of the wealthy anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

A government spoksman also told Parliament Sunday that Britain and the United States are pushing Iran closer to Russia and a Communist revolution by opposing oil nationalization.

The speaker, National Front Deputy Hoosein Makki, raised the threat of a holy war if Britain uses force to resist the loss of her big investment in the Abadan refinery and the nearby oil wells in Southern Iran

Inspecting Officer Praises Grove Cadets' Steadiness

LAKEFIELD, May 21 (ENS).—Commodore J. O. Hibbard, in addressing the Lakefield Preparatory School cadets at the annual inspection Saturday afternoon, congratulated the boys on their appearance and steadiness.

"All of us," said the commodore, "little realize how fortunate we are to be free citizens. We have freedom in worship, in speech, and freedom from fear. All these freedoms are not by accident. On the contrary, they were obtained through hard work and personal sacrifices of those who have gone before, and they are still being bitterly fought for.

"If we are to maintain our way of life we must be prepared to shoulder the burden and carry on where our fathers left off."

The speaker instructed the cadets to treasure freedom and to use it wisely; not to make irresponsible citizens, but to be loyal, unselfish and learn to work in co-operation with others.

In closing, the boys were complimented on their pride in their personal appearance, their uniforms, their school, and for their espirit de corps. The hope was expressed that they would always be worthy of those who had served the school before.

The usual "Grove" weather favored the inspection, with sunny skies all afternoon.

The fall-in was followed by the presenting of colors, and the inspecting officer took the salute and inspected the ship's company.

The seamanship classes, taken by cadets during the year, were then displayed, and a great deal of credit goes to PO George M. Lee, DSM, RN, for the excellent display.

Cadet officers were: Chief Petty Officer Percy Sherwood, CPO J. Moffatt who led the band, PO H. McCulloch, PO C. MacGregor, PO R. Irwin, PO H. Schickler, PO H. Grant, PO G. Jones.

The crowd then walked down to the waterfront where the cutters and dinghies were manned and exercises carried out, communication with shore being maintained by semaphore and flags.

Tea was then served in the headmaster's house.

Tea was poured by Mrs. W. Lampman and Mrs. James Brown. The table was arranged with spring flowers in a silver bowl and tall tapers in silver holders.

A display of physical training was staged on the lawn, with Hugh Barlow, instructor, in charge.

In the evening at the dance held in the school hall the commodore's pennant was presented to Commodore Hibbard by Headmaster G. Winder Smith.

Vagrant's Arrest Started Rumor

John Moon, Madoc, whose arrest Sunday evening touched off a rumor that police had made an arrest on a charge of arson in connection with the fire which killed four men Saturday, was remanded on a charge of vagrancy in police court today.

Chief Constable John Thompson said the police have nothing to connect the man with the fire. He was seen at the Salvation Army Temple acting strangely and started people speculating. Later he was seen in a downtown hotel.

He was picked up and brought in for questioning while police investigated his background.

This morning in the prisoner's docket, he appeared nervous and pleaded not guilty to being a vagrant. Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said the policemen who arrested him were not available and asked that the man be remanded to Wednesday on $500 bail.

Fire Means Work For Phone Girls

Peterborough's fire Saturday brought a busy day to city telephone operators, Bell Telephone officials reported that there were 300 additional calls to the usual 1,936 outgoing on Saturdays.

Sunday saw the average 1,132 outgoing calls boosted to 1,339.

A total of 23 lines had services stoope das a result of the fire. All except seven, which were completely destroyed, are back in operation.

An extra service was carried out by the telephone company during the catastrophe. Special equipment telephoned pictures out over the wires to other centres.

Reds Retreat

Reconnaissance forces pushed into Munsan, 25 miles northwest of the South Korean capital of Seoul, and a task force entered Uijongbu, 15 miles north of Seoul. These units are part of a powerful Anglo - American formation which is trying to relieve pressure on outnumbered Allied forces clinging doggedly to their positions further east in face of unrelenting Communist attacks.

Drizzling rain made the steep mountain slopes slippery slides, but the diversionary force moved northwards without a halt.

In the endangered central sector the situation remained "obscure," Eighth Army headquarters reported.

Chinese Assaults

Chinese forces east of Chunchon, focal point of the Communist spring offensive, maintained their assaults on the right flank of the American 2nd Division and South Korean troops.

Allied troops on this sector were entrenched in a new line to which they moved after the first fury of the Communist offensive had forced a gap last Thursday.

But the Chinese attacks were not so intense as they were before the 2nd Division, with French and Dutch troops attached, sealed the breach in their lines Sunday.

One UN force of about 1,000 was surrounded in the Changgongni area but eventually cut its way to safety with the help of a South Korean relief column.

Reporting from the west central sector of the front Sunday, Canadian Press correspondent Bill Boss said the Princess Patricias made their first move in almost three weeks. The Patricias left their defensive positions north of the Han River and moved in to hill positions several thousand yards northwest.

Must Altar Strategy

Allied seizure of initiative in the west was expected to force the Chinese to alter their strategy, even if Allied action does not develop into more than a series of probing thrusts.

Allied officers said there was little doubt the Chinese timetable had been set back, first by the holding action of the American 2nd Division on the central front and secondly by the Allies' bold tactics in the west.

If the Chinese attack again toward Seoul within the next few days they must retake several miles of "buffer ground" seized in the last 36 hours by UN troops. They will have to use precious supplies, painstakingly gathered for the offensive, before the actual drive on Seoul begins.

Boverned By Supply

Allied officers say that the length of the Chinese offensive is governed more by problems of supply and transport than by casualties.

The Communists continued to mass by the thousands today for a new assault at the heroic US 2nd Division. The division was strung out across more than 20 miles after a brilliant tactical manoeuvre that closed a huge gap on its flank.

A US 8th Army briefing officer said that hole was "pretty well" plugged. But the Reds poured through another gap.

"The situation is still dangerous," the briefing officer said.

UN bombers concentrated on the Second Division's sector in the war's biggest night attack on the front lines. B-29 Superforts and B-26 Invaders cut up the Reds with 1,000 fragmentation bombs Sunday night. The air force said 250 tons of bombs were pinpointed in the attack by a new radar technique.

Industrials Drop Sharply On Market

TORONTO, May 21 (CP)—Industrials dropped sharply as the session progressed on the stock market.

After firming at the opening they became mixed at noon and then turned lower. The downturn was not a rush to sell but was merely caused by a lack of buyers. Trading was generally dull.

Papers and utilities headed industrials downward and textiles, banks, refining oils, liquors and retail stores followed. The rest of the section was fairly mixed. Losses ranged from fractions to more than a point.

Base metals were also lower with declines ranging up to 40 cents. Pacing the group were East Sullivan, Falconbridge, Golden Manitou, International Nickel, Noranda, Quemont, Sherritt Gordon, Steep Rock and Waite Amulet.

Western oils climbed in early dealings and then became mixed. Anglo - Canadian, Charter Oil, Federated Petroleum, Security and Selburn were higher while Atlantic Oil, Calvan Consolidated, Central-Leduc, Pacific Petroleum and Royalite eased.

Senior golds were mixed with little trend or change. Secondary golds were also fairly mixed but there were a handful of issues up pennies.

Believe Russia Prepared To Help End Korean War

By NORMAN ALSTEDTER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., May 21 — (CP) — Informed western sources said Sunday Russia has indicated privately in western diplomatic circles that she is anxious now to end the Korean war.

And the United States now would back peace terms which left North Korea and South Korea as they were constituted before the North Korean attack last June 25, these sources added.

Diplomats seeking possibilities of a negotiated end to the conflict viewed these present attitudes of the U.S. and Russia against the background of these developments:

1. The Indian delegation here was sounding out other missions on the possibility of getting both sides to agree not to cross the 38th parallel again. The parallel was the dividing line between north and south Korea before the Comunists attacked.

2. Russian newspapers gave great prominence at the weekend to Senator Edwin Johnson's proposed resolution in the U.S. Senate asking the UN to call upon both sides to declare an effective armistice along the 38th parallel June 25. Western diplomats in Moscow wondered if this indicated Russia might support such a proposal.

3. The UN unified command—in effect the U.S. government—released Saturday the first regular report to the UN of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, UN commander in Korea. In the report he said his command is emphasizing constantly to soldiers and civilians in Korea the UN's desire to arrange a peaceful settlement of the war.

Volunteer Helpers

included more than 100 volunteers, with replacements constantly stepping in from the large crowd when somebody tired. About 40 comprised the shorter double-line to George St.

Tow lines, attached to trucks outside the store, and hand ropes were used to pull out the heavier timbers and planks from the buckled flooring. But most of the work was hand labor.

Two-handled tubs and buckets were rapidly filled with ashes, bricks, wooden splinters and other debris, and passed out either to the front or the rear.

It was a dog-tired but willing squad that attacked the ruins on the slight chance that any of the four trapped men were alive. Most of the firemen had been on the job since the first alarm, resting only for an occasional sandwich and cup of coffee supplied by the Salvation Army. And some of the civilian volunteers had been going almost as long and were in a stage of semi-exhaustion.

"I never saw a body of men so eager to pitch in and help. They'll do anything to get to those trapped men," was the tribute paid the volunteers by a veteran city firemen. "They deserve a lot of credit."

40 Tons Removed

A building contractor estimated that 40 tons of ashes, timber and rubble were removed from the Riley store during the afternoon and night. And most of it, because of the narrowness of the building, had to be passed out hand to hand.

Captains Garnet Brown, Albert Mason and Frank Shearer supervised the digging. They were assisted by Constable Louis Rodreque who combined the duties of firefighter, demolition foreman and gang boss, as well as being a law enforcement officer.

He instructed willing but not too apt volunteer firemen on where to play their hoses, supervised the demolition of the rear wall and elevator shaft in the afternoon, gave advice to the eager diggers, helped keep back the crowd, and pitched in and helped when it was required.

From time to time Fire Chief George Smith came in to see how the excavation was coming along. And he personally supervised the hunt for Spencley's body, correctly estimating where the volunteer fireman would be from the position of the hose.

Provincial and other city police kept back the large and anxious crowd, and lent firemen a hand whenever possible.

Father Aided In Work

In the afternoon and early evening a number of relatives were prominent in the search for the buried men. Al Spencley, an employee of the Utilities Commission and father of Earl, spearheaded the rescue efforts. Several times he had to be restrained by firemen when he wanted to continue digging though there was a danger of falling bricks and masonry.

Colin Deck, brother of Fireman Grover Deck, was a volunteer helper, as was his uncle, Bert Deck. Stanley Adamson, public school trustee and brother-in-law of Fireman Reynolds, was another volunteer.

Finding of the hoze nozzle and the extreme end of the 2½-inch hose line caused the diggers to speed up their pace almost to the point of frenzy. They reasoned they had only to trace back the hose to find the men who were operating it when the ceiling gave way.

Firemen and civilians, realizing that a discovery was imminent, tore at pieces of jagged tin, remains of metal furniture and charred timbers of the ceiling. If they had no shovels they scooped up the ashes and rubble in their gloved hands.

Passing Up Buckets

There was no conversation. Only the hoarse shouting for "buckets, more buckets," and then silence except for the heavy breathing of the men as they filled the buckets and passed them on to other willing hands.

Rome First Man Found

At 8.30 p.m. the cry of "stretcher" went up. One of the men had been found about six feet back from the nozzle, but as yet he was unidentified.

In a few minutes one of the firemen turned to a colleague, whispered something, and the word was passed along. "It's Rome."

Rome, a city fireman for 11½ years was believed to have been holding the nozzle when the "crack" that signalled the collapse of the ceiling came. He appeared to have started back to escape but was trapped and buried near the centre of the room.

His fellow firemen lifted him onto a stretcher and wrapped him in a tarpaulin. He had been there about 11 hours.

Protest Taking Picture

The emotional tension had reached breaking point. And when two nearby photographers attempted to take a picture of the dead fireman being laid on the stretcher there were half a dozen shouted protests.

"Get that photograph," shouted somebody. An overwraught fireman tried to get at the nearest photographer but was restrained by three or four colleagues. When a number of other volunteers started toward the two men Constable Rodreque stepped in and demanded the cameras.

Both cameras were damaged by the crowd before Constable Rodreque got them away.

"It looked like an ugly situation; those men were ready to mob them," said Constable Rodreque later explaining his action. The cameras were recovered at the police station.

When dusk came a floodlight was brought in to help speed the search. The strong white light brought into focus the circle of weary, dirt-stained diggers, visible to nearby spectators through a haze of smoke from the still-smouldering ruins.

When Rome was found dead, even slight hopes that any of the others would be alive, faded away.

Second Man Found

Back a few feet along the hoseline, still on the main floor of the Ed Riley store, the second body was found. It was Fireman George Reynolds, 66, also a fireman of 11 years. And it was removed at 9:05 p.m.

Digging was for a time suspended when an adjacent beam was noticed sagging and had to be removed.

Another five hours elapsed before the body of Fireman Grover Deck, 29, was found. The workers had to dig down into the basement, forming a pit in the Riley store more than 15 feet below the original level of the debris.

Deck, father of five children, joined the Fire Department in July, 1948.

He and Spencley were carried into the basement when part of the main floor collapsed when the ceiling fell in.

As soon as Deck's body was removed at 2.20 a.m. Sunday, the near-exhausted volunteers and firemen spurred themselves on to a final effort. Only a small section of the floor lay undug. Fire Chief George Smith estimated that Spencley would be found near the north wall and he directed the squad to dig there.

Look For Plaid Shirt

"Look for a plaid shirt and dig carefully," was the chief's advice.

Cigarettes were passed around the circle of workmen in the rubble pit, and they renewed their grim task of finding the fourth, and final, body.

An hour later, a volunteer probing in the rubble pit announced: "Here he is." The bright red shirt first attracted his attention.

Captain Frank Shearer was sure that Spencley was not killed outright in the first cavein. The captain said he was in the basement when the crash came and he could hear somebody calling out by the north wall. But nothing was heard after the second cavein.

That's where Spencley was found, by the northeast wall, not more than 10 feet from the door through which Webb escaped.

The body was removed, like the others, wrapped in a tarpaulin and placed on a stretcher. With hardly a murmur the 200 volunteer helpers and the 1,000 spectators, who were still watching at 3.15 a.m., began to leave for home.

It was the climax to the second worst fire in the city's history.

"If we had been seconds later," said Levesque, "he would have drowned."

Amond went for help and while he was gone the woman returned and again attacked the helpless Lellava. She was stopped by Levesque.

"Two men also came along," Levesque said, "but they pretended they did not know who the beaten man was. I suspected they must be the attackers, however, when I saw the one had no shirt on under his jacket. It had been ripped off."

$75,000 Fire At Port Perry

PORT PERRY, May 21 (CP)—Fire swept through a two-storey building Sunday, causing an estimated $75,000 damage to the Lakeshore Knitting Mills and Morrow Farm Implement Company.

Machinery, raw wool and finished stock were burned in the knitting mills on the top floor of the building.

Gordon Morrow, owner of the implement firm in this community 35 miles northeast of Toronto, said the fire could have been started by firecrackers thrown from automobiles by youths. Police Chief George Holmes said, however, he thought the blaze started inside the building which is brick with a frame front.

The fire was spotted by Marion Clark, 20, who called firemen. It was the biggest fire in Port Perry since 1884, when the entire community was burned down.

Grant Tease of the knitting mills said he would rebuild as soon as material is available. His mill was one of the leading industries here.

Express Appreciation

Appreciation of the aid throughout Saturday of the Red Cross and St. John Ambulance Association, as well as the Salvation Army, was gratefully acknowledged.

Nominated to the Fund committee by Mayor Swanston were Mrs. Fred Hooper of the Red Cross Society and Mrs. Weldon Fanning representing the women of the city.

This morning's meeting was a reflection of Peterborough's deep emotions of sadness and sympathy that welled up from the hearts of citizens of the city and district from the first announcement of the deaths of the four men.

Manufacturers, labor, retail business, women of the city, the Ministerial Association, the professions and other groups were represented, with men of no particular conection, but animated by the united desire to assist the families bereaved so suddenly and in the course of civic duty on Saturday.

RESCUE WORKERS MADE HEROIC EFFORT TO REACH 4 TRAPPED MEN

OF A DOZEN VOLUNTEERS WHO WERE INJURED, Robert Webb, 698 Charlotte St., LEFT, suffered only bruises to his legs; he was learning fire fighting from Fireman George Reynolds who was killed. CENTRE shows injured Fireman Peter Nicholson lying in an ambulance immediately following his rescue after the collapse of the ceilings of the Zacks block which trapped and killed three firemen and one volunteer. Shown RIGHT looking through the debris are volunteer Peter Immings, Firemen Edward Close, Edward Hines, Jack Wilson, Joseph Healey, Henry Noakes, Jack Luther and Harold Rain.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

By DON GRANT

Water and smoke damage to stores, offices and stock surrounding the razed George St. building is expected to be more than $75,000, perhaps as high as $110,000.

Only one office, the Canada Life, in the Braund building, corner of George and Hunter Sts., escaped any smoke and water. Today business continued as usual, unhampered by the fire effects.

On the ground floor of the building, Dickson's dry goods store, Sands & Bateman, Jim Marett's tobacco shop combined with Fowler's barber shop, were most seriously damaged by water.

Tarpaulins were not taken into Dickson's store until nearly 10:15 a.m. and by that time the materials were soaked with water dropping from the ceiling and flowing in from the alley at the rear. There the sewer backed up. Only goods already sold, a sewing machine and a cash register were taken from the store.

During the fire a customer phoned for some broadcloth material and was asked: "Wet or dry?"

Distributed over the ground-floor level and the basement was nearly $40,000 stock. Most of this was w[illegible]-soaked.

Sands and Bateman's office on Hunter St. received water from the top floor where the fire broke through about 6:30 a.m. This caused the wallpaper to peel and warped the floor in places.

Current file books, cash and filing cabinets were removed during the fire while other valuables were placed in the fireproof vault. Albert Galoska said that the loss to the contents was not great, about $500.

Firecrackers Soaked

Children who planned to buy firecrackers at Jim Marett's shop will find the stock well-soaked in the show window. Much of the remaining stock, cigarettes, comic books were in the same condition although tarpaulins were laid when firemen began to fight the fire on the roof.

The owner rescued a typewriter and emptied the cash

Saturday's Fire

Saturday's disastrous fire, which raged in the heart of the business and shopping district of Peterborough, is estimated to be the worst in 33 years and has caused damage to the extent of $350,000; but worse than that four precious lives have been claimed. We extend to the bereaved relatives of these gallant men our sympathy.

A stone's throw from this office the blackened shell of the burnt building stands as a grim reminder of the awful power of fire. During World War II damage from fire bombs in England was greater than from high-explosive, and even in these days of atomic warfare it is almost certain that the menace of fire will be brought home to us.

* * *

But fire may strike in peace-time too, and this gutted building should serve to remind citizens of the importance of tightening up fire precautions. In particular many of the older buildings in the City were wired for electricity many years ago, before proper regulations had come into being. All this old wiring should be scrapped immediately in cases where it still exists and new wiring substituted.

* * *

More than anything else the fire stands as a monument to the heroism of the fire-fighters, who worked tirelessly and without regard for personal safety. The four men (one of them a volunteer) whose deaths we mourn died doing their duty. It is due to their efforts and those of the other firemen that the fire was kept from spreading to the rest of the block.

* * *

Full credit is due to the magnificent spirit shown by the Salvation Army, the Red Cross, the Churchill restaurant, and the large numbers of volunteer workers, for their help given freely in the emergency. The police, too, did a fine job of work in handling the large crowd which had collected.

* * *

The cause of the fire is not yet known. It is the seventh fire to have occurred in Peterborough in seven days. The Ontario Fire Marshal's Department is investigating, and has ruled out the possibility of foul play. The public is awaiting a full report, in which various questions will be answered. It wishes to know the circumstances under which these firemen lost their lives. It is established that they entered the building shortly before the roof caved in, trapping them in the debris. In view of the fact that it was a question of saving property rather than life, was the risk in sending them in justifiable? Was proper direction and leadership given to the volunteer workers, so that the best use could be made of their services? The public is entitled to know the answer to all these questions in due course.

Beef At Washington

Lobbying in the United States is an entirely legal procedure by which pressure is brought to bear upon legislators by various groups of special interests. It is regulated by law and its existence is a matter of common knowledge, yet as a general rule lobbyists do not seek publicity. We assume they feel their causes will be more readily furthered if the general public is not too well informed about ends and means or the identities of the special [illegible] involved.

The cattlemen's lobby has now departed from the customary quiet procedure with yelps as shrill and penetrating as those used by cowboys to influence cattle. Their recent attempts to put pressure on the U.S. Congress have been about as subtle as a stampede of steers. They have been holding meetings in the National Press Club Auditorium in Washington, and while all meetings are noisy and strenuous, one of the more recent developed into a veritable madhouse.

At this meeting, the cattlemen heard brilliant oratory from an official of the American Farm Bureau Federation, on the theme that all controls are "Communistic." After the speech, the cattlemen seemed more convinced than ever of the strength of their position, for they began to toss their weight around in unprecedented fashion. Controls would hurt their industry irreparably, they said, so they would not put up with controls. They flatly declared they were prepared to create a meat shortage by holding cattle off the market if the Government did not lift controls. But when asked by reporters to give figures showing how controls would hurt the industry, they refused to do so.

Some reporters left in disgust, but only one of 250 Senate and House members present raised his voice to ask the same question. He was Congressman Cooley of North Carolina, chairman of the House Agricultural Committee, and he was undoubtedly annoyed because his committee had earlier yielded to pressure from the cattlemen. But the cattlemen also refused to answer his question.

Application of such pressure has produced results before in the United States—and in this country, too. It isn't an admirable feature of democracy, but it will probably be with us as long as the present democratic structure remains.

Broken Heart

Germany, lying as she does in the centre of Europe, has been described as the "heartland of Europe." A prosperous and contented Germany is therefore an indispensible feature of Europe's well-being. Present-day Europe is suffering from a broken heart, with Germany partitioned into two zones. It is difficult to find out exactly what the Germans are thinking in the Eastern zone. It is hard to believe that they are paying more than lip-service to Russian Communism. They always considered themselves to be superior to the Slavonic races to the East of them, and the Russian occupation is a bitter pill to swallow.

In the West, where the free expression of opinion is given full rein, there are disquieting symptoms. There is a paradox in the fact that the Germans with all their intelligence and organizing ability are relatively speaking so backward in political thinking. They are very easily swayed by mass emotion. Parliamentary institutions have never taken deep root in German soil. The Weimar republic was discredited from the start; the Bonn republic appears to be following suit. A new Nazi-type party, the S.R.D. (Socialist Reich Party) has already won hundreds of thousands of supporters in Lower Saxony. Their programme is curiously reminiscent of the Nazis in the early days. Germany lost the war only through treason; the concentration camps were built after the war by American orders; atrocities were just allied propaganda, and so on ad nauseam. Their leader, the former Major-General Otto Ernst Remer, helped to cause the failure of the plot against Hitler in 1944 by informing Goebbels of what was afoot. Incidentally Remer bears a striking physical resemblance to the sinister little Doctor.

The crude programme of this party outrages common-sense, but it is being eagerly swallowed by a section of the German electorate. There is no proof positive of a tie-up with the Russians, though the latter may be helping them with a view to discrediting parliamentary government. It is significant that Remer adopts (in public) a policy of strict German neutrality in the East-West quarrel, while advocating a revival of German armed forces. What he thinks in private is anybody's guess, but we are sure that whatever it is it bodes ill for freedom and democracy.

Third Front

Wide-spread public argument has centred round the rivalling claims of the Far East and Europe on the allotment of American troops and equipment. This is something that concerns the fate of the whole world, but rightly and properly it is for the American people to decide. We do not think that they will be short-sighted enough to "write off" Europe as a dead loss: even MacArthur with his predilection for the Far East has never advocated such a step, a fact which certain noisy isolationists may find hard to stomach. Nevertheless the fact remains that if MacArthur's policies were carried out America might be forced by the logic of events to leave Europe to her fate, and the American public is beginning to realize the dangerous possibility of being left without allies.

But there is a third potential front—the Middle East. The decision of the new Iranian government to nationalize the oil wells has stirred up wide-spread disorders in that country. London is reported to have in readiness airborne troops to deal with the situation. Russia has not yet signified her intentions. The oil wells themselves would not be of much value to her: they are situated near the coast, and their normal outlet is the sea. The interior of Iran is very mountainous and communications are poor, though use could be made of the Trans-Iranian railway, by which supplies were shipped to Russia during World War II.

The situation is explosive. If the British send troops to Iran they run a risk of provoking a World War. If they accede to Iranian demands, not only is the source of valuable oil imperilled, but also it may prove the "go" sign for Iraq and Arabian state to nationalize the oil wells in their territory. American companies have holdings in Iraq and elsewhere, and a move towards nationalization there would undoubtedly provoke sharp reactions from Washington.

A leading German fashion designer complains that German women dress badly because they dress sensibly. That reason scarcely holds good here. He goes on to say that they wear brassieres to keep warm. Surely braziers would be more effective.

Musical Notes

by
PETER PIPER

I HAVE sometimes been to a concert and enjoyed every note of it, only to find next day, to my chagrin, that the critic whose job it was to do the write-up of the concert in the paper has discovered all sorts of flaws, which I, in my naive enthusiasm never noticed. On other occasions a concert that left me bored and disgusted by turns has been praised in glowing terms by the critic. There is scarcely a single music-lover who has not had the same experience. It is not merely a "case of superior judgement" pitted against the inexperienced amateur: experts can (and do) differ most heartily over the interpretation of music. This seems ludicrous to a person with an exact type of mind. He suspects that music critics are all charlatans if they cannot agree amongst themselves.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE fascinating thing about music is that everybody has a right to his own opinions, however wrong-headed the other fellow may think they are. Music is, after all, an art, not a science. When I started to learn my multiplication tables at school I soon found out that there were only two answers—right or wrong. In music, however, tastes differ. Of course when criticizing the performance of a musical work it is fairly easy for anyone with a good ear to seize upon obvious wrong notes, rhythmical errors, and so on; but the total impression is more immediate, less easily definable. Nevertheless the opinion of a man of wide and deep musical experience is bound to carry more weight. He has had more opportunity of forming his standards by listening to good performances. Analogies are notoriously leading, but the following will help to clarify the situation. If a man is considering buying a quantity of wine and desires an outside opinion he would listen more readily to the advice of a man who has spent his life tasting wines, judging the flavour and bouquet of the various vintages. Yet if he has any sense he will taste it himself, and if he finds it distasteful not even a favourable verdict from the most experienced wine-taster will induce him to purchase it.

AUSTERITY is the dernier cri in contemporary music. I personally find this studied drabness of texture rather overdone. In the first place it was a welcome reaction from the rather over-ripe lushness of the earlier part of this century, but now it is a phase that has outstayed its welcome. We are getting a little tired of these crabbed little essays with their gangling gauntness, and long for something more spontaneous and singable. It was with these thoughts in mind that I listened on the radio the other evening to an Organ Concerto by Barbara Pentland of Vancouver. She has been badly bitten by the austerity bug. I think it was Hindemith who started the cult with his "Gebrauchsmusik" (utility music). Hindemith felt that there was a real need for music modern in style yet not atrociously difficult, that could be played by amateur musicians. His scores were written in such a way that if a certain instrument were not available the part could be either omitted altogether or taken by another. One of his best-known essays in this line was the music for a children's game. "We are Building a New Town", in which the children act as builders, policemen, burglars, doctors and housewives to a musical accompaniment. Hindemith's style is lean, athletic and bracing. He uses an amalgam of German folk-song elements and atonality with great resource. Although his music is rather lacking in feeling as a whole there are moments when he allows himself a more lyrical form of expression. The new school, however, demands and offers no concessions; it is a succession of bleak ineptitudes describing itself as music. I am glad to say that not all moderns write in this style; Britten, for instance, writes music full of wit and pungency, and does not scorn piquant orchestration.

APROPOS my remarks on London's new Royal Festival Hall, I see that Sir Thomas Beecham has been quoted as calling it a monstrosity. He was referring to the exterior, not to the interior, which he has not yet seen. He did however say that he did not propose to conduct in it as there had been considerable divergence of opinion on its acoustic properties: the extensive use of sound-absorbent materials has made it considerably less resonant than the average concert hall. This makes for much greater clarity, and a good deal of interesting detail that is ordinarily lost in a backwash of echo comes out clearly. On the other hand the tone is apt in these instances to be dry and lacking in warmth. Opinions will always differ on this issues. It is safe to say that the classical composers such as Mozart and Haydn gain in sparkle when played in a hall without much resonance. The glitter of Rimsky, too, would show to better advantage. The Romantics, on the other hand, usually demand more resonance. I know of only one concert hall which would satisfy both conditions. It is one of the concert broadcasting studios in the Brusseis building of the Belgian broadcasting system, the largest broadcasting building in the world, so I was told. This particular studio, which will accommodate a fair-sized audience, is equipped with [illegible] rows of pillars set into the two long walls of the room. Half of [illegible] is made of sound-absorbent material, the other half being constructed of resonant material. At the touch of a button the pillars can be revolved electrically in such a way as to expose either the resonant or the sound-absorbent half. The difference that such an arrangement makes to the acoustic properties of the hall is nothing short of miraculous. With the pillars in one position the hall is full of impressive echoes; in another the sound cuts off dead immediately. The intermediate positions can be obtained too, though I was informed that these are hardly ever used. This ingenious system was installed before the war. Brussels also boasts of one of the finest concert halls in Europe, the Salle des Beaux Arts, and an Opera House with a distinguished history where first performances of many famous operas have been given in the past. Decorated in the old-fashioned style with plenty of plush curtains and gilded Cupids, it is very good for sound. Perhaps if some of our more recent halls had a few Cupids installed at strategic points it might improve the acoustic properties—who knows?

AT a recent organ recital in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, given to commemorate the famous organ builder Henry Willis, it was estimated that there were over twelve hundred people present. The policy of the cathedral being not to charge for admission, there was a voluntary collection, the average takings working out at one shilling (15 cents) per head. I am afraid that this state of affairs is typical when for special reasons there is no admission charge and it is left to the public to decide how much they feel they ought to contribute. Here in Canada things are much the same. The only remedy is to charge admission. One is apt to value a thing more highly when one has to pay for it.

THE OLD BOY IS TROUBLED WITH CLAUSTROPHOBIA

MacArthur's Miscalculation

(By Basil Dean, In The CALGARY HERALD)

THE adulation across the border for General Douglas MacArthur is still in full blast. Presidential nomination is in the wind, to say nothing of offers of Happy Chandler's old job as baseball commissioner.

To an outsider, this adulation is astonishing—particularly in view of the official record of the Wake Island conference between Truman and MacArthur last fall—a record which the general concedes is accurate. Under, say, the leadership of a Winston Churchill, what MacArthur said at that meeting and what subsequently happened would have been enough, in itself, to get MacArthur unceremoniously relieved of his command.

ON Wake Island (where he had flown because MacArthur refused to come back to the U.S.) Truman asked MacArthur point-blank about the prospects for the Korean war. (MacArthur's big break-out from the old Pusan beach-head was then in progress.)

MacArthur replied that South Korea would be clear of the enemy by Thanksgiving (mid-November), and that the whole peninsula would be cleared, and the 8th Army back in Japan, by Christmas.

It was at this point that Truman asked his crucial question. What about Chinese intervention? MacArthur's reply was unequivocal. There would, he said, be none. From his intelligence sources, he knew that there were about 300,000 Chinese troops in Manchuria, but of these only 100,000 to 125,000 were front-line soldiers, and of that number probably not more than 50,000 or 60,000 could be moved into Korea.

If the Chinese had been going to intervene, he added, the time for them to do so was when the U.N. forces were hanging grimly on to the Pusan beach-head. The fact that the Chinese had not then appeared indicated that they did not intend to intervene at all. So there was nothing to prevent the Allies from finishing up the war by Christmas.

A few weeks later, MacArthur was complaining in his communiques that his line was being attacked by 500,000 or 600,000 Chinese Communists—or roughly twice the total number he had estimated to be in Manchuria a few weeks previously, four or five times the estimated front-line strength, and ten times the maximum number he estimated could get across the river from Manchuria into Korea. Even last week, after Chinese soldiers had been slaughtered (according to the air and ground communiques) by the tens of thousands, there were still reports that 300,000 or 400,000 of them were about.

MacArthur's bad guesswork was a military error of classic proportions. Not many generals in recent history have made so serious a mistake. That a miscalculation had been made was obvious immediately after the Chinese attacked and smashed up MacArthur's' "out-of-the-trenches - by - Christmas" offensive; but until the publication of the Wake Island documents, the exact responsibility for the error was not clear—whether it lay with MacArthur, his intelligence, or the U.S. War Department.

The documents clarify this point. The error was MacArthur's. It was he who made the partly political, partly military estimate, (a) that the Chinese would not intervene, (b) that if they did, it would be with no more than 60,000 troops and (c) that 60,000 troops would not be enough to change the course of the war.

FURTHER large questions are raised, of course, about the general's intelligence staff. There appears to have been, in Korea, a struggle for power between the intelligence branch of his own staff and the recently-formed Central Intelligence Agency in Washington, which had its operatives in the field. But it is still hard to understand how intelligence, or reconnaissance, or both could have missed the presence of, say, 750,000 Chinese troops just across the Yalu River. Nor is there any explanation why MacArthur ignored the warning that China would intervene if the 38th parallel was crossed.

With an error of such magnitude on his record, it is indeed surprising that the general should now be the subject of such hysterical adulation in the country which he is visiting for the first time in 14 years. All generals, of course make mistakes and, to plagiarize the late Fiorello LaGuardia, some of them are beauts. But in countries outside the U.S., generals who have made mistakes on this scale are not greeted with thousands of tons of ticker-tape, nor is their every word hung on by the public with unquestioning attention.

General MacArthur, therefore, presents an enigma which is insoluble to the non-American mind. If he gets elected President next year, as well he may, the mystery will be deeper than ever. But perhaps no more inexplicable than the election of Grant, Harding or Coolidge.

GOOD NAME

A taxi came round the corner too quickly and ran into a tradesman's van, upsetting it and scattering its contents all over the road.

Promptly a policeman appeared.

"What's your name?" he asked the taxi-driver.

"Pat O'Leary."

"Indeed, and that's my name, too! What part of Oireland do ye come from?"

"Dublin."

"Dublin, is it? Sure, just wait you there a bit while I go and charge that careless spalpeen with backing into you."

My soul longeth, yea, even fainteth for the courts of the Lord: my heart and my flesh crieth out for the living God. . . . For the Lord God is a sun and shield: the Lord will give grace and glory: no good thing will be withhold from them that walk uprightly. (Ps. 84: 2, 11.)

Jesus answered them, I told you, and ye believed not: the works that I do in my Father's name, they bear witness of me. . . . I and my Father are one. (John 10: 22-25, 30.)

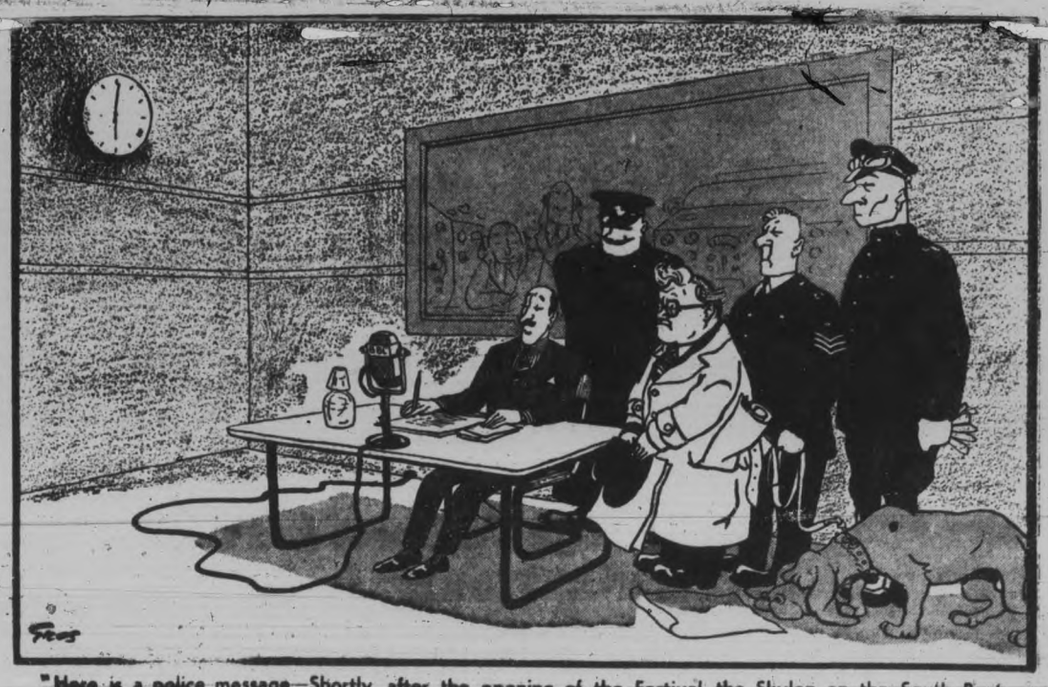
A Needle Through Saturn



(New Yerk Times)

With Venus blazing away in the west, watchers of the evening sky may be giving less attention than is deserved to a duller but very interesting planet in the south. Saturn, known for 300 years as the ringed world, is especially interesting just now because its famous three concentric rings, seen edge-on, have almost disappeared. Many small telescopes do not show them. In larger instruments they look like a bright needle stuck through the Saturnian ball.

The rings, which are remarkably thin in proportion to their width, are so tilted now that by May 25 their plane, extended, will pass very close to the earth. It came even closer last September, a performance which will not be repeated for fourteen years. When the rings are open widest, as they were last in 1943, they reflect 1.7 times as much light as the planet alone. That is why Saturn as a naked-eye star is not now at its best. It is about as bright as Aldebaran, ruddy companion of the Hyades.

It was established long ago that Saturn's rings are not continuous sheets of solid or liquid matter but swarms of small particles, each pursuing its own orbit around the planet. The latest guess as to the nature of the particles is that they are bits of ice coated with hoarfrost. Their origin is another subject of speculation. The prevailing theory is that they are fragments of a satellite which, swinging too close, was torn asunder by the tidal forces of the planet. Saturn has nine satellites, all outside the rings.

Saturn itself is no place for an interplanetary voyager's picnic. It is so far away as to be beyond the range even of space ships supercharged with imagination. Its sub-subzero temperature is forbidding. Its atmosphere is an ocean of hydrogen gas, with an admixture of poisonous methane, in which float clouds of frozen ammonia. Its solid core, probably very thickly coated with ice, lies at a great and unknown depth. A good world to shy away from, a beautiful one to admire from a warm and safe retreat.

Gaming House Raid Brings $100 Fine

COBOURG, May 21 (ENS). — Frank Creamer of Newcastle pleaded guilty Saturday to keeping a common gaming house, and was fined $100, and costs, in court here. Provincial Police officers visited his place on May 13 in plain clothes. Provincial Constable W Steacy of the anti-gambling squad, Toronto, told the court that he was introduced to a group playing poker in a shack on the property rented by Creamer on the night of May 13, and got into the game. At times Creamer took the house rake-off out of the pot. When other Provincials raided the place there was $4.00 in cash and $11.50 in chips in the pot, the constable testified.

"I only make enough to pay the expenses of light and heat and cost of the cards. It is just a friendly game for the boys. Nothing on a big scale Obviously someone has sent in a complaint to the Provincial Police, although I don't know who or why. It is not a gambling joint, we just have a game every Friday night. The door is not locked. There is nothing secret about it," said Creamer, who is an ex-police constable of Newcastle.

"I am asking for a fairly substantial fine. I don't think it is as innocent as he says. Anybody appeared welcome to play, and it seemed wide open," declared Crown Attorney Harry Deyman.

Placed In Casket

TOKYO, May 21 (AP).—Conforming with a centuries-old ritual, Emperor Hirohito and his three brothers Saturday placed the body of their mother in its casket. The dowager Empress Sadako, 66, died of a heart ailment Thursday. The imperial household board announced Sunday that her funeral would be held "around June 20."

Stricken In Car

MARMORA, May 21 (ENS)—A passenger in the car driven by his brother Wesley, Robert Davidson of Havelock R.R. 3, and eighty years of age, was stricken en route to Marmora on Saturday afternoon. On arrival at Marmora, Dr. H. G. Parker, who was summoned, ordered the removal of the man by ambulance to Belleville hospital.

Land Boom

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—A land boom last year boosted the farm real estate mortgage debt in the United States by eight per cent, the Agriculture Department reported today. It totalled $5,800,000,000. Farmers' non-real estate debts were estimated at $6,000,000,000, up nearly $800,000,000.

HAPPY GRADS—Three of the 84 graduates of the first North Atlantic Treaty Organization pilots' course are shown after receiving their wings at graduation ceremonies held Friday, May 18, at Centralia, Ont. Six countries —Belgium, France, Italy, Netherlands, Norway and Canada — were represented. These three, Lieut. Manglio Guarantelli, Lieut. Franco Terracina and Lieut. Piero Brazzola, all of Italy, admire each other's newly designed NATO wings.

Served For Years As Missionary

CAMPBELLFORD, May 21 (ENS).—Rev. Sam Taylor, Peterborough, conducted funeral services on Thursday afternoon for Alisia Emily Sears, widow of the Rev. Walter Malyn Jones, who died at the home of her son, Malyn S. Jones, Bonarlaw.

Mrs. Jones was a trained nurse, and accompanied her husband, who was a missionary, in his travels throughout the world. She held the distinction of having travelled around the world twice. Her late husband, Rev. Walter M. Jones, died on the mission field in Australia in 1909. She attended the Brethren Church, and was active in church and nursing activities.

Surviving are two sons, Walter A. Jones of Campbellford and Malyn S. Jones of Bonarlaw. Two sisters, Miss Ida Sears and Miss Sophia Sears, reside in Nassau, Bahamas, where the late Mrs. Jones did extensive nursing work. One uncle lives in Melbourne, Australia. She was in her 78th years.

Pallbearers were Messrs. Tom McKeown, Cecil Finch, Wesley Finch, Eldon Anderson, Bobby Reid and Clarence Thompson. Bearers of the many beautiful floral tributes were Munroe Sheppard of Peterborough, Lindsay Finch and Bob Scarlett of Bonarlaw. Interment was in the family plot in Mount Pleasant Cemetery in Campbellford.

Campbellford Home Saved By Firemen

CAMPBELLFORD, May 21. — (ENS)—Quick action by Campbellford firemen — averted what undoubtedly would have developed into a serious blaze here at 11:45 a.m. Sunday, when sparks believed to have come from the chimney, ignited the roof of the home of Jack Garvey, Canrobert St., and owned by T. L. Diamond.

The fire was well under way when it was discovered, but firemen fighting it from the ground and from the roof, soon had it under control. Considerable damage, which is covered by insurance, resulted to the roof and rear of the building, but no one was injured. The alarm was turned in by Charles Shaw, a neighbor, who noticed the flames from his own home.

Dadson Hurls A 4-Hit Game As Petes Beat Staffords 10-2

Playing errorless ball and clouting the apple hard behind four-hit hurling by Lefty Bill Dadson in Toronto on Saturday, the Petes trounced Staffords 10-2. It was their first clash of the Viaduct Major League senior ball season, and Ed Whitehill's crew—still in process of building—looked impressive in the second half of the twin bill. Oshawa downed Kingsway 4-2 in the first fray. One of the Petes' newcomers, thirdbaseman Johnny Denofrio of Ottawa belted out two homers into the right field stands with one aboard in each case. He had three hits in five tries and four runs batted in. Joe Lowrey led the hitters with a double and three singles in five tries, scoring three times after stealing bases twice. Joe Stewart and Fred Plato hit safely twice in four each. Hosking got two for two to top Staffs, one a homer to centre, Hayes and Stoneburg getting the other hits.

Neat Twirling

Dadson threw neat steady ball, breaking his sharp bender frequently to fan six in the seven-inning struggle, and walking but one. Jack Rossen for Toronto struck out three and walked only one, but he was nicked for 15 safeties, about three of them being of the scratchy variety. Though the visitors booted four, they came through with two timely double plays, and the Petes got one. Fred Garvey went over back of third for a nice catch on a blooper, and Plato picked up a bad bouncer once to keep the Petes errorless.

Staffords' runs came in the second when Hayes doubled and Hosking homered him in. The Petes got one in the second when Plato singled, moved up on a wild pitch and raced in on Stewart's single. Lowrey doubled in the second and came home on an error at short. They racked up four next battings on a walk, Lowrey's single, two steals, Garvey's double and a homer by Denofrio. In the fifth, Andy Milne singled, stole and scored on a hit by Stewart. After Lowrey bunted a lovely hit in the sixth, Denofrio homered again. Their last one came in the seventh as Plato singled, stole, went to third on a wild pitch and home on Dadson's bingle.

3rd Place Horse Eye-Catcher In Plate Trials

TORONTO, May 21 — (CP).—E. P. Taylor's Britannia, Medway Stable's Libertine, and Whittier Stock Farm's Scapa Blow won their respective King's Plate trials Saturday at sprint distance before 20,000 sun-kissed racing fans, but a stretch-running colt named Bear Field—which finished third—had the clockers talking today.

Most of the entries for next Saturday's racing classic continued on to work out the mile distance and Bear Field had the best time of any—1:43. Saturday's trials were at ¾-mile compared to the 1⅛ mile for the Plate itself—and it is the last ⅜ of a mile down the long, long stretch where champions are made.

The winners raced fairly well to form Saturday. Brittania, the Winterbrook favorite and winner of $16,355—third highest of any Canadian horse—last year, managed to withstand the stretch challenge of Mount Branca from the Double Blue Stable. Brittania owned by E. P. Taylor, Toronto, and ridden by Gil Robillard, had the fastest time Saturday, 1.12 2-5.

Libertine, from London, Ont.'s Medway Stable, with Johnny Dewhurst aboard, won easily by two lengths in 1.13 to defeat Carlalita, daughter of two Plate winners, Acara out of Paolita.

Impressive Speed

The Winnipeg-owner Scapa Blow, ridden by Calgary apprentice Darrel Hartley, raced the slowest, 1.13 3-5, but impressed with a mighty turn of speed down the straight-of-way to come from almost last place.

However, clockers who held stop-watches on the racers, were most impressed by Bear Field, owned by Jim Fair, Cainsville, Ont., owner-breeder-trainer. Bear Field often starts running fastest when the rest of the field are looking for a place to lie down. The trials for a purse of $2,500 each, did little to settle the question in what is undoubtedly the most open Plate in 92 years of existence. The oldest continuously-run classic on the continent still has 54 three-year-olds, owned by British subjects resident in Canada, eligible for the purse of about $15,000 and 50 guineas present of King George VI.

With 39 entered Saturday, the Ontario Jockey Club was forced to run the trials in three divisions for the first time.

Yorks Down Thistles

TORONTO, May 21 — (CP).—Toronto West Yorks made their Ontario senior lacrosse opener a successful one Saturday as they defeated Fergus Thistles 10-9 before 1,000 fans. Geor was high man in the scoring with four goals. Teatro scored three for Toronto.

Openings Held By Golfers At Local Clubs

Official golf openings were held Saturday at the Peterborough and Kawartha Golf Clubs with ideal summery weather attracting large turnouts to both courses.

On the north-end links, President F. H. Jobbitt's team was turned back by Vice-president R. G. Maniece's men 43½ to 23½ in a friendly opening competition. The whole afternoon was taken up with old and new members making the rounds. A dinner was held in the clubhouse in the evening, marked with short speeches and a sing-song. Mention was made of the opening dance there on June 1.

President A. R. MacGregor was in golfing action, too, at the Kawartha Club, a large number playing and many taking in the clubhouse dance in the evening. Whitby Merchants Whip Port Hope

PORT HOPE, May 21—Whitby Merchants spoiled Lakeshore Baseball League opening day for Port Hope Ontarios when they came from behind to win, 10 to 7.

Don Crawford, youthful Whitby mound artist, after a shaky start, kept the Port Hope bats in check with an eight-hit performance. He was aided by 10 safeties by his teammates and eight Port Hope errors.

Harold Woods started on the mound for Port Hope and hurled effective ball for eight innings but errors kept him constantly in trouble. John Holman pitched in the ninth.

Ken Macdonald was the leading hitter for the winners, batting three for five. Don Yuill, Len Yuill and Malcolm Mowat each collected two safeties.

Juvenile start Jim Gilmer was the outstanding Port Hope hitter with three safeties. Ray Mann and collected [illegible] Harsden came [illegible] a triple and a single.

Cobourg Legionnaires Trip Lindsay 5-3

LINDSAY, May 21—The defending Lakeshore League champions Cobourg Legionnaires spoiled Lindsay Merchants' home opener by taking the locals, 5-3, here Saturday afternoon. Doug (Dugger) Loucks fanned 13 in a losing cause as young Jim Hart held Lindsay to one hit for six frames and Soup Campbell came on to eke out the victory.

Cobourg took advantage of four Merchants' miscues to take a four-run lead. Hart was yanked by Manager Ross Zealand after two straight passes to start the seventh. Lindsay collected five hits for three runs off reliefer Campbell, but poor base running made the difference. Rookie day was elected president of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association, succeeding Fred S. Urquhart of Montreal. Paul Ramage of Brantford, former chairman of the Laurentian zone ski committee, was chosen vice-president.

Men's City Softball League starts Bowl play next week. The executive meets at seven this eve in the George St. hall to discuss the schedule, umps, etc. All umpires should have applications in by that time. Lakefield Merchants are looking for two city twirlers. We hear Joe Blewett and Les Burton will be with them. Cam Wasson is manager, assisted by Chief Samis. The Orphans are handled by Harold Dormer with Tom Walton helping. Revoy Motors have Ken Guilfoyle at the helm, aided by Buck Legrow. The UEW entry has Jim Carver as manager and Howie Dalton playing coach. Some of the East City champs of last year are expected out with Orphans. Red Sullivan can't play baseball this year (Bruins' orders) but is okay for softball, we're told.

Seeing Lou Vipond here Friday to referee the OLA game with Joe Murphy reminded us that Lou used to be quite a player himself in both hockey and lacrosse. And he'd drop his stick and throw punches as quick as he'd look at you. The Whitby Viponds—Lou, Luther and Bill—for years carried on puck and lacrosse feuds with the Creightons and Vitarellis of this borough, and Lou didn't mind taking in sundry others, like Magee, Dundas, Tompkins or Weir. Just anyone at all when he got his temper up. Time and his official status have mellowed him somewhat, and he's a pretty fair senior OLA referee in recent years.

Tragedy Felt By All

Everyone naturally is talking about the tragedy through fire which hit Peterborough on Saturday. The deaths incurred shocked and saddened everyone, whether they knew the men who sacrificed their lives or not. We knew Earl (Doc) Spencley well and could not be surprised at the voluntary risk he took. He was a fine, likeable fellow, big, bespectacled and as game as they came. As a star gridder on the line for years, he frequently played with cracked ribs to help his team here. Property damage was high for a lot of people, including sponsor Ben Swartz of the Petes' puckists and past president Ed Riley. The Petes' hockey dinner was cancelled as no one felt like a gay time that black night. We heard, too, that the IOOF junior hockey equipment was destroyed.

Senior baseball opened in Toronto on Saturday with Oshawa Merchants beating Kingsway 4-2 in the first of a twin bill and the Petes blasting Staffords 10-2 in the nightcap. Defensively, Bill Dadson starred for the Whitehill crowd as he southpawed a four-hit effort, never being in trouble. Defensively also, the whole team shone with an errorless effort. On the attack, Joe Lowrey with four hits in five tries, and newcomers Johnny Denofrio with two homers and four runs batted in, were the standouts. But Fred Plato and Joe Stewart were others in there getting more than one safe blow in the 15 bingles garnered off Jack Rossen.

Petes Still Building Up

As mentioned last week, the Petes are still building, and hope for two or three more players yet. But the lineup Saturday looked pretty good. A right promising outfield in Joe Lowrey, Andy Milne and George Brabin. The infield left nothing to be desired, either, as you can't improve on errorless ball. Ditto with the classy battery. And 15 hits indicate power at the plate, not forgetting that several other good players were sitting on the bench for this opener. However, it's a long tough haul, and a few more smart players won't hurt the cause any. They drill tonight and are off to play Crofton's in Toronto tomorrow, opening here on May 24 under the lights.

An interesting soccer game was staged Saturday aft in Morrow Park with UEW defeating O'Halloran's 3-0. In three scheduled games of the Eastern Ontario League, the UE footballers have scored 21 goals and had none counted against them. They also won an exhibition match 5-2 earlier in the season. The two local entries in the circuit put up a neat scrap all through. UEW has been entered in Dominion Cup playdowns. Next Saturday sees UE at Belleville, while Batawa plays O'Halloran's at three in King Edward Park. The hefty schedule, starting May 5, goes till Sept. 8.

UE Soccer Team Turns Back O'Halloran's 3-0

UEW defeated O'Halloran's 3-0 in a fine soccer fixture Saturday in Morrow Park. Andy Smith took Halroyd's pass to open scoring after Woodcock had made several fine saves, and de[illegible] work by D. Downer and A. Downer had held the half line of Cotton, Craig and G. Smith. UE kept up the pressure and Halroyd at outside left blasted another one home. George Downer and Harold Payne almost got one for the other side but were robbed by Jones in the net. Mundy and Allen were solid defensively on O'Halloran attacks.

The losers drove hard in the second half but found swinging passes intercepted by an alert UE half line. UEW settled down to their characteristic short passing game and only some swell recoveries by Dalton Downer kept down the score. Andy Smith added one with a deceptive lob shot. Munday later hit the rigging with a terrific drive on a free kick but it was ruled no goal as a forward was offside. Woodcock saved on Ward, and Jones had to jump to stop one when Harold Payne put his outside left in the clear. Teams:

O'Halloran's — Woodcock, D. Downer, A. Downer, Scott, T. Foster, H. Foster, E. Lane, N. Lane, Payne, G. Downer, J. Downer, O'Halloran.

Red Wings Blank Syracuse In 9-0 Triumph

By The Associated Press

One of the big reasons in Rochester Red Wings' drive to a contending spot in the International League pennant race has been the pitching of Jack Faszholz, 24-year-old righthander of St. Louis.

Faszholz turned in his fifth victory without a loss Sunday as he pitched the Wings to a four-hit 9-0 victory over Syracuse Chiefs.

The triumph moved the Wings from fourth to second place and dropped the Chiefs from second to third spot, a half-game ahead of fourth-place Ottawa.

Rochester supported Faszholz' classy hurling with a 12-hit barrage that Jay Van Noy, Charley Kress and Don Richmond spearheaded with home runs.

Drop Decision

The Giants dropped an 8-6 10-inning decision to Toronto Maple Leafs in the first half of a doubleheader. Lew Morton broke up the game with a two-run homer. The nightcap was called in the last of the fourth with Toronto leading 5-0 because of the Toronto Sunday curfew law. It will be resumed at a later date.

Montreal split a twin bill with Buffalo Bisons. The Bisons won the opener 6-2 behind the seven-hit pitching of Ernie Silverman. Hank Biasatti paced the drive with a two-run circuit blast. The Royals bounced back to take the nightcap 4-3. Al Gionfriddo drove in a pair of runs with a triple.

Springfield Cubs defeated Baltimore Orioles 4-2 in a single game. Walt Dubiel stopped the Orioles on eight hits.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Members of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club and of the Curling Club pause today and with other citizens pay their respects to those gallant men who paid the supreme sacrifice while in the act of duty.

Earl Spencely was one of our youngest and most promising curlers and, while he had been a member for only a couple of years, he made many friends. He had a sunny disposition and was a fine chap.

Grover Deck, Orville Rome and George Reynolds, while not members of these clubs, were regular spectators. Often, on their night off, they would drive up to the greens and watch the games; they were well and favorably known to all.

We extend the sympathy of these two clubs to the bereaved families.

And to members of these clubs and others who suffered loss through this fire we extend our sympathy.

Playing Downhill Calls For Alterations In Swing

By LLOYD MANGRUM
Former US Open Champion

On the average course, sloping terrain will necessitate your playing a large percentage of your shots with one foot higher than the other.

Despite the importance of this phase, few really know the proper way to make such a shot.

Playing a downhill lie means your left foot is going to be lower than your right.

The normal rhythm of your swing is going to be somewhat affected by the distribution of your weight.

Definite alternations have to be made in stance and swing to insure a good shot.

An open stance should be used. The ball is lined up off the right heel because that is where the club will come nearest to the earth if a proper swing is used.

If the ball is too far forward the club will be on the upswing when it makes contact, thereby causing a topped shot.

On the backswing, the club should be brought up more abruptly since the ground will be rising behind the ball and a sweeping motion will cause the club to drag.

With the left foot lower than the right, there is going to be a great deal more weight on it than normally is the case.

Thus there is a strong possibility that the ball will hook if hit properly.

So it is best to aim slightly to the right of the target.

Considering that the ball is being played well to the rear and that you will be hitting down into the ball at the moment of impact, a club with a loft should be used.

That is, a club with more loft than would be used if the shot were being played on level ground.

Remember that you are pointing downhill and it is going to be necessary to get the ball well into the air.

A club with loft is the only thing that can achieve this.

THE LINE-UP—Lloyd Mangrum's ball is lined off the right heel, because that is where the club will come nearest the earth, if the proper swing is used.

Phillies Take Doubleheader Brooklyn Routs Reds Twice

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sport Writer

Whew! What a Sunday spree major league baseball staged Sunday before a total of 211,616 persons.

Double-figure scores, overflowing crowds, a pitcher who won a doubleheader. . . .

In a nutshell here's what happened:

Philadelphia Phillies sank the Pirates in a doubleheader 17-0 and 11-4 before the season's largest crowd at home—36,166. The Phils' Richie Ashburn collected eight hits for the day.

Brooklyn routed the Reds in both ends of a doubleheader 10-3 and 14-4 before 29,427 Cincinnati fans.

St. Louis Cardinals rallied for five runs after the first two batters were retired in the seventh inning to come from behind and nip New York Giants 8-7 before 22,666 paid. Red Schoendienst batted in four Cardinal runs.

Toronto-born Dick Fowler won his first game in almost a year, extending Cleveland's losing streak to six with a 2-1 triumph for Philadelphia. The Indians, however, won the second game of a doubleheader 5-3. The day's smallest crowd, 10,158, saw the twin bill.

Gets Both Victories

Forty - one - year - old Emil Dutch) Leonard was credited with both victories as the Cubs came from behind to whip Boston's Braves twice 4-3 and 5-4 to the delight of 42,088 Chicagoans.

Undefeated Ed Lopat pitched his seventh consecutive victory for the Yankees with a 7-3 triumph over St. Louis Browns before a crowd of 29,427. He also hammered his third home run of the season. Rain forced the postponement of the scheduled second game.

Hal Newhouser became the third visiting southpaw to go the route and win in Fenway Park this season as Detroit defeated the Red Sox 8-4 before 30,320.

Chicago's surprising White Sox made it four in a row on their traditional tough eastern swing, shading Washington Senators 5-4 before a turnout of 11,773.

Strengthens Hold

When the smoke cleared, Brooklyn had strengthened its first place hold in the National League to one game. Chicago moved into second and Boston dropped from second to fourth. The Phillies climbed out of the cellar into fifth place and Cincinnati slipped into the basement.

No change took place in the American League race as the Yankees retained their two-game lead over the White Sox.

The Phils slugged seven Pittsburgh pitchers for 35 hits, 20 in the first game. Russ Meyer hurled the shutout. Their 17-0 victory ranked seventh among the major league mark against the Indians 21-0 Sept. 15, 1901.

Homers by Jackie Robinson and Cal Abrams helped the Dodgers and Ewell Blackwell's five-game winning streak in the first game. out in the ninth scored Orestes Minoso with Chicago's winning run over Washington. Robinson also hit a two-run homer in the fifth.

Fowler spun a neat three-hitter over the Indians for the first victory. The A's snapped a 1-1 tie in the opener as Gus Zernial, who had doubled, crossed when Larry Doby fumbled Wally Moses' single and presented Bob Lemon with his fourth loss. Eighth-inning singles by Harry Simpson and Bob Kennedy featured in Cleveland's two-run rally in the eighth that snapped a 3-3 tie in the second game.

Hoot Evers homered and highlighted a three-run rally in the eighth with a two-run single to lead the Tigers to their win in Boston. Newhouser scattered 11 hits for his fourth straight victory.

Eleven Men

day to be in good condition. Other firemen and volunteers who were slightly injured were treated and sent home.

Chief Went In First

Fire Chief Smith said Sunday that he, Assistant Chief Stew Foster and one of the fire captains had taken one line of hose into the building at the place where the men were later trapped.

"I wouldn't ask any of my men to go where I wouldn't go," he said.

He said he gave the order for the men to go in, but he didn't know that Spencley was on one of the lines of hose. "I knew Webb was there, but I didn't know Spencley was on it too."

The fire was under control by 9.30, but there were still flames toward the rear of Riley's store. "They were firemen and their job was to get that fire out," the chief said.

The fire started sometime before 5.30 a.m., when Constable Douglas Farthing first saw it, in the building which housed Tip Top Tailors, Pulver's, Agnew-Surpass, and Ed Riley's.

Under Control At 9.30

By 9.30 a.m. firemen and volunteers under Fire Chief Smith had the fire under control.

Several firemen working on the roof of the Robert Fair building said they had seen the men enter the ground floor from the front door of Ed Riley's shop. They shouted to them to get out before the first collapse at about 10 a.m.

The crash carried through to the basement, crushing the men beneath 15 feet of debris.

Several volunteers and a number of firemen were prepared at that time to enter the building and search for the men trapped at the front. Others entered from the rear and took out Vinette and Blank.

Webb told reporters he escaped the force of the cave-in by diving under a show case near the front of the store.

Pull Down Rear Wall

Unwilling to risk more men, Chief Smith ordered the wall at the rear of the building torn down before rescue crews went into the shell of the building. Tow truck cables were taken to the top of the wall by Fireman Bill Sorrie and hooked around the brickwork. Sorrie was working at the top of the aerial ladder.

It was about 2.30 p.m. before rescue crews were able to go in and start removing debris from the area where the trapped men were. Tow truck cables were hooked on the front wall of the building to brace it against a further collapse.

Not long after workers went into the building, the north part of the front wall seemed to sway out and the chief ordered it taken out to prevent more debris piling up inside.

The rescue crews were cleared from the building and the whine of tow truck motors started again, climaxed by the crash of bricks, beams and timbers on George St.

Once the dust cleared a little, the rescuers went back to their grim job.

Two mechanical shovels, owned by the parks department, were working on the sidewalk and street in front of Ed Riley's, loading bricks and other rubble into trucks owned by the city and others loaned by individuals.

All Hand Work

No machinery could be taken inside the building to clear the wreckage away, and 90 per cent of the work was done by a double chain of men, passing out baskets of debris and pieces of timer.

Tow trucks were used again to haul out heavy steel I-beams that had been twisted and torn in the collapse of the roof and upper floors. One 14-foot beam was bent into a perfect bow, with more than a foot of warp at either end.

At 8.45 p.m., the first body, that of Orville Rome, was brought out. Half an hour later, the body of George Reynolds was found, close to the spot where Rome's body was discovered.

Heavy Silence

As the bodies were brought out, the only sounds were the drip of water, the muffled talk of ambulance men and police, and the shuffling of feet as the crowd pressed forward.

Then the work went on. Volunteers and firemen dropped out of the double line for a breather, and workers of the Salvation Army, the Red Cross and St. John's Ambulance Brigade brought them coffee, cigarettes and sandwiches.

"They were angels of mercy," one fireman said.

On the double line of workers, about 40 men men were working, and inside the building a score more loaded the baskets and passed up timbers and twisted and broken chairs. As each basket was ready, a cry of "Heavy coming up!" rose from the cellar and passed along the line with the basket.

Worked Another Five Hours

Nearly five hours passed before the next body was found. It was that of Grover Deck. He had been caught beneath a falling steel beam. His body was brought out at 2.05 a.m.

Another hour and ten minutes passed. Workers in the line were dropping out briefly for coffee and a smoke; then going back to work.

Then, for the last time, the call for tarpaulins and a stretcher went up. The body of Earl Spencley, the volunteer, had been found.

By that time, an estimated 40 tons of debris had been removed.

Praises Volunteers

Chief Smith said he couldn't give enough praise to the men who volunteered. "They were really anxious to do a job, and they really did one," he said.

At the peak of the fire, a long cloud of smoke hung over the city from the downtown section toward the northwest part of the city.

First report of the fire was when Constable Farthing reported he had seen a window at the rear of Riley's store blow out into an alleyway. "The smoke and flames went right up the wall," he said.

The officer ran into the building and woke the tenants after reporting the fire to the fire department.

Most of the residents of the city and district were in Peterborough Saturday or Sunday to see the fire and the burned buildings. At its peak Saturday, the crowd was estimated at 7000.

When the last body was found, at 3.15 a.m. Sunday, there were still about 1,000 people watching.

Fire Sweeps 100 Acres At Highway

Strong Wind Fans Fire In Woods East of Wilberforce

WILBERFORCE, May 21 (ENS) —A fire which started from a dump on the Wilberforce-Bancroft road a mile-and-a-half east of Wilberforce about noon Sunday swept through 75 to 100 acres of pine bush before about 100 volunteer firemen stopped it.

Fanned by a strong wind from the south-west, the fire spread from the dump through some grass and into the bush. Some of the bush was scrub pine, but other parts contained good trees.

For a time the fire threatened cottages on Farquhar Lake about half a mile to the north where several cottages were located.

The fire alarm wasn't sounded until about 2 p.m., but the men from Wilberforce and Harcourt quickly organized under Harold Hurlihay, manager of the Wilberforce Lumber Co.

Took Pumper

They took the village's large fire pumper to Farquhar Lake and started back through the bush to meet the blaze, stringing out about 2,000 feet of hose. They met it at the top of a steep, rough bluff about 200 feet high.

One man went up a narrow difficult path and then pulled the hose line after him. The rest of the men followed and made their stand against the blaze.

In the meantime forest rangers from Gooderham had arrived and started in from the highway and met the volunteer fire fighters, cutting off the blaze.

Cottages Threatened

A dozen cottages around the lake were threatened by the fire. But cottages directly in the line of the fire at the landing were owned by Jack Mangan, H. G. Pitt and Dr. Harold Shaw.

The firefighters first watered down the cottages and the area surrounding as protection and watched for sparks as they floated down.

The whole district is mostly bush land. The Agnew store in the village supplied shovels and women of the district made sandwiches for the workers while two nurses from the Wilberforce hospital stood by ready to give first aid to anyone hurt. No one was injured.

It was reported that someone had started a fire in the dump about 100 yards north of the highway and left later. Some one saw it spreading into the grass about 12.30 but nothing was done about it until an alarm was sounded about 2 p.m.

It was brought under control about 5 p.m. and a guard was put on for the night to watch that it didn't break out again.

Aerial Ladder Helped Keep Fire In Control

Fire Chief George Smith said today that at no time did he think the fire would spread beyond the Zacks building Saturday.

"I knew that building was done for but I was confident we could prevent the flames from spreading," said the chief. At the same time he pointed out that the aerial ladder—a $21,000 investment that has been criticized by some as an extravagance — really proved itself.

"Without it the fire would certainly have got into the Braund building to the north," he said.

The chief said the collapse that fatally trapped four and temporarily trapped five others changed the whole tactics of fighting the fire.

Under Control

The fire was under control at 9.30 a.m., about four hours after it started. At that time the chief thought the department would have the blaze pretty well out by 12.30 noon, and all that would be needed would be a few men with a couple of lines of hose to quell any minor flareups.

But the collapse of the ceiling and the trapping of the men meant that fighting the fire had to be number two on the priority list. Number one was to get to the men as soon as possible on the chance any of them would be alive.

An ironic twist is that the men were trapped after the fire was under control.

The firemen remained on duty to 5 a.m. Sunday, nearly 24 hours after the fire started.

Gray, building campaign organizer, Mrs. Mackenzie, and Grove's headmaster, G. Winder Smith. Taking the salute (BELOW) is the inspecting officer, Commodore J. O. Hibbard, director of naval personnel.

Bank Managers Meet

Twenty-two district Bank of Montreal managers met at the Empress Hotel on Saturday afternoon for a discussion of banking problems. John McRae, assistant general manager, and officers from the superintendent's department in Toronto, were also in attendance. Following the meeting, the managers were guests of the bank at dinner.

DOURO SCHOOLS VISIT TORONTO

The teachers, pupils and parents of School Section Nos. 1, 4, 5, 7, 8, 9 and 12 left their regular school ranks to visit the capital city of the province, travelling to Toronto in two buses. Riverdale Zoo, Maple Leaf Gardens, the Parliament Buildings, and the Museum were visited.

Founder's Wife Turns First Sod For New Grove Building

LAKEFIELD, May 21. (ENS)—Mrs. A. W. Mackenzie, wife of the late Dr. A. W. Mackenzie, founder of the Grove School, turned the first sod on Sunday morning, for the new building at "The Grove" which will be erected this summer. The new building will contain dormitories and physical training quarters. Ernest Pullen, of Oakville, an old boy, spoke briefly at the short service held on the school grounds.

W. M. Pearse, chairman of the board, read the list of Grove Boys killed in action in World War One and Major John Gray read the list of those who were killed in World War Two.

Following this the cadets marched to the Church of St. John the Baptist for divine service.

The salute was taken at the church by Commodore J. C. Hibbard, Headmaster G. Winder Smith and the Rev. Lloyd Delaney.

The Rev. Ernest Foote, OBC, RCN, chaplain of the fleet (P), addressed the boys. Taking as his text, "Choose you this day whom ye will serve," the commodore told the boys to be loyal to whichever service they chose. He advised them that they are at the crossroads of civilization, and asked them to make their decision, take stock of their loyalties and recognize the obligations placed upon them as young citizens.

Loyalty to a cause is the greatest of all loyalties. He spoke feelingly of Grove boys who sacrificed their lives in the last war and asked that this class of boys be worthy of those who had gone before, quoting "If you break faith with us who die we shall not sleep."

"Faith," said the chaplain, "is your only weapon. It is better to die for a living cause than to live for a dying cause. The country is only as effective as the character of its young men and young women.

"Faith is something that is to be translated into your daily lives."

In closing, the boys were asked to remember that their chief purpose in life is to serve.

"The Grove" took over the complete church service, with the lessons being read by Chief Petty Officer Percy Sherwood and AB Hugh Faulkner.

The school colors were laid on the altar for the service and received by the color party at the end of the service.

Lakefield Lad, 3 Suffers Minor Injury

LAKEFIELD, May 21. (ENS)—Ricky McIlwane, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton McIlwane, Lakefield suffered minor injuries when hit by a passing motorist Sunday afternoon.

The boy was playing on the street when the accident occurred. He was treated by Dr. Lloyd Bailey, Lakefield, for cuts, scrapes and bruises.

Chief of Police Garnet Samis, Lakefield, investigated.

FIRE RUMOR

Rumor today had it that a restaurant on Highway 28 was on fire. A check with the owners revealed that they were spraying mosquitos.

Parents See Child Hit By Truck

Omemee Lad, 3, Dies Later In Hospital, Ran Into Truck's Path

OMEMEE, May 21 (ENS). — Tragedy struck in the west end of Omemee on Saturday evening when Danny Faulkner, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Faulkner, died shortly after being hit by a panel truck in front of his home on Highway 7, just inside the village limits.

At 6.35 p.m., Danny ran across the road from the home of his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Armstrong, toward his home and into the path of a west-bound truck driven by George Callan of Peterborough, an employee of Peterborough Utilities.

When the driver saw the child he applied his brakes, swerved to the right, and almost missed him, but the left part of the front bumper struck the little fellow on the head and tossed him unto the north shoulder of the road, fifteen feet ahead of where the truck came to a stop, partly in the ditch.

Parents Witnesses

Both Danny's parents were horrified witnesses of the tragedy, as was T. Calvert, operator of a service station in front of which the accident occurred.

An employee of an oil company who was driving his car behind the truck, drove the little boy and his father to the office of Dr. W. N. Earle in Omemee. Dr. Earle immediately took him to Peterborough Civic hospital where he died about 8.30 p.m. from multiple head injuries

Passengers in the truck with Mr. Callan were his wife, his mother and three children. Police Chief Stevens of Omemee and Constable Linklater of the OPP (Lindsay) investigated the accident. No charge was laid against the driver.

The Faulkners have one other child, Judy, aged 8 months. Danny was the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Faulkner of Omemee and Mr. and Mrs. Horace Mortson, Omemee, and great-grandson of Mr. Samuel Faulkner, also of Omemee.

Funeral services will be held in Trinity United Church, Omemee, on Tuesday afternoon at 2.00 o'clock. Until then the body is resting at the Mackey funeral home in Lindsay. The Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt will officiate. Burial will be in Emily Cemetery

Smith Firemen Took Night Shift

The suburban fire department in Smith township, with headquarters just north of the city, turned out at noon and continued their assistance all day and through the night. Chief Orville Deyell said the volunteer brigade would take on the night duty after the last body was recovered. They did so, permitting the city's firemen, or most of them, to retire for rest, and incidentally for treatment of minor burns and bruises.

When the suburban brigade was organized they said their services would be on tap any time they were needed in the city. This was their first call and they were a begrimed group around midnight.

Coffee distributed by the Salvation Army during the fire and Saturday night was made in the Churchill restaurant. It was a continuous day of keeping the coffee urns full, apart from the stacks of sandwiches that went out.

Ald. Norman Graham conceived the idea of a collection to pay the restaurant. By evening it amounted to around $110.

Lindsay Boy Drowns Swimming In Scugog

LINDSAY, May 21 (CP)—Clayton Poquette, 14, was drowned Sunday when he dove from a footbridge into the Scugog River and failed to come up. He was swimming with a friend in the east end of town.

All-night dragging operations failed to recover the body.

RAIMENT FOR CLEANERS

Sport shirts and occasional jackets worn by young men who volunteered for the bucket line removing debris must have taken a lot of cleaning today. With that sample of community spirit in evidence there and elsewhere, the sound heart of Peterborough was once more manifested. Appreciation for that effort will have to be taken in the general sentiments of gratitude that are being acknowledged.

THREE- YEAR- OLD Danny Faulkner was fatally injured Saturday when he was struck by a panel truck in Omemee. He was rushed to Peterborough Civic hospital and died there several hours later. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Faulkner, Omemee.

Tragedy Started As Thick Smoke Hung Over City

By BOB HATTON

"Is it bad?"

"It looks pretty bad," said Constable Douglas Farthing as he tightened a rope across Hunter St. at Water St.

The time was six o'clock Saturday morning. Yellowish-brown smoke was billowing out of the buildings on George Street south of Hunter St. and drifting west.

Tragedy was in the making, but most of Peterborough's citizens didn't know a fire had started.

Only a handful of people could be seen on George St. Firemen had hose shooting jets of water into the buildings.

Fire Had Death-Grip.

They worked swiftly and effectively, but the fire appeared to have taken a death-like grip on the upper floors of the building.

For four hours the firemen battled the blaze. Volunteers joined in and took places on the bucking hoses. Among the firemen were Orville Rome, George Reynolds, Grover Deck. Earl Spencley, Fred Rathburn and many other men dived in to help.

A large crowd quietly gathered and watched intently. The Salvation Army was out; the Red Cross and men and women of St. John Ambulance as well as nurses of the Victorian Order.

125 Gallons.

The Churchill restaurant made about 125 gallons of coffee and the Salvation Army, headed by Major Cyril Everitt who worked tirelessly all day and night, helped by Sergeant Bill Parsons, carried it to the men at the back and on the roofs.

The Red Cross using two church groups made 40 loaves of bread into sandwiches with meat, salmon and eggs after contacting Major Everitt.

Later on, as the men became exhausted, the Red Cross gave them transportation home and after it was all over drove home the workers who had no cars. Bruce Payne organized the transportation.

Merchants contributed hamburgs and doughnuts.

People drove into the city from many outside points. Restaurants and stores were jammed. Many ate lunches in the parks.

Working On Roof

Up on the roof firemen worked to prevent the fire from jumping the firewall into the Robert Fair store. Fireman Fred Murphy and Captain Fred Mason, helped by volunteer Fred Rathburn, smashed a hole in the roof at the front of the building and poured water down the wall to beat back the flames.

The heat was furnace hot. The skin on Fireman Murphy's forearms were scorched, but the men stuck to the job until well into the afternoon. The tar on the part of the roof at the front which was still standing was boiling.

More than four hours after the fire was discovered, the flames were brought under control and had almost burned themselves out in the upper floors.

But experienced firemen like Joe Astles and Captain Garnet Brown knew the fire was like a dying wild beast. It could slash out at any second and send men to their deaths.

Ordered Men Out.

They were at the back and they ordered several men out of the Plan Mass Public Funeral Tuesday Afternoon For 4 Victims In St. Paul's

Four Men Left 14 Children 12 of School Age or under; Community Choir to Lead Service

A mass funeral for the four dead in Saturday's $500,000 fire that destroyed a George St. business block will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. in St. Paul's Presbyterian church. It will be a public service so Peterborough residents can pay their last respects to the three regular firemen and the volunteer fireman who lost their lives in the city's second worst fire. The four men left 14 sons and daughters, 12 of them of school age or under. A community choir will lead the singing under the direction of Charles E. Allen, organist and choirmaster of George Street United Church. Choir members from any city church are invited to attend and bring their own vestments. Christopher Gledhill, organist of St. Paul's will preside at the organ.

The scriptures will be read by the Rev. H. G. Douglas, Knox United Church; prayers will be led by the Rev. Maurice P. Poole, All Saints' Anglican Church; the address will be by the Rev. Ivan C. Morgan, Murray Street Baptist Church; the benediction will be by Major Cyril Everitt, Salvation Army; and the service will be conducted by the Rev. C. G. Boyd, St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

Plans For Overflow

Anticipating that there will be an overflow crowd, those in charge of the memorial service have equipped the St. Paul's Sunday school auditorium with a public address system. Those who cannot find accommodation in the church proper will be able to hear and participate in the service.

Detachments of firemen are expected from Belleville, Hamilton, Oshawa, Toronto and other fire departments across the province. Earl Spencley and Fireman Grover Deck were members of Branch 52, Canadian Legion, and Legionniares are expected to take part in the service.

Several service clubs and other organizations are also expected to attend in a body.

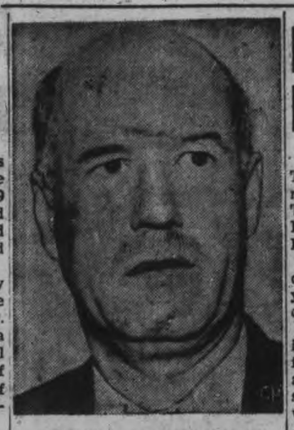
Appoint First Queen's Graduate Dr. W. Mackintosh New Principal

KINGSTON, May 21.—A brilliant student who graduated from Queen's University in 1915 at the age of 20, has been appointed principal and vice-chancellor.

He is Dr. William Archibald Mackintosh, 56, the first Queen's graduate to hold the post of principal at the university. He will take over his new duties in September when Dr. R. C. Wallace, principal and vice-chancellor of Queen's since 1936, reaches the retiring age of 70.

"I think I had better wait and settle down in the job before saying very much," commented Dr. Mackintosh when asked if he wished to make a statement concerning his appointment. "Dr. Wallace is not retiring until September."



Widely recognized as a distinguished educator, economist and administrator, Dr. Mackintosh has been sought by other universities but his heart is with Queen's. He has been with the university 39 years as student, instructor and senior officer, and is known and beloved by a host of graduates and undergraduates.

Dr. Mackintosh was honored by the King for his services in the Second World War. He is a Ph.D. of Harvard, an LL.D. of Manitoba University, a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada, and is dean of the faculty of arts and director of the school of commerce and administration.

Born In Madoc

Born in Madoc, in 1895, he was the son of a pioneer Ontario educator, Inspector William Mackintosh, and the youngest in a family of seven. He entered Queen's at the age of 17 and graduated three years later with an M.A.

In 1920 Dr. Mackintosh became

assistant professor of economics at Queen's and advanced rapidly in his department. Though he has never been a permanent civil servant, he made a great contribution to the Canadian economy during the early part of the depression years when he directed and co-ordinated a vast research project on the prairie provinces.

He has served successive federal governments on many important tasks and at the outbreak of war he became special assistant to the department of finance and from 1944 to 1948 he was director general of economic research. He was also head of various delegations including the Canadian technical delegation at the Bretton Woods conference. He served as mediator during the Canadian railway strike of 1950.

Goes To Australia

Recognizing his outstanding ability, Australian universities have invited him to give a series of lectures commencing in June. While there he will make a first-hand study of the universities of the island continent.

Announcement of Dr. Mackintosh's appointment coincided with the annual spring convocation of Queen's Saturday. An honorary degree of laws was conferred on Sir James Dunn, chairman and president of Algoma Steel Corporation, and on William Percy Dobson, director of research, Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, and John B. Sterling, Montreal construction firm head and member of the Queen's board of trustees.

A total of 615 students received degrees.

Resume Project

TEL AVIV, May 21 (AP). — Work on Israel's reclamation project in the demilitarized Huleh swamp area was resumed Sunday despite the United Nations directive that it be halted until Israel and Syria reach agreement over the disputed border zone. The "temporary stoppage resolution" passed by the Security Council Friday by a 10-0 vote has not yet been received officially by Israel, a Government spokesman said.

Canadians In Berlin

BERLIN, May 21 (AP).—Twenty members of Canada's National Defence College left Berlin by air Saturday for Hamburg after a two-day visit to the divided city. During their stay they met the British commandant, Maj.-Gen. G. K. Bourne and his staff, made a bus tour of the city and were received by leading German officials at the West Berlin city hall.

Marmora IODE Holds Meeting

MARMORA, May 21 (ENS)—The regular meeting of the Marmora Chapter IODE was held on Thursday evening in the Masonic Hall. The regent, Mrs. W. M. Regan, was in the chair.

The meeting opened with the customary ceremonies. A thank you letter was read from a burned out family.

The invitation to attend a cooking school in Stirling in the near future was received. A letter of acknowledgement of the $276.96 sent in for the March of Dimes was received and filed.

Mrs. R. G. Walsh reported on education and Miss Cecelia Townes on Empire study. The latter was carried on in the form of a quiz on "Our Empire."

Attention was drawn to the fact that the IODE and Women's Institute will be serving lunch on June 8 following a piano recital given by the pupils of Mrs. H. Rennie, proceeds of which are towards the purchase of new curtains and a blind for the Public Library.

Arrangements were made for an afternoon tea and bake sale to be held in the Masonic Hall on May 26.

One new member was received into the order and two more were voted in to become members.

Mrs. R. G. Walsh gave an interesting report of the area convention recently held in Kingston at which twelve members attended.

Three ladies from the Campbellford Chapter were present, including Mrs. James Benor, who gave a report of the Provincial Council held in Hamilton.

At the June meeting, Mrs. Ludlow and Mrs. Belcher, of Kingston, will be guests.

The meeting closed with the flag being brought forward and the National Anthem. Lunch was then served.

NEWMARKET, Ont., May 21 (CP).—A shooting was added Saturday night to the rash of dog poisonings in the Lake Wilcox area north of Toronto in recent weeks. Police said one dog was shot. Previously 41 dogs and two rabbits had died from poisoned meat scattered around the resort by an unknown person.

Literature Award

MONTREAL, May 21 (CP).—An award for Canadian service to literature will be made by the University of Alberta at the annual convention of the Canadian Authors' Association at Banff, Alta., in July. Ruling On Planes

HONG KONG, May 21 (Reuters).—Chief Justice Sir Gerard Howe ruled today that 40 aircraft in Hong Kong, formerly owned by an American-registered Chinese Nationalist airline, are the property of the Chinese Communist Government. In a reserved judgment in the Hong Kong Supreme Court, he said that the airline—Civil Air Transport Incorporated—had failed to establish ownership of the planes. He allowed two months for an appeal.

Mark Street United Church Hold School Anniversary

Both services at Mark St. on Sunday celebrated the anniversary of the church school. The congregation was honored in having as guest speaker the Rev. Dr. George Little, BA, DD, editor of Sunday School Publications of the United Church. Both morning and evening services were very well attended.

The morning service emphasized family worship. Children of the nurse beginners' and primary departments occupied the front pews and sang a chorus. "Sing Children Sing." A delightful solo was sung by Susan Brook, of the primary department.

Dr. Little brought a message to the children in story form and to the adults of the congregation he spoke of the role of the teachers and officials in Sunday school work. "At times," he said, "the task is most discouraging but we seldom realized when and what good is being accomplished."

Both the senior and junior choirs were present, and the latter under the direction of Marilyn Pomeroy, sang the anthem.

At the evening service the superintendent of the Sunday school, Carlyle Ferguson, led the worship and introduced Dr. Little.

Dr. Little's message was directed particularly to the boys and girls of the junior, intermediate and senior departments, many of whom were in the choir. He directed their attention to scientific advances made since his boyhood days — the radio, telephone, movies, television and others. The use of the eye, ear and tongue had been made so much greater through science. However, many problems in living had to be dealt with through their use. Dr. Little drew attention to need of Christian living in solving these problems. Even though Jesus had not experienced these scientific advances the words of His teaching were just as applicable to-day as they were when He uttered them.

The George St. United Church orchestra was in attendance. Before the service they played the Overture, The Calif of Bagdad. The other two numbers by the orchestra were Largo and the March "Albanico." M. W. C. Ford was Director of the Orchestra. He played a cornet solo "He wipes the tear from every eye."

Another musical highlight of the evening was a duet by Sunday school pupils Mabel McLarnon and Bob Richey. Assisting Mr. Ferguson in conducting the service were Mr. Ken Kidd and Mr. C. Agnew.

Roadside Park Laid Out On No. 7

MARMORA, May 21 (ENS)—A very attractive roadside park is being laid out by the Department of Highways on No. 7 Highway on the north side of the road west of the Deloro turn. Due to the fencing of the road being carried back a distance to permit a future widening of the highway, the land is being levelled following the cutting down of unecessary cedars.

The cedars remaining are such to make an attractive shade and the tables placed there are already being patronized.

Bonarlaw WA Meets

Small Fire In Woods Outside Havelock

HAVELOCK, May 21 (ENS)—Following the recent epidemic of fires in the Peterborough district, the sound of the fire siren here about 2 p.m. on Sunday brought out the residents quickly.

The fire, of unknown origin, was in the woods on the property of Bernard Smith, behind his residence on Concession Street. Prompt assistance from the Fire Brigade brought it quickly under control and very little damage was done, although watchers remained on the job as some old stumps smoldered for some time.

Montreal Group Wins Trophy, Calgary Second

By KAY REX

LONDON, Ont., May 21 (CP)—Next to Montreal's Les Compagnons De Saint Laurent, about the proudest troupe in Canada is Workshop 14 of Calgary.

Although the French-language group walked off with the Bessborough Trophy at the 1951 Dominion Drama Festival last week, the Calgary team bagged three other awards.

The Bessborough Trophy went to Les Compagnons for production of Andre Obrey's "Les Gueux Au Paradis" (The Beggars at the Gate of Paradise), chosen as the best production in the festival.

Calgary's entry, Aldous Huxley's "The Gioconda Smile," won the Martha Allan Challenge Trophy for the best visual presentation.

Impressed With Sets

Adjudicator Jose Ruben said he wa impressed with the furniture chosen for the sets and the attention paid "to happy color arrangement."

The Western group's leading lacy, Doreen Richardson, won the Nella Jefferis Trophy given annually to the best actress.

Mr. Ruben confessed the 23-year-old Calgary girl—who one day hopes to play comedy — "almost sold me on an unbelievable role." She portrayed the half-mad "Janet Spence" in the Huxley play which the adjudicator didnt like, although he found the actors "acquitted themselves very well."

The third honor in store for the Calgary company came when 19-year-old Patricia Laidlaw as the child-like "Doris Mead" was awarded a plaque for being the best supporting actress in the festival.

A plaque for the best supporting actor was won this year by Jean Coutu of Montreal for his part as the sexton in Les Compagnons' prize-winning entry "Les Gueux Au Paradis."

The farce-comedy adapted from the Flemish by the French playwright Obey provided one of the few lighter moments in the week-long contest which this year leaned to heavy drama.

Playgoers didn't have to understand French to enjoy the show and adjudicator Ruben described it as "delightful" and "outstandingly played."

Welland Award

The six-year-old Little Theatre Players of Welland walked off with the Festival Plaque for the best English-language production excluding the Bessborough winner.

Mr. Ruben named director James Falconer as co-winner of the Louis Jouvet Trophy which goes to the best director. Mr. Falconer will share the honor with Herbert Whittaker of the Toronto Globe and Mail, director of Toronto's University Alumnae Dramatic Club entry—G. B. Shaw's "In Good King Charles' Golden Days."

The production gained further honors for Toronto. John Colicos, 23-year-old actor, of Toronto and Montreal, won the Henry Osborne Challenge Trophy awarded annually to the best actor. Mr. Colicos was the "Merry Monarch" —Charles II—in the Shaw play.

Winner of the Plaque Du Festival for the best French-language production excluding the Bessborough winner, was Les Compagnons De Notre-Dame, of Three Rivers, Que.

Report 23 Violent Deaths In E. Canada At Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Twenty-three persons died violently in Eastern Canada during the weekend.

A Canadian Press survey shows all of the deaths were in Ontario and Quebec. Automobile accidents were responsible for nine followed closely by drownings which claimed eight. Four persons died in a fire and the remaining two in other accidents.

Heading the toll in Ontario was the death of four firefighters who lost their lives Saturday in a $500,000 fire which destroyed a business block in Peterborough. The four men—Grover Deck, Orville Rome, George Reynolds and Earl Spencley—were crushed by an avalanche of smouldering rubble when floors and ceilings of the burning building caved in.

Two persons were killed and seven others injured Sunday in a head-on collision between a car and a truck near Haileybury. Killed were Therese Ayotte, 19, and Donald Willars, 23, both of New Liskeard.

Peter Nadorosney, 59, died Saturday in London, Ont., of injuries received Friday when he was caught in the rising hopper of a giant cement mixer.

Jack Pelligrin, 51, died in Toronto hospital Saturday four hours after his abdomen was slashed open when he walked through a plate glass window.

Stephen Wortham, 35-year-old summer resort proprietor, died in hospital in Lindsay from injuries suffered in a car-truck collision.

Leonard C. Meyer, 42, died Saturday of injuries suffered when he was struck by a passenger train at Guelph Friday.

A 30-mile emergency trip from Exeter to London, Ont., failed to save the life of John Morley who was struck by a car while crossing Exeter main street.

Crushed By Bus

In Sarnia, seven-year-old Raymond Fex was crushed beneath the rear wheel of a city bus Saturday.

Lloyd Lenlrowski, a new Canadian who three weeks ago came to Timagami, 65 miles north of North Bay, was drowned Sunday when a canoe upset when he and a companion were fishing.

William Chard, 19, of Islington, was drowned Sunday in the Credit River, three miles west of Cooksville. Companions who heard his cries for help ignored him because they thought he was joking.

Chester Pilkney of Southampton, Ont., was drowned when he fell from a launch in the Saugeen

Seven persons died in accidents [illegible] near St. Joseph, 30 miles northwest of Quebec City, when their canoe overturned on a lake.

The dead, all residents of Quebec, are: Maurice Marchand, Wellie Patry, and Raymond Fournier.

Found In Creek

The body of Marcel Charbonneau, 35, of Deschenes, Que., near Hull, was found floating in a creek at the Gatineau Golf Club Saturday. Lucien Brazeau, 7, of Hull, was drowned Saturday in four feet of water in nearby Brewery Creek.

Two persons were killed in accidents in Montreal and district. Approves Division

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP).—Britain's chief military delegate to the United Nations said Saturday that the idea of creating a Commonwealth division in Korea is a "sound one." Air Vice-Marshal G. E. Gibbs said on his arrival aboard the Cunard liner Parthia that troops of Britain, Australia, Canada and New Zealand now in Korea could make up such a division.

Won't Send Troops

NEW DELHI, May 21 (AP).—Authoritative sources said Saturday India is "unlikely" to send troops to Korea. They gave this reply in response to reports published here that the United States has again requested India to do so.

BIG SPRINGS, Neb., May 21 (AP).—A flood following a seven-inch rain Sunday night had isolated this Western Nebraska town of 569 persons. The only source of communication with the outside was by telephone, and that was on an emergency basis due to lines being down.

Sioux Helps Shell Coastal Defences

TOKYO, May 21 (CP) — The Canadian destroyer Sioux, operating with a United Nations seaborne artillery group off the west coast of North Korea, Saturday shelled gun positions, coastal defences and troop concentrations in villages west of Ullyul.

A navy summary said planes from the United States aircraft carrier Glory spotted the targets as the British light cruiser Ceylon, US frigate Glendale, Colombian frigate Allmirante Padilla and the Sioux scored hits on enemy positions.

Hold Beatification

VATICAN CITY, May 21 (AP) —The Pope Sunday attended beatification ceremonies for the Rev. Jules Maunoir, a 17th-century priest, at St. Peter's basilica. Father Maunoir was born at St. Georges De Re Intembault Oct. 1, 1606. He entered the Jesuit order in Paris in 1625 and spent 42 years working in Brittany.

More Red Planes

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 21 (AP). — Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, chief of the United States Air Force, said Saturday night the US has better war planes than Russia, but the Soviets have more of them. And, Vandenberg told an armed forces celebration day, Russia is expanding its jet fighter force swiftly, building hundreds of bombers and making atomic bombs.

Britain To Discuss Newsprint Contracts

LONDON, May 21 (Reuters) — Lord Layton, deputy chairman of Britain's Newsprint Supply Company, left by air Sunday night for Montreal to discuss long-term newsprint contracts for the British press.

He said he would try to revive the long-term contracts he negotiated in 1946—and which the government has been reducing since.

"I think the chances are good," he said.

17th Century Well

KENDAL, Westmorland, England—(CP)—A well believed to be 300 years old was discovered here when workmen were excavating to lay new drain pipes.

Won't Send Claxton To East Meet

OTTAWA, May 21 (CP) — Defence commitments elsewhere will deter Canada from participating directly in the defence of the Middle East, informed quarters said Sunday night.

It therefore is unlikely, they added, that Defence Minister Claxton will attend a Commonwealth defence ministers' conference now being planned, mainly on Middle East subjects. The talks were expected to be of a Middle East "regional character."

In any event, a Canadian military observer likely will be sent and his report studied by the cabinet.

Thus, Canada likely will be in the same position as the Commonwealth's three Asian members — India, Pakistan and Ceylon — which also have decided not to send their defence ministers.

Italy's Communist Party Gets First Test In 3 Years

By ALBURN D. WEST

ROME, May 21 (AP). — Italy's Communist party — the largest outside of Russia—will get its first ballot box test in three years at the coming municipal elections.

Voters in almost 5,000 cities and towns with a combined population of 27,576,572 will pick municipal councils May 27 and June 10. On the same dates provincial councils will be elected in 58 of the country's 91 provinces.

The elections will be an all-out battle between forces of Premier Alcide de Gasperi, head of Italy's Christian Democrat majority party, and the 2,500,000-member Communist party under Moscow-trained Palmiro Togliatti and its ally, the Italian Socialist party (PSI) headed by Pietro Nenni.

Normally municipal elections depend largely on local issues, but Premier de Gasperi appears to have made the balloting a sort of national referendum.

Further Blow

For one thing, he evidently believes prospects for success are sufficiently good that the Communists will suffer a further blow to their prestige nationally. For another, his Government is concerned about the role Communist administrations in towns and cities could play in dividing the country in case of war.

Mario Scelba, Christian Democrat minister of interior, says the Communist governments in power in one-third of the country's municipalities, with a total population of 20,000,000 persons, are tools for Italy's Red leaders.

The first of three rounds of municipal elections will be held in 2,743 cities and towns in 28 provinces. On June 10, voting will take place in 2,151 communities in 30 provinces. Elections in the remainder of Italy's 7,804 municipalities are expected in the fall.

The Communist-Socialist combine now holds sway in about 1,200 of the 2,743 cities and towns in the 28 provinces to vote May 27.

Italian observers generally give the De Gasperi forces the edge in voting. Some Christian Democrat writers boast that 1,000 communities will be wrested from the Communists.

PRISONERS HELP—Communist prisoners of war were kept busy at Pusan as they unloaded thousands of cases of supplies and equipment following the arrival of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade in Korea. Although they worked under the watchful eyes of South Korean and Canadian soldiers, many attempted to steal small articles. One was caught wearing three pairs of battledress trousers under his own. Here a group is searched as L.-Cpl. John P. Wells of Montreal stands guard.

Animals Have Heat Regulators, Adapt To Cold

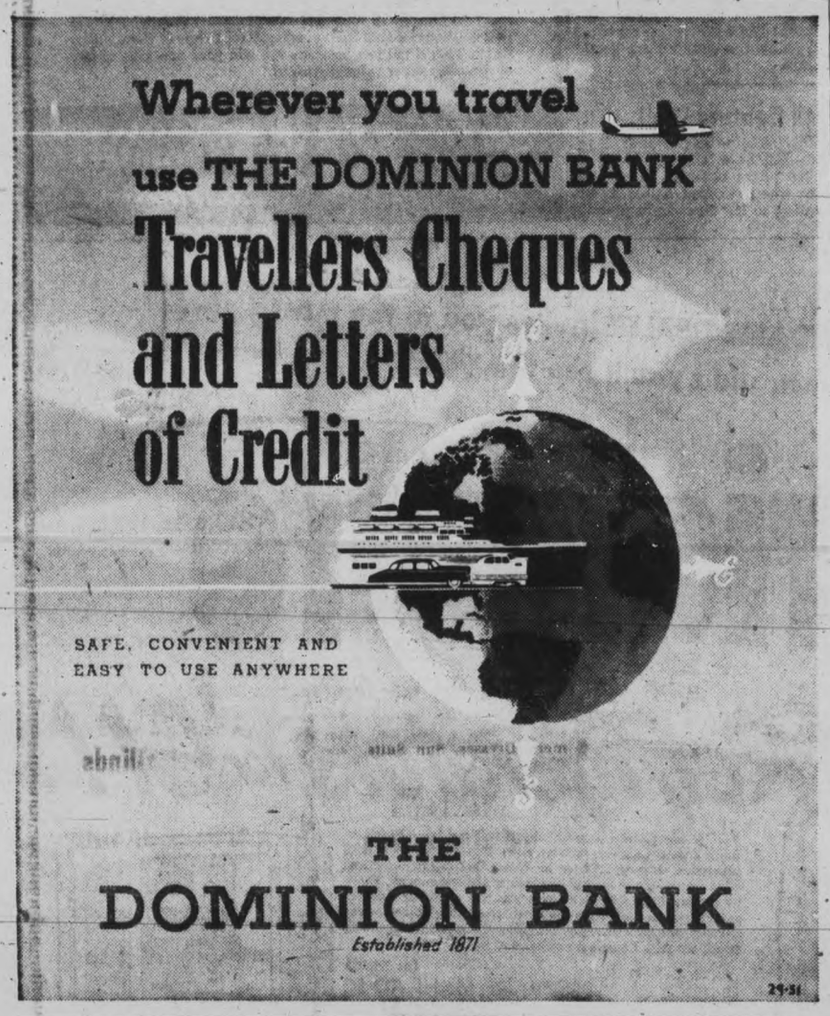
MADISON, Wis., May 21 (AP) It takes more than a mink coat to keep a mink warm.

Sure, it helps, but University of Wisconsin zoologists are convinced the real secret of a mink's temperature comfort lies in a physiological furnace—its own heat regulating system.

Headed by Prof. Peter R. Morrison, the scientists are trying to learn the metabolic secrets involved—to make it easier for persons who live, work and fight in frigid climates.

Findings to date include information that the blue fox and lemming are so specialized in adaptation to cold they are limited in range in the Arctic.

One lemming ran a fever eight to 10 degrees above normal and died of heat prostration at an air temperature of only 77 degrees.



The smaller animals run the most danger of freezing, the experts found. They have less heat-producing tissue in relation to surface area exposed to low temperatures, and heat-conservation problems are greater.

That is why most species found in cold climates weigh more and have shorter legs than relatives in warmer zones. They also have body shapes more nearly spherical to expose less surface areas.

The lemming is a good example of a species of this body type, Morrison said. To protect legs from the cold this animal has loose fur-covered "leg-o-mutton" sleeves extending to its hocks.

To determine how well fur skins protect animals from frigid blasts, the zoologists devised metal casts over which the hides are fitted. Using electric heaters, the scientists are able to learn how efficiently fur types insulate from outside cold.

Anti-Sub Watch Maintained By U.S.

NEW YORK, May 21 (CP). — The New York Daily News today said United States Navy has ... months mounted "on a war-time basis" a round-the-clock anti-sub watch in the Atlantic that is increasing steadily in its scope and intensity. This has been done, the News says, for fear of the possibility the Atlantic once more may become infested by enemy submarine packs —this time Russian.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

I'm not just a child you know. I can remember the good old days when you could actually buy a roast of beef for $3 that would last four or five meals.

But try as I might all I ever get is a bare two meals' worth these days for that money.

So I may draw some fire from you when I suggest ways of using up leftover beef. So let me put it this way: if you buy; if you have any leftover; and if you are tired of your own ways with leftovers try

Beef Pancakes

I think you will call them winners and they are good stick-to-the-ribs food too.

One cup finely ground beef, 1 small onion ground, 2 tablespoons table fat, ¼ teaspoon salt, shake of pepper, 1 cup sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 beaten egg, 1½ cups milk, butter, 4 tablespoons chopped parsley. Brown the onion in the fat for about 3 minutes, then add beef, the ¼ teaspoon salt and pepper, cook, stirring for 1 minute. In a bowl sift together the flour, baking powder and ¼ teaspoon salt. Mix egg and milk. Add to dry ingredients, mixing well. Add meat mix. Bake as pancakes on hot griddle, turning once when top is full of bubbles. Spread with butter, sprinkle with chopped parsley and roll up snugly. Serve at once very hot. These make a tempting and inexpensive supper and are especially good with new asparagus and a mixture of canned kernel corn and diced carrots.

I have discovered that golumka or golubtsk, whichever you want to call it, may be made from leftover beef too. It is a shade better when made from raw ground beef, but it is such a good dish, a shade here or there, will not spoil it.

Golumka (using leftover beef)

One medium cabbage, 1 lb. ground leftover beef, 4 tablespoons ground rice or rice flour, salt, pepper, 1 medium onion, 2 tablespoons fat, 2 cups stock or tomato. Break the leaves off the cabbage and boil 3 minutes. Drain well. Saute the chopped onion in the fat until they are wilted. Mix together sauteed onion, ¾ cup water, beef, rice flour, salt, pepper and mix. Put a tablespoon of the meat mixture on each of the cabbage leaves, from which you have removed the biggest part of the middle rib. Roll up, having ends enclosed, and place with the fold side down on baking dish, in even rows. Almost cover with tomato juice or clear stock or canned consomme. Cover and bake 1 hour at 375 deg. Fahr. These may be simmered on top of stove if desired. Use sour cream if you prefer it to tomato juice or stock. Cooked grain rice is used with raw meat in this.

The above is a famous dish and the uninitiated should try it this week at the latest. It is a money saver—and will keep the love of your family.

There are plenty of young brides who do not know how to make and if they form part of my audience here is their chance to learn.

Cover bottom and sides of small greased baking dish with hot mashed potato, add a thick layer of chopped or cubed cold roast beef, season it well with salt, pepper and onion juice, and pour over about 1 cup gravy. Cover with layer of mashed potatoes. Scrape top with tines of fork, and brush with egg or milk and sprinkle with paprika. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. to heat through and brown.

What's Right?

You are giving a shower for a friend who is soon to be married.

WRONG: Invite a large number, even though many on the guest list are not close friends of the bride-to-be, so that there will be a lot of gifts.

RIGHT: Invite only close friends of the bride-to-be, since those who are not good friends should not be expected to give shower presents.

Alan L. Borland Marries Toronto Girl

The marriage of Mr. Alan Leonard Borland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stewart Borland, Indian River, to Miss Muriel Margaret Hearse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William George Hearse, Toronto, took place Saturday afternoon at three o'clock in the Cosburn Avenue United Church, Toronto. The Rev. A. F. Binnington and the Rev. Dr. S. L. Osborne officiated.

Spring flowers and palms banked the altar. Music at the church was played by organist Mr. Walter Johnson and Mrs. P. Taylor sang the "Wedding Prayer" during signing of the register. Miss Edna Garlock was pianist at the reception.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was traditionally gowned in white bridal satin with long train in a dress which she made herself. Her full length veil was of embroidered tulle illusion, held in place by a cap of satin and lace trimmed with orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and lily of the valley.

Bridal attendants were Miss Vera C. Adams as maid of honor, Miss Esther Borland, the groom's sister, and Miss Evelyn Perley as bridesmaids. Their frocks were patterned after the bride's gown of taffeta in peach, mauve and green shades. Each wore long gloves to match her dress and a headband of matching color with contrasting flowers. They carried nosegays of Talisman roses and spring flowers.

Groomsman was Mr. Bruce Hearse and the ushers were William Ronald Hearse, Douglas Armstrong and William Sherwin.

The reception was held in the church parlors, the bride's mother receiving in a gown of tielle blue faille with hat of navy milan straw and corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother, who also received, wore light blue silk crepe with black accessories and also had a corsage of pink carnations.

The honeymoon is to be spent in Huntsville district and at Kingston where the groom is to be ordained on May 30th as a United Church minister.

As her going-away outfit the bride chose a powder blue suit with navy shortie coat and accessories and she had a corsage of pink carnations.

Style of Address Puzzles Experts

MONTREAL — (CP) — How would one go about addressing a women's law firm in their official capacity, is a problem which has Canada's authority on "etiquette-at-top-brass-level" completely stumped.

The group in question is the Montreal law firm of "Mrs." Wilhelmina M. Holmes and "Miss" Joan Gilchrist collectively—the first women's law firm in the province of Quebec, and possibly in Canada.

Howard Measures, the federal government's chief of protocol, wants to know how. When he finds out this precedent-setting bit of information will go into a book he is writing.

In the meantime, not even Holmes and Gilchrist are sure how they will settle the matter. The familiar "Messrs." is obviously out. They can't be referred to as "Mesdames," since only one is married, and for the same reason, "Misses" won't do.

So far, the best solution they've been able to settle on is to use the firm name, without title of any kind.

Havelock Couple Given Shower

HAVELOCK, May 21 (ENS)—Mrs. Garnet Emery and Mrs. Cecil Toms were hostesses on Thursday evening for a miscellaneous shower in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hubble whose marriage took place recently in St. James United Church, Peterborough.

Mrs. William Rice and Mrs. Robert Melville presented the gifts which were placed in an attractively decorated clothes basket. The address was read by Mrs. Fred Bennett.

Games and three contests provided pleasant enjoyment for the evening with the prizes for the latter being won by Mrs. J. Cosgrove (two awards) and Mrs. F. R. Vanderburgh. The consolation awards went to Mrs. R. Melville and Mrs. Rae Williams.

Those present were: Mesdames H. Agnew, G. Watson, R. Bonney, F. R. Vanderburgh, F. Bennett, W. Woodbeck, W. Rice, R. Melville, Rae Williams, V. Watson, H. Revoy, J. Cosgrove, M. Parcells; Misses Beverley Bennett and Georgina Hubble.

Those who were unable to attend but sent gifts were: Mrs. James McMillan, Norwood; Mesdames J. Ellis, W. Martin, J. Craighead, H. Pollock, W. Stevenson, H. Jewett, A. Spencer, H. Woods, O. Pomeroy, B. Haryett, B. Post.

A dainty lunch was served with Mesdames R. Bonney, F. Bennett and G. Watson pouring tea.

The bride and groom left Sunday for Toronto where they will make their home following a visit with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hubble and a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls and Boston.

Prior to her marriage the bride was presented with a miscellaneous shower by the nurses of the Civic Hospital, Peterborough of which staff she was a member.

DOROTHY DIX

Susceptible Bachelor Told To Keep Clear of Old Flame

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a bachelor, engaged to be married in a few months to a beautiful young woman, who is well educated and has qualities that will make her an excellent wife. I am very much in love with her. Since our engagement a friend of mine, a divorcee who had recently broken her engagement, entered my life again. When I told her of my engagement, she married the man with whom she had broken shortly before. Now she writes me secretly and frequently, saying she is not happy and repeatedly warns me to do nothing that I will be sorry for—referring to my prospective marriage.

Dorothy Dix

I am in a turmoil. Should I break with this woman who means nothing to me except as a friend, or break my engagement to my sweetheart? This continued warning has made me apprehensive of marriage and I am wondering if I would be a successful husband after being a bachelor so long. Will appreciate your opinion on my problem. PETER

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If news of your susceptibility to suggestion ever gets around you'll be hounded by every hypnotist in town. Your former friend certainly has a way with men! She marries 'em, sheds 'em, and those she can't use she does her darndest to keep out of circulation. Your very obvious instability would make me think twice before recommending you as a matrimonial risk, but your sweetheart probably loves you and is willing to take a chance.

Break With Friend

If you still possess one-tenth of your right mind, you'll break with your married-divorced-remarried friend so promptly and conclusively that she won't even have time to utter one last warning on the dangers of your marriage.

There's absolutely no reason why being a bachelor "so long" (though you don't mention how long that is), should make you a failure as a husband. You may be a little more set in your ways than a man who was caught ealier but a clever wife can, I am sure, take care of that detail. Grow up a little—cast all your doubts (and ex-girl friends) aside, and you'll have a happy marriage.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I married a man who was the best husband that any woman ever had. But I have been a nagger, a boss; too particular about keeping the house neat, making a fuss over a few ashes; jealous if he ever looked at another woman, accusing him of things that he never did. By the way I have acted I have killed his love for me. He treats me well, but it is because he thinks it is his duty. He works beyond his strength to take up his time and fill his mind. I have burned myself out in his affection. Is it too late for me to win him back?

A HEART-SICK WIFE

ANSWER: The only thing that you can do is to go to your husband and frankly and humbly confess your faults. Tell him that you realize how badly you have treated him, how overbearing and dictatorial you have been; that you did not realize the cruelty of the way you were treating him and that you only beg of him to give you another chance and let you try to make up to him for all that you have made him suffer.

If he has a single particle of affection left for you in his heart, this will stir it into life again. For it is human to feel some tenderness for the repentant sinner. It is just a chance, but it is your only chance.

You cannot expect to win your husband back by the arts and wiles you practised as a young girl. You cannot recreate an illusion once it has been dispelled. But you can win back your husband's friendship and respect, and they are well worth having. It is easy to keep love, but it is almost impossible to revive it once you have slain it, and that is something that every wife should remember.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am from out of town; been in this city only a few weeks and just can't seem to make friends with anyone. I have a good job as bookkeeper, making a fine salary. Is there any way I can meet some nice men?

MITCH

ANSWER: Being alone in a strange city is a wretched experience, and one that thousands are sharing with you. The problem, of course, is to find the other lonesome souls. Joining a church group of young people is usually the easiest way to make friends; then there are courses or classes to attend where you will meet people with compatible tastes. Whatever you do, avoid spurious clubs or "socials" which purport to bring young people together. Stick to recognized organizations and with a little perseverance you'll soon have fine friends.

"Dear, wake up! Don't be so rude to the visitors!"

Magic's Hobby To Keep Women Young

NEW YORK —(CP)— It's a wonderful hobby, say the Magigals. It keeps you young, eliminates boredom on hubby's club nights. It's magic.

While their husbands attend monthly meetings of the Society of American Magicians, the Magigals get together in their own sleight-of-hand sessions. Various members demonstrate effects and then show the others how to do them. Later, they watch stage tricks of which the secrets are not divulged.

It all started when a group of wives met to sew and talk while their husbands attended meetings. From that grew a national organization of 385 members in 15 active "rings," devoted to the promotion of magic. The first formal meeting was held in 1939 at the home of Mrs. Harry Houdini.

Wonderful Hobby

"It's a wonderful hobby to keep you young," said Shirley Parke, wife of a New York florist, who is also an amateur magician. "I'm not an expert, but I get a tremendous kick out of magic."

And that is one of the things that qualifies her for membership, which is strictly limited to "people who really care about magic."

"We don't want any dead wood," says national secretary Ruth Clinton, one of the few professionals in the group, who assists her husband on the stage.

Becoming a proficient magicienne is not easy, says these Magigals. Real skill demands good co-ordination, sense of timing and tireless practice, for "it's one thing to know how a trick is done and quite another to do it skilfully yourself."

Scientist's Wife Real Helpmate

LONDON —(CP)— A wife's devotion is the secret of the success of Thomas Lydwell Eckersley who won the Faraday Medal of the Institute of Electrical Engineers for his achievements in radio research.

When the award was announced recently by the Council of the Institute Mr. Eckersley said his wife deserved the credit. A victim of paralysis since 1938, he finds speech and hearing are difficult while writing is almost impossible. His wife explained: "He dictated everything to me. I have helped him in this way for the last six years."

Water And Smoke

register while the barbers salvaged their working tools.

Water in Deyell's book store's basement today was about eight inches deep, flowing in Saturday from the sewer in the back alley. Drops were still falling from the ceiling in the main floor.

The wall along the Zacks building side, close to the fire wall, was puffed out but looked dry. Books, games and cards in the store were begining to dry out. Arnold Deyell estimated his stock close to $8,000.

On the ground floor of the Braund building Elliott's drug store on the corner was least touched by water and smoke. Some water trickled from the back alley into the rear of the store and into the basement. Damage there was estimated at $1,000.

Offices of the Henry Putnam hearing aids was soaked with water.

Smoke Damage

Robert Fair dry goods store south of the razed stores was mostly damaged by smoke, a little water drained into the basement. C. W. Collins, manager, said that he hadn't the slightest idea of the damage to the $100,000 stock. Most seriously damaged was the general dry goods on the fourth floor.

Biggar and Crawford stocks and bonds on the second floor of the Braund building began work today on water-soaked floors and blackboards. Along with the J. K. Sheehy construction office the stocks offices were the most seriously water-damaged on the second floor.

Dr. R. A. Sheehy's dental office on the second floor was badly watered. Smoke grease covered most of his equipment.

Damage to the Gordon and Lillico law office was limited to water damage to the floor, doors and walls. It also ruined the finish on several desks.

Removed Records

W. B. Gordon said today that all important papers were in the vault furthest away from the fire area. Other records were taken from the building early Saturday morning.

The offices of the Canadian Institute of the Blind and Edward Faux, real estate, were slightly damaged, mostly by water.

IOOF member, Gordon Wyatt estimated the damage by fire, water and smoke to the lodge's rooms and equipment on the third and fourth floors at close to $5,000. The AMOS equipment on the fourth floor was destroyed, amounting to an estimated $1,000. The IOOF junior hockey team's sweaters, pads, sticks and other equipement, estimated at $700, also stored on the fourth, were destroyed.

A hose leading into the fire today was leaking at the Hunter St. hydrant, the water flowing into the Peterborough Lumber Company's store basement where paint was stored.

Forged Cheque, Given 6 Months

Pleading guilty in police court today to a charge of false pretences with a worthless cheque, Willis A. Stackhouse, Stewart St., was sentenced to six months in the Ontario reformatory.

James Edgar Brown of the Elliott and Brown service station said he had known Stackhouse about three years. Stackhouse had previously borrowed $15 from him.

He came to him about two weeks ago and gave him a cheque for $72.50 which he said was signed by his father. With the cheque he paid back his loan and Mr. Brown gave him $55.50 in cash.

Mr. Brown said he phoned the accused man's father in Ottawa and was told his father had made out no such cheque.

Stackhouse has a criminal record which stretches back to 1934. Most of the charges have been for false pretences. His latest conviction was in April this year when he was sentenced in Cobourg to one month.

Fiery-tempered Leo Durocher and umpire Lon Warneke engaged in a heated argument at Sportsman's Park, St. Louis, Sunday shortly after Durocher's National League New York Giants were beaten 8-7 by St. Louis Cardinals.

Both Durocher and Warneke denied reports that Durocher took a punch at the umpire. "Utterly ridiculous," Durocher said of the report.

Warneke said the New York manager used abusive language after approaching him in the Cardinal dugout after the game ended.

Warneke said he was making a full report on the incident to Ford Frick, president of the National League.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Injuries Fatal Steve Wortham

Stephen Wortham, 33, of RR 1, Fenelon Falls, is dead and his wife and eight-year-old son, Timothy are in Lindsay hospital as a result of an accident on Highway 35, Friday afternoon. Wortham died in the Lindsay hospital Saturday at 10:45 p.m., as a result of head injuries.

Wortham was driving north to Fenelon Falls when his car met in collision with a truck driven by George Bryant, 38, of Norland. Bryant escaped without injuries.

Mrs. Wortham suffered extensive facial abrasions and Timothy, their son, has both legs broken. The other passenger in the car, Sharon, their eight-month-old baby girl, who was lying in a car crib, escaped unhurt.

Damage to the car and truck was estimated at approximately $2,000—$1,000 each.

Dr. George Johnstone of Fenelon Falls was attending physician. Corporal W. G. Milton of the Lindsay provincial police investigated the accident.

Tragedy Started

smoking ruins. But at the front some of the firemen were getting impatient. Orville Rome, who had been stationed on the pumper to regulate the flow of water wanted desperately to get up to the fire to relieve one of the other men who were working themselves into exhaustion.

As soon as his pumper wasn't being used any more, he left it and took a place on one of the hoses.

With three other firemen and a volunteer he went into the front door of Ed. Riley's. Chief George Smith was in the building on the second floor. He, with assistant chief Stew Foster and one of the captains, had carried another line of hose into the building.

Men on the roof shouted for the others to get out of the smoking ruins. Chief Smith started down the stairs to the first floor. There was a crash. The second and third floor roofs fell smashing through the first floor ceiling and catching the men on the hose.

Dived Under Table.

Bob Webb, a volunteer on the hose, heard the collapse starting and dived under a table. The falling rubble pinned his legs, but Norman Nisbett, Jr., dug him out and helped him out the front door. He was not hurt seriously.

Within a few minutes, other firemen and volunteers on the stretchers climbed over the rubble into the back of the store and started to pull aside smoking timbers and hot bricks with their bare hands.

Men peered anxiously at the back wall which was leaning inward about 18 inches at the top. They expected every minute that it would start to fall.

Suddenly a warning clatter started and then there was a crash and a wham. A second part had fallen. Several men were hit and smashed to the ground. Jim Lorenz who was helping with the stretchers inside the ruins, saw a large chunk of wall sail past his shoulder and smash into the rubble.

Scrambled In

More men scrambled in to pull out the injured before more fell on top of them. Victor Barry, Harold Black and one or two other men were carried out on stretchers.

Men were dazed by the second collapse. But they soon decided it was foolish to risk the lives of more men. On the advice of construction man Harold Ephgrave, the firemen decided to pull down the rear wall.

And so the long afternoon and night started. With Fireman Bill Sorrie 70 feet up the aerial ladder tying wire rope from two tow trucks owned by John Russelle and Lillico Motors, they started to pull down the wall section by section.

Crews from the city works department and a large number of volunteers waited impatiently to get into the wreckage.

"They've Had It"

But a few minutes after the second fall-in, a veteran fireman who had been there and saw it said of the men still in the building: "They've had it."

But many others hoped desperately that there was some chance at least one of the men would be saved.

Mrs. Deck watched the salvage operation from a window across George St. Mrs. Spencley tried to carry on in the florist shop until she was taken home about noon.

Many people hoped, but there was no hope. At 3.15 a.m. almost 24 hours after the fire was first discovered, the last victim was found in the rubble and brought out.

The tragedy had run its course.

Even Old Dobbin Gets Place In Coy Reports

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

Some homey bits occasionally show through the matter-of-fact figures fo campany balance sheets.

For instance, "Old Dobbin" himself appears in the current annual report of Royal Oaks Dairy, Ltd., of Hamilton; and, comforting thought, he appears among "fixed assets," as follows:

"Horses at estimated current value— $2,400."

If you should happen to think that "dobbin" is something less than a "fixed asset," you will find his replacement amply provided for in an item called "reserves for depreciation."

In the same report, a second touch reaches right to the housewife. It happens under "current liabilities" and is called:

"Tickets and bottles outstanding— $21,723."

Shows Liability.

That shows as a liability to the company because it still has to provide milk on tickets for which you have already paid; and, further, in case you don't return the bottle.

These particular bits get into Royal Oak because of the nature of its business; but, in general annual reports are in the process of a considerable evolution, if not quite a revolution.

Many of them are published in larger and much more attractive form than formerly; and many are becoming more understandable. Even if the balance sheet and statement of profit and loss remain much the same, more effort is made to explain what they mean.

"Tip Top Tailors, Ltd., for instance, in its profit and loss statement this year, abandons that misleading term "earned surplus" — misleading, that is, to the casual reader.

For earned surplus Tip Top substitutes "earnings retained and used in the business."

When a non-business man or woman reads that a company has an earned surplus of several millions of dollars, he may thing that the company has that much money stowed away somewhere.

Actually, earned surplus ordinarily is a figure which shows the total of profits which the company has not paid out to shareholders; but which it has retained to build up the business. It seldom exists in any great amount of cash— but may take the form of new buildings, plant, or equipment.

To take Tip Top again, the total of what it used to call its "earned surplus" was, at the end of 1949, $2,930,756.

Then in 1950 it had net profit of $340,160. Out of this profit it paid $72,000 to its owners, or share holders, and added the rest to the earned surplus to bring it to $3,198,916— only now it calls it by the more correct name or "earnings retained and used in the business."

To Reopen Frontier

GUATEMALA, Guatemala, May 21—(AP)—Guatemala said today it decided to reopen the frontier with British Honduras because of "magnificent relations existing with Great Britain." Guatemala claimed the British territory in 1948, saying it was legally part of this country. The name "British Honduras" was stricken from books and citizens ordered to refer to it as "Belize."

Fishing Helps Young Refugee

VANCOUVER — (CP) — Joe Njakara landed in Montreal from Yugoslavia in 1936, owning a $5 bill, the clothes on his back and nothing else.

He worked his way to Vancouver and signed on a fishing boat as a deckhand. Nine years later he was skipper of his own vessel, the Snow Cloud, and was a naturalized Canadian. He had prospered by the salmon and herring that filled his nets.

Joe had enough money to try to bring his mother here but the Germans marched into Yugoslavia and he couldn't arrange it. A year ago, the Canadian government renewed its representations and finally the red tape was untangled.

An airliner that landed here a few days ago from the east brought an old lady with tattered sandals and a battered suitcase. Joe's mother had completed the long journey.

The big, strapping fishermen wept unashamedly as he took his 71-year-old mother in his arms. Fifteen years of separation had ended.

In her native tongue, eyes smiling at her son, the tiny old lady said: "I have never been happier in all my life."

"You can thank the fish," said Joe.

Fit Sturdy Ships For Arctic Trips

MONTREAL — (CP) — Ten thousand miles is a long trip, but members of the C. D. Howe's crew take it all in their stride.

C. D. Howe, the Dominion government's largest and most up-to-date ship of the Arctic Circle fleet is preparing for her trek to the wastelands of the Arctic where she is the only contact between the missions and civilization.

Equipped with a helicopter, a hospital, and research facilities, she is undergoing a complete overhaul before she departs for the land of the midnight sun. Aboard her will go doctors, dentists, missionaries, and Mounties to work in the remote settlements.

Nearby in this city's harbor is the wooden-hulled, 139-ton veteran mission ship, Regina Polaris, an Oblate fathers' vessel which annually cruises some 14,000 miles in northern waters.

In a short time they will be followed by the Rupertsland, 600-ton Hudson's Bay Company supply ship which trades within 100 miles of the Arctic Circle during her 9,000-mile supply cruise.

Other vessels scheduled to leave for the Arctic are the icebreaker Ernest Lapointe and Grenfell Mission ship, Nellie A. Cluett, supplying the isolated missions in Labrador and Newfoundland.

Take Several Measures To Prevent Sales

BERLIN, May 21 — (AP). — United States occupation officials said Sunday several measures have been taken to prevent a Communist Chinese purchasing commission now in East Berlin from buying strategic goods produced in West Germany.

Howard P. Jones, deputy director of the US High Commission Office for Berlin, said the mission has been in the four-power city's Russian sector for some time. Jones said he understood the Chinese were negotiating for vital materials with East Berlin and Soviet zone firms.

Reach Agreement Over 400 Items

WASHINGTON, May 21. (AP) —The United States, Canada and Britain have reached some degree of standardization on about 400 items of military equipment, including sparkplugs, fuel and lubricants and voltage systems, it was reported Saturday. It is not the purpose of the program to have identical weapons, a spokesman said, explaining that this is frequently not feasible due to differences in availability of materials, manufacturing conditions, and other factors.

Using Balkan Peninsula As Second Korea Lever

By HUBERT HARRISON

VIENNA, May 21 (Reuters)— Will the Balkan peninsula become a second Korea?

The Communist press in Austria says the Yugoslavs are to be induced to attack their cominform neighbors, and that the United States and other United Nations countries will intervene on their behalf.

The similarities between the situation in the Balkans and in pre-war Korea are:

1. Both are peninsulas, one on the extreme east and the other to the extreme west of the cominform block of countries.

2. Each has territory controlled by Russia and territory not controlled by them. Like Korea, the Russians control, arm and train the troops of the territory on their side of the Balkan dividing line.

3. Just as there was always trouble between the populations of North and South Korea, so there has been trouble between the people of Yugoslavia and Greece on the one side and those of Bulgaria, Hungary and Albania on the other, since Premier Tito broke with the cominform.

Recently this trouble seems more threatening. Notes fly back and forth, each accusing the other of maintaining "a state of continual petty warfare" and protesting against "constant violation of territory through frontier incidents."

While such diplomatic tension isn't rare in post-war Europe, it is closely watched by diplomatic observers in Vienna, one of the few remaining windows where one can look both east and west.

There are certain signs suggesting the Russians will do nothing likely to precipitate a general war at present. These include reports saying satellite forces in Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Bulgaria are not trained and equipped for war.

And the political and economic situation in several satellite states is not yet sufficiently stable to risk war.

There are many reports of increasing Russian activity in the satellite countries.

It is difficult to verify these reports, especially now that the Russians work largely through officials who wear no uniform and who are bilingual. But reports of the strengthening of Russian forces are discounted somewhat by the fact that these recur almost every year and are usually the result of normal Russian spring manoeuvres.

Poor Plan To Conscript All Young Men—Allen

KITCHENER, May 21 (CP) — In the event of war, it would be false national economy to conscript all the young men, even those in the middle of some valuable course of training, Dr. R. A. Allen, vice-president of the University of Western Ontario, said Saturday.

He spoke at the Waterloo College graduation program.

"What must be combatted is the popular accusation that university students are being shown unjustified favors," he said. "That can be combatted partly by demanding high grade performance, partly by combining preliminary military training with academic work; but primarily by convincing the public of the necessity of guaranteeing a continuing supply of trained men for all the man services of the nation."

Optimist Governor

QUEBEC, May 21 — (CP). — Warner Withmarsh of Ottawa on Saturday was elected Governor of Optimist International's District 28, at a weekend convention here. He succeeds James S. Fullerton of Montreal. Lieutenant-governors elected include Gordon Cameron of Cornwall.

TOKYO, May 21 (Reuters). — Japan plans to export textile fabrics valued at $719,000,000 this year—52 per cent of her export earnings. The igure was disclosed Sunday in a government draft trade program for this fiscal year which estimated Japan would spend $1,3756,310,000 on imports.

▼ The "Gasmaster" (Distribution Rectifier) is fully patented. It was developed through government research during World War II and was manufactured by Vokes of England. Today, it has been re-engineered for use on all makes of automobiles, trucks and motorcycles. The full advantages provided by the "Gasmaster" cannot be duplicated by any other device. Vokes are the producers of the world's largest range of filtration equipment installed on aircraft, naval ships, tanks, trucks, cars and motorcycles.

USERS REPORT 10% to 30% GASOLINE SAVINGS

R. C. McDonald, Chief, London Fire Department: "We have installed "Gasmasters" on the official Chief's car (1950 Pontiac) the Deputy Chief's car (1942 Pontiac) the Emergency car (1946 Ford) and the Maintenance truck (1949 Ford). The improved acceleration is a factor of great value to us where our vehicles have to respond from a cold start to peak performance in a matter of seconds. Improved mileage is another benefit which we find a great advantage as our cars seldom get outside city limits."

L. E. (Ted) Shaw, Lessee, Shell Super Service Station, London: "I am convinced the Vokes 'Gasmaster' is a sensible addition to any carburetor. We have installed about 40 for our customers. All report better starting, smoother operation, and better mileage. The average check for mileage follows this pattern: Fords—from 22 m.p.g. to 26 m.p.g. Plymouths—from 22 m.p.g. to 26 m.p.g. Chevrolets—from 20 m.p.g. to 23 m.p.g. The amazing thing about the 'Gasmaster' is that they give fuel economy even at high speeds. I do not hesitate to recommend them to any of our customers."

O. W. Gilmaster, Maclean's Magazine, Toronto: "I drive a 1939 Packard 120, 8-cylinder sedan that has gone well over 100,000 miles. Before installing a 'Gasmaster', average mileage was 16 to 17 miles on the highway. Since installing, on test runs of 520 miles and 220 miles mileage was increased to 20 m.p.g. Easier starting in cold weather has also been an advantage. I can recommend your product without qualification."

Average Recruit Has Grade VIII School Standing

The majority of recruits which have been sent to No. 5 Personnel Depot in Kingston from the Peterborough district have had Grade VIII education, Capt. Frank J. Frape, recruiting officer said Saturday. Some have had even as low as Grade V while only one recruit had better than Grade 10.

"There's something lacking in a country where so many men have only eight years education," he said.

He added that he favored a law that would force young people to attend school until at least Grade 10. With that they would have a better chance in life, whether in the army of not, he declared.

Standard Reduced

Immediately following World War II the Canadian Army accepted only men with two years high school. The standard has been gradually lowered until there's no education level today only the M-test which is an aptitude test.

Capt. Frape said that only six men have inquired about the new office-procurement plan for the Canadian Army. Recruits for this branch must have at least junior or senior matriculation or equivalents.

For Single Men

Short-term commissions are available for single men between 18 and 23 years without previous military experience under the plan. It is also for officer veterans, members or former members of university contingents of the Canadian Officers' Training Corps, members or former members of the COTC Command contingents and those selected from the ranks of the active service.

Known as "direct entry," the plan involves a continuous one-year training program divided into five phases designed to place candidates in units as quickly as possible.

At the end of the training period the officer candidates if accepted will receive commissions in the active force for three, four or five years. Later they may apply for the permanent commissions.

Wool Made From Peanuts Makes Big Hit In Britain

By MICHAEL NEWMARCH

ONDON, May 21— (AP) — Practically everyone in Britain except the moths is jubilant about the new synthetic wood made from peanuts.

Th new peanut fibre has just gone into commercial production at a new plant in Dumfries, Scotland. Round-the-clock working was adopted and output is slated to reach 10,000 tons a year by 1952.

Parold Wilson, former president of Britain's Board of Trade, gave the new fibre its first boost when he appeared at official conferences in Paris, and later in the House of Commons, wearing one of the new "Monkey Nut" suits—made of a mixture of wool and the new synthetic.

The theory behind peanut suits is simple. Cellulose, the structural material of all plants, is obtained from wood to manufacture fibres simulating cotton.

But wool is a protein—and to make an artificial wool fibre, a protein must be used. Now Imperial Chemical Industries claim they have found an artificial wool which will stand up to almost any processing treatment given to the real thing.

Not So Strong

Although synthetic has all the warmth of real wool, it is not so strong. For this reason it is mixed with another fibre—such as wool, cotton, rayon or nylon. Because the synthetic can be made finer than any wool, British textile manufacturers hope to produce entirely new types of fabrics.

When the mixture is used to imitate traditional cloths—such as worsted for suiting—the manufacturers claim that not even an expert can tell the difference without special tests. Tests are going on to establish the effect of shrinkage.

So far the new fibre has been made into carpets, knitting wools, hosiery, felts, hats, worsteds, tweeds, furnishing fabrics and other articles. Perhaps its biggest advantage in these days of rising prices: it sells at around 60 cents a pound, far below the cost of wool.

The supply of raw material seems assured. The peanuts go first to a plant where the oil, used for margarine, is extracted. Ground nutmeal produces the solid threads of the synthetic fibre.

Glamor Queen Colbert Approves TV

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, May 21 (AP)—The public seems to like off-beat casting, so here is my offering for today: Claudette Colbert expounding on television.

You might think that the glamor queen of the movies wouldn't know any more about TV than she would about diesel engines. That's where she fools you. One of the smartest movie minds, she has been analyzing the new medium with the same cool calculation.

Miss Colbert was one of the first stars of top calibre to make a video venture. She appeared on Jack Benny's show last month.

"I did it for two reasons," she told me. "1, because Jack is such a good friend of mine. 2, I wanted to see if television is like the movies. I found out it is.

"I think one of the reasons most of the actresses in Hollywood are scared of television is that they're afraid how they'll look on it.?

I've seen some very beautiful women look like hags on TV. And I've seen some wonderful clothes look like rags.

Looks The Best

"So I threw three or four dresses over my arm and went over to CBS to test how I looked on a TV screen. I found out I looked just the same as I do on the movie screen."

The actress predicted a healthy future for Hollywood in the new medium.

"You've got to give people what they expect. And the public is too accustomed to the scope and action of movies to go for dramas that are limited to one or two sets. That is the theatre technique, and TV is not theatre. When you throw an image on a screen, you must use movie methods."

Separate School Teachers Plan Strike

TORONTO, May 21 —(CP)— Eighty per cent of 200 separate-school lay teachers employed in Toronto and district have threatened to resign if their salary demands are not met.

The executive of the Ontario English Catholic Teachers' Association at a special meeting of Separate School Board trustees Friday night said 160 teachers had signed a petition saying they will resign if they don't get immediate salary increases. Executive members said the board will be blacklisted if the teachers resigned.

Teachers are asking a minimum of $1,800 and a maximum of $2,700—$200 more than an increase granted a month ago. Teachers in Toronto public schools can earn as much as $5,600 if they have a university degree.

Elmer Duggan, school board chairman, said the board thought $2,500 a year wasn't a bad salary. He said separate-school supporters would switch support to public schools if the separate-school tax rate was raised any higher.

14 Bush Fires Started By Lightning

Gogama Division Hardest Hit, Send Extra Fighters

SUDBURY, May 22. (CP)—Alerted early Monday morning following a severe electrical storm which struck parts of Sudbury, Gogoma and Chapleau forestry divisions, lookout towers and planes Monday spotted 14 bush fires, all attributed to lightning.

This outbreak of lightning fires is the worst in the area since 1948. Hardest hit is the Gogama division where nine lightning fires are burning today, only one of which can be classed as under control.

Low-hanging clouds and cooler weather, however, may ease the situation by nightfall.

A shortage of available labor is hampering fire fighting activities in the Gogama district to some extent, it was reported today. Forty men were sent by train from Sudbury today to assist while 50 were brought in from Elk Lake by truck Monday night to fire-threatened areas. Some 250 men now are on the fire lines.

Worst Outbreak

Most serious outbreak in the Gogama area is an uncontrolled 100-acre fire burning in Cabot township, along the Metagami river. Two other smaller fires are burning in the same township.

Officials said 32 other fires in the province were under control or being patrolled.

Total number of fires burning throughout Ontario today stood at 43 including the 11 new blazes. Most of these were minor or old fires in the mop-up stages. Two of those not under control yet were in the Chapleau district; five in Gogama and two in the North Bay area.

Forest fires by districts were: White River 2; Sioux Lookout 1; Cochrane 3; Sault Ste. Marie 4; Chapleau 3; Gogama 8; Temiskaming 7; Sudbury 4; North Bay 5; Parry Sound 2 Trent 1 and Quinte 2.

War Exercises

PARIS, May 22. (AP)—Six Allied air forces begin their biggest post-war exercise Wednesday to test their possibilities for the defence of Western Europe from air attack. The test is dubbed "Exercise Umbrella." About 500 aircraft will participate. Planes of the US, British, French, Belgian, Netherlands and Danish air forces will take part in the three-day air exercises.

Says 20 Clubs Suspect Gambling Fronts

TORONTO, May 22 — (CP) — Chief Constable John Chisholm of Toronto was called to testify at the start of today's sitting of the legislature's commitee on crime..

The chief said Monday that 15 or 20 chartered clubs in Toronto are suspected of beng fronts for gambling operations.

He underlined earlier evidence by the head of the provincial police anti-gambling squad that licensed clubs often act as screens for unlawful gambling.

He also said that last year 3,244 minors, including 522 young girls, were convicted of consuming alcoholic beverages.

Inspector W. G. Tomlinson told the committee that police should be permitted to trace telephone calls to locate bookie establishments and that all wire service at race tracks should be forbidden. The head of the provincial police anti-gambling squad said gambling would not flourish if these steps were taken. Attorney-General Porter said legislation on telephone calls was now under consideration at Ottawa as an amendment to the Criminal Code.

Mr. Porter said that Sam Roher, described as a publisher of a Toronto scratch sheet, will appear voluntarily as a witness. The committee was disposed to hear what Roher has to say and may ask him to appear when scheduled witnesses have completed their testimony.

$1,600 Bill

Monday's testimony included statements that Howard Kerr, one-time head of a racing wire service for Windsor bookies, had a monthly telephone bill of $1,600, paying for more than 50 phones.

F. B. Joliffe, CCF leader, asked the inspector if it would do any good to bar wire services from race tracks and if the bookies would suffer from the loss of up-to-the-minute race news.

"Yes, it would make it more difficult for bookmakers to get information and that would cut down their business," the inspector replied.

He said he saw no reason for denying newspapers and news services wire facilities from the tracks, providing they were used for news and not bookmaking.

He could see no rason why daily newspapers should print form reports and selections on races outside the country when Ontario tracks were closed.

Employers May Take 100% Off

Say Many Taxpayers Will Be Paid Up By April Deadline

OTTAWA, May 22. (CP) — Starting July 1, when new income-tax rates go into effect, employees will pay nearly all of their income tax through deductions at source.

Previously, the government collected about 95 or 96 per cent of the income tax by employer deductions. This percentage will move up to more than 97 per cent and in many cases, 100 per cent.

New schedules—some 300,000—have gone out to district income tax offices for distribution to employers. The tables incorporate the new 20-per-cent "defence surcharge," the tax increase announced by Finance Minister Abbott in his recent budget. They show the amount the employer must deduct from employees.

Employees making an even number of dollars a week, for example, will pay 100 per cent at source. However, an employee making $50.75 will pay 97 or 98 per cent of his tax in this way.

For many taxpayers, it will mean a clear conscience next April. Their tax will be paid up.

Suggest Board Mobilize Oil

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—The United States may propose that the 12 Atlantic Pact countries create a petroleum planning board to mobilize the free world's oil resources in event of war.

Such a board would try to make certain the North Atlantic Pact armies, navies, and air forces had quick access to enough oil to fight a war in any area.

Informed officials told a reporter plans for establishing the petroleum board now are being discussed by the state and defence departments and other governments agencies.

The move toward advance planning in the oil field comes at a time when Iran is demanding nationalization of the rich Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. It also coincides with unrest and increased pressure by Middle Eastern governments where western countries have important oil concessions.

Approves Service

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, May 22. (CP) — C. Fraser Elliott, new Canadian High Commissioner to Australia, arrived here Monday on his way to take up his post. He said he will support continuation of the liner Aorangi's Pacific passenger service between Canada, Australia and New Zealand. The service, suspended early this year, was resumed when the three governments agreed to subsidize it.

If Red Attack Crushed, Try Peace Plan

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP) —Gen. Omar Bradley said today Korean strategy has been keyed to the hope peace negotiations might follow if United Nations troops could "bump off" this spring's Communist offensive.

Bradley told Senators that as early as February this possibility was discussed by the military joint chiefs of staff.

He related:

"At that time we were reasonably sure a new attack would come sometime in the spring, and if you can bump that off, as it were, you are in a much better position to negotiate than you would be if you couldn't contain it."

Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, was testifying at hearings by the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees on the dismissal of Gen. Duglas MacArthur as Far Eastern commander.

Halt Major Advance

The expected spring offensive has been launched by the Communists and UN troops thus far have succeeded in preventing any major break-through, while punishing the attackers severely.

Bradley said that in February the military leaders wanted some "political guidance" but understood that "until the situation is a little better known as to whether or not we can contain it, that the United Nations would have some trouble formulating policy."

His statements suggested the possibility that if the present great Communist effort in Korea is "bumped off" definitely, then the UN may take some steps for a negotiated peace.

Reds Pierce Front For 25 Miles

UN Troops Make Some Advances On Western Front

TOKYO, May 22. (AP)—Allied troops advanced in western Korea today, probed an ominous Chinese build-up on the east-central front, and fought to stem a Red sweep in the east.

Infantry troops waged see-saw battles in the eastern mountains 25 miles south of Parallel 38. Communist troops were trying to expand a wedge driven in South Korean lines near Soksa. Front-line reports said South Koreans were forced to adjust their lines for 25 miles eastward to the Sea of Japan.

All dispatches referring to this action were heavily censored. This fighting was on the eastern flank of the heroic United States 2nd Division which hacked four Chinese corps to pieces in a Red offensive started last Wednesday.

Second Division patrols probed northward Tuesday into a new force of 130,000 Chinese reported massing north of their lines for a new strike.

AP Correspondent William C. Barnard said the new Allied aggressiveness and the enemy build-up indicated a showdown battle.

However, AP correspondent Tom Bradshaw reported scouts found no sizable Chinese concentrations immediately in front of the 2nd Division Tuesday afternoon.

Not Beaten

One U.N. officer said he saw nothing "too significant" in this northward movement. He called it a slowdown. He said the Red offensive "definitely petered out in the last three days."

"But," this officer cautioned,

Fishing Party Missing, Search Started

TIMMINS, May 22 — (CP) — Planes and boats today searched the waters of Nighthawk Lake and islands in the area, 23 miles east of here, for some sign of a four-man fishing party which failed to return Monday night.

In the party are Harry Wright, manager of the Industrial Acceptance Corporation office here; Don Spears, also of the same company; Tony Keto, 28, and George Ritchie, 24, both of the Household Finance Corporation.

The party left from the mouth of the Nighthawk River at 6 p.m. Monday night and told Frank Cerisano, watchman at the Porcupine Rod and Gun Club lodge, they would return later. He said he waited up until midnight and they had not returned.

Wright's car was found by police parked on the river bank early today.

A sudden squall came up over the lake about half an hour after the party left and it is feared their boat may have overturned.

Officials directing the search said the men may be stranded on one of the islands on the lake.

Cook Dismissed After Rioting

POINT-OF-THE-MOUNTAIN, Utah, May 22 (AP)—The head cook at the Utah prison was dismissed Monday as an aftermath of rioting which raged through the new multi-million-dollar structure.

There were no serious injuries during the 4½-hour melee Sunday. More than 200 prisoners ranged through the cellblocks and main corridors of the modern prison.

Warden Alvin O. Severson announced dismissal of Wallace M. Ostler, chief culinary steward. He was one of four prison officials against whom the convicts lodged protests. They said Ostler "could not boil water."

Severson said Ostler told him he had been threatened by prisoners when he reported for work Monday morning. The warden added: "I told him he had better get out."

Madrid Workers Try Indirect Striking

MADRID, Spain, May 22 (AP) —Madrid's workers went on strike today — but only indirectly — against the high cost of living.

Braving an overwhelming display of government force and harsh official threats that those late to work or absent would be fired, an estimated 95 per cent of the normal bus, streetcar and subway riders boycotted the public transport system.

As far as could be learned this morning, the call for a general strike in Spain's capital had not been heeded, but the workers obeyed appeals in pamphlets issued here for the last two weeks and walked to their jobs.

No disorders were reported. Reinforced army and police units patrolled at the ready to break any signs of a strike.

Find Bodies Of 3 Fliers In Labrador Swampland

HALIFAX, May 22. (CP)—A ground search party, slowed by Labrador's difficult terrain, has located the bodies of three airmen who died last Monday when their plane crashed during a routine flight. The Air Force today announced they found the bodies of FO Joseph Rodier of Summerside and Montreal, 25, pilot; Flight Cadet Wilfred Smith, 24, Shelburne, NS, and Flight Cadet Gerald Higgins, 21, Hull, Que.

Co-pilot of the plane, Flying Officer Owen Foster, 23, of North Vancouver, BC, was found dead near the wrecked RCAF Dakota Saturday.

An inquiry is being conducted at the crash scene, a desolate area 130 miles south-west of Goose Bay, Labrador.

Searchers, hindered by one portage after another in the swampy and fly-infested hinterland, reported that the plane struck the earth at a steep angle. It was broken up badly. One wing was a quarter of a mile away.

Apparently the airmen did not have a chance to use their parachutes. Three of them, all unused, were located amid the wreckage.

The plane took off from Summerside, PEI, last Monday on a routine training hop with two honor navigation students. It last reported its position as south of Goose Bay.

Forty planes, including aircraft from the United States Navy and coastguard, searched 200,000 square miles of the wilds of Labrador and Northern Quebec before finding the Dakota Saturday.

Then a rescue party was flown to the crash scene by a Canso, which landed on a small lake a mile away.

The crash was the first mishap since the Summerside base was expanded two years ago into a training station for navigators of North Atlantic Treaty countries.

ARMY GROWING

LONDON, May 22 (Reuters)—Britain's unpaid weekend soldiers — the Territorial Army — now numbers 97,519 men, the Defence Ministry announced today.

Flood Worst In 44 Years

HAYS, Kas., May 22—(AP)—The worst flood since 1907 swept into Hays today and three persons are known to have been drowned. Several others were reported missing.

A gas explosion and 7,000 gallons of floating gasoline added to the danger.

Waters from a cloudburst plus the overflow from Big Creek poured into the south end of this Northwestern Kansas town of 8,000 population. The water was 15 to 20 feet deep in the southeast and southwest sections and about 3,000 to 4,000 persons were flooded out of their homes.

A home filled with gas and exploded. It was not known if the residents had left before the explosion.

Many persons were still trapped on the roof and second floor of their homes. Rescue teams were battling the water in boats to evacuate the stranded families.

Will Stand Trial On Bribery Charges

HALIFAX, May 22 — (CP) — George Wonnacott today was committed to stand trial on four charges of attempting to bribe civic officials.

Wonnacott will be tried on charges of "corrupt offering of a gift to secure aid of municipal officers" to Mayor Gordon Kinley, Deputy Mayor J. H. Breen and Aldermen W. B. Moriarity and J. G. DeWolf.

The charges arose out of information disclosed by Mayor Kinley April 4 when he said he and the three aldermen had each received a letter containing $25 in currency.

Won't Use Force In Iran Britain Tells Washington

LONDON, May 22 — (AP) — An informed source said today Britain has told Washington she will not use force under any circumstances in the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company dispute with Iran, unless there has been consultation first with the United States.

Another qualified source said Britain would not use force in any case except as a last resort, and then only if British subjects and British property in Iran were attacked first. Controlling interest in the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, which Iran is nationalizing, is owned by the British Government.

A week ago, Brtain put at the alert her trouble-shooting 16th parachute brigade group at Aldershot, but gave no reason.

A foreign office spokesman insisted today that the alert order had nothing to do with the Iranian crisis, although it was interpreted that way in Iran. Russia has a treaty with Iran under which she can send forces to fight off foreign intervention.

The U.S. asked both Iran and Britain to show moderation and seek a settlement of the dispute over the oilfields, whose nationalization the British claim is illegal.

The dispute was considered at a cabinet meeting today.

Prime Minister Attlee called in the chief of the Imperial General Staff, Field Marshall Sir William Slim, but it was not known whether Iran was the topic under discussion while he was there.

Britain told Iran during the weekend she must face "the most serious consequences" if she refuses to negotiate a new oil deal. Iran has not replied.

Britain, which has nationalized many of her basic industries, does not dispute Iran's right to take the same action.

She is resisting, however, what she says is Iran's one-sided violation of a 1933 agreement which gives the multi-million dollar Anglo-Iranian Oil Company exploitation rights until 1993.

4,468 Recruits Join Brigade

OTTAWA, May 22—(CP)—A total of 4,468 men have been enlisted for service in Canada's 27th Brigade, the Army announced today.

The latest figure included 386 enlistments Saturday and Monday but the average number of enlistments a day in the 13 days since the drive opened May 7 is more than 340.

Between 5,500 and 6,500 men are needed for the Brigade, primarily destined for Europe, and the Army will eventually need a similar number of men as replacements.

Since the drive started, the Army has handled a total of 7,929 applications. Up to May 18, 1,916 of these had been rejected for medical and other reasons.

In addition to the 4,468 men actually signed up, the applications of 1,545 others are being processed.

Of the 4,009 men enlisted up to May 18, Reserve force units supplied 1,224 while 2,785 came from the general public. There were 1,391 veterans enlisted and 2,618 non-veterans.

Bridge Plants Remain Closed In Windsor

WINDSOR, May 22—(CP)—Canadian bridge plants remained closed today in the Windsor area. There had been no approach made by either side in a dispute between management and workers which has idled about 500 men since last Friday.

A spokesman for Local 2471, United Steel Workers (CIO), said today that the situation remains unchanged from what it was Monday when the union issued a statement charging a "lockout" against employees.

The company, in a published advertisement Saturday, said there had been no lockout and that the shutdown took place when workers left their jobs.

New Clashes Splitting Iran

TEHRAN, Iran, May 22 (AP). —Supporters of Nationalist Premier F. Mohammed Mossadegh clashed today with demonstrators at a Communist-backed railway union rally called to denounce Mossadegh's government.

Fists flew in Parliament Square as the angry unionists attacked a small group who invaded the area shouting "Long live Mossadegh."

The cry of "Death to Mossadegh" went up from the ranks of the union.

The Premier, swept into office three weeks ago by the popular clamor for nationalization of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, may have heard the denunciation of his government.

He is barricaded behind locked doors in am improvised office in the rear of the Parliament Building, claiming threats have been made against his life.

The demonstration was the first public attack on Mossadegh, and pointed up Communist opposition to the Nationalist Premier.

Speakers at the rally accused the Premier of continuing the reign of corrupt politicians and dragging his feet on reforms, including nationalization.

Too Much Like Nazis Refuse Party Licence

BERLIN, May 22—(AP)—The West Berlin City Government refused today to licence the "German Socialist" political party on the grounds 20 of the 24 points in its platform are patterned after the old Nazi book of rules.

The City Senate referred the party's application to the Allied Kommandatura with a recommendation that it be rejected. The Allied board is the final

City officials said the party is modelled after Gen. Ernst Otto Remer's Socialist Reich party, which is under fire in West Germany as a neo-Nazi outfit.

Posed As Heiress Given Five Years

DETROIT, May 22 (AP)—Free board and room, but no spending money, were assured today for Mrs. Lilly Smith, 58, who posed as the heiress to a $7,000,000 Canadian estate.

Mrs. Smith, whose blandishments prevailed on a Detroit family to furnish her and her husband, Walter, with a home, food and ready cash for several weeks, was sentenced Monday to 2½ to five years imprisonment.

She pleaded guilty to larceny by conversion.

Her husband undergoing sanity examination, awaits trial on a similar charge.

The Lloyd Traviss family said the couple promised them a share of the wealth which never materialized.

Can't Lift Restrictions On Canadian Imports - UK

LONDON, May 22 — (CP). — Britain cannot expect to remove restrictions on Canadian imports and still keep up her defence program, Patrick Gordon-Walker, Commonwealth Relations Secretary, said today.

He spoke at a luncheon given by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain. Among the guests were L. Dana Wilgress, Canadian High Commissioner in London, and Mrs. Nancy Hodges, Speaker of the British Columbia Legislature.

Gordon-Walker said the decisive factor in the new pattern of Anglo-Canadian trade relationships is the dollar balance of payments.

"We want to buy all we can from you—much more than we are in fact buying today," he said "But we can only buy what we can afford. We can't, broadly speaking, buy more from you than you buy from us.

"This is essentially a mutual problem. We must be prudent housekeepers."

Gordon-Walker said Britain must make immense efforts to maintain her exports while diverting a much-larger proportion of her resources to defence.

It was her firm intention to do everything possible to maintain and gain Canadian markets — a project only second in priority to defence

After expressing Britain's gratitude for Canada's help during and since the Second World War, Gordon-Walker said:

"Between us I have no doubt at all that we shall succeed and that full and free trade between us shall be added to the powerful links of trust and affection and common loyalty that bind our countries and our people so closely together."

Man Wounded In Running Fight

WINDSOR, May 21—(CP)—Victor Marleau, 22-year-old transient worker from Ottawa, is in hospital today with a head wound suffered Monday in a running gun fight with a provincial police constable. Hospital authorities said his condition is fair.

Constable George Williams said he was investigating a suspicious character at Maidstone, 10 miles east of here, when he came on Marleau sitting on the edge of a ditch. He said Marleau drew a revolver and pointed it at him as he approached.

When he tried to persuade Marleau to drop the weapon, the latter fired one shot, turned and ran. The constable fired two shots in the air but Marleau continued running. During a subsequent two-mile-long chase, Williams fired three more shots at close range, one of them scoring a hit.

The man's capture came after a farmer joined the chase and the constable called to him to get a shotgun.

Police were unable to discover any motive for the shooting.

Friendly Water Fight Ends In Near Riot

COLUMBUS, O., May 22 (AP) —A friendly water fight among sorority sisters dressed in swim suits mushroomed into a near riot of 5,000 Ohio State University students Monday night.

Before the melee ended in one of the busiest streets in Columbus, police quelled the students with tear gas and carted off nine of them on disorderly conduct charges.

University officials put out a roaring bonfire the students started in the street.

Things were quiet enough when about 100 members of Pi Beta Phi and Kappa Alpha Theta sororities started squirting water at each other. Then football halfback Walt Klevay appeared on the scene.

Some of the girls started after Walt, one report said. That was the signal for his fraternity, Kappa Sigma, to enter the battle.

Begin Move To Change Postal Act

Trade Commitments Under Fire, Criticize US Deals

OTTAWA, May 22. (CP)—A 1950 controversy over refusal of the use of the mails to certain Canadians has brought results in Parliament. Postmaster-General Rinfret introduced in the Commons Monday a bill to overhaul for the first time in decades the Post Office Act, the law governing the handling of Canadian mails.

It contains a new section providing for establishment of boards of review to hear protests from Canadians the post office has refused use of the mails.

The background is a 1950 controversy that broke out when the post office cracked down on certain men, notably in Toronto, who, officials said, were thought to be using postal facilities to obtain money under false pretences by trying to sell bad stocks.

3-Man Board

There were protests at the time that the men had no adequate recourse for a complaint. The government now has undertaken to give them a three-man board to be appointed by the postmaster-general to recommend to him whether any such crackdowns should stick.

Refusal of the mails means that the post office neither collects mail from nor delivers it to such people.

Another major development in the bill is one which will boost postal rates for newspapers and periodicals sharply to raise revenues for the post office in those fields by $2,000,000 or more than 50 per cent.

Officials estimate the new rates will boost postal costs for most newspapers between 50 and 100 per cent.

No Debate

The post office bill was simply introduced. There was no debate. The day's big debate came on trade—on a motion to have the recent Torquay tariff agreements sent to a committee for detailed study.

Led by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, opposition members hammered at the government to do something to boost trade within the Commonwealth. Members said Canada is putting too many eggs in one basket in concentrating more and more trade with the US.

Mr. Drew urged Canada to initiate a Commonwealth conference on trade and mainly to do something about dollar-sterling convertibility. He was backed by other members.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, called convertibility a highly important matter and Solon Low, Social Credit leader, backed the conference idea, saying Commonwealth trade could do much to balance world trade as a whole.

Engaged In Talks

Trade Minister Howe said that Canada and Britain are engaging in important trade discussions here right now and that conferences with France, the West Indie and New Zealand will follow.

Canadian-British trade was in good balance as was Canada's trade with the rest of the world. Britain was selling more to Canada than ever before.

As for charges that Canada was abandoning Commonwealth preferences, they were not true. But it was true, Mr. Howe said, that th preferences mean little to Canada.

Other Commonwealth countries could trade here and get advantage of the preferences they give over non-Commonwealth countries. But quotas and other prohibitions killed off the preferences for Canada in those some Commonwealth countries.

Until those prohibitions were removed, and he hoped they would be in time, Mr. Howe saw little chance the preferential system will do much to boost Canadian trade.

Says Kingston Doctors Deserve Sulpha Credit

BELLEVILLE, May 22 (CP) — Americans have been credited with the development of sulfa and penicillin drugs but much of the credit should go to two Kingston doctors, members of the Kinsmen Club were told Monday night.

Dr. Austin Smith, editor of the American Medical Association journal, said the two doctors—Ford Connell and Eldon Boyd—were not only among the first to use the drugs in Canada but had done much to popularize them by their research at Queen's University.

The doctors are not generally known but they "truly are two of the pioneers of sulfa drugs," Dr. Smith said.

"the enemy is still capable of continuing his advance."

U.N. patrols reported entering valleys stacked with Chinese dead.

In the Far West, a strong task force stabbed deep into enemy territory and South Koreans pushed within five miles of parallel 38.

The Communists put up only light resistance to the United Nations advance, AP Correspondent Nate Polowetzky reported from U.S. Eighth Army headquarters. Allied troops pushed ahead two miles and more Tuesday morning.

An Eighth Army officer said the withdrawals were being made by small Communist contingents. He added:

"These small groups usually go to an assembly point where they congregate and move northward again in large numbers."

Reds were reported withdrawing across the Imjin River northwest of Seoul. Pursuing South Koreans marched through Munsan for the second straight day. Some units reached as far as 25 miles northwest of Seoul.

Reach Hongchon River

British, American and Korean forces pushed up the Hongchon and Pukan rivers southeast of Changgong, 25 miles northeast of Seoul.

American units crossed the Hongchon southeast of Kapyong, Red artillery centre 32 miles northeast of Seoul. The Red bridgehead across the rivers virtually had disappeared.

An Eighth Army officer said the Reds were withdrawing to escape American artillery fire, a major factor in the destruction of an estimated 60,000 of their comrades in five days on the central front.

South Koreans made a fighting advance of a few hundred yards in the centre, south of Chunchon. Red-held Chunchon is 45 miles northeast of Seoul.

Sharp Skirmishes

U.S. 2nd division troops fought sharp skirmishes as they stabbed out from Hangye on the east-central front to test the strength of new Chinese masses gathering in front of them.

Maj.-Gen. Clark L. Ruffner proudly announced his 2nd division had broken the back of the Chinese offensive and could do it again against even greater numbers. He said:

"The boys have stopped them cold. The Red units in front of us now are no longer capable of launching a potent attack."

Other officers reported Reds were building up in front of the 2nd division and pouring down its eastern flank to hit South Koreans around Soksa.

The Reds had already pushed southeast of Soksa. A new report Tuesday claimed they had also penetrated east of the city. One hill changed hands four times in bitter hand-to-hand fighting.

Heavy Fighting

The Eighth Army said there was heavy fighting all day in the area. "Many Chinese and North Koreans" were reported pressing southward.

Barnard reported other Red columns were streaming down toward the central front.

He quoted a spokesman on the east-central front as saying the Reds may be preparing for an attack as big or bigger than the one launched last Wednesday.

That offensive cost the Reds 60,000 casualties in five days, American officers said. UN casualties were place at 1,618, including 960 American.

Electric Still Gives Moonshiners Boost

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 22 (AP)—Electric power coupled with some native East Tennessee ingenuity has resulted in a new device in this region of moonshine whisky: an electric still.

Police today confiscated an elaborate electrically heated "pot" atop remote Daisy Mountain.

Six heating units, which eliminated the giveaway smoke, were built inside the 50-gallon pot, the police said.

Harold Crowe, former state forestry service worker, was charged with possessing untaxed whisky. Police quoted Crowe as saying he got the idea from hearing advertisements booming the area's "cheap electricity."

Latour Hanged For Slaying

SUDBURY, May 22 — (CP)—Adelard (Eddie) Latour paid with his life early today for the hunting-knife slaying of his cousin's wife, Mrs. Cecile Rainville, 23.

The bushworker walked calmly to the gallows after receiving the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

Dr. P. E. Laframme, coroner, pronounced him dead a few minutes later. His body was taken to the Roman Catholic Cemetery here for burial under the supervision of Sheriff Arthur Manley.

Latour was convicted twice of the killing of the woman in her basement apartment here on September 12, 1949. At his first trial he was sentenced to be hanged on May 15, 1950. An appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada won him a new trial.

On his second appearance in March he again was convicted and sentenced to be hanged May 15. On May 10 he was given a reprieve until May 22. Another appeal to the Supreme Court was denied by Mr. Justice Patrick Kerwin. A further appeal for executive clemency also was denied.

At both murder trials the Crown brought out that Latour stabbed Mrs. Rainville 34 times with a hunting knife. He dashed from her apartment with blood on his hands a few minutes after she was found bleeding from stab wounds.

The 50-year-old bushworker claimed in his defence that Mrs. Rainville made improper suggestions and attacked him with the knife when he rebuked her.

Took Too Many Bites Dog Costs Owner $500

NEW ORLEANS, May 22 (AP) —A court awarded $500 damages to James Arnold because a dog took more bites than he was entitled to.

The decree by Judge Godfrey Regan Monday affirmed a lower court's decision but upped the award from $300 to to $500.

Judge Regan said the record showed:

Mrs. Anders Paulsen's calf grazed in Arnold's bean patch. When Arnold refused to release it, Mrs. Paulsen appeared on the scene leading a dog on a leash. Mrs. Paulsen commanded "Get him, Brownie," and Brownie got him with several large-size bites.

The contention that the dog "had enjoyed more than the customary one bite to which every dog seems entitled under our jurisprduence" was borne out by testimony, the judge's opinion said.

Bring Up Club Abruptly Avoid Digging Uphill Lie

By LLOYD MANGRUM
Former US Open Champion

Playing an uphill lie, the ball is lined up with the idea of locating it in the spot where the club, when swung, will come nearest to the earth.

The weight is almost entirely on the right foot with that leg acting as a brace.

The follow-through is going to be altered to the extent of bringing up the club more abruptly to avoid digging it into the ground.

You are going to be hitting up into the ball, insuring yourself plenty of loft. Therefore, take a club with less loft than you would if you were playing the shot on a level surface.

One of the most common errors the golfer makes is selecting a club with more loft on shots such as this because he wants to be sure of carrying the crest of the hill.

His fears are needless since he will be literally lifting the ball up when he makes contact.

Since the weight is going to rest on the right leg during the shot, there will be a decided tendency to pull the shot to the left. It would be well to point to the right when lining up the shot.

The one other type of shot hills necessitate is the sidehill shot. This, too, is broken into two phases—above and below the feet.

When the ball rests lower than the feet, you are going to have to reach for it when you swing.

Compensate for this by standing close to the ball and gripping the club far up on the shaft.

Use a longer club than you would on level ground.

Play the shot slightly to the left.

When the ball is resting higher than the feet, shorten the grip and stand a little farther back from the ball.

Bring the club up as abruptly as possible.

Avoid the round-house sweep that has a tendency to appear on such a shot as this.

Point yourself slightly to the right.

Take into consideration the distance to the green, the wind, the condition of the turf and the many other factors that influence the shot.

THE LINE-UP—Lloyd Mangrum's ball is lined off the right heel, because that is where the club will come nearest the earth, if the proper swing is used.

Senator Asks Acheson Role

WASHINGTON, May 22—(AP)—Senator H. Alexander Smith (Rep. N.J.) said today he wants to know whether State Secretary Dean Acheson shared in a 1950 presidential decision to turn down military aid to the Chinese Nationalists.

Smith told a reporter he intends to ask Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, if diplomatic or military factors have been predominant in the administration's Far Eastern policies.

His objective, Smith said, is to find out whether Acheson's influence was greater than that of the Pentagon in this case. The New Jersey senator said he and other Republicans believe it was and that similar situations arose at other times.

Ask Fire Equipment Be Exempt From Tax

BRANTFORD, May 22 (CP) — City council Monday night unanimously endorsed a resolution by the Kitchener city council urging that firefighting equipment purchased after April 10, 1951, be exempt from excise and sales tax.

The resolution urged the federal government to grant the exemption because of the increasing part which such equipment would play in civil defence preparations in Canada.

Council authorized that a by-law be prepared for the issuing of $48,500 in debentures for the building of a two-room addition to Lansdowne school.

A recommendation that city officials be allowed to attend only one convention a year was referred back to the finance committee by council.

Discovering Many Similarities In Korean, Canadian Plants

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, May 22—(CP)—A countryside pulsating with life now that spring is here fascinates many Canadians in Korea.

Lieut. Murray Edwards of Kelowna, BC, scanning the countryside as he goes about his duties with the 2nd Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, has found Korea's wild life abundantly similar to Canada's.

And for disbelievers who still find this an altogether "different" if increasingly beautiful country, Edwards has a collection of flowers he has come across since spring has brought the landscape to life.

The 31-year-old officer, who at one time worked in a Toronto post office and was an army personnel selection officer before joining the Patricias, is continuing in the Orient a hobby begun as a boy back home.

Continuous Study

Flowers have been his continuous study, and he has drawn, painted, photographed, collected and pressed them.

Of 18 varieties of wild flowers in Edwards' Korean collection, he says all but two or three are found in Canada.

Included among the specimens are white, blue and dog-tooth violets; trillium; buttercup and dandelion. He has found wild strawberry blossom identical with Canada's, and narrow blue flagfillies.

Azaleas abound in the hills with a profusion that rivals the "corniches" of the French Riviera.

The azalea has special significance for Koreans, who call it the "true flower." It symbolizes fidelity, and friends—male as well as female—sweethearts and members of families present one another with great bouquets of it, swearing fidelity to the relationship in flowers.

Edwards is so convinced that the similarities between Korean and Canadian wild flowers are even more extensive than are shown that he has sent home for his flower book.

Tree-Spotter

Also a tree-spotter, he has identified, among others, chestnut, beech, pine and cedar. Cultured fruit trees here include the apple, peach, pear and cherry.

Not that Korea is extensively treed. Its bald hills and mountains, covered usually with scrub growth, are eloquent of the need for reforestation. But where trees grow the similarities are there.

While bird-watching isn't a regimental pastime, Patricias have seen starlings, swallows and blue-birds, but no robins. The Korean crow is almost raven-sized, while the native magpie, equally destructive as ours, has brilliant blue and white plumage.

Very Colorful

Breath-takingly colorful and majestic is the oKrean pheasant, plentiful in many of the areas through which the battalion has moved.

S. are snakes. Sgt. Frank Taylor of Montreal, field hygiene specialist, has been warning Canadians against a poisonous variety about two feet long found in the hills. Many Koreans, most of whom walk barefoot in summer, die annually of snake-bite. Taylor's teaching is to slash the wound with a knife to encourage bleeding and to suck it. The combination of drainage and suction on the suot should remove most of the danger, he says.

AFTER 50 YEARS—Two sisters, who haven't seen each other in 50 years, met again in Montreal recently. They had last seen each other just after the turn of the century in Aberdeen, Scotland. Then the war came and during it they lost contact with each other. They continued to search, however, and Mrs. Minnie Munro, 84, (right), of Oakland, Cal., arrived to stay for a while with Mrs. Annie Rae, 81, of Greenfield Park, Que.

Urzetta Wins In Golf Tourney

PORTHCAWL, Wales, May 22—(AP)—Smiling Sammy Urzetta, 25-year-old "baby" of the U.S. Walker Cup team, made his debut in the British amateur golf championship a victorious one today a she defeated Steve Tredinnick of England 3 and 2 in a second-round match played in a driving rainstorm.

Urzetta was preceded into the third round by Bill Campbell, a Walker Cup teammate, who defeated Henry Howell of Wales 5 and 3.

Bo Wininger racked up another American victory at the expense of C. D. Lawrie, a former Scottish champion, 4 and 3.

Charlie Coe, 1949 American amateur champion, scored a 6 and 5 victory over George Coleman of Miami, Okla.

The first casualty among the U.S. Cup players came when Harold Paddock bowed to Graham Packer of South Africa 3 and 2.

Co-ed Homes Started To Teach Family Life

LONDON, May 22 (Reuters)—"Co-ed homes," each to house a dozen boys and girls deprived of normal family life, have been started by the British home office, a government department that deals with the country's domestic affairs.

Home Secretary James Chuter Ede said today:

"It is possible to create an environment closely resembling family life and to bring up children much the same way as others living with their own families in the neighborhood."

Half of the "unsatisfactory" nurseries in institutions had been closed down, he said, and 37 out of every 100 children were boarded with foster parents in 1950 as against 29 in 1946—but more foster parents were needed.

Child crime had risen sharply from the 1945 figure, Ede said.

They Need Your Help

It would scarcely have been possible to misinterpret the feelings of a city more completely than did the Toronto morning paper, which on Monday described Peterborough as being in a condition of "listless horror" because of the fire on Saturday. There was no listnessness anywhere, so far as we were able to observe. There was, on the contrary, a determination that the four women and fourteen children whose husbands and fathers were lost in that fire, should receive substantial assistance from their fellow citizens. Peterborough's first business on Monday morning was to organize the Mayor's Trust Fund, and before noon five thousand dollars had been subscribed to it.

* * *

This was a good beginning, but a large sum of money will be needed, and it cannot be raised unless every citizen examines his obligation in this matter and contributes according to his ability. The bona fides of the Fund are above question; Judge Smoke heads it, and Mr. C. S. Cummer is its treasurer. The fund will be administered as a trust, by a body of citizens, according to the need of the beneficiaries. As most of the children left fatherless are of public school age, their needs will be many and will continue for a long time. If these children are not to suffer severe handicaps in the years to come, because their fathers lost their lives in the public service, we must give the money to see them through. And we must give it now, while the memory of the disaster is still fresh.

* * *

We do not think that there is any argument about the obligation of the people of Peterborough in this matter. Firemen work for the city. They are not highly paid. Some of their work is a matter of routine, but from time to time they are called upon to risk their lives, and when that happens they cannot argue the point. The fire on Saturday created one of these critical situations and three firemen were killed; the fourth man was not a fireman, but a volunteer helper—one of the many volunteer helpers on the scene, before and after the disaster. These men died in preventing a very bad fire from becoming an uncontrollable holocaust which might have destroyed much of the business section of Peterborough. Are we going to allow their wives and children to suffer because these men were brave men, who did their duty? Are we going to pretend that we have no obligation in the matter?

* * *

Of course we are not going to do anything of the kind! This city has shown its kindliness to victims of misfortune in other countries and in other parts of Canada, with a warm-hearted generosity. Now that the need is right in our own city, that generosity will not fail. The Mayor's Fire Trust Fund will grow rapidly. Contributions may be made at any of the banks, and this newspaper will be happy to record the growth of the fund.

* * *

The sufferers in this affair are our neighbours. Many of us know them personally; their children are known to our children. The loss which they have sustained is beyond our power, as neighbours, to restore, but we can certainly see that the bitterness of money difficulties is not added to the grief of bereavement. Let us see that the Mayor's Fire Trust Fund reflects the real spirit of Peterborough.

The New Principal Of Queen's

The announcement that William Archibald Mackintosh had been appointed principal and vice-chancellor of Queen's University was undoubtedly acclaimed by the faculty, Queen's graduates and students, and friends of the University throughout this and other countries. There had been speculation about the identity of Principal Wallace's successor, and Dr. Mackintosh's name was predominant in such speculation. In confirming these predictions, Queen's University paid high honour to one of its most distinguished graduates, and served itself well.

The appointment is effective September 1, when Dr. Mackintosh will take over the duties of the office from Principal Wallace, who reaches the retiring age of seventy this coming summer. Dr. Wallace, who has been Principal since 1936, retires with a record of fine administration and leadership fully in keeping with the highest traditions of the Principalship at Queen's. He has won the respect and friendship of his colleagues, students, and Canadians generally during his years in office. They will be sorry to see him leave office, but he has more than earned the leisure retirement will bring.

Dr. Mackintosh is well qualified to maintain the high standards set by Dr. Wallace and his predecessors. He is an M.A. of Queen's, a Ph.D. of Harvard, and an LL.D. of the University of Manitoba. His academic career has been one of outstanding accomplishment, and he has demonstrated remarkable administrative ability in the service of Queen's University and of the nation. Of greatest importance in the latter field was his service in Ottawa during the war years, when he became widely known as one of the Dominion's leading economists. Fitting tribute was paid to his contributions to the war effort in the Ministries of Finance and Reconstruction and Supply when he was made a Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George by the King.

A native of Madoc, Dr. Mackintosh entered Queen's at the age of seventeen, after schooling in Madoc and at St. Andrew's College, Toronto. After graduating from Queen's he taught at Brandon College for two years, then returned to his alma mater. Since then, with the exception of the war years, he has been with the University in posts ranging from instructor to Vice-Principal, and during that time, under his leadership, the University's Department of Economics has become one of the most highly rated in Canada. And, during those thirty-nine years, he became known and well-loved by colleagues, graduates and undergraduates, while becoming steadily more prominent as an economist and administrator.

Although by no means unprecedented, universities on this continent do not commonly select principals from among their own graduates. When they do, it indicates the utmost conviction that the person best qualified for the post has been chosen. That, we are sure, is the case in the present instance, and we are confident Dr. Mackintosh will well maintain the fine record of administrative and academic progress established by Queen's Principals in the past.

Is Peterborough Interested In Music?

We hear so much about Peterborough's growing musical consciousness that it comes as a shock to hear that attendances at this year's Kiwanis Music Competition Festival show a serious falling-off. Nor is this the only occasion when so-called music lovers have failed to patronize a worth-while entertainment. To take one recent example, the magnificent concert given by the Viennese Choirboys was miserably attended. This was without a doubt the finest concert of the season, and yet only a comparative handful turned out to hear it. There were in this case certain other reasons for public apathy, such as the fact that the concert was very near the date of one of the subscription concert series; one could not help asking oneself whether Peterborough were interested in music.

As for the Festival, the public has a different excuse—it is too late in the season. It is getting too hot to bother about music. It is time that we scrapped this odd idea that music is a seasonal activity, like hockey. Our summers are far too lacking in variety for us to close down our concerts. The success of the Summer Theatre has shown that people will come, often from considerable distances, to see a play; why not to listen to music?

This is the fifth year that the Kiwanis Club has sponsored the Festival and lost money each year. It looks as though they are likely to lose even more this time. These gentlemen, many of them not keenly musical themselves, are eager to sponsor any cause that will benefit the City, so long as they are satisfied that the public is behind them. As it happens they chose to give the musical public a chance to put Peterborough "on the map," musically speaking. These opportunities do not occur too frequently, and if musical Peterborough fails to take advantage of this the Kiwanis Club would be fully justified in transferring its support to some other cause.

Tonight is the last night of the Festival, which concludes with the choral classes, an event of outstanding interest. Besides the incentive of hearing the various City choirs in friendly competition there are the comments of the adjudicators, both young men of first-class ability and qualifications with a knack of expressing their opinions in a clear and thought-provoking manner. This is the City's last opportunity this year to make amends for the regrettable lack of support in the earlier days of this Festival. We trust that it may not be the last for a long period.

Unity, Division And Leadership In The U.S.A.

by
SEBASTIAN HAFFNER

SOME time last year, the concept of a bipartisan foreign policy died in America; and since then America has been shaken by a succession of "great debates" on foreign policy questions, and has given the outside world the impression of a nation deeply divided over its fundamental approach to the great international problems of the day.

This impression is somewhat misleading. There is a great deal more unity on fundamentals of present foreign policy in America than the "great debates" suggest. The point of these debates is that they are not really foreign policy debates at all. They are domestic political fights for which selected issues of foreign policy or strategy merely form the pretext. This becomes even clearer in the country at large than in Washington, where the party line-up is somewhat blurred by fine sub-divisions. Once one gets away from the intricacies of Washington politics it is amazing how strictly the line-up over such proposals as ex-President Hoover's "Western Hemisphere Gibraltar" or General MacArthur's "bomb China" policy follows domestic party lines. One is for or against Acheson and for or against MacArthur according to whether one is a good Liberal or a good Conservative.

✧ ✧ ✧

THOSE who lived in Britain around the time of Munich know what a real great debate on foreign policy is like. At that time there was a really fundamental and simple question of basic foreign policy at issue; should Britain appease the dictators or stand up to them? It was a question big enough to be understood by anybody, and it was really this question over which the nation spontaneously divided. The division cut across party allegiances, across friendships and families. There was nothing artificial and manufactured about it, and few if any domestic political overtones.

✧ ✧ ✧

IF one compares the present series of "great debates" in America with that experience, one is struck by the difference. There is no comparable basic issue at stake. Nobody in America debates whether Soviet Russia is an enemy or a potential friend as Britain did with regard to Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy in 1938. That issue is quite settled. Nobody proposes to appease Russia, or even China. The policy of resisting Communist imperialism and allowing no further country to fall to aggression by default is common ground. It is furher generally agreed that the responsibilities for starting actual war must be left to Russia. There is no "preventive war" school worth speaking of in America. Finally, there is the fullest agreement that America must prepare for the worst. Whatever may be the fate of other Bills, every rearmament appropriation passes Congress without a hitch, and all the time, while the "great debates" shake the air, recruits are training by the hundred thousand, arms factories are tooling up, and the enormous American power machine is moving into gear. There is no doubt at all that if war broke out tomorrow, America would fight it as a completely united country, with no holds barred, and with a grim determination to see it through, at whatever cost, to total victory.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHAT then are all the "great debates" about? Significantly, they are nearly all about strategic questions demanding a great deal of specialized knowledge and expertness, and quite unfit for general democratic debate. Should Europe or Asia have strategic priority in the present situation? Can America concentrate on air and sea power alone or is a large land army needed? Should troops be posted overseas in time of peace? Can bombing China end the Korean war? Is Formosa strategically essential to the defence of the Pacific? Could Chiang Kai-shek successfully invade China? These, roughly speaking, are the questions which have been raised successively to the level of great national issues, tagged on to big names, like ex-President Hoover and General MacArthur.

✧ ✧ ✧

NO country would spontaneously make a national emotionally-charged issue of any such technical question, let alone of half a dozen of them in four or five months. There is something synthetic and manufactured about the process. If one further considers how neatly the dividing lines on each of them are determined by party allegiance, little doubt can remain that these great debates are really a by-product of internal American party politics. Underlying them is not any deep division on foreign policy, but a deep domestic division which survives from the days of Roosevelt and the New Deal.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT is hard for an outsider to appreciate the genuine pasions which still rage in America around the memory of Roosevelt and the political-economic era which he inaugurated. In European eyes, Roosevelt would not appear to have been a revolutionary, but a mild reformer. The New Dealers did not destroy American capitalism; they claim to have saved it. It is true that there were reforms—a moderate degree of economic planning, a mild version of the welfare state, and, more important perhaps, a general change in the "tone of the country, encouraging to social and racial levelling-up—but all this seems hardly enough to explain the burning passion of the anti-Rooseveltians. Whatever the deeper reasons, these passions exist, they are a fact, and so is the continuing deep and hard division of the country over the Rooseveltian heritage, a division almost like that between the France of the revolution and the France of the ancien regime. It is to that division that one must look for the generating power of the heat and fury with which America has, during the last four or five months, devoted herself to unending nationwide debates on intricate points of global strategy. They have all been raised by last-ditch Conservatives who have been out of power for close on twenty years and who are getting desperate. They have been raised at a time when it seems to have become pretty clear that on the purely domestic issue the Democratic majority is unshakeable. Roosevelt's foreign policy record seems more vulnerable. After all, it was he who banked too heavily on the possible to insinuate that "softness" to Russ- With this memory to be played on, it seems possible to insinuate that "softness" to Russia and "appeasement" tendencies still influence the strategic policies of his associates and heirs.

✧ ✧ ✧

SO far, it is by no means certain that the Administration has suffered much harm from the "great debates". It has, on the whole, stuck to its guns; and it can still be sure of the strong and stolid, if unspectacular, support of its customary electors, who smell the politics in the strategic issues and side with the Government in much the same automatic partisan spirit with which it is attacked. Still, the Republican Party leadership obviously sees possible gains in publicly raising one after another of these difficult and opaque issues of international policy and strategy. They all play on the general sense of unease which dominates the nation in its present precarious and anomalous position betwen peace and war. Most of them provide an opportunity to practice "McCarthyism"—the well-established and not wholly unsuccessful technique of presenting the moderation of official policy and its care in the choice of Allies as due to secret pro-Communist sympathies or even treason inside the Government. And, finally, the link of the latest set of issues with the person of General MacArthur provides an opportunity to cash in on the profound and widespread longing for a great leader figure, which is an unspoken but potent part of the present American mood.

✧ ✧ ✧

ONE of the acutest observers of the American scene remarked as early as last summer that the country had a crisis, but no crisis leadership—"crisis leadership" implying all that was provided during the last war here by President Roosevelt or in Britain by Mr. Churchill; the power to speak straight to the heart of the nation and to lift it out of its everyday mood, above fear and doubt. President Truman, for all his courage and power of decision, does not provide that kind of leadership. Liked, respected on the whole, sometimes admired and occasionally smiled at, he lacks the mystique, the splendour, and the demagoguery of the "great man" in whom a nation in crisis wants to see itself personified. He cannot either charm or overawe; and he has never coined a memorale phrase. General Marshall is essentially a desk figure, aloof, austere and silent. Mr. Acheson, whose speeches read so brilliantly to the educated and expert student, positively puts off the American public by his air of seemingly condescending intellectual superiority, and polysyllable suavity. There is no one in the present Administration—a very able Administration, determined enough in its prosaic way, and still quite safe on the basis of its solid and loyal partisan support — who could by sheer force of personality unite, uplift and temporarily embody the nation.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT this is what every nation in time of crisis looks for. If it is denied satisfaction of this deep emotional need by its legitimate leadership, it may suddenly and unaccountably turn to some free-lance, some charlatan even, who provides it. General MacArthur's policies remain as controversial as ever, and even as a person the General may still overplay his hand—he has a capacity of making people wince which, with repetition, may get on the nerves of others besides the sophisticated minority. Still there is no denying that his Washington speech—theatrical, even hammy as it was—stirred America more deeply and left more quotations lingering in the memory than any speech since Roosevelt's death. There is a warning here.

MADMAN'S DRUM

Big Ben

(New York Times)

Britons in various parts of the world who listen to the tolling of "Big Bell" sent over the airwaves by the British Broadcasting Corporation can be assured that the clock atop the Westminster Tower in London tells the right time.

One of the original conditions made when the clock was ordered in the Eighteen Fifties was that the first toll of the bell each hour was to be within one second of the exact time.

The noted clock is checked by the Royal Observator and is seldom more than a second at fault, according to the magazine Coming Events in Britain. When an error is detected, a tray is fixed halfway down the pendulum and a penny is placed on it. The penny will make a difference of four-tenths of a second a day, and when the clock begins to gain the coin is removed.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And when the scribes and Pharisees saw him eat with publicans and sinners, they said unto his disciples, How is it that he eateth and drinketh with publicans and sinners? When Jesus heard it, he saith unto them, They that are whole have no need of the physician, but they that are sick: I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance. (Mark 2: 16, 17.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And he spake this parable unto them, saying, What man of you, having an hundred sheep, if he lose one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness, and go after that which is lost, until he find it? And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders, rejoicing. And when he cometh home, he calleth together his friends and neighbours, saying unto them, Rejoice with me: for I have found my sheep which was lost.

I say unto you, that likewise joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, more than over ninety and nine just persons, which need no repentance. (Luke 15: 3-7.)

Reds Under?

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

When a hostile Senate and adverse court decisions resulted in Premier Menzies of Australia calling a general election with half his Government's normal term of office still to be served, he was actually asking for the verdict of the voters of Australia on the Administration's campaign to outlaw Communism. Although the counting of the ballots was not quite completed last week, he has now been returned to office in a stronger position than before the election.

The Liberal-Country Party coalition led by Premier Menzies lost ground to the Labour Opposition in the House, but it retained a comfortable majority of seventeen. It gained in the Senate, however, where it was in the minority, with Labour holding thirty-four or sixty seats. That has now been reduced to twenty-eight, giving the Menzies' Coalition a majority of four in the Upper Chamber.

It may be argued that the verdict of the Australian voters does not reflect decisive approval of the Coalition Government's program to outlaw the Communist Party. Since sections of the Labour Party form the stronghold of Australian Communism, that party's gain in strength in the House might mean a strengthening of the Communist position. It would be difficult, however, to show that it also meant greater approval among Australians generally of the Labour Party's opposition to the anti-Communist program of the Administration. And the result in the Senate, where the Labour Party had obstructed that program, could be interpreted as a vote against the Communists. Certainly the very small vote polled by the straight Communist candidates reflected little outright support for the party.

It will be interesting to follow the future course of the Menzies Administration, to see whether it returns to its campaign against the Communist Party and, if so, how successful it will be. The outcome there will have immediate or potential future significance for many nations faced with problems parallel to those in Australia. The experience of the antipodean Commonwealth may offer guidance in dealing with the threats that exist when key industrial unions in democracies are dominated by a party giving its first allegiance to Russia.

15,000 Salesmen Ordered To Cut Claims For Drug

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—Feeling tired? Run-down? Spots before your eyes? Fight with your wife more than usual?

Then hurry to your doctor and pay no attention to the slick talk of door-to-door patent-medicine salesmen, the United States Food and Drug Administration advised Monday.

This isn't a new warning, but the agency spotlighted it in the course of reporting a court order, unique in food and drug law history, forbidding 15,000 salesmen to make extravagant claims for a vitamin-and-mineral product called nutrilite.

To get their evidence, federal inspectors posed as nutrilite salesmen and as customers. They made recordings of sales spiels, as delivered by real salesmen, then went into the US District Court in Los Angeles and made a complaint.

After reading transcripts of the sales talks, the national distributor of the product agreed to the court order putting restrictions on what salesmen may claim, said Dr. Paul B. Dunbar, commissioner of food and drugs.

"Claims that nutrilite has any value in treating 57 serious diseases, including cancer, heart trouble, diabetes, arthritis and rheumatism are specifically prohibited," Dunbar said.

The court order does, however, allow canvassers to claim that the product helps diet and nutrition in 30 ways—in the cases, for instance, of people who don't eat the right foods or who cook the vitamins out of food.

Nutrilite is not listed in the Canadian drug index.

Magistrate Dismisses Charge Over Funds

SUDBURY, May 22 (CP) — A charge against Lloyd Adams of Toronto of converting funds amounting to almost $200 to his own use was dismissed by Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe in court Monday.

At a hearing a week ago, Adams admitted he had kept $60 of $110 he had collected to purchase groceries for the 11-man crew working on a construction job in nearby Coniston last month. Adams was employed as a timekeeper by a Toronto construction firm.

Magistrate Woodliffe last week adjourned the case to consider the evidence after remarking that Adams was charged with converting to his own use money that belonged to a merchant for groceries. But, the magistrate observed, Adams had not been in any way bound to purchase the gods from this particular dealer.

Graziano KO's Greco In Third Round

By VIC MORRIS, JR.

MONTREAL, May 22—(CP)—Former world middleweight champion Rocky Graziano unleashed a pile driving right hand here Monday night that knocked out Montreal's Johnny Greco in the third round of their sceduled 10-rounder.

A crowd of 6,165 contributed a gross gate of $23,421 for the short-lived bout that saw the 25-year-ol Graziano, a New York eastside product, tag the Canadian welterweight king squarely on the chin at 1.56 of the third with the only damaging blow.

At 161½ pounds, Graziano held a 7½ pound margin over the 27-year-old Montrealer.

The steam appeared to have left Greco's punch. His reflexes were slow. However, the Montrealer scored enough blows in the second to win the round on points. Graziano took the opening warm-up heat.

It was Greco who started the third round's pummelling that led to his downfall. Fighting in a low crouch, he kept free of Graziano's body punches and gradually bulled him against the ropes in his own corner. While the New Yorker took a dozen punches to the body, Greco was gradually straightening up. It was then that Graziano fired his kayo punch.

Following the fight, Graziano said in his dressing room that the knockout punch "was the best I ever remember throwing—it was terrific."

Graziano, looking toward the future, said that he now wanted to fight Sugar Ray Robinson or "I'll settle for a fight with (Lauren:) Dauthuille" of France.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

Prexy Bill Flint of the Girls' Softball League says the schedule will open May 28 with Marines playing Woollens, and Ashby's meeting Westclox. These are the only city teams in, since CGE dropped out, but Cobourg Pavs have also entered and will have Friday nights for home games in the lakeshore town. For the time being, the loop will use only Mondays and Wednesdays here at the Bowl, since the city rent has been put up. Woollens are in for junior PWSU play, the others here being after intermediate "A" playdowns, and Cobourg "AA". A good staff of umps in Wimp Borland, Herb Payne, Holly Mowry, and Alec Whiteside of Port Credit, will handle games. Schedule out soon.

The senior Petes of the Viaduct Baseball League are slated for Toronto this eve to play Croftons a game under the lights. And the ball season opens here on Thursday, the May 24th holiday, under the Riverside arcs with Staffords the visitors. Can't say who will get the twirling assignment for the Whitehill squad as it depends on which pitcher goes tonight. Lefty Bill Dadson opened the schedule Saturday in Toronto in right impressive fashion as he threw a winning four-hitter. So there's Bill Edger, Doug Plunkett and Nobby Clark—a tall youth from Ottawa—available for the next two games. It's likely that Edger will go in Toronto this e'en.

They Look Pretty Good

The Gunner will probably stand pat on his infield and outfield starters, since they played errorless ball and hit well in the opening victory. That's Joe Stewart on first, Fred Plato second, Freddy Garvey at short, and Johnny Denofrio of Ottawa at third. The latter had some Border Loop class "C" experience in Ottawa, as well as playing in Northern Ontario and Smiths Falls. He looks solid. The outfield in the first fray was dependable Joe Lowrey, tall Andy Milne who looks like a natural, and stocky George Brabin of Oshawa—a guy the champ Merchants wanted but let alone when the junior Transporters of Oshawa raised heck. However, George wanted to go senior, so he and Bunny Maeson came to Peterborough. Al Menzies and Bill Huntley are the local catchers, and both are tops.

As usual, the PMBA-ers are slow getting started. But every practice called brings out a raft of kids wanting to play minor ball. Howie Dalton has nearly 40 after spots on his peewee squad, which drills at six tonight on the Orphanage diamond. R. Brady has picked a club from a big flock over east in this class, and there are oodles of southend lads ready to go. It's always a problem getting good managers to handle the boys' teams, but the players are there is organized properly. Petes later will supply a full-time coach. PMBA officers this year are: Hon. president, Alex Kay; president, Dit Clapper; vice-prexy, Ray Pammett; secretary, Ed Woodcock; and treasurer, Gord Young.

Track And Field Meet

Jaycees are sponsoring a track and field meet for high schools on the holiday Thursday. It's at one p.m. in Morrow Park, under direction of Alex Sinclair, recreation director. About 85 girl and boy contestants in 225 events, with prizes put up for winners. Schools entering include: Oshawa, Bowmanville, Cobourg, Port Hope, Lindsay, Havelock and St. Peter's High and PCVS of this city. All types of track and field competition imaginable, and it should prove interesting. The Junior Chamber of Commerce hopes to make this an annual event to encourage school-agers in running, jumping, etc.

Don Crowe isn't letting the Petes' lacrossers coast this week—he has them laboring hard in preparation for their home tilt Friday against the Mimico Mounties. It could be a stiff test for them ere they go on the road. Petes play the bolstered Toronto West Yorks in Toronto this Sunday, and then have a break till Toronto returns here a week Friday. It's an odd schedule, sometimes giving a club a break of five or six days, and at other times forcing a team to play on successive nights or three games in four days—tossing in a trip or two for good measure. St. Kitts' scribe thinks a lean, young squad might go best over the long haul. There's a chance that Goalie Whitaker may hang up his gear down there.

The city of Owen Sound will honor Owen Sound Mercurys, 1951 Allan Cup hockey champions, at a dinner, presentation and dance tonight.

Following the banquet, the Mercurys will be the main attraction in a mammoth parade from the city hall to the arena. After the presentation of gifts by the city, the Mercurys will be the guests of honor at a complimentary dance staged by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Mercurys won the Allan Cup by defeating Fort Frances Canadians.

Stokes, one of the early favorites for the 1½-mile Epsom Derby, injured a leg in a stable accident Saturday and may not run in the famed event at Epsom Downs May 30.

The colt, second in the two thousand guineas at Newmarket May 2, Monday was listed as a doubtful starter. The odds on him fell from 20 to 1 to 50 to 1 following the accident.

Ironically, Stokes was the picked mount of Gordon Richards, England's champion jockey, who has never ridden a Derby winner.

An unknown bettor hit the jackpot Sunday—winning $200,000 on a $2.50 wager — in Venezuela's "five-and-six" betting pool. He hasn't claimed his fortune yet.

He was the only one of hundreds of thousands of bettors to pick the winners of all six of the final six races at the Caracas race track. Nearly all the favorites lost. Only 10 persons picked five of the winners and they will receive approximately $12,860 each.

The largest field in history to try for the National Open golf championship—1,480—has entered the 1951 tournament, the US Golf Association announced Monday. The event will be held June 14-16 at Oakland Hills, Birmingham, Mich.

Entrants include defending champion Ben Hogan, nine past open champions, British open champion Bobby Locke, amateur champion Sam Urzetta and PGA champion Chandler Harper.

Johnny Bratton, who lost his National Boxing Association welterweight crown to Kid Gavilan Friday, had his broken jaw wired Monday. Today he'll have a cast put on his right hand. He broke two knuckles as well as his jaw in the losing fight.

It was the third time he suffered a jaw fracture in a fight and the Chicago welterweight said, "I'm good and disgusted."

Jackie Robinson, right - hand pitcher from New York, and infielder Bob Marshall reported for service Monday to Galt Terriers of the Inter-County Senior Baseball League. Robinson has pitched in both Mexican and Cuban leagues. Marshall plays either third base or shortstop.

Middleweight champion Ray Robinson stopped Kid Marcel of France in the fifth round of a non-title fight in Paris Monday night. The New York Negro toyed with his rival for four rounds and then tossed some hefty punches in the fifth.

Marcel's handlers quickly threw in the towel.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

All that is necessary now to make our official opening — Thursday, May 24 — successful, is fine weather.

The committees have done a fine job—and it's now up to members to turn out in full force and show their appreciation.

As in former years, we open with a mixed rink tournament—draw from the board 1:30 o'clock. Three sets of good prizes and it's all with the compliments of the board of directors.

Last year we opened with 30 mixed rinks. It could be bigger this year. Be on time.

In all probability, the schedule books will be ready for distribution.

Has Eatin-est Hoss At Hollywood Park

INGLEWOOD, Calif., May 22—(AP)—Flash Burn may not be the winning-est hoss at Hollywood Park, but his trainer, Robert L. Anderson, will have you know he's the "eatin-est one in the whole park."

"He likes cake, he's nuts about doughnuts, really goes for vegetable soup, and tobacco—why, he's a slave to the weed," says Anderson. "Of course, he hasn't learned to smoke, but he'll gobble up a whole sack of rollin' tobacco, but seems to prefer juice brands. He eats it like candy bars, and of course, he likes candy, too."

Anderson explained that Flash Burn, an exceptionally good looker who really likes to run, has such a voracious appetite that he used to eat his straw bedding. So what does he sleep on now? Peat moss, no less.

Royals Edge Syracuse In 9-8 Game

By The Associated Press

The excellent relief pitching of big Bill Voiselle may earn the former ...or leaguer another crack ...g job for Montreal's pace-setting International League Royals.

Voiselle, who pitched for New York, Boston and Chicago in the National League, saved his third game of the season as the Royals edged Syracuse Chiefs 9-8 Monday night. The veteran righthander has won a game and lost a game in relief roles. He lost his only start of the season.

The Royals clinched the decision with a seven-run blast in the sixth inning. Jim Russell featured the uprising with a two-run homer. Voiselle took over in the seventh and blanked the Royals until the ninth when pinch-hitter Pete Riggan homered with one aboard. But Voiselle knuckled down after Riggan's blast and saved the game for Jim Hughes, third Montreal pitcher.

Wings Edge Bisons

The victory enabled the Royals to maintain their three-game lead over the runner-up Rochester Red Wings. The Wings edged Buffalo Bisons 4-3 in 11 innings. Rookie Jennings Edwards' error with the bases loaded and one out allowed Ed Mierkowicz to score the winning run.

Righthander Karl Drews pitched the Baltimore Orioles to a 7-0, five-hit victory over Ottawa Giants. The Orioles snapped a 0-0 tie with six runs in the seventh inning on five singles, a double and a walk.

Toronto Maple Leafs outlasted the Springfield Cubs 10-6. The Leafs put the game away with six runs in the second inning. Grover Bowers highlighted the uprising with a three-run homer. Rookie Hal Hudson went all the way to post his third victory without a defeat.

Jones Gives Cards New Life As St. Louis Clips Giants

By RALPH RODEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

The comeback of Vernal (Nippy) Jones has injected new life into St. Louis Cardinals and helped move them back into contention in the ding-dong National League pennant race.

The rise of the St. Louis fortunes dates from May 15 when the Cards recalled Jones from their Rochester farm in the International League. The flu-riddled club had lost seven of eight starts.

The Nipper brought his hot bat with him and since his return the Cards have won five of seven. He has hit safely in seven straight games. He is flailing away at .407 clip with 11 hits in 27 times at bat and has driven in 10 runs.

Jones went to town Saturday, batting in five runs in the Cards' 6-4 triumph over Brooklyn. Monday he drove in three runs to lead St. Louis to a 5-2 victory over New York Giants in the National League's only scheduled game. The victory moved the third-place Cards within 1½ games of the pace-setting Dodgers.

Breaks Up Duel

Jones' clutch hitting broke up a pitcher's duel between Gerry Staley and the Giants' Larry Jansen. Jones doubled with two out and the bases loaded in the fifth inning to drive in three runs and break a 2-2 tie.

The New York Yankees protected their two-game edge over Chicago White Sox in the American League race. The Yankees defeated St. Louis Browns 2-0, while the White Sox downed Washington Senators 5-3 in night games. Boston Red Sox outlasted Detroit Tigers 9-7 in a day affair.

Big Vic Raschi turned in his seventh victory against one loss in blanking the Browns at Yankee Stadium. Raschi and Lefty Ed Lopat have accounted for 14 of the Yanks' 21 victories.

Stubby Overmire, who pitched for the Browns, deserved a better fate. The Yankees broke a scoreless tie with two out in the sixth on a scratch hit by Hank Bauer and singles by Joe DiMaggio and Yogi Berra. The Yankees scored again in the eighth with the aid of an error by Fred Marsh.

Extend Wins

Joe Dobson, Billy Pierce and Harry Dorish held the Senators to four hits as the White Sox extended their winning streak to five games.

The Sox, with the aid of shoddy fielding, nicked Julio Moreno for four runs in the first three innings and clinched the game in the eighth on a double by Orestes Minoso, fly out and Chico Carrasquel's single.

Gil Coan homered with two on in the sixth for Washington's runs.

Ted Williams snapped out of a batting slump, pounding out a single, double and homer to help the Red Sox edge the Tigers. The Sox scored seven runs in the third inning, but Williams' two-run homer in the seventh was the deciding factor.

Harold Abbe Wins At Roosevelt Track

WESTBURY, NY, May 22 (AP).—Roosevelt Raceway opened its 12th season of harness racing under the lights Monday night at Westbury. Harold Abbe, seven-year-old gelding, owned by William C. Harris and driven by Billy Haughton, scored a length victory in 2:05 in the feature event.

Lucky Chief was second and Scott Blackstone closed fast for third. The winner paid $4.50, $3.30 and $2.60.

Two fast dashes in the first and second races resulted in a daily double payoff of $99.20. Grace Scott paced to a 2.07 2-5 triumph in the first and returned $5.50. Urban Hanover scor... in the seco...

McGill Professor Expert On Details Of Russian Life

MONTREAL, — (CP) — Even the Russians would be surprised at the extent of knowledge, so vitally important for analysis of war potential, which Prof. Bogdan Zaborski or the Department of Geography at McGill has amassed on Russia.

This Polish geographer, who spent some time in 1941 in one of Siberia's "resorts" and whose maps of Russia rank among the best private collections in the world, will "tell all" this summer during lecture courses at the McGill Geography Summer School.

The owner of some 11,000 maps, Professor Zaborski will draw upon a lifetime's learning and research, including some 25,000 miles of travel in Russia, in order that civilian and military students may learn accurately what the free world would face in a war with the Soviet.

Dr. Zaborski, one of the outstanding specialists in the Geography of the Soviet Union on this continent, came by much of his knowledge the hard way.

When Poland fell to German and Russian forces, Professor Zaborski was taken from Warsaw, in May of 1941, across Russia to a Siberian prison camp at Novilsk at the mouth of the Yenisey River.

Made Way To Scotland

After several months there he was released at the outbreak of Russo - German hostilities, and made his way southward, working in Soviet manufacturing plants before turning westward.

He eventually arrived at the temporary Russian capital of Kubishev where, with the help of the Polish Embassy, he made his way to Scotland.

Throughout his travels the geographer carefully noted points of interest, the conditions of the people, industries, agriculture and other data of economic significance, fortifying knowledge gained during a trip across Russia in 1937.

One thing the professor regrets keenly is the destruction of a previous collection of some 15,000 maps, which were burned in Warsaw.

Professor Zaborski admits it is an arduous task building up a complete set of data concerning Russian natural resources and economic progress, since the Soviet Union has let out little pertinent information since around 1933.

But the professor laboriously examines hundreds of books and articles for information to be checked against his own background of knowledge of the Soviet He believes he has a story to tell and he will tell it this summer.

St. John Chief Vernon Kemp Expresses Sympathy

Deep sympathy for the families of the firefighters killed in Saturday's fire was expressed Monday at the Rotary Club luncheon by Vernon Alfred M. Kemp, provincial commissioner of St. John Ambulance for Ontario.

Mr. Kemp, whose visit to Rotary Club was pre-arranged, said he was shocked by the serious tragedy in Peterborough Saturday. On behalf of the St. John Ambulance he expressed sympathy.

"I'm gratified to receive the report of Peterborough personnel who rendered service on this occasion." He added that the men and women handled cases so fast that an accurate report wasn't yet available but that an estimated 40 cases were cared for.

In his address, the former assistant-commissioner and director of criminal investigation for the RCMP pointed out the need for first aid workers, especially in case of another war. The situation at present, he said, is that "we may find ourselves at war."

Making Plans

Across the province, he said, communities were either making defence plans or showed an indifferent feeling towards the matter. The attitude of the St. John Ambulance, he said, was that these organizations should be started. The Ambulance's membership is increasing and it plans to make its contribution in case of war.

Mr. Kemp compared the feeling towards Communism across Canada to a swinging pendulum; either the people being alarmed or having a feeling of indifference. He said that the Communist party is the same now as in 1921 or 1941, a body of people controlled by Moscow and "ready to sell democracy down the river." The sooner Canadians grasp that fact the better, he said.

Mr Kemp was introduced by Robert Maybee and thanked by John Dewart.

Raise Cost Of Sending Newspapers Through Mails

OTTAWA, May 22 (CP)—It's going to cost more for publishers to send newspapers and periodicals through the mails.

Part of the increase in general rates will be softened by elimination of a system under which papers carrying more than 50 per cent of any issue in advertising pay four cents a pound for that part taken up by ads as against 1½ cents a pound for the weight made up by the rest of the paper.

But, postal officials said, the general efect of the changes will be to boost between 50 and 100 per cent the cost to most publishers of sending papers through the mails.

These, however, are the new and old rates:

For newspapers and periodicals published daily and having a circulation of 10,000 or more—four cents for each pound weight or fraction thereof. Old rate: 1½ cents plus the advertising charge if it applied.

For dailies with less than 10,000—2½ cents instead of 1½ plus the advertising charge.

For bi-weeklies with 10,000 or more—three cents instead of 1½ plus the advertising charge.

Other Changes

For bi-weeklies with less than 10,000—two cents instead of one plus the ad charge.

For weeklies with 50,000 or more—three cents instead of 1½ plus the ad charge.

For weeklies between 10,000 and 50,000 circulation — 2½ instead of 1½ plus the ad charge.

For weeklies with less than 10,000—1½ instead of one plus the ad charge.

For monthlies with 10,000 or more—1¾ instead of 1½ plus the ad charge.

For monthlies with less than 10,000—1½ instead of one cent plus the ad charge.

The post office also plans to boost the rates for publications sent by mail to people within the postal area where the publication comes out, or in other words for publications sent by mail to people within the postal area where the publication comes out, or in other words for local delivery.

These rates were one cent for each four ounces. They will be two cents for four ounces and one cent for each additional four ounces.

President Of CDNA Refuses Comment

BRANDON, Man., May 22 (CP). Ernest C. Whitehead, president of the Canadian Daily Newspapers' Association, Monday night declined comment on an announcement that the Government is increasing postal rates on newspapers and periodicals.

Various increases were announced in the Commons Monday. Postal officials said the general effect of the changes would boost the cost of sending papers through the mails by 50 to 100 per cent.

New Zealand Aids Maoris To Fuller Share In Nation

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z.—(CP)—The New Zealand government is encouraging Maoris to take a wider share in every phase of society in the Dominion.

It considers the country's two races must eventually live on a basis of complete equality, not only legally, which virtualy exists at present, but in conditions and habits. Despite the rapid increase in the Maori population, it is believed that the future of the race does not lie in the villages, but in New Zealand as a whole.

To assist in the task of fitting Maoris to live in a Western civilization, a policy of advice and guidance through tribal committees and welfare workers has been fostered under an act passed shortly after the war. Reports show that this policy is beginning to pay dividends in the form of a more stable Maori society and economy.

Some 89 tribal committees have been formed throughout the country in an effort to reinforce the power of the chiefs and the old tribal discipline which showed signs of collapsing with the growth of European ways among the Maoris. These committees have considerable disciplinary powers to act in cases which do not call for police interference. It is planned to increase further the powers of Maori wardens appointed by the committees to enable them to keep law and order in their areas.

The Liquor Problem

A major problem has been control of the use of liquor by Maoris. Until recently they were under various restrictions in obtaining liquor that did not apply to Europeans. Most of these restraints were removed a few years ago. In some areas the Maoris have abused their new-found freedom and drunken orgies have become common in the villages.

The government has been encouraged by the general reception of the concessions by the bulk of the Maori race, however, and it does not plan to reimpose the restrictions. It believes a reinforcing of the authority of the tribal committees in the less progressive districts will enable them to measure up to their responsibilities.

About half the welfare workers appointed by the act are women, as particular attention is being given to educating the Maori women in modern hygiene and child welfare methods. The women have formed welfare leagues in most districts and many Maori groups have joined national societies which aim at developing and improving the home life of the commupity. This work of linking Maori women with the modern outlook on life in the home is already resulting in a steady improvement in conditions in Maori homes.

New Swiss Discovery F"99"

for Eczemas, Boils, Psoriasis, Leg Ulcers

THE DISCOVERY of one of the main causes of skin diseases will bring new health and happiness to thousands of people suffering from Eczemas, Boils, Leg Ulcers and Psoriasis. Science has established that the lack of unsaturated fatty acids in nutrition reduces the natural resistance of the body and leads to skin disease. As this precious substance—so essential to skin health—is often completely absent in modern food, the number of skin sufferers in all civilized countries has a tendency to increase every year.

Remarkable Discovery

A Swiss chemist, Dr. W. Schmitz, succeeded after 10 years of research work in extracting from pure vegetable oils an unsaturated fatty acid with a concentration of 99% and therefore named F "99". Thanks to this very high purity which was never attained up to now, F "99" is so readily absorbed into the blood stream, that it has a decisive biological activity in the treatment of skin diseases. Its remarkable efficiency has astonished even Skin Specialists of international reputation.

Natural way to clear up skin troubles

F "99" is not a synthetic drug but a concentrate of natural nutritive substances. It is absolutely harmless and may be given even to infants without any hesitation.

YOU HAVE PLANS that are important, too. The things you want most, the worthwhile things, have to be planned for, saved for.

That's not easy, these days. But here are two suggestions that may help you to realize your own particular dream:

FIRST, decide what you want most, how much it will cost, and open a special savings account at The Royal Bank of Canada for that one particular purpose . . . then save for it.

SECOND, use the Royal Bank Budget Book to keep yourself on your course, and to avoid careless spending. The budget book does not suggest how you should spend your money. It does provide you with a simple pattern to help you PLAN YOUR BUDGET TO SUIT YOURSELF. You can get a copy at any branch. Ask for one.

Forest Wealth Can Be Quadrupled

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

This is forest conservation week a week in which Canadains are given special reminder of the wealth which the forests give them—if, indeed, they need any special reminders.

For the vast woodlands from coast to coast support directly hundreds of thousands of people, and put into circulation money which goes into the pockets of every one.

Forest products are, of course, around us all the time—the chair we sit in; the table from which we eat; the house in which we live; the heavy timber of industry; the newsprint on which our newspaper is printed; the rayon clothing which we may wear.

This special week is sponsored by the Canadian Forestry Association, which has put together some figures for the occasion. Here are a few of them:

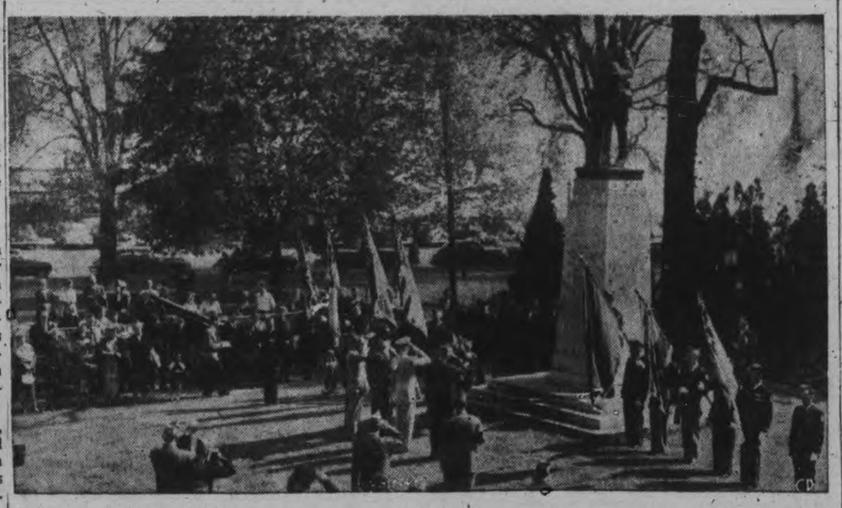
Woods, mills and forest industries employ 350,000 men; forest products have a gross value of $2,250,000,000; forest industries have a payroll of $760,000,000 a year.

Great Income

Forest products bring Canada her greatest income from other countries; for she sells them $79,000,000 more of forest products than she buys forest products from them. "Without this continuous volume," say the association, "our world position in finance would be greatly weakened."

And, the association states, forest production can be increased four to six times. For, though Canada's forests are six times as large as those of Norway, Sweden and Finland combined, those countries cut as much wood as all Canada.

This comparison includes both accessible Canadian forests and those at present regarded as inaccessible. Canadian accessible forests are about three and one-half times those of the three Scandinavian countries which have hundreds of years of experience in forest management; a job which Canada, relatively speaking, is only beginning.



Cut Replacements

The association states that the timber which was here when the white man first came, is virtually all gone, except for a relatively small area in British Columbia. We now are cutting replacements provided by nature. Through the years, fires, insects, disease and wasteful cutting have taken their toll.

The association adds that the greatest single hindrance to full forest production and the resulting increase in wealth, "is lack of knowledge of the forest on the part of both youth and adults in Canada."

Forest conservation week is being observed in rallies, meetings and ceremonies held by provincial branches.

The governor-general, Lord Alexander, is the association's patron, and Prime Minister St. Laurent its honorary persident. Robson Black, who has served it for more than 30 years, is president emeritus; Dr. John S. Bates, of Montreal, chairman of the board; D. A. Gillies, of Braeside, Ont., president; J. L. Van Camp, general manager; and a long list of other men across Canada are its additional officers and directors. Head office is in Montreal.

"40 AND 8"—La Societe des Quarante Hommes et Huit Chevaux—the "40 and 8" veterans of the First World War—made their annual pilgrimage to the Canadian Cenotaph in Niagara Falls, Ont., May 19. American and Canadian veterans joined to pay homage to fallen comrades. Officials are shown saluting the memorial after the placing of a wreath.

Plunges 300 Feet

QUEBEC, May 22—(CP)—A taxi-cab plunged 300 feet from the heights of the Plains of Abrahan to Harborside Champlain Street Monday, but its only occupant, driver Andre Delisle, escaped with slight injuries. Hospital authorities said the 28-year-old cabbie suffered superficial head injuries and would be released in a few days.

Searchers Find Missing Man

SMITHS FALLS, May 22—(CP)—Cecil Hanley, 49, office manager of a farm implement company who had been missing since last Tuesday morning, was found Monday. He was wandering in a dazed condition along a highway 24 miles west of here.

He was suffering from malnutrition and exposure and was brought to hospital here for treatment.

Hundreds of volunteers took part in the search, one of the most widespread in this district's history.

Before you appoint a best friend or relative as your Executor, ask yourself these questions. Is it fair to expect him to assume all the responsibilities of managing an estate? Would he have the necessary qualifications and experience?

Then think of your family. What happens when your "one-man Executor" is ill—out-of-town—or too busy with his own affairs? Will your estate suffer through neglect and delays?

Estate management is a full-time job with National Trust. With the benefit of expert knowledge and long experience, your family's affairs will be managed wisely and with understanding.

BAKERS' WITNESS — Donald Gordon, president of the C.N.R., enters a Calgary court-room as witness for the bakeries during hearing of the alleged bread combine. Mr. Gordon testified that as chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board he had assured the bakers that persons acting in accordance with the board's policy "could regard themselves as not being liable for prosecution under any other act." Hearing was adjourned until May 28. At right in the photo is defence lawyer S. B. Smith, of Edmonton; at rear are defence counsel C. W. Brazier, Vancouver, and H. G. Nolan of Calgary.

Colborne Pair Wait Sentence For Theft

COBOURG, May 22. (ENS) — William Semlitz and Douglas Keddy of RR 2, Colborne, were found guilty in police court yesterday on a charge of theft of an auto top and an alarm clock from Gordon Summers. They were remanded until Friday for sentence.

Summers said that the pair had called at his place on May 17 to enquire about purchasing the top off an old car. They left without closing the deal and later that night on investigating a prowler, Summers caught sight of a fleeing youth whom he said was Semlitz. The top had been removed from the car and left on the ground. Police found the alarm clock in Semlitz' car, the car having been abandoned when it wouldn't start.

Sees World Via RCAF Airlift

McCHORD FIELD, Wash., May 22. (CP)—Bumping into an Air Force buddy on a Tokyo or Honolulu streetcorner is becoming as routine for RCAF ground crew here as waving to a chum in the ball park back home.

Ground crew as well as aircrew of Canada's 426 Transport Squadron are seeing the world, courtesy of the Korean airlift.

The men who normally have to sit on the home field and watch the air crews making off for far places are flying this airlift, too. They are buying souvenirs in Tokyo's Ginza—the chief shopping centre — strolling on the beaches of Waikiki and coming home with more than 10,000 miles of travelling behind them.

It is part of the RCAF plan to show the ground crew trades what their North Star aircraft are doing on the lift, in mile-tonnage, a bigger operation than the famed Berlin airlift.

Canada's single squadron has completed 14,000,000 accident-free miles across the Pacific and has done 15 per cent of the lifting of troops and war equipment.

The rotation scheme sends ground crew to each far-off field used by the RCAF, Haneda at Tokyo, Elmendorf at Fairbanks, Alaska, or Honolulu. Besides this, when there is room on the planes, many of the ground crew hop 5,000 miles to Tokyo for a 48-hour leave.

In their quarters here, the men who keep the planes flying have assembled multitudes of knick-nacks picked up in the Orient—yo-yos which light up when spun, China Geisha dolls, Japanese "flying saucers" and the like.

The squadron joined the lift last July. The end is not in sight yet.

W. Goodfellow Opens Children's Aid Office

COBOURG, May 22. (ENS) — Officially opened Saturday at Port Hope by the Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Minister of Welfare, was the new office building of the Northumberland and Durham Counties Children's Aid Society.

The money for the $32,000 building came from grants and private donations exclusively. From June, 1915, until March, 1941, the work of the Society was administered from a private residence. Later in 1941 an office was opened on John St. but the ever-expanding work of the society made larger office quarters essential. The new building is 65 feet by 44.

SAN SEVERO, Italy, May 22—(Reuters)—A concert ended suddenly here Monday night. The entire orchestra disappeared through the bandstand floor. The specially-erected stand collapsed.

Odd Hobby: Killing Rattlesnakes

VERNON, BC, May 22 (CP).—A veteran preacher here has an odd hobby—rattlesnake hunting.

The Rev. A. C. Mackie, head of a church school, is the modern St. Patrick who roams the rock bluffs in this Okanagan Valley centre in search of the deadly snakes.

Twenty-four years ago one of his students died of snakebite. He then started his war of vengeance. Armed with a forked stick, Mr. Mackie has killed more than 1,000 rattlesnakes. He got 53 last year.

"It's quite an exciting form of recreation, you know," he said today in his study where he has two of his biggest rattler skins tacked on the wall.

There were rattler skins hanging from antlers and dried rattles in an old ship lantern and a tin that once contained tobacco for officers of the royal navy.

Typical Cleric

Mr. Mackie, 72, is still robust, a typical English cleric with his tweeds and soft leather vest. He founded the Vernon Preparatory School at near-by Coldstream in 1913.

At his rustic home on the shores of Kalamalka Lake he related his hunting technique: "I pin them down with my three - pronged fork. Then I shoot them with a .22-calibre pistol."

The rattler found here is the Russel viper, a subspecies of the prairie rattler. Its average size is two feet six inches. Its rattle can be heard 40 yards away.

"I've never been bitten," said Mr. Mackie. "But I have been pricked on the hand once or twice."

Highest Budget

NEW YORK, May 22—(AP)—By a vote of 21 to 2, the New York city council Monday approved an all-time high budget of $1,336,400,575.89 for 1951-52. The 1950-51 budget was $1,246,382,446.36.

Kilts, Bagpipes Hard To Get In Britan Canadians Find

LONDON, May 22—(CP)—Canadian Army officers went shopping today for 1,500 kilts and 50 sets of bagpipes—but found no Scots ready for their business.

So far, no Scots firm can be found to fill the order. Edinburgh's largest supplier of kilts said it would be eight months before it could supply that many of the garments.

The kilts and bagpipes are needed for a new Scottish battalion, the Canadian Scottish, being formed in Canada as part of the Dominion's new brigade. When trained the soldiers are expected to go to Europe.

Officers of the Canadian joint mission here have been instructed to get 300 kilts apiece in the tartans of the Black Watch, Marie of Atholl, Davidson, Seaforth, Mackenzie and Hunting Stewart for the reserve units from which the new battalion is being formed.

SERVING CANADIANS SINCE 1911

48th Highlanders Mark 60 Years In Great Reunion

TORONTO—(CP)—Three wars will be fought battle-by-battle and countless furloughs enjoyed in Toronto when more than 3,000 soldiers invade the city from all parts of Canada.

The famous 48th Highlanders, one of the oldest Highland regiments in Canada, will hold a monster reuninon to celebrate its 60 years of peace and war. Starting Friday, May 25, and continuing to May 27, the get-together will include everything from the annual running of the King's Plate at Woodbine race track to review of the regiment by Viscount and Lady Alexander.

Half a century's history of a proud regiment will be reviewed. Tales of the hard-fighting handful of the Boer War will vie with the exploits of Festubert, Vimy, Paschendale of 1914-18 and Ortona and Nissoria of 1939-45. Battalions from many battles will sit down to explain exactly why their unit was the best.

Ghosts Come To Lfe

Old ghosts and gallantries, regimental rascals and heroes and the scores who never came back will come to life for a brief hour. With them will come the stealthy patrols and pitched battles of many lands.

After reigistering Friday, the soldiers will gather for their unit dinners. Saturday will see the races and the colorful trooping-of-the-colors by Highlanders dressed in their white shell jackets with full ceremonials. At night the main armories will be set up for a mass dinner.

Sunday the 48th will parade to their memorial at midtown Queen's Park.

Hosts for the celebrating vets will be the youthful Highlanders of today. As the regimental historian, Capt. Kim Beattie says: "If they are earnest and discerning young soldiers, and watch and listen closely, they may see why the regiment in action was always great."

The infants were: Leslie Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Davidson (nee Valda Brown), Toronto; Walter Francis, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Coyle, Roseneath; Susan Lillian Jane, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Jack Pacey, Cobourg, formerly of Roseneath.

An anthem was sung by a mixed choir, with Miss Hilda Arthur organist and choir leader.

Belmont Institute Asks Banning Of Midnight Dances

HAVELOCK, May 22—(ENS)—A special Mother's Day program marked the meeting of the Belmont Women's Institute at the Belmont township hall on Thursday, which featured a two-minute talk on the motto "What Is Home Without A Mother" by Mrs. W. J. Corneil. Other items were readings by Mrs. Charles Ellis and Mrs. G. Hartin, vocal solos by Mrs. L. Bigelow and Mrs. Corneil. The members answered the roll call by giving their mother's favorite hymn. The program conveners were Mrs. Charles Ellis and Mrs. W. Youmans.

During the business session conducted by the president, Mrs. W. Ketchen, a resolution was prepared for presentation at the WI convention which requests that the federal government debar midnight frolic dances as they are detrimental to the health of the young people.

Represent Board

The following delegates will represent the Belmont branch at the district annual meeting in Lakefield: Mesdames W. Ketchen, W. Peters, W. Harris, H. Scott and W. Aunger.

Three selections were made for a short course with "Something To Wear" as first choice; "Slip Covers," second; "Oven-Baked Meals," third.

A quilt top was donated by the president which the society will quilt and sell tickets for a draw. There were 21 members and two visitors present.

Tea hour hostesses were: Mesdames Ezra King, John King, W. Corneil, Alex Keene, W. Peters and W. Youmans.

Doctor Tells Group Of Korea Before War

PLAINVILLE, May 22—(ENS)—The young adult group of Plainville United Church met Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Buttar. Forty members and a number of children were present. The program was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Buttar and Mr. and Mrs. MacLean Herriott. A short worship service had as its theme, "Beauty in Nature."

The guest speaker for the evening was Dr. C. W. MacCharles of Cobourg, senior medical officer of health for the Northumberland and Durham Health Unit and recently returned from Korea where he has been on a health mission.

He spoke of Korea before the war, telling of the habits and customs of the people, the climate and geographical picture of the country. "No country has been more written about since the war," he said, so he confined his remarks to the Korea he knew before. Among many interesting items he mentioned the Koreans' love of singing. Everyone from children to old people sang at every opportunity. The middle-aged ladies always wore white, but the younger girls and elderly ladies wore very bright colors, one change for each of the four seasons. Roads were in poor condition except one fairly good highway leading out of Seoul.

Mrs. Lynn MacDonald sang "Bless This House." During the business period, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Woodley and children were made welcome to the club and to the congregation of Plainville United Church. Later the host and hostess, with their assistants, Mr. and Mrs. Herriott, served a dainty lunch. Allan Dines, the president, thanked the speaker.

City Approves Changes In Fire Law

Seek Co-operation Of Departments In Townships

Fire Department bylaw is to be amended in several particulars as approved by the city council Monday night in the adoption of the report of the fire and light committee read by Ald. A. B. Burrows.

With the passing of the bylaw the requirements pertaining to applicants will be:

"Every person before becoming a member of the department shall pass a medical examination by the doctor designated by the fire chief, and shall be between the ages of 21 and 25 years; a British subject; a resident of the city for at least three years; must possess a chauffeur's license; also must have at least two years High School education; minimum height 5 ft. 10 in.; minimum weight 165 lbs.; and serve a probationary period of six months."

Holidays

Paragraph 40 of the bylaw is to be amended to read: "Statutory holidays are granted to members of the department in the calendar year, according to the agreement as signed by the city council and the local Firemen's Union. New members are granted the statutory holidays remaining within the year after serving their probationary period."

Paragraph 56 is changed to read: "Members reporting off-duty on account of sickness due to natural causes or injury due to accidents while off duty, will be granted time off-duty with pay, subject to the council's accumulative sick leave plan, providing said member has reported his sickness within 30 minutes after regular time of duty to the senior officer on duty. A doctor's certificate shall be furnished by the member on reporting for duty as to the nature of sickness and his fitness to return to his regular duties."

Emergency Plan

The following clause of the Burrows' report anticipated a possibility which materialized in Saturday's fire and in the aid of the Smith suburban volunteer department.

"That the chairman of this committee and the fire chief be authorized to arrange a meeting of the representatives of the district fire departments with a view to discussing a plan of mutual aid and co-operation in times of emergency."

Three deparments nearest to Peterborough are Lakefeld, Smith and Bridgenorth.

"The tender of Tip Top Tailors, Ltd., to provide 44 firemen's caps, as listed, be accepted, provided they match the cloth color of the new uniforms now being made up for members of the department:

35 regular firemen's caps, with black strap and silver buttons, $3.70 each.

3 caps for the chief and assistant chiefs, with gilt metallic strap and buttons, $5.20 each.

"They were willing to give two hours' pay if you want it," Mr. Barber said. "I told Mr. Jim Fraser of the Chamber of Commerce what the feeling was at Canada Packers. He said he thought one hour's pay would be fine. I heard they were starting the ball rolling at Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co., and also at Ovaltine tomorrow. "When children get older," the adjudicator stated, "vital speech and interpretation seem harder to communicate to the audience."

MAIN ST. TOPICS

FROM REV. J. SEMPLE

Mayor Swanston received Monday the following message of sympathy by telegram from Rev. Dr. James Semple of North Bay, former minister at George St. United Church: "Shocked by news of death of four firemen. Deepest sympathy to all."

OLD CAR DAMAGED

An old model car driven by Clifford E. Irwin, 486 Roger St., was extensively damaged Saturday night when it was in collision with a city bus. Irwin was driving north on George St., and turning left onto Rink St. when his car was hit by a northbound bus driven by Edward Simmons, RR 3, Peterborough.

NOBLE HICKS IS CHIEF

Orville Deyell of the Smith suburban Fire Department asked the Examiner today to correct the report that he was Fire Chief. "Our chief is Noble Hicks," Mr. Deyell said. "I'm just Captain, and like all the rest of our members I don't want Chief Hicks overlooked."

ATTENDS GRADUATION

Ald. John A. Dewart requested Mayor Swanston Monday night to excuse him from attendance at the funeral this afternoon of the four men who died in performance of civic duty in Saturday's fire. Ald. Dewart said that his son was graduating this afternoon at the Ontario Agricultural College, and he had promised to be there for the exercises. "It is something I would not like to miss," Ald. Dewart said.

WAS AGAINST COLLECTION

With emphasis, Ald. Doug Miller said at the citizens Fire Trust Fund Monday in regard to a Sunday meeting that it should omit any collection. He added that he would be opposed to anything of that nature in these circumstances of sympathy. And yet the Examiner's report quoted him as saying: "for the purpose of taking a collection." That was the exact contrary of his proposal. Somewhere the word "not" dropped out along the way from the meeting to the column of type.

Residents Object To Building Service Station

Objection to a service station at the northeast corner of George and Perry Streets was expressed to the council Monday night by a neighborhood deputation including C. W. Stark, Maurice King, Miss Ruth Waldie, John West and also John Hodgson.

Trinidad Leaseholds (Canda) Ltd. has applied to the city for a building permit.

Said John Hodgson: "They wanted the Dunsford property at the southeast corner of Aylmer and Dalhousie Streets. Maybe the people are a little swankier over there, so now they want to dump onto Perry St. It is easy to visualize the traffic hazard a service station would cause at that main street corner."

It was said that there was already a service station in that George St. block, so there was no need for another in that area.

It was not needed, it would create something of a traffic hazard, and it was depressing property values on Perry St. with no consideration for their owners. That was the range of Mr. Hodgson's argument.

A report from city planning committee approved the company's application. It was referred to the board of works in a motion by Aldermen Gillespie and Dewart.

Ald. Doug Miller suggested that the board invite several members of the planning committee to the board's next meeting to discuss the application.

Woman Hits Two Cars

Three cars were involved Sunday in a collision at Douro St. and Armour Rd. Mrs. Marietta O'Rourke, 522 Roger St., holding a temporary driver's permit, was driving south on Armour Rd., and turned west onto Douro St.

She swung wide, police said, and struck a car stopped for the stop sign on the south side of Douro St. Turning sharply north, she struck a parked car on the north side of the street.

Driving the car stopped for the sign was James Moher of Douro, and Charles A. Lambert of Toronto is the owner of the parked car.

With Mrs. O'Rourke was Leo O'Rourke, who was teaching her to drive. The front end of the O'Rourke car was heavily damaged; the left front of the Moher car and the left rear of the Lambert car were damaged.

House, Shed Cottage Go In Flames

$12,000 Blaze Threatens Donald Village

A 15-room boarding house, a cottage and a small CNR freight shed and waiting room were burned to the ground Monday night in a $12,000 fire at Donald, six miles south of Haliburton.

The absence of any wind and the prompt action of the local volunteer firefighting brigade are credited with saving the Dysart township village from destruction.

Cause of the fire is unknown. It is believed to have started in the rear of the large, two-storey, wooden frame boarding house owned by Maurice Emmerson, Dysart. The flames quickly licked through the wooden structure, and flames and hot ashes ignited the cottage to the east and the freight shed and waiting room across the road.

Nobody was injured in the fire but one family is temporarily without a home.

Little Saved

They are Mr. and Mrs. Evan Shaw, their two children Sharon, 4, and an infant daughter. The Shaws, residents of Donald for five years were able to salvage very little furniture from their five-room, wooden-frame cottage next door to the boarding house.

Monday night they stayed with relatives in the village, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Stata.

About 150 volunteer firemen were assisting in fighting the outbreak. They were led by the 10-man Dysart brigade, using two 10 horsepower pumpers, and Forest Ranger Jim Watson, Haliburton, who brought along a third pumper.

When it was seen that the three buildings were doomed, the firefighters focused their attention on confining the blaze. The J. E. Emmerson store, 60 feet north of the boarding house, was saved and so were the houses east of the Shaw cottage.

Grass Fires

Several times firemen had to make sorties to put out grass fires started by a shower of sparks from the burning building. Had these not been snuffed out the fire would have got into the nearby bush, now dry as tinder.

The Emmerson boarding house where the blaze started was being given a thorough cleaning before being occupied for the summer. And somehow the fire started in the rear.

There was little furniture in it and the loss is set at slightly more than $6,500. Loss to the Shaws is unofficially estimated at $4,500. The value of the CNR property is not known.

Another Haliburton fire, 60 miles northeast of Wilberforce, Sunday swept 100 acres of bushland. But it was extinguished by nightfall.

LIQUOR STORE CLOSES

The LCBO store closed this afternoon from two till 2.30 while funeral services were being held for the four victims of the fire here Saturday.

Cuban After Trout

The Peterborough Chamber of Commerce has scored with a long distance request for tourist accommodation in this district.

This morning a letter was received from Manail Moron Milian of Havana, Cuba, requesting accommodation at a fishing camp with lake trout the object.

This request came as a result of folders sent by the local chamber to the Department of Travel and Publicity in Cuba. Mr. Milian's is the first response.

Low Paving Bid Of $159,942 Accepted By City

Warren Bituminous Company's low bid of $159,942.55 for this season's street paving program was accepted by the board of works Monday night. Law Construction Co. submitted a tender of $166,181.

Paving of Lock St., from Lansdowne St. to King George St., was included in the Bennett contract last year, but was not begun. It is included in the Warren schedule.

Other street details are: Townsend St. from Aylmer to Park St.

Perry St. from Aylmer to Park.

Townsend from George to Aylmer.

Aylmer St. from Townsend to the CPR.

Stewart Place from Perry St. to Park St. at Park St. Baptist Church.

Weller St. from Monaghan Rd. to Manor Hill Ave.

Parkhill Rd. from Reid to Aylmer St.

Resurfacing

City Engineer Chalmers submitted to the council estimates of the cost of resurfacing with new asphalt:

(a) Charlotte from Bethune to Park St.

(b) George St., from Murray St. to McDonnel St.

(c) McDonnel St., from west limit of George St., westerly 145 feet.

Cost of that supplementary project was estimated at $20,000 to be paid for in ten years, amounting with interest at 4% to $2,465.82 annually. It was said that the charge for this work would be levied in the general rate without frontage tax.

Voters Switched

MONCTON, N.B.—(CP)—City council has banned the practice of using fire stations as civic polling places, at least in Wards 1 and 2 here. Fire Chief Murray McKie pointed out equipment had to be moved out in the rain when voters went to the polls last month, and firemen who had two calls had trouble drying out their hoses.

Barber Asks Workers Give Hour's Pay

Donation Would Mean $13,000 More In Mayor's Fire Fund

A call to the 13,000 workers in the city to contribute an hour's pay to Mayor's Fire Trust Fund was made today by Alfred Barber, president of the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CIO-CCL).

The money would go toward helping out the families of the three firemen and the volunteer fireman killed Saturday in the $500,000 Zacks building fire.

"If all the workers in Peterborough—union organized or not—would give an hour's pay to help these families, the Fund would be at least $13,000 richer," said Mr. Barber.

Separate Donations

He said union locals would likely chip in with separate contributions.

"If the workers are willing to make this contribution I'm sure that management will facilitate collection by deducting it from the payroll," he said.

Mr. Barber also thought that organized labor should be officially represented on the campaign committee and possibly on the trust committee.

Man Now 98 Party In 2 Years

There was no birthday party on Monday for William O'Brien of Downeyville.

Instead, Mr. O'Brien celebrated the 98th occasion of his natal day by driving to Omemee on business. And the day before that he drove to service at St. Luke's church.

"There will be no party for me until I am 100," said Mr. O'Brien.

He was born in the district and farmed there successfuly until 10 years ago. His wife, the former Catherine Hoolihan, two daughters, Mrs. John George (Gertrude) and Mrs. John Foley (Florence) and a son the Rev. Fergus O'Brien of Calgary, all predeceased him. The only living member of his family is a daughter, Mrs. Michael Garvey (Polly).

Until the death of his son in Calgary, Mr. O'Brien made a yearly trip to the West to visit him.

Built 90 Years Ago

Burned Building Once City's Pride

That gap of fatality in the west wall of the old middle block of George St. is a runted relic of a central building that was once part of the pride of Peterborough.

Its site was obtained from the Crown, presumably by purchase, in 1840 by James Bailley, whose wife, Jane Bailley, sold the property in 1854 to William Cluxton.

In the lack of definite information as to the course of improvements erected on the land, it may be assumed that the block which was destroyed in Saturday's fire was built during the ownership of Mr. Cluxton.

Was Mayor

The first stores along George St. were of simple and rough construction, although serving the uses and available finances of those early days. But, as Peterborough emerged from its pioneer conditions, buildings took on increasing substance and refinement. Mr. Cluxton was one of the mayors of Peterborough in those first years of the town's municipal incorporation, the centenary of which was celebrated in 1950. He was a progressive business man.

The evidences of likelihood point to his investment, supported slightly by the fact the books of the Toronto Savings and Loan Co. refer to the whole corner block (at southwest George and Hunter Streets, and reaching southerly beyond the Arnold Deyell store) as the Cluxton Block.)

Sold to Cox in 1855

There is no record of actual building on the fire-swept premises. Those were years before construction permits were required by the municipality.

George A. Cox bought the property from William Cluxton in 1885. Projecting assumption further, it may be accepted that the property was, in general aspect, as it appeared last week.

Ownership by the Toronto Savings and Loan Co. is definitely shown in 1896, but it is altogether likely that when the company was organized Mr. Cox had grouped his "parcels" together as a form of assets and securities for which he received stock in T.S. & L.

On those rather tenuous indications, the block was built perhaps around 80 to 90 years ago as part of the George St. scene.

Toronto Savings and Loan sold the land and buildings to Canadian Department Stores in 1927. In 1942 it was transferred to Ben Chesler and Moses S. Zacks. Finally in 1949, the Chesler half-interest was disposed of to Harry S. Zacks.

Last Friday night the property was the possession of M. S. and H. S. Zacks.

So, that section of the old Cluxton property vanishes from George St., except the present frontal remnants of the first and second floors.

Cressman Tenancy

Tenant of that block of four stores for years before CDS moved in was A. W. Cressman and Sons, a successful retailer of men's and women's wear, drygoods, household furnishings and so on. They did a big business. Several small fires in the building during that occupancy are listed in the journal of the fire department.

Elders of the community will remember a rather famous fire sale which was probably a consequence of a blaze on Sunday, Aug 28, 1910.

William A. Howard was Chief of the department. Cause was said to be from defective wiring. Loss chiefly from water was about $7,000, but a great deal of the stock was somewhat damaged by smoke and water. The register reports the brigade absent from the firehall only half an hour or thereabouts.

But, the reports and memories of that sale are still fresh in recollections. Apparently that was an occasion of five-star bargains. Sheeting that sold around 10 cents a yard may be still doing service on spare-room beds.

After CDS moved down to Charlotte and George Streets, the premises were subdivided into four stores, with offices above.

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA —(CP)— The Canadian government is concerned over the wide fluctuations in American support for Western rearmament.

That concern is believed primarily to be what led Defence Minister Claxton to issue a call in New York for a joint effort by the democracies "to promote general understanding of their common aims."

His main target was the United States public and its tendency to blow hot and cold on Western rearmament.

But his words also underlined a growing official interest here in publicizing abroad the works and aspirations of the Canadian democracy and a feeling that the Western powers should do more of this jointly.

In this connection, Resources Minister Winters has announced that the National Film Board is launching a series of films called "The Freedom Program." He said this was a step towards "consolidating relations with other freedom loving countries and assisting in our joint security."

Stresses Point

Mr. Claxton, in placing a four-point program for extended Canadian-United States defence co-operation before a New York audience, made this his fourth point:

"The free democracies must take active measures together to promote general understanding of their common aims and appreciation of their joint efforts as the essential foundation for our work together over what may be a long hard pull . . . lasting a generation."

His reference to the "long hard pull" was seen here as reflecting concern over the tendency of Congress and the US public to view Western security in the light of the latest rash of headlines. It also was an attempt to help counter that tendency.

In telling Canada's side of the joint rearmament drive and in stressing the long-hard-pull aspect, Mr. Claxton himself was aiding the cause he was urging. At the same time, his words point up two other facts:

Publicize Aims

1. There has been a growing tendency by the government to use its agencies, notably the CBC's international service and the Film Board, more and more to tell the world—including Russia — and the Canadian people of the aims and achievements of the Canadian democracy.

2. There have been informal talks here and with other members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization about how the task of telling the aims of the free nations can better be done.

Would Bolster Agencies

The feeling appears to be that the second objective can be attained by more comprehensive use of agencies now existing rather than establishing some vast new propaganda machine.

It is recognized not only here but in other western capitals that the strengthening of the west should not lie in rearmament alone. One reflection of this is the North Atlantic Information Service, headed by a Canadian, Ted Newton, but the service so far is only small.

Study Contacts

Without any apparent intention of urging that that service be greatly expanded, Canadian officials have been considering whether it is possible to do more to increase the liaison and contacts among those national agencies which are working to tell the stories of the various pact countries.

In Canada, the CBC's international service for the last three years has shown a gradual trend to more and more broadcasts telling Canada's story through commentators, speeches and other methods. This political trend was climaxed with the direction of two half-hour broadcasts a day towards Russia.

The Russians try to jam the broadcasts and there is no way, officials say, of telling whether they get through. "We don't get fan mail from Russia," said one CBC official with a smile.

But the reaction from Czechoslovakia is excellent, he said.

The Film Board, too, is swinging more and more into productions with a message. They are to be distributed both at home and abroad and are tied in with Canada's own rearmament program.

Within the armed forces, a civil affairs director will soon be appointed to lead a campaign to tell the troops why they are in uniform, what's good about their system of government, and what's wrong with Russia.

Coupled with these factors is a steady effort by Cabinet ministers, like Mr. Claxton, to take the case for the government, its aims and policies, to the people and to the US.

"Difficult Day?. . take a Disprin"

Why DISPRIN? Because DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) DISPRIN permits speedy absorption and gives quicker relief.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

DISPRIN REG'D ...FOR PAIN RELIEF SAFE SPEEDY PLEASANT

Science Progresses

For 50 years we have used little white tablets—acetylsalicylic acid—for relief of pain. Today this familiar pain-killer is available in a new form without the disadvantages of acidity, insolubility and bitter taste. It is called 'DISPRIN' and is sold at druggists everywhere.

'DISPRIN' is available in Bottles of 26 tablets or Handy Pocket Folders of 8.

Farmer Growing 7,000 Nut Trees

VANCOUVER — (CP) — Fred Seifred, 48-year-old farmer, is looking for security for his four stalwart sons, and he believes he has found it.

"The farm is the only place a man can be independent," he said in telling of his plans.

His 300-acre farm in the lush Fraser Valley near Langley Prairie, 25 miles east of Vancouver, is unique in British Columbia, both in scope and size for his type of farming.

Seifried has a nut grove, a small fruits planattion, a vegetable garden, a poultry establishment and dairy farm.

There are 7,000 nut trees, three and four years old, which will bear this year. A harvest of three or four tons is expected and when the groves are mature, at 12 years, the total may reach 75 tons.

He figures the sons will have security when the trees mature. If they come up to expectations, they should yield $1,000 an acre.

A filbert tree is good for 100 years or more and there are already three generations of Seifreds on the farm.

Besides, other fields may spell security. There are 750 Italian prune trees due to bear this year, 10 acres of raspberries with 20 more to be planted this year.

And, there should never be a shortage of chickens. He has 3,000 laying hens, Hampshires, housed in modern chicken houses.

Knowles and Hinchcliffe are secretary and chairman of the U.K. delegation, while Cockshutt and Morrell are the corresponding Canadian officials.

College Lists Fee Increases

TORONTO, May 22 (CP).—Fee increases were announced Monday night by the University of Toronto.

They range from $29 a year in the music general course to $70 in engineering, architecture, medicine and dentistry.

Persons seeking a bachelor of arts degree in university college will pay $36 more a year, a total of $278, including incidental fees. The same increase will apply to arts students in the federated colleges of Victoria, Trinity and St. Michael's.

Dr. Sidney Smith, president, said the increases were made necessary by new salary scales and a rise in operating costs.

He added that a bursary fund of more than $115,000 will be used to ensure that talented and deserving students will not be discouraged from attending the university because of the increased cost.

Movie Column

Says Hollywood Has Jitters Unnecessarily

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, May 22 (AP)—"Film bigwigs asked to take cuts up to 50 per cent."

"Deal to sell Warner Bros. holdings folds."

"134 Southern Calif. theatres now dark."

Headlines such as these have brought confusion to people outside the movie industry and those inside, too. For an analysis of the movie business ills I went to Jerry Wald. With co-producer Norman Krasna, he just signed a deal with RKO boss Howard Hughes to make $50,000,000 worth of pictures in the next five years.

Wald coined a new word for Hollywood's troubles.

"I call it 'Hollycide'," he said. "By that I mean we are scaring ourselves to death by every new symptom of industry unrest. This is no time for despair. We've got to return to the things that made this business great—imagination, showmanship, energy, excitement."

Gives Reasons

The producer commented on some of the recent news stories. About the salary cuts for 20th-Fox executives: "Fox has a problem of getting down its negative costs. Now I understand it's down to $1,300,000 per picture but it has to go lower than that. We expect our pictures to average $750,000."

About the Warners wanting to sell out: "Maybe they were just tired and didn't care anymore."

About theatre closings: "The reason is Hollywood's fault. We simply haven't supplied a consistently entertaining program of films."

The airman bought him a meal, allowed him to share his room at a Moose Jaw hotel and promised to take him to Calgary the next day. But when the airman awoke, he found his car keys, his wallet and his car gone.

Won't Discuss Mission

MONTREAL, May 22—(CP)—Lord Layton, chairman of Britain's newsprint supply company, said Monday that he "preferred not to discuss my newsprint mission in this country." Lord Layton arrived from London Monday. Prior to his departure he told reporters at London that he would try to revive the long-term contracts he negotiated in Canada in 1946 and which the government has been reducing since.

TORONTO, May 22 — (CP) — The United Automobile Workers Union (CIO-CCL) announced Monday night a wage increase of 14 cents an hour has been granted in a new agreement with Reo Motor Company of Canada, Ltd. The new rate brings the basic wage to $1.22 an hour. Assemblers get $1.40.

Navigation Hazard

PORT COLBORNE, May 22 (CP) —C. N. Geale, supervising engineer of Welland Canal, said Monday Ontario's hydro system has requested an increase in the amount of water in the canal and this presents an extra hazard to navigation. Additional canal men have been posted to aid ships going through the canal. The extra 2,500 cubic feet a second is being used at Hydro's Decew Falls plant.

CHATEAU CHEESE CHOPS

(WONDERFUL! How Chateau perks up a meatless main dish!)

These hearty Chateau Chops have a "just-right" flavor that comes from Chateau's special blending of Canadian Cheddar cheeses and rich golden cream. One mellow-mild mouthful will convince you it's the finest you can buy!

Try these Chateau Cheese Chops today:

½ lb. package Chateau, diced
4 tablespoons butter, softened
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
2 eggs, beaten
1½ cups cracker crumbs (about 20 crackers) or 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley or chives

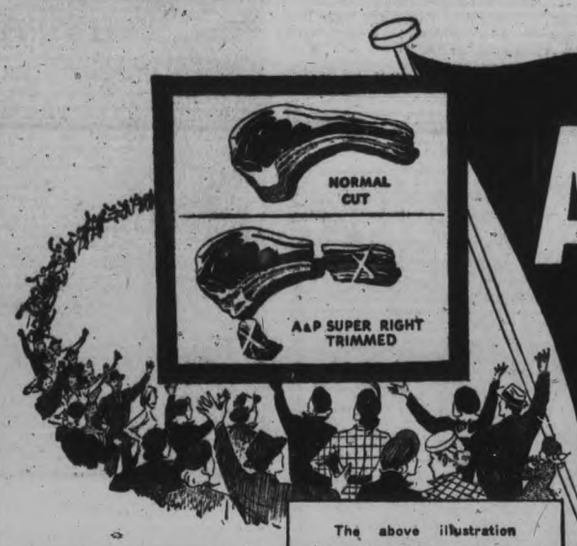
Combine all ingredients (Chateau melts as smoothly as it spreads and slices). Shape mixture to look like meat chops. Pan-fry over low heat till lightly browned on both sides. Serve with horse radish sauce, creole sauce or meat sauce. (Makes 6 chops).

Buy the handy Chateau ½ pound package. Since Chateau is not a sliced cheese—you don't have to expose the whole package for a few slices . . . it stays covered, stays fresh!

The delicious flavor of each of Borden's Fine Cheeses (mellow result of cheese making for half a century) makes it traditional for cheese lovers to say, "Borden's Cheese, if you please!"

Other zesty Borden Cheeses include: Vera-Sharp (for the connoisseur), Chateau Pimento, Borden's Grated, Tiny Cheese.

CANABEC — A roquefort flavored cheese



OLD VINTAGE — Wine cured

OLIVE-PIMENTO — One of 6 Borden party spreads

BAUMERT Cream Cheese — Plain, pimento, relish or chive

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Observation of Diet Rules Found in Healthful Meals

If there is any common sense in this column today it is purely because my disciplinary habits are holdng firm. Because I am a mother of sorts to one of my young neighbors I was nearly present at an accouchement.

At four a.m. our telephone rang and the whole family arrived at the phone in a dead heat. It was Bruce, the young expectant father, asking me to hurry over to mind their three-year-old boy while he took Eleanor to the hospital.

Marianne wanted to be in on it too so we both went. David, the subject of our immediate concern, slept through it all—and now at ten o'clock in the morning Bruce has just called over to say "It's a boy!"

So I'm David's erstwhile mother and have to remember what foods a three-year-old would eat for lunch. It's been a long time.

I hope you clip this column, erratic as it is at the beginning, for I am outlining a

Daly Chart for Healthful Meals

The reason for this is that I think I stick too close to cooking, and do not give you such overall charts often enough.

I believe I have established the wisdom of observing diet rules. For some of my dentist and doctor friends who do not practice on their own families what they preach to me—admit that my pair are two healthy specimens—with no fillings in their teeth. Please believe that I am not boasting. I am thoroughly humble about this—but I can say they do not eat candy or carbonated drinks or sweets or dessert, except once per week when I break down and make cake or pie, and they do adhere to these rules. Do not waste your time being sorry for Marianne and Peter f... feel quite emancipated about the whole idea.

Daily Requirements then are for adults and children over five: Meat, Cheese, Fish, Poultry, Eggs: One or more servings daily. Preferably one egg plus one serving of one of the others. A serving is about 4 ounces.

Vegetables: 1. Two or more leafy green or yellow vegetables daily, in raw or cooked form, but preferably raw. White potatoes are best baked or steamed with skins on. Use white or sweet potatoes, if not once per day, frequently. Brown rice is an excellent alternative.

Fruit and Tomatoes: One serving daily of fresh or canned tomatoes, or tomato juice or citrus fruit or fruit juice, as oranges, grapefruit, lemons, tangerines. Also one serving at least of an additional fruit such as bananas, pineapple, apple or frequently prunes, apricots, applesauce, and all fruits as they come in season.

Cereals: One serving per day—sometimes twice. Make this an assortment. Use a different one every day — emphasizing the whole grain varieties, plus some additional wheat germ.

Bread and Crackers: Unless doctor advises against it use whole wheat bread—100 per cent. Vary it with rye bread, rye and whole wheat wafers. Use white bread for treats.

Milk and Cheese: One quart fluid whole milk for each child, 1 pint for adults—to drink or in foods. The following have the same food value as 1 quart milk: 1 pint undiluted evaporated milk, 1 quart skim milk plus 4 tablespoons butter, ¼ lb. dry whole milk, or ½ lb. cheddar cheese.

Fats: Butter or vitamin-reinforced margarine, salad oil, bacon—preferably 2 ounces daily.

Drink plenty of water and be sure all of the vitamins are included in your diet. Prepare fruits and salads and vegetables at the last moment to retain all of their precious nutrients.

Good day and good health.

Your child tells you something in confidence—and you feel it is a really funny situation.

WRONG: Tell the story whenever the child isn't around.

RIGHT: Keep your child's confidences, even though it means foregoing the temptation to tell a story you know will get a laugh.

FIFTEEN PAGE BOYS from the House of Commons, ranging in ages from 11 to 15, paid a weekend visit to Montreal through the courtesy of the Members of Parliament who all chipped in to pay the expenses. Their first call upon arrival Saturday was on Mayor Camillien Houde, Independent member for Papineau county, whom the page boys do not often see in the House. Fourteen-year-old Albert Baldry, of Ottawa, is shown above signing the golden book in the mayor's office, while Thomas Healy, M.P. for St. Ann's, the mayor and chief page Daniel Gingras look on. The boys were quite impressed with the sights of Montreal and specially a tour of Montreal Harbor aboard the tug Sir Hugh Allan.

Finds Soccer Big Topic Among Russians

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, May 22 — (AP) — Eight months has made a difference in 800-year-old Moscow. The skyline has shot up closer to the heavens. The city is greener and the lights on some streets definitely brighter.

The day's burning topic still seems to be soccer. The first question a Russian taxi drive asked me as I returned to the Soviet capital after nearly eight months in the United States and Paris was: "Did you hear today's football score?"

The cold war also is a topic. The conference of foreign ministers deputies in Paris, American rearmament, the Atlantic Alliance, President Truman. State Secretary Dean Acheson, the U.S. Congress and the Korean war come in for lively comment.

No War Scare

But certainly there seems to be no war scare here, or among the few Russians with whom I talked at the Leningrad airport.

At the moment, people are making extensive plans for summer vacations. Children are looking forward to the end of the month, when school closes.

There is a keen interest in next year's Olympic games, in which the USSR will be a big competitor. (It is the first time for the Soviet Union.)

Each time one returns to the Soviet Union, one cannot help be impressed by the age-old kindness of the Russian people. Customs officials in Leningrad were considerate and quick. When they asked if I didn't want a glass of tea in the airport restaurant, I replied that I had no Soviet money in my pockets, and was told: "Oh, that's all right, you can pay for that some other time."

Small Car Bumped, Provoked Attack?

A Canal Rd. man is wondering today if his small English car provoked another driver enough to bump into the rear of it.

D. Thompson was stopped at Driscoll Terrace and Hunter St. Monday evening when a car bumped into his from the rear. The driver, a man, was very abusive, Thompson said, and told him to move on.

Thompson took the license number, and reported the accident to police. Police traced the license and found the car was registered in the name of a Rutherford St. woman.

The rear bumper of Thompson's car is bent so that he cannot open the trunk.

New Division Of St. John May Be Organized In City

A second division of men in the Peterborough branch of the St. John Ambulance Association has been set as a goal, Vernon A. M. Kemp, CBE, commissioner for Ontario of the St. John Association, told members of a graduating class Monday night. He said he hoped that the men who had passed their examinations Monday night would form the nucleus of the new division under E. G. Baker, manager of the Peterborough branch of the Bell Telephone Co.

About 25 men, roughly half the class, said that they were interested in joining the brigade to take regular training in first aid work and becoming part of the organized association.

Dr. Leslie J. Calvert, who lectured the group along with Dr. John H. Fraser, said out of the 54 John H. Fraser, said two failed to pass the test.

He said he considered it a "superior" class. He, Dr. Fraser and Dr. Calvert examined the men on their knowledge of first aid and their ability to apply bandages for any injuries that might occur.

Col. Kemp said he had found that first aid courses time after time in his police duties—he was a commissioner on the RCMP until 1945 — were the most boring studies he had ever made. But, he said, they could be interesting.

St. John Ambulance men received no pay, but they performed a service to rest of mankind, he added.

"You don't know when you'll be glad you have taken the course," he said. He added that St. John men and women had done excellent work during the fire disaster which struck Peterborough Saturday.

He believed that St. John men and women had treated well over 100 people who had been victims of mishaps of all varieties during the fire.

In the last five years, he said, the St. John brigade had trained about 300,000 people in first aid in Canada. The Ontario brigade had a strength of 3,000.

War was threatening he said and many more members of the brigade would be needed.

Col. John A. Dewart, head of Peterborough's Civil Defence Committee, said he wouldn't be happy until many hundreds had been trained in first aid as the men of the graduating class had.

Saturday's fire had shown how the city's emergency resources would be stretched beyond their capacity if eight or ten fires resulted from a bombing attack. He said a voluntary organization must be ready to supplement the professional organizations such as the fire department and police department. He said he considered the St. John Ambulance Association one of the most important links in civil defence.

The men of the graduating class composed two classes which met Monday and Thursdays each week since April 2. Each man attended one of the classes each week.

For one hour the men listened to a lecture from either Dr. Calvert or Dr. Fraser. In a second hour period, Mr. Baker gave practical demonstrations of how to apply first aid.

The bride was given in marriage by her eldest brother, Mr. Andrew Delpellaro, and attended by Miss Carmel Cannon as maid of honor, Misses Mildred Maudsley, Irene Davies and Dorothy Payne as bridesmaids, and her niece, Susan Teevins, as flower girl.

Groomsman was Mr. James Goselin and ushers were Donald Maudsley, Larry Payne and Allen Kuiach.

Chantilly lace was chosen for the bride's lovely gown with long train. It was styled on fitted lines with a Peter Pan collar and had crystal beading at the neck and tiny buttons down the front to the waist. Her fingertip veil was of embroidered silk illusion, caught with a hand-beaded tiara of pearls and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

The maid of honor wore a frock of pale blue net over taffeta made with a picture neckline and bauffant skirt. The bridesmaids' frocks were in strapless style with bolero jackets and they had matching elbow length gloves. Each wore a headdress of matching colored pearls from which flowed a chapel length veil and they carried heart-shaped muffs enhanced with pink and white carnations. The flower girl was dressed in mauve taffeta and matching flowered tiara and she carried a nosegay.

The reception took place at the groom's home, 489 Park St. N., with the bride's mother receiving dressed in blue with pink accessories and wearing a corsage of pink and white carnations. Also the groom's mother, who wore navy with pink accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Leaving later on a trip to Toronto and Buffalo, the bride wore a pale green suit with brown accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Maudsley will live at 631 Union St.

Scientific Woman Stuns Industry By New Lipstick

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK—(AP)—A lady chemist who talks like a schoolteacher has set the cosmetics industry into a pretty whirl.

Hazel Bishop emerged from her laboratory with a formula for a long-lasting lipstick, and in a few months it boomed into one of the most popular brands in the country.

More important, it started a vogue for what is popularly but inaccurately known as "indelible" lipstick. It isn't indelible, because only tatooing is indelible. But it certainly stays on.

At first the big cosmetics industry watched thoughtfully, debating whether it was just a fad which would die down. Now most of the big companies are in the market with their own brands of long-lasting lipstick.

Unorthodox Wedding

Actually, it wasn't Miss Bishop's formula which upset competitors as much as the unorthodox manner in which it was advertised.

The cosmetics people had largely been advertising glamour — with the French spelling. They have considered themselves purveyors of dreams, hinting delicately that users of their products were pretty apt to get engaged, win back their husbands or otherwise achieve success in romance.

Then along came Miss Bishop and broke all the rules.

Here, said Miss Bishop, is a lipstick which, properly used, will stay on for a long time. It won't eat off. It won't kiss off. It won't come off on cigarette ends, cups and glasses. It won't kiss off. It won't smear off on the wearer's teeth.

Those Names

She brought out only seven shades. Some of her rivals have a range of over 30 shadings. Then she proceeded to name them "pink," "red-orange," "medium red," and "dark red". Miss Bishop thinks women want color information when they buy lipsticks, not a prose poem.

Chemists had fooled around with long-lasting lipstick formulas before, but previous products had a tendency to be hard, waxy and felt dry on the lips.

Hazel Bishops herself is a quiet, conservative woman in her early 40s. She thinks of herself first and foremost as a research chemist.

Unlike some of her sisters in the cosmetics field she owns no string of horses, no series of town and country residences, no decorator's-dream office. She doesn't even have an office, in fact, but spends eight hours a day in her laboratory, working to improve her unpatented formula.

Fears Discredit

She lives with her mother in a Manhattan apartment, and her major fear is that her involvement in the frivolous field of cosmetics will bring her discredit among workers in pure chemical research. In conversation she is as precise as a physician, and given to using jaw-breaking chemical terms.

She did not set out to be a female tycoon. After a period as assistant to a New York dermatologist, she was employed by one of the major oil companies, working with petroleum products. She helped develop a special oil for bombing planes.

The church was decorated with standards of ferns and the music was played by Mr. Christopher Gledhill. Before the ceremony, Mrs. Ross Williamson sang "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte and during the signing of the register "All Joy Be Thine" by Sanderson.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and she wore a gown of white baronet satin, with mandarin neckline, long sleeves coming to points over the hands, a bodice and peplum of Alencon lace and the skirt sweeping into a full circular train. Her long flowing veil was of French imported illusion, appliqued in gardenias and caught to side clusters of pearlized orange blossoms. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gardenias.

Greedy Mother Would Keep Girl Single For Weekly Pay

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young man 28 years old, engaged to a girl of 24. All would be well except for the girl's mother, who bawls us out if we go to a movie or take a walk and are not at home by 11 o'clock, and who asserts that as long as her daughter is under her roof she must do exactly as she is told. She objects to our marriage on the ground that her daughter must stay with her and continue turning over all of her salary to her for several years more. What troubles me is that if we marry my mother-in-law would do everything in her power to break up our home and cause a split-up. I love this girl dearly, but if her mother is going to continue to dictate to us after our marriage, I am just about ready to call it off and quit.

YOUNG MAN

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It is easy enough to see what the greedy lady is up to. Her game is to break off your engagement and not let her daughter arry you or any other man because she wants the girl's pay envelope.

Depends on Girl

The solution for your problem is in the girl's hands and it depends upon how much strength of character she has. If her mother has beaten her down until she is just a mush of compliance, with no will of her own, you will be well advised to break off the engagement and leave her to Mother. You will find no happiness in playing second fiddle to your wife's mother and in a home that your wife's mother runs.

But, if the girl has courage enough to defy her mother and assert her right to live her own life, to handle her own money, to come and go as a free, intelligent, respectable adult woman is privileged to do, and to marry the man of her choice, then you can safely go on with the wedding. Her mother will have to accept the fact that daughter is grown up and is entitled to all the privileges and emoluments pertaining thereto, and after many tears and reproaches and rows she will at last realize that she must keep her fingers out of her daughter's pies.

But you are a foresighted young man in taking your prospective mother-in-law into consideration when you pick out a wife. She will either make or mar your marriage.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been happily married for several years and have a healthy family, nice home, car—in fact, everything for contentment. I felt like a very lucky person until a couple of months ago when my husband asked for a divorce, saying he was in love with another woman. This was a terrific shock to me, and I asked him to think it over, meantime praying for guidance. He went to the woman, told her he had asked me for a divorce and that he wanted to marry her. She very definitely said she would not marry him, did not want to break up our home or her own and that they had better break off right then and there. He came home and told me it was all over, adding that it had probably just been one of those things that happens to men his age. My problem is this: I naturally would like to know who the woman is and though my husband says he didn't promise her not to tell, he thinks it best for me not to know. I keep wondering if it is someone I know. He seems stubborn about telling me, and we are leaving the question up to you. Should he tell me or not? FAITH

ANSWER: Your story follows a familiar pattern. Time after time I hear about an extra-marital romance brought on by a woman, herself married, with too little to do, who sets out to get a married man just for the heck of it. Of course she has no intention of breaking up her own home, giving up a husband who showers her with luxuries and attentions she doesn't deserve. When her lover evinces his desire to break up his own home and marry her, she goes all noble and sends him back to his wife.

This is why I advise wives of philandering husbands to overlook the infidelity long enough to give it a chance to blow over—which it almost always does. Then my secondary advice is—just be thankful things turned out the way they did and forget the whole thing! Don't nag, don't harp, don't discuss the "other woman"! If you want your husband to forget the affair, don't keep bringing it up yourself. If he doesn't want to tell you who his sweetheart was, drop the subject and never, never bring it up again.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widow of 35. Mother of nine children. Am very much in love with a young man of 19. Do you think I will be doing wrong to marry him? D. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I think you must have an overgrown mother complex if you contemplate taking another child to rear when you already have nine. If you are serious, you are more a candidat for a lunatic asylum than you are for matrimony.

FALSE TEETH

That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH the alkaline (no-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

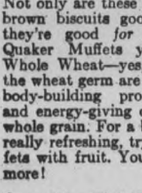
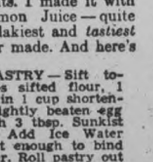
Sharing Secrets is fun! Especially cooking secrets like this. Yesterday I made an apple pie — good, yes — but it was the pastry that caused comments. I made it with SUNKIST Lemon Juice — quite the tenderest, flakiest and tastiest pastry I've ever made. And here's all you do:

SUNKIST PASTRY — Sift together 3 cups sifted flour, 1 tsp. salt. Cut in 1 cup shortening. Add 1 slightly beaten egg combined with 3 tbsp. Sunkist lemon juice. Add Ice Water gradually, just enough to bind dough together. Roll pastry out thin and line pie plates. Bake in hot oven (475 deg.) for 15 minutes. (Makes 3 8-inch pie shells. Keep unbaked dough in refrigerator until needed.)

Try this Sunkist pastry next pie you make, you'll love it!



"M-mmm!" ... Such a lovely shade of nail lacquer!" Yes, I agree with Jane—I'm thrilled with my PERFUMED DURA-GLOSS NAIL LACQUER! It's so sleek and colourful, so long-lasting and as fragrant as a June garden. Just try it! You'll notice that its perfume is excitingly evident when the lacquer is dry on your nails. And you'll love those ten lovely salon shades — one for every summer mood. Truly, for summertime glamour, I can think of nothing lovelier than this exciting new nail lacquer. It goes on so smoothly with its fine nylon brush. Ask for it at drug, chain and department stores — Perfumed Dura-Gloss Nail Lacquer (just 45c) — and Dura-Gloss Nail Polish (just 20c).



Is Your Family the kind that "skips" breakfast? Well, you can make breakfast a meal they won't want to miss — by serving luscious, smooth-as-satin 5 Minute "CREAM OF WHEAT"! It's so easy to prepare. Just five minutes of boiling and it's ready to eat — the delicious reason for coming to breakfast! And "Cream of Wheat" gives you Iron, Calcium and Phosphorus for diets deficient in these elements. No wonder the "Cream of Wheat" habit is such a good family habit — such a wonderful way to begin the day! Remember, the words "Cream of Wheat" and the smiling chef on the package are registered trade marks of The Cream of Wheat Corp. and Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

At This Time Of Year ants become such unpleasant, persistent pests that this revolutionary ant-killer is a "must have" for us homemakers! Developed by the makers of Fly-Tox, TAT ANT TRAPS kills not only the surface ants in your garden, kitchen or pantry — but the entire colony hidden beneath the soil. You see, Tat Ant Traps contains a slow-acting poison which permits surface ants to take the poisoned bait back home to kill the entire nest. Tat Ant Traps kills both sweet and grease-eating ants, yet the poison is so tightly sealed in its metal container that it can't be reached by children or pets. Your dealer has Tat Ant Traps now — inexpensively priced at 3 for $1.00 or 35c each.

A New Treat ... and a wonderful treat, is BIRDS EYE Concentrated Lemonade! It has that delicious sunny-tart tang — for my money, even better than home-squeezed lemonade! You see, it's the concentrated juice of sun-ripened lemons, sweetened and quick-frozen. It takes just 30 seconds to fix six glasses — that's a pint and two-thirds ... imagine! Do keep a supply in the ice box ... what you don't drink will keep for days. I always keep it handy for myself, for the family, and for company. Try it — and if you don't agree it's the best lemonade you ever tasted the Birds Eye people will giv your money back!

Yes, It's Fun To Experiment with the ingredients of salads — but not such a good idea to "experiment" with what goes into the dressing. I've found that salad dressings taste best when they're made with HEINZ VINEGARS — White, Malt and Cider. Try them! I'm sure you'll agree with me that there's something about their flavour that brings out the best in any salad. They have just enough vitality to heighten the flavour of each good salad ingredient — without dominating it. You choose the best fruits and vegetables for your salads — make sure that the dressing will do them justice ... make it with Heinz Vinegars! They mean salads right out of this world for the year's favourite salad season!

Hearty Pioneer

GLADSTONE, Man. — (CP) — Harry Paynter has celebrated his 94th birthday on the farm near here that he homesteaded 73 years ago. Native of Owen Sound, he enjoys good health and is a keen bridge player.

Helping Hand

Tailor Ford McCannan had been operating in the Zacks block for five weeks before Saturday's fire struck. He was assisted in starting up his business through kindness of contemporary tailor Tony Pepe who lent him an old sewing machine. Of course the machine was destroyed. Upon reporting the loss to Mr. Pepe on Monday, Mr. McCannan was offered the use of the only other machine in Tony's shop and also space to work if no other was available.

Judge Accepts Chairmanship

Judge Sheldon L. Smoke has accepted the responsibility of chairmanship of the Fire Fund Trust, Mayor Swanston informed his fund committee this morning.

Other members have not yet been appointed. The public meeting Monday morning which decided to undertake the work of receiving subscriptions and establishing the fund nominated Judge Smoke to head the trust.

There are now two separate groups, one permanent and the other temporary.

The Fire Fund Trust will become custodians of the fund and also will have charge of its distribution.

The temporary group is headed by Mayor Swanston. Their purpose is to direct the appeal and receipt of subscriptions, and place the money in the hands of the treasurer, C. S. Cummer.

Car, Train Hit Dragged 93 Feet

H. E. Crowe, Braden St., Lakefield, escaped from a train-car accident Monday night on Water St. north with only three badly cut fingers.

Witnesses said that the Crowe car failed to stop although the train was well in view and its bell could be heard clearly. It was pulling five freight cars from the east city tracks to the freight yards.

The car hit the right front of the train and has its right fender, headlight and part of the chrome side stripes torn off. The car was pulled along the track for 93 feet.

Front Wrecked

The front of the Crowe car was a complete wreck. Loose wires caused a short circuit immediately after the accident; Crowe tried to pull the wires away, cutting the fingers. He was taken to Dr. J. M. O'Brien for attention.

Trainmen said that the train was moving only eight miles an hour at the time of the accident.

When the engineer Howard Reynolds of Lindsay attempted to back the train across the tracks and away from the accident, it was found that the train only would move forward. A steam pipe had been disconnected during the accident.

The loose steam poured out sending the gravel high into the air and forcing spectators back. The train then moved forward across the highway to allow the cars past until the pipe could be fixed.

Damage to the Crowe car which was towed to Russelle's garage was estimated unofficially at $450.

Patrol Sergeant Claire McGillen and Constable Cecil Bowyer investigated.

Fails To Signal Turn Court Fines Man $19

Frank Couvert, Leahy's Lane, was today convicted of failing to make a signal for a left hand turn, and fined $5, and $14.60 costs, by Magistrate W R. Philp.

The case was adjourned for judgment until today at the hearing May 15. Then, Ivan Calder, Warsaw, testified he had been driving east on the Warsaw Road and was about to pass Couvert's car when Couvert pulled to the left.

Calder said that rather than damage both autos, he drove into the ditch. He said he was only about 5 feet behind Couvert when the other car pulled out.

Couvert testified he saw the Calder car about 200 to 400 feet behind him just before he made the turn. He said he had turned left safely onto Leahy's Lane, and stopped as soon as he heard the crash.

Sympathy Sent By Many To Families

Mayor Swanston received yesterday from Mrs. Leslie Frost, wife of the Premier of Ontario, a message conveying on his behalf as head of the provincial government condolence with the four families bereaved in Saturday's fire.

Premier Frost is on a trip into the depths of Northern Ontario and is without radio communication.

"I know it would be his wish to express our deepest sympathy to the bereaved families, and would you please do this for us."

Hamilton's Sympathy

From James F. Berry, city clerk, came a letter from Mayor Lloyd Jackson and the members of the city council of Hamilton, extending to the city their "sincere sympathy n the deaths of four members of the Peterborough Fire Department as the result of the disastrous fire at the weekend . . . The citizens of Peterborough should be justly proud of the heroic action of the members of the department in preventing the spread of the fire to other blocks in the city . . . The service rendered by the firemen who perished is of the highest order."

Toronto's Condolences

Vice-Chairman and Acting Mayor John M. Innes of Toronto wrote, in part:

"On behalf of all the citizens of Toronto, I extend a deep expression of condolence to the citizens of Peterborough in the loss they have sustained in the tragic death of four of the gallant men of their Fire Department who lost their lives in the great fire that destroyed part of a business block. We mourn with you the loss of those member of your department. The heart of all our citizens overflow with sympathy at this time for the bereaved families in their grief at the sudden loss of their loved ones. May God's ministering angels watch over and comfort them in their hour of sorrow."

Message From Lindsay

Harold Pollock, manager of the Lindsay Chamber of Commerce, wrote to the Peterborough Chamber their request to be associated with all those who were joining in sympathy to the bereaved families.

Accompanying the cheque for $100 from Gordon and Lillico, Mr. W. B. Gordon wrote: "May I say that this is a small token of our great appreciation that both Mr. Lillico and I have of the courageous efforts of the men who died on duty and of the other members of the department and volunteers who assisted in the work of controlling the fire."

The telegram of W. H. Bosley, the city council's realty consultant, Toronto, expressed "sincere regret of the tragic fire and bereavement of families of four firemen."

George M. Black, president of Canadian Breweries Ltd., wrote: "We are deeply concerned to hear about the disaster which you have suffered in Peterborough. While realizing that there is nothing that can restore the situation, we feel that the least we can do is to make this financial contribution of $500 to your city's fund."

Thought Officer Wife Jailed For 10 Days

Robert Little, of Douro, was sentenced to 10 days in jail today by Magistrate W. R. Philp when he was convicted of drunk driving.

The offence occurred Monday evening, when a report came to Lakefield police chief Garnet Samis that a car was driving erratically south towards Lakefield on Highway 28.

When he investigated, the chief said he saw a car driving slowly south on the highway and weaving from side to side.

The accused was driving, Chief Samis said, and couldn't stand alone when he got out of the car. The man was drunk, the chief said, and "smelled like a brewery."

Provincial Constable George Rose said he saw Little in Lakefield town hall cells shortly after the arrest. He could hardly stand.

"When we got to the county court building," said the constable, "he thought I was his wife."

Little offered no defence after pleading not guilty.

Estenssoro heads the national revolutionary movement in which Lechin had been a leader.

Lord Lovat Plans Reunion For Fraser Clan Members

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON —(CP)— Canadians who trace their ancestry to Scotland's famed Fraser clan have a date this summer with their hereditary chief among their ain folk.

It is an open invitation from Lord Lovat, present leader of the clan to the thousands of Frasers at home and abroad for a get-together with their kinsmen at his family estate, one of the largest in the highlands.

The rally will be held June 23 on the historic fields of Downie, surrounding picturesque Beaufort Castle at Beauty in Inverness-shire It was there that the Frasers down through the generations mustered on important occasions. It was there too, in 1899, that the father of the present baron recruited and trained the famed Lovat Scouts for service in the South African war. The Scouts also fought with great distinction in two subsequent wars and a unit of the regiment in the Second World War went through a special course of training in British Columbia.

Lord Lovat, just back from a trip to New Zealand and Australia, told the Canadian Press he was anxious to extend a special invitation to the large numbers of Frasers that have settled in Canada. He believes the Festival of Britain will attract many to the United Kingdom and hopes they will make June 23 at Beaufort Castle a "must."

Memorable Event

Although detailed plans for the celebration have not yet been completed, Lord Lovat intends the event to be something the Frasers will not readily forget.

A sports program will feature tugs-of-war, tossing the caber and other field events, with highland and piping competitions as well as a fun-fair for the children.

For those interested in the sights, tours of the estate's famed pedigree stud farms, gardens and the castle itself, will be arranged. After some speech-making there will be a grand finale with the men of the clan marching past their wives and families.

Quite An Event

"This in itself," Lord Lovat said, "will be quite an event and will certainly be making history, as I do not think it has been done by private individuals since the clan marched to Colloden in 1745."

The close of the official program, however, will not mark the end of the day's festivities. At night bonfires will be lit, appropriate refreshments will be served, with dancing to the tunes of highland pipers and fiddlers.

If the Ministry of Food can be persuaded to relax prevailing restrictions a whole ox will be roasted and neighboring clans invited to join in an old-time barbecue.

'No doubt the party will go on long after that," Lord Lovat remarked.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on 'nerves'—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better. 136

Bishop Urges Wiping Out Inferior Strain

LONDON, May 22 (Reuters).— Dr. Ernest Barnes, bishop of Birmingham, famous for his unorthodox views, said Monday that elimination of inferior human strains is an obvious answer to the dangerous growth of world population.

He said the world's 2,200,000,000 human beings are already causing crises of food and habitation. The ideal of increasing the moral stature and happiness of mankind was threatened.

Birth control is part of the social policy of France. India is studying it, and Japan has encouraged contraception and has legalized under certain conditions, medically controlled abortion and sterilization, he said.

Dr. Barnes, in a lecture to the West London Medico-Chirurgical Society, said that to preserve inferior stocks is to burden a country with an increasngly heavy social burden. It would probably lower the general quality of its people.

Difficult Problem

"Is the elimination of inferior human strains possible without sterilization or infanticide? It is a most unpleasant, difficult problem from which professional men, doctors, ecclesiastics and politicians alike turn aside," he said.

Dr. Barnes asked: "Are the great countries of the world to have populations so large that they become an excuse for war?

"Are we to refuse to have restraints that limit the increase even of bad stock? Or are we deliberately to seek and foster smaller populations for finer types?

The 77-year-old Church of England bishop said that when feeble-mindedness appeared in a family the only way to eliminate it was to eliminate the stock.

Selwyn WI Picks Delegates

SELWYN, May 22 (ENS). — Fourteen members and four visitors were present for the May meeting of the Women's Institute held Wednesday evening. Mrs. E. Blewett presided and the new secretary, Mrs. Melville Crapp, replaced Mrs. Reg. McConkey, who has moved away. It was a health meeting prepared by the health convener, Miss Sheila Wilson.

Delegates appointed to attend the district annual meeting in Lakefield on May 29 were Mrs. E. Blewett, Mrs. G. Geisel and Mrs. M. Crapp.

The ladies decided to pay towards the bravery award fund for 1951, and towards sending a girl delegate to the convention in Toronto next fall.

Dr. Ralph Honey, Peterborough, was introduced by Miss Sheila Wilson and spoke on "Public Dental Health." He stressed the fact that the important time to watch the child's diet to avoid an excess of carbohydrates was between the ages of one-and-a-half to three years. "Most families have adequate food, but not properly balanced meals," said the speaker. He was thanked by Miss Wilson.

Pauline Fitzgerald played a piano solo, "Woodland Echoes," and Mrs. Wilfred Nichols read a poem on "Vegetables and Vitamins." Two vegetable contests were held before lunch was served.

Mrs. E. C. Moore and Mrs. Godfrey Moore and sons David and Michael of Lakefield and Mrs. Spence Jacques and daughter Mary of Halifax, NS, were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Fitzgerald on Friday.

School Trips Fun For Pupils

WEEKES, Sask., (CP) —Nine youngsters from the nearby Dillabough district ease school boredom with a variety of transportation.

They're never quite sure whether it will be car, sleigh, wagon, tractor, train or railway speeder, depending on the season.

Jack Watt has been made responsible by the Hudson Bay school unit for getting the children to school here the last three years. He hasn't missed often.

Winter travel isn't arduous because even if roads are blocked, he usually can find open lumbering trails. But spring in this area of northern Saskatchewan near the Manitoba border, makes all roads quagmires.

Rail service meshes with school hours so that the nine can get through by freight train, coming home by passenger. If the train's late, the railroad section gang gas line speeder is on hand.

Trillium Garden Attractive Spot

KITCHENER, — (CP) — John Steckle's woodlot is different from most — he specializes in growing trilliums.

Situated on his farm near here, the lot is the favorite stopping place of hundreds of nature-lovers each spring when the trilliums are in bloom.

Steckle, alarmed at the rapid disappearance of the beautiful flower, set aside his lot for trees and trilliums several years ago. Since the plant dies when the flower is picked, he made it a strict rule that no flowers were to be picked and then sat back and let the trilliums multiply unmolested.

Now the woods are carpeted with a snowy-white covering of blooms each spring. Here and there, the rarer yellow and wine-brown blooms flower and, in between, other spring flowers flourish under the trees.

Visitors to the lot include members of the Trinity United Church Women's Association of Kitchener who stage an annual trillium tour for members and friends, and students from schools for miles around who come to write about the flowers for their school papers.

The trillium, a member of the lily family, is Ontario's official flower. It has three showy petals measuring roughly two inches across, which grow above a solid green stem and three broad green leaves. Some 18 species grow in eastern Canada. Some say most of them grow in John Steckle's Woodlot.

Strikes Hydro Pole When Falls Asleep

Heading back to a party after he had been driven home earlier, Raymond James Rigby, McKellar St., fell asleep at the wheel of his car and crashed into a hydro pole, knocking it off, and then hit a parked car doing extensive damage, about 6:45 a.m. Sunday.

He hit the car of Mrs. Cloie A. Robinson, 1178 Monaghan Road, parked in front of her home near Wolfe St.

Police reported that Rigby said he had been drinking and must have fallen asleep at the wheel of his car. He was taken to Dr. Herbert Young to be treated.

Constable William A. Scott investigated.

Peiping Ignores London Protest

LONDON, May 22 (Reuters)—The government said it has complained to Peiping about the detention in Communist China of 48 Western Nationals, but has received no reply.

A statement issued by the Foreign Office said that "as far as is known, four United Kingdom, six Canadian, three Australian, and about 35 United States Nationals are at present detained without trial by the Chinese authorities."

It said that "in almost every case" the Chinese authorities have refused to explain the arrests or give information about the welfare and whereabouts of the persons concerned.

The six Canadian subjects concerned are understood to be a Dr. Stewart Allen, arrested last December when in charge of a hospital at Chungking and five Canadian nuns of the Order of the Immaculate Conception who were in charge of an orphanage at Canton.

CANADIANS IN HOT PURSUIT OF REDS

FUNERAL FOR SATURDAY'S four fire victims on Tuesday afternoon closed city business while thousands of citizens attended the funeral service at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Top photo, shows casket of the late Fireman George Reynolds being carried from the church by pallbearers Capt. G. Gimblett and Firemen J. Healey, F. Murphy, D. Bartley, W. Sorrie and W. Torrance. Funeral Procession 2 Miles As 600 March To Cemetery

Firemen from 24 Ontario and Quebec municipalities Tuesday afternoon marched with their Peterborough colleagues in final tribute to the four firefighters who died here Saturday. The funeral procession, two miles long and numbering 600, was the longest and most impressive within the memory of the oldest Peterborough resident.

Marching in the procession were Ontario Fire Marshal W. J. Scott; Deputy Fire Marshal M. J. Ritchie; Parade Marshal Ed Beavis, chief of fire instructors school; Mayor Max Swanston and the complete city council; more than 100 civic employees; the Y's Men's Club; city and provincial police; and 200 Legionnaires.

The most impressive turnout was by the firemen themselves. They came from as far away as Westmount, Quebec, to honor Peterborough's four dead.

Thousands Watch

Some 200 strong, the visitors, neatly uniformed in blue serge and wearing red poppies in their coat lapels, slow-marched down George St. while several thousand spectators watched silently.

The procession formed up outside St. Paul's Presbyterian church where the 45-minute memorial service was held. Leading it was a gleaming red pumper truck, with a union jack draped on its hood and loaded with wreaths and other floral tributes.

Then came an OPP cruiser and Parade Marshal Beavis. And behind was the kilted CGE Pipe Band, led by Drum Major Albert Clark.

Silent City

As the procession started down George St. the pipers began to play the lament, "Flowers of the Forest," and the procession began a slow march. Male spectators lining George St. removed their hats and stood at attention.

For half an hour Peterborough was a silent city. During the slow march only the pipers could be heard and the accompanying cadence of marching feet. Occasionally a small child unaware of the solemnity of the occasion, would cry out and be heard blocks away. And the rustle of pigeons' wings as they flew overhead.

Among Marchers

A detachment of 34 city and provincial police were among the marchers. Preceding them, walking four abreast were District Inspector James Allan Stringer, Chief Constable John Thompson, Deputy Fire Chief Stewart Foster, and Fire Chief George Smith.

Heading the Y's Men was President Joe Barnard. Earl Spencley, the volunteer fireman who was buried in the ruins of the gutted building, had been a member for two years. Saturday afternoon some of the Y's Men had assisted in Mr. Spencley's florist shop after news of the disaster had reached his wife.

Mayor Swanston and the city council also went in the procession from St. Paul's, south on George St. past the remnant of

Iranians Threaten To Start Holy War Over Oil Plan

TEHRAN, Iran, May 23. (AP)—Tension mounted today in crisis-torn Tehran after some 30,000 Moslems—booing Britain and the United States—vowed Tuesday to wage holy war if need be to nationalize the country's rich oil resources. An air of crisis gripped the Iranian capital as police and troops, on a 24-hour alert, patrolled the streets in trucks and on horseback. A dozen tanks roamed the city.

A resolution declaring "strong hatred" of the United States and Britain was cheered wildly at Tuesday's mass rally, called by Moslem religious leaders and Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's National Bloc.

The cheering reached fever pitch when black-bearded Chams Ghanatabadi, leader of the militant Mujaheddin Islam (Fighters for Islam), said:

"All loyal Moslems will throw the British bandits into the Persian Gulf, if they do not leave the country."

Thousands of Moslem religious banners were waved in approval when another speaker, parliament member Hossein Maki, said a recent statement by the United States department was "a stab in the back of the Iranian nation."

The state department, which has urged moderation of both sides of the dispute, has been accused by Iranians of backing the British stand against nationalization.

The rally—called by Ayatylah Seyed Abolghassem Kashani, one of Iran's leading priests—was the latest move to step up pressure against any British resistance to government seizure of the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

The law nationalizing the giant firm was enacted more than three weeks ago, but the government has given no hint of how it intends to carry it out.

The resolution, which drew loud cheers, contained these points:

1. "We hereby declare to the whole world the unbreakable will of the Iranian people to take over the former oil company without any condition."

2. The British note protesting nationalization is interference in internal affairs and "we hereby declare it rejected."

2 RCMP Dog Specialists Take Up Search For Surveyor

GOLD HILL, B.C., May 23 (CP)—Two RCMP scent specialists, Wolf and Bobby, have been flown into this mountainous country in the seven-day search for an 18-year-old surveyor.

The two dogs were put on the scent near this old mining village, north of Kootenay Lake in southeastern British Columbia, after a search party of 60 failed to locate Carl Olson.

Olson was last seen only 600 yards from the shack dwellings of Gold Hill. He was blazing a trail near the foot of snow-capped 10,000-foot Mt. Nelson.

Tracking down missing persons is old stuff for the two handsome German shepherd dogs. As there are only 12 such dogs in RCMP service in Canada, they get frequent postings.

The RCMP use the German shepherd breed almost exclusively because of their all-round ability.

Wolf and his master, Constable S. A. Rammage, were trained together at Sydney, N.S., and have formed a competent team for six years.

Wolf's talent for sniffing out moonshine has enabled the RCMP to obtain several convictions in BC against operators of illegal stills.

Given an even break—that is, put on the trail before it is too cold—the dogs can usually ferret out any object, hidden or otherwise, which is foreign to its surroundings.

In this search, Wolf or Bobby may run across the ax Olson was carrying or sniff out a piece of his clothing.

MP's To Hear Pension Plan Before 1952

Pay-As-You-Go Basis For Those Over 70 Martin Indicates

OTTAWA, May 23. (CP) — Federal legislation for enlarged old-age pensions will be introduced into Parliament this year, Health Minister Martin today told the Federal-Provincial conference on pensions.

In an opening speech to the conference, he said the measure will be brought in as soon as the United Kingdom parliament approves a constitutional amendment giving the Federal Government power to operate a contributory system of universal old-age pensions at 70.

Passage of the amendment is expected promptly after the UK parliament reconvenes next week from its Whitsun holiday.

Mr. Martin told the delegates from all provinces, meeting to determine the type of pension legislation for those between 65 and 70, that the federal bill will cover both that group and those over 70. Provision also will be made for continued assistance to the blind, he said.

Private Discussions

After preliminary statements were made by representatives of the 11 governments, the conference decided to carry on its discussions in private. Mr. Martin said the federal government's duty was to outline its pensions legislation to parliament first rather than to the public.

He could not, he said, at a public sitting, give delegates general outline of the legislative proposals the federal government has in mind. He could do so at a private meeting. A recess was called to allow newspapermen to leave the room.

In his opening statement Mr. Martin made it plain that, for those between 65 and 70, the federal government will propose a pensions scheme on a means test basis, that is they would be paid only to the needy. He called the plan "a modified plan of assistance."

Under the federal plan, Mr. Martin said, pensions would be operated on a "universal pay-as-you-go" basis for those over 70.

Taken Care Of

The federal government would make a contribution from general revenues equal to that made under the existing pensions scheme. This would ensure that those unable to make contributions would receive benefits.

"To the extent that the 'universal pay-as-you-go' system is based on individual contributions," he said, "persons in the upper income groups, through their own contributions, will have bought and paid for their own retirement security, as well as having made a substantial contribution towards the cost of retirement security for others. They would, therefore, have the right to benefit on the same basis as those who are actually in need."

Europe Tests Air Defences

PARIS, May 23 (AP)—"Enemy" bombers struck at western Europe today in the first air defence exercise held under command of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's Atlantic Pact headquarters.

Jet fighters from the air forces of six Allied countries swarmed up to meet the raiders, in a test of their ability to work as a single air force.

A communique from exercise headquarters said "the enemy opened hostilities without warning and is making some progress."

The attackers were identified as "groups of hostile B-50's from the United States 7th air division in England, and Mosquito bombers of the Royal Air Force flying training command."

These planes hit targets in north and northeast of Europe, while C-82's of the U.S. 61st training command wing simulated similar attacks from their bases in Germany.

Planes of the French, Belgian, The Netherlands and Danish air forces also are taking part.

First Sea Serpent Of Summer Reported

NANTASKET BEACH, Mass., May 23 — (AP). — A sea serpent was reported off this beach resort today, first of the summer.

Capt. Shelton Collins, a pilot, insists he saw the 60-foot monster recently as he piloted a freighter into Boston.

"Darnest thing I've ever seen," he said. "Its head was shaped like one of those sea serpents they tell about and the eyes were very close together.

"It held its head high out of water, something I've never seen an ordinary whale do."

Find Enough TNT To Blow Up Block

TORONTO, May 23 — (CP).—Police said that in a raid on a downtown house Tuesday night they found enough unmixed nitro-glycerin ingredients to blow up a block of buildings.

They also discovered two revolvers, they said.

They arrested Walter Batenchuk, 21, on seven charges, including shopbreaking, illegal possession of explosives, having revolvers illegally, and receiving stolen goods. They charged Michael Dudziec, 19, with shopbreaking.

Shinwell's Son Fined £2,000

MARK CROSS, England, May 23 — (CP). — Magistrate's Court Tuesday told Ernest Shinwell, son of Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell, to cough up or be shut up.

Shinwell owes the Crown £2,000—fine for breaking building regulations while renovating his farm

The court dismissed an application for more time to pay. He must settle up within a week or spend three months in jail.

Record In Brevity

PARIS, May 23. (CP) — Everybody kept mum and no time was wasted today as the Big Four foreign ministers deputies closed their 59th meeting in just 30 seconds flat. Aim of the meeting was to hammer out an agenda for a conference of their chiefs, but nobody had anything to say. So a record in brevity, halving the previous mark of one minute, was the only thing accomplished.

Firemen Thank All Civilians For Generous Aid

The members of Peterborough Fire Fighters have requested the Examiner to extend their appreciation of all the help and goodwill and sympathy that was manifested by the public during Saturday's fatal fire and since then.

Mr. Clarence Black and Mr. George Gimblett, Jr., president and secretary respectively, said today they were deputed to convey from the members of the department "a great big thank you."

"We would like to mention the civilian workers for the big job they did in helping to recover the four bodies; the Red Cross Society, Salvation Army; St. John Ambulance Association (men and women); the doctors who voluntarily responded, the ambulance men, the city and provincial police, the members of Lakefield and Smith Fire Departments, and city Board of Works.

Wonderful Spirit

"There are many others who helped in various ways, more people than we really know, including neighboring merchants. It was a wonderful display of community spirit and sympathy, and also respect for the four members of our association who lost their lives.

"We would like also to mention the presence at the funeral Tuesday of the large representation of members of Fire Fighters' Associations from a wide area, including Westmount, Que., on the east, and Hamilton, Brantford and Niagara Falls on the west.

"We can only tell everybody that we are most grateful."

The Fire Fighters also wish to thank citizens who attended the meeting Monday morning for the organization of the Mayor's Fire Fund.

Pearson Checks Big Shipments

OTTAWA, May 23 — (CP). — Canada places no bars against shipment to Communist China of goods which would be of no use for war, External Affairs Minister Pearson told G. K. Fraser (PC-Peterborough West) Tuesday.

He said Canada's embargo on shipments to either China or Hong Kong covers strategic goods and those in short supply.

He testified that restrictions by Red China herself have meant that little if any western goods are getting to China from Hong Kong.

Mr. Fraser had asked if Canada ships to Hong Kong or other places that deal with China.

The minister recalled that the United States slapped an embargo on exports to China and Hong Kong in December. Canada had effected an embargo on all strategic shipments to either place.

Mr. Fraser asked what check is kept on arms shipments from Canada generally.

Mr. Pearson said he personally has to approve of any really significant shipments to certain countries. In many cases, he referred his decisions to the Cabinet.

Allied Counter-Offensive Smashes Chinese Drive Along 100-Mile Front

Cut Off Spearhead of Last Offensive Force Along Eastern Sector; Within Four Miles of Red Korean Border

TOKYO, May 24. (Thursday)—(CP)—Canadian troops were among those hotly pursuing Communist troops who retreated all along the 100-mile Korean front Wednesday. Allied gains of more than 15 miles were racked up, some units were a scant four miles from Parallel 38, and at least two good road centres were recaptured. A Red division in front of the American, British, Australian and Canadian troops, dissolved into small groups and filtered north to escape deadly air strikes.

The entire US 10th Corps opened a counter-attack across the east-central front and gained up to 3½ miles. In the attacking force were the 2nd Infantry and 1st Marine Divisions and other unidentified units. They recaptured Hangye, key road centre.

All along the front from Munsan in the far west to Pungnam in the east-central sector, the Reds were pulling back toward North Korea.

Cut Off Spearhead

On the eastern front, allied forces slashing through rugged mountains cut off the spearhead of the last Red offensive force of their second spring drive. The allies seized a key pass on the Communist supply route to Chinese troops fighting 25 miles south of the Red Korean border for control of the main trans-Korean highway in that area. Some Red troops were pulling back in that area.

On the west-central front, an allied spokesman said Red forces were making "hasty but orderly" withdrawals.

In the far west, South Korean troops pushed within four miles of the Red Korean border.

Lt.-Gen. Edward M. Almond, 10th corps commander who ordered the counter-attack, said it "has made excellent progress." He said the Chinese took "such a beating on our front" they are "being forced to withdraw."

Patrols Active

Allied tank patrols approached Chunchon, 45 miles northeast of Seoul, and Kapyong, 32 miles northeast of Seoul.

The Communists appeared to be losing their offensive drive even in the eastern sector.

Ottawa Unable Verify Any Peace Feelers

OTTAWA, May 23 — (CP). — Reports of Communist "peace feelers" cannot be verified in any official information available to his department, External Affairs Minister Pearson Tuesday told a parliamentary committee.

"We have no information to support any conclusion of that kind," the minister told the committee during a review of the world's trouble spots

It was possible the rumors arose because of the success of the United Nations forces in resisting the current Communist drive in Korea. At the moment the efforts of United Nations diplomacy to end the Korean conflict by negotiation was submerged by the efforts to end it by military force.

But that, Mr. Pearson said, did not mean there was any lessening of the desire to end the conflict by negotiation. That desire was always present.

Girl Held Virtual Prisoner In Home For Six Years

SYDNEY, N.S., May 23—(CP)—The almost-unbelievable story of a pretty, 20-year-old girl, held a virtual prisoner in her home for six years, unfolded in police court here today.

Charged with writing threatening letters, the girl was convicted and placed on suspended sentence in custody of her sister.

The girl's name was withheld at the court's request.

This was the story contained in evidence:

The girl was taken from school at 14 by her mother, who apparently was jealous of her beauty. For six years the girl was not allowed outside her house and for most of that time was confined to the basement. She was not even allowed to associate with other members of the large family.

Her father, a miner, said he did not report the incident because he feared worse reprisals against his daughter.

Two weeks ago, during the visit of her sister, the girl was allowed more freedom. At night she would dress in a brother's clothes and deliver threatening letters to a neighbor.

The letters demanded $200 to be delivered to a certain spot in a paper bag and threatened the neighbor's life if the money was not there.

The girl pleaded guilty.

Bradley Warns Russia May Strike Iran

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley said today "there is danger of the Russians moving into Iran and starting another aggression."

Bradley made the statement in reply to questions by Sen. Owen Brewster (Rep. Me.) at the Senate's inquiry into the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Brewster asked Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, what consideration the chiefs have been giving to "the apparent imminence of trouble in Iran," with relation to the desirability of ending the Korean war.

Bradley replied: "The longer the problem in Korea keeps up, the less we are prepared to meet any movement anywhere else.

Point Of Danger

"There is a danger, of course, of the Russians moving into Iran and starting another aggression. Whether or not that is any more dangerous than Yugoslavia or Indo-China or some other place, I am not prepared to say; but certainly it is a point of danger . . ."

Bradley was before the Senate Armed Forces and Foreign Relations Committees for the fifth day.

Some Senators of both parties were calling for an early end to the investigation but there were no signs it would be closed down soon.

Senator Richard B. Russell (Dem., Ga.) who is presiding, rejected a suggestion by Senator Charles Tobey (Rep., NH) that the whole thing be called off because "when we get all through, Mr. MacArthur will still be deposed." While not going that far, other Senators advocated measures to shorten up the inquiry.

Charge Prince Shoots Officer

JERUSALEM, May 23 (AP) — The Jerusalem Post said today Crown Prince Talal of Jordan recently shot and wounded Brig. John Baggott Glubb Pasha, the Briton who heads Jordan's Arab legion.

The Post said Glubb Pasha has been confined to bed for more than a week after being shot in the arm by the 40-year-old crown prince, eldest son of King Abdullah.

A week ago King Abdullah left to visit Turkey and the crown prince took over as acting king. But on the following day a dispatch from Amman, Jordan, said Talal was taken "suddenly ill" and had to leave for Beirut, Lebanon, for treatment.

The Jerusalem Post says Talal was taken to a mental institution because he acted in a moment of insanity when he shot at Glubb Pasha.

Cobbler Baronet To Live In Canada

BIRKENHEAD, Cheshire, May 23 —(CP)—Sir Garnet Wolseley, the "Cobbler Baronet" of Curlender Close, has decided to leave for Canada in search of a new life and greater opportunities.

Twelfth baronet of the line, Sir Garnet works as a shoe repairer in a Birkenhead shop. Migration to Canada was made possible by Lady Wolseley's uncle, A. Ellison or Brantford, Ont. They will sail from Liverpool on the Empress of France June 12.

"I shall be glad when we are on our way to a new life," Lady Wolseley said. "The title has no financial gain to either of us and we have to make our own way in life."

Canada-US Relations Show Change

Decisions Taken Now Can Affect War Or Peace—Pearson

OTTAWA, May 23. (CP) — The day of neighborly, back-fence relations between Canada and the United States has been superseded by an era in which the major issues they discuss can involve the crucial issue of world peace or war, External Affairs Minister Pearson said Tuesday.

He got back on the subject of Canadian-American relations in his first appearance of this session before the Commons committee on external affairs.

The Canadian-American subject was raised by David Croll (L-Toronto Spadina) who asked Mr. Pearson to elaborate on a recent Toronto speech in which the Minister said the days of relatively easy and automatic political relations between the two countries are over.

Carefully weighing his words, Mr. Pearson recalled that before the war the problems between the two countries were mainly problems affecting the two of them. They were "line-fence problems, border problems, smuggling problems, commercial and waterways problems."

Bigger Questions

Those still remained and were being solved as they always had been. But now Canada was an important power and she was a member of a free world coalition dominated by the US and Washington's policies could decide the question of peace or war.

Thus both had moved into an international sphere where the major problems they discussed affected more than border problems. In this cold war era, relations with any major ally [illegible] with the US, but they could be and would be worked out although it would not be easy.

No Questions Asked

There were no questions when he finished.

Gist of some of his other statements:

1. It is impossible to tell whether the cold war is going to be a sprint or a marathon. The best the West can do is prepare as fast as possible, driving towards a military strength that would deter aggression. This strength would be reached in time — he wouldn't give the anticipated date —but the Allies could not really count on having any time before aggression came in Europe.

2 Admission of Greece and Turkey to the 12-nation Atlantic Pact is under "very active" study.

3. Canada still is against joining the Pan-American Union.

4 CBC international broadcasts follow policies laid down by External Affairs headquarters. They are heard in at least some Iron Curtain countries, including Czechoslovakia.

5. Atlantic-Pact military posts in Europe are primarily based on contributions of manpower, and Canada, with two fairly senior posts, has no kick. It is conceivable that some day a Canadian might hold the job now held by Gen. Eisenhower because of his ability.

Counter-Offensive

There Allied forces beat off two strong attacks during the night. Each action was fought against 1,000 Chinese southeast of Soksa.

The Reds had cut the main lateral highway near that point 25 miles south of parrallel 38 and 25 miles inland from the Sea of Japan.

But Allies rushed in to check the Red advance and in turn cut the Communist supply route Tuesday by seizing a key pass.

One officer said "a hell of a fight" was raging around Soksa.

Across the western front planes harried Chinese retreating north and east of Seoul. UN ground forces gained up to four miles Wednesday morning. A tank column recaptured Changgong, important highway town 25 miles northeast of Seoul.

Mines Slow Pats

(Bill Boss, Canadian Press correspondent with the Patricias, reported from the west central sector Tuesday that the Canadians were bogged down by mines and the stiff resistance the Reds were putting up to the advance of British troops east of the Canadians. He said the Patricias were operating in the hills north of Kingong.)

An Eighth Army spokesman said Allied forces cleaned out the Reds from their bridgehead south of the Pukhan and Hongchon Rivers. These had stretched from Changgong to Hangchon, 50 miles east of Seoul.

Recaptured Hangye is 10 miles northeast of Hongchon on the road to Inje where the Red offensive jumped off a week ago.

Except on the extreme flanks, the strong UN counter-attack moved steadily ahead under a bright sun. Tanks and infantry units drove through valleys strewn with Chinese dead.

Field dispatches said heavy fighting was confined to the confused Soksa salient. Army spokesman described the situation as fluid.

The area was reported swarming with Chinese.

Charges Citizens Unhelpful In Crime Inquiry

TORONTO, May 23 (CP) — An official of the Bell Telephone Company was called to testify today before the Ontario legislature's seven-man fact-finding committee on crime.

The company has been mentioned in testimony by police officers who reported difficulty in putting bookies out of business.

At Monday's sitting, Chief Constable John Chisholm of Toronto said the telephone company isn't doing all it might to assist police in locating bookie joints.

The chief said the firm has a "legal and moral obligation" to aid in detection work. Telephone installation men could tell at a glance, he said, whether they were installing a phone in a bookie joint.

Chief Chisholm said he was convinced that the Bell could show, upon request, how many calls were going from betting spots and where most of them went.

Have Obligation

"Citizens have an obligation to assist in law enforcement and when a citizens becomes a member of a corporation he doesn't lose responsibility."

The chief told the committee that a special court and prosecutions are needed to handle the volume of gambling cases in Toronto district. He said that standard fines imposed by the courts on convicted bookies amount only to unofficial licensing of bookmaking.

"Many betting cases last as long as murder trials," he said. "And the gamblers are always able to secure bail quickly, pay the costs of prolonged court cases and, in many instances, even pay the fines of found-ins."

Different Question

For those between 65 and 70, the problem was substantially different. The majority of them were still active and self-supporting, and it was doubtful if the principle of universal pensions for them was valid.

For the present conference, the minister said, the task is to consider the nature of the old-age legislation that should be developed jointly between the federal government and the provinces for those over 65 who will not be eligible for the universal pensions.

Mr. Martin said the federal government at the opening stage of the conference is not laying any final views before the provinces. This would be done only after a full discussion by the federal and provincial representatives.

Representatives of all provinces were on hand for the opening session of the conference, expected to last two days.

Will Co-operate

Welfare Minister Goodfellow of Ontario said his government is ready to co-operate but hopes that future consideration will be given to a program of assistance to the disabled.

Ontario was pleased with the decision to abolish the means test on pensions to those 70 and over. He wondered if it was consistent thinking to keep the "undesirable" means test for person in the 65-69 age group.

Mr. Goodfellow wondered if the means test would discourage those in the 65-69 group from working in order to qualify for the pension. If the means test is to be retained, he said, it should be as generous as possible so as not to discourage them from working.

Funeral Procession

the Zacks building, to Romaine St. and Little Lake Cemetery.

The flag-draped coffins were put into separate hearses and followed the procession. Peterborough firemen—a captain and five firemen—marched alongside as pall-bearers. Next of kin and close relatives and friends followed the hearses.

Pall-Bearers

First in the procession was the coffin of George Reynolds. Pall-bearers were Captain George Gimblett, and Firemen Joseph Healey, Fred Murphy, Don Bartley, William Sorrie and William Torrance.

Second was Orville Rome with pall-bearers Captain Garnet Brown, and Firemen Jim MacFarlane, Harold Black, John Wilson, Clare Bennett and Henry Nokes.

Third was Earl Spencley with pall-bearers Captain Albert Mason, Harold Cain, Edward Close, William Trick, Ray Harrison and Thomas Nice.

Fourth was Grover Deck with pall - bearers Captain Frank Shearer, William Bloom, John LaPlante, Orville Wilson, John Luther and Jack Pruner.

Three of their colleagues, still unable to march in the procession because of injuries sustained in the fire, went by car. They were Victor Barry, Adelard Vinette and Hubert Kennedy. The three were also buried in the collapse of the ceiling in the Riley building but were rescued in time.

Nine Fire Chiefs

Besides top officials from the Fire Marshal's office, nine fire chiefs took part in the funeral service and marched later in the procession. They were Kenneth Putnam, Kitchener - Waterloo; Jack Shapton, Niagara Falls; Albert Steen, Toronto; W. Elliott, Oshawa; G. Vance, Belleville; J. Miller, Smith Falls; Norman M. Wood, parliament buildings' fire department, Ottawa; R. Irvin, Barrie; Alex Wylie, Lindsay; and Allan Clark, Lakefield, who is secretary-treasurer of the Dominion Fire Chiefs' Association.

Outside St. Paul's an overflow crowd of 2,500 stood silently in Victoria Park and on the Murray-Water St. intersection and listened to the service. Many were mothers with young children that could not be left alone for the afternoon. An amplifier carried the memorial service to them.

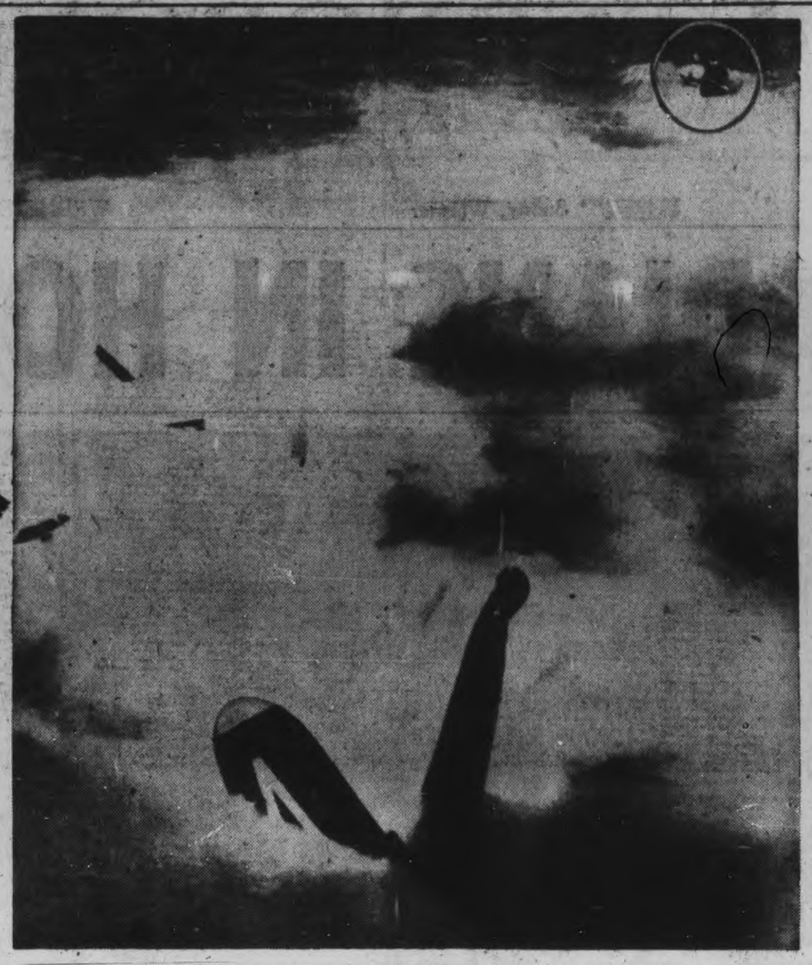
Workmen on the new city building laid down their tools until after 3 p.m., many stores closed between 1.30 and 3.30.

As 2 p.m., the time for the service, approached, a hush like night fell on the city. The nearby chimes of St. John's which had been playing stopped abruptly. Peterborough was paying its last respects to the dead.

New UN Flame-Thrower Deadly Against Chinese

By ROSS MARK

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA, May 23. (Reuters)—UN troops are burning up the Communists with a deadly new flame-thrower, perfected only a few days before the Chinese opened their last offensive. The weapon is believed to be the ground forces' development of the napalm (jellied gasoline) bomb which the air force has used throughout the Korean campaign with so much effect.



I watched it in action. An American commander gave the order to fire and 10 Chinese advancing toward US defences in the Pukhan valley disappeared in a searing mass of flames.

The flames roared 200 feet into the air and enveloped 100 square yards. A great cloud of smoke rolled over the area. No sign of the Chinese remained on the devastated patch of ground.

Details of the weapon still are secret but it is understood to be the result of experiments by US soldiers who applied their own ingenuity to produce a variant of the napalm bomb.

Blast alone is understood to be instantaneously fatal within the wide range of the explosion. Penetrating splashes of fiery, sticky substance cause death in agony for any one within reach.

The great burst of flames also absorbs all oxygen in the air for many yards around, suffocating other victims.

ESCAPING PILOT—In the circle (upper right is pictured a lucky pilot. He is Lieut. Oliver Droege, of Kansas City, who is making fast time away from his Corsair figting plane, rapidly disintegrating in rough seas seconds after he crashed into the Sea of Japan after taking off from the U.S.S. Boxer. He was picked up within a minute by a helicopter.

Report Fires Under Control

TORONTO, May 23 (CP)—Although all of Ontario's 37 forest fires were reported under control today, forest protection officials have asked fishermen and travellers to take "extra care" with fires and matches.

Four townships have been closed to travel in the Blind River district, and travellers going north from Sudbury toward Lake Wanapitei are being asked to use caution.

The Gogama district has been without rain for 31 days, and fire hazard was reported high in the North Bay area.

Four fires are being held near North Bay: 400 acres of scrub in Coleman township, four miles west of Cobalt; 300 acres in Firstbrook township; 30 acres in Calvin township, about one mile from Eau Claire, and a small blaze in Papineau township, near Mattawa. Carelessness was blamed by forest rangers for two of these fires.

Change Date For Registration

HALIFAX, May 23 (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association today voted to advance the date for registration of junior players from Nov. 1 to Aug. 1.

Delegates to the association's annual convention here said this would give players opportunity to register before the season starts. The change is effective for the 1952-53 season.

Most of today's early session was taken up with reports and preliminary business. Rule changes will come up later today.

The treasurer's report, read by George Dudley, said the CAHA operated at a deficit of about $17,000 last year but assets still total $133,910.

The registrar's report showed a slight drop in registration—from the record high of 70,330 in 1949-50 to 67,541 in 1950-51.

Lethbridge Maple Leafs, winners of the world's hockey title and the Churchill Cup, came in for praise.

Dollar Higher

MONTREAL, May 23 — (CP)—The American dollar today opened at 11/16 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, 1/32 higher than Tuesday's close. That is, it took $1.06 11/16 Canadian to buy $1.00 American.

The pound sterling was $2.98¾, up ⅛.

Sales Tax Plan May Not Come To Parliament

OTTAWA, May 23 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent told the Commons Tuesday that proposals for a constitutional change to allow the provinces to levy a sales tax up to three per cent may never come before parliament.

They probably will die for lack of unanimity, he said as he stepped into a debate on an opposition move to kill the sales-tax plan.

Unanimity among the provinces was set down as a condition at the dominion-provincial conference last year when the proposals were suggested—first by Premier McNair of New Brunswick—as a means to help the provinces hold up their end of the new old-age pension plan.

The federal government still was discussing the matter with the provinces, but at the moment he understood premiers Duplessis of Quebec and Frost of Ontario were against it. And if there was no unanimity, there would be no constitutional amendment, though he made it clear that implementation of the pension plan is not contingent on agreement on the sales tax.

The prime minister was speaking during debate on a motion by E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops) to put the Commons on record as opposing any further consideration of the sales-tax plan. He insisted that any vote on the motion be a vote of confidence in the government.

Out Of Order

Later the House voted 138 to 36 to uphold a ruling by the speaker that the motion was out of order. Liberal, Social Credit and CCF members excepting Joseph Noseworthy (CCF-York South) supported the speaker.

In the second recorded vote of the day the House crushed a CCF move to commit the government to a total payment of not less than $2 a bushel for the 1950-51 wheat crop. The motion, by Hazen Argue (CCF-Assiniboia), was defeated 117 to 33 with Percy Black (PC-Cumberland) the lone opposition member joining the government against the motion.

During the sales-tax debate, Prime Minister St. Laurent said if there was unanimous agreement among the provinces, the government would support the move for a constitutional amendment. But he held it would be wrong to vote now on the merits of the sale-tax plan since it might never come before the House because of lack of agreement among the provinces.

Yon distant stars in an ageless sky,
As you look down from the heavens high,
On our soldiers fighting over there,
May the night winds waft to them our prayer:
Gracious Lord, who died to free us all
From greed and hate, bless the lads who fall;
May their valiant souls rest in peace
All mankind will know when war shall cease.

WA Makes Plan For Catering

ROSENEATH, May 23 (ENS). —"The Sower and the Seed" was the subject of the address given by the Rev. R. C. White at the May meeting of the WA of the United Church held Wednesday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Ford Derry.

Included in the correspondence read by Mrs. Earl Waldie was a letter from Centenary WA enclosing a donation to be used toward purchasing new curtains for the hall.

Mrs. Fred Norris, treasurer, reported a balance on hand of $288.60.

Detailed arrangements were made for a banquet when the members of the WA will cater to a banquet for the Rice Lake tourist operators. The banquet will be held in the agricultural dining hall, Roseneath, on June 6.

Special Services Make Friends For Canada's Doukhobors

NELSON, B.C.—(CP)—Strange, haunting Russian music has been drifting through the valleys in the West Kootenays of interior British Columbia.

It is part of a link of friendship and understanding various groups are trying to force between the Doukhobors and other Canadians.

Some months ago, the Young Peoples of the Spritual Communities of Christ (Orthodox Doukhobors) and the ministerial associations and service organizations decided to try to put Christians in closer touch in this mountain-ringed land.

The result was a series of services in cities and towns throughout the West Kootenays. The service here drew more than 1,000 persons to the Civic Theatre and scores had to stand.

As a lesson in Christianity, the services were simple and moving.

At the service at nearby Trail, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, John Verigin, leader of the 10,000 Orthodox Doukhobors, told something of the history of the group and then introduced two choirs, explaining the meaning of the hymns they were going to sing.

Without accompaniment or conductor, the choir sang their native Russian hymns and folk songs. Later, they sang English hymns. The women wore their traditional white costumes.

Early history of the Doukhobors is obscure but in 1785 the group in Russia was named Doukhobors, meaning "spirit wrestlers."

They refused to bow to the authority of any man but only to "the spirit, dwelling within each man."

Persecution followed. Finally, in 1895, the sect emigrated to Canada.

No Disrespect Meant

Mr. Virigin said the Doukhobors had been misunderstood when they had refused to swear allegiance to the King. This had not been intended as a mark of disrespect. The Doukhobors admired the King and what he stood for. But they could swear allegiance only to God.

Friction increased and some Doukhobors had turned to violence. The Orthodox Doukhobors had suffered as much as, or more, than anyone because of that violence. They had also suffered the accusations of their fellow Canadians, who attributed the riots and burnings to all Doukhobors instead of the few radicals, the Sons of Freedom.

John Stoochnoff of Brilliant said: 'We have come here to show you we want to be friends."

At the Nelson service, Emmett Gulley of the American Friends' Service Committee (Quakers) said that when he had arrived in the West Kootenays several months before, he had found a "wall of misunderstanding" between the Doukhobors and other Canadians.

The meetings had done a great deal to break down this wall.

"We think of problems to be solved on the other side of the world, when actually it is right at home that friendship is most needed," he said.

The Very Rev. T. L. Leadbetter, Dean of Kootenay, said Doukhobors and other Canadians had been drawn apart by negative attitudes. The pride and arrogance of Canadians of Anglo-Saxon origin had resulted in peoples of other racial extractions taking a back seat and the attitude "we will stay out of the community."

Polish Government Refuses Air Clearance

BERLIN, May 23—(AP)—The Polish government has refused air clearance for American Ambassador Alan Kirk to fly over Polish territory from Moscow to Berlin, United States officials in Berlin were informed today.

A United States Air Force plane assigned to pick up the ambassador for a proposed holiday trip to Western Europe has been halted in Berlin.

American authorities said the Russians recently turned over to the Poles the question of such air clearances over their territory.

German measles cases numbered 30, with 12 of them in Brighton, and eight cases of chickenpox. Port Hope had nine of the 13 cases of mumps listed.

Lake Water Recedes

COBOURG, May 23 (ENS). — High water of Lake Ontario is slowly receding and none too soon. Victoria Park beach which had been shortened to a few yards of sand in some parts, and up to the grass in others, is beginning to look more like a sandy beach. The cottages at the west end of the park at one time had water within a few yards from their south walls. The badly sunken and broken centre pier is commencing to show its decrepit condition with the receding water. Water had been lapping within a few feet from some of the gasoline storage tanks on the centre beach.

Higher Postal Rate For Newspapers

The government proposes to increase the postal rate for newspapers to approximately four cents per pound, and it is estimated that this change will bring about $2,000,000 more each year to the Post Office revenue. The Post Office says that it now loses money on the handling of newspapers, and that the increase in rate will correct this situation. That is as it should be; the Post Office is not run to make money, but neither is it obliged to lose money; it should charge enough for its service to cover its expenses. The increase in postage will cost every newspaper in the country a considerable sum of money, at a time when the production of newspapers is mounting rapidly in cost, but we doubt if there is a single newspaper in the country which would wish to be the recipient of special privilege in the matter of postal service.

* * *

With the increase in cost, however, newspapers may fittingly expect a better service than they have been getting. The Post Office Department has not made a secret of the fact that it regards the handling of newspapers as a nuisance, that newspapers have not been moved as quickly as other mail paid for on comparable rates, and that newspapers which travel by mail often arrive late and in poor condition. Now that the rate has been adjusted, the newspapers will expect that their mail copies will move as fast as any other mail paid for at a comparable rate—which unfortunately means, at present, as fast as the foolishly curtailed schedule of deliveries will permit. The newspapers will not wish to pay a higher rate for a poorer service.

* * *

The newspapers do not want anything from the government for nothing. The government will understand, of course, that this principle works two ways and that the newspapers do not feel obliged to give anything to the government for nothing. What the government does is often news, and in such cases it will receive the treatment which its importance deserves in a publication whose chief purpose is to distribute news. But much of what the government wants printed is not news: it is propaganda, or some unspecified material concocted by government publicity agents—or as they prefer to call themselves, public relations counsel. An excellent example presents itself at the moment, when the government wishes to distribute a good deal of information about the forthcoming census, and would like the newspapers to do the job for them—for nothing. Now the fact that a census is being taken is news; the results of the census will be news; long articles preparing the public to receive the census-takers are not news, but rather a form of advertising. And as advertising is one of the principal sources of revenue open to newspapers, it is improbable that newspapers will give away large chunks of it to the government. The government gives nothing for nothing, and this sound principle of business may well be imitated by those agencies through which the government seeks to spread information. Its own propagandists and publicity men do not work for nothing, and there is no reason why newspapers should be any more generous.

A Case For Restraint

There is a large number of things with which the public is in general agreement, such as the need for proper health education, good feeling between the various racial elements, and so on. We support all these causes; at the same time there is a very real danger that they will cut each others' throats in their endeavour to make themselves heard. May 6 was an example of this: no less than four different celebrations had been planned for the same day. It was Whitsunday, traditionally celeorated as the birthday of the Church. In addition to this several churches observed it as Mother's Day, an occasion that has become heavily tainted with commercialism, to the dismay of its founder, an American lady whose death has just been announced. Superimposed on this was the celebration Sunday as the first day of Christian Family Week, an observance sponsored by many churches and also by proclamation of the Mayor. Finally, in some centres the day was observed as Battle of the Atlantic Sunday.

We are against a dull level of universal standardization, but we feel that this congestion is undesirable. The traditional major festivals of the Church, such as Christmas, Easter, Whitsun and a few others, have a strong claim to primacy, as they were first in the field. After these claims have been settled there is still a good deal of room in the calendar for the rest. There is no reason why these bodies should not get together and arrange their celebrations in such a way as to ensure a minimum of clashes. Surely it would be better, for example, for Health Week to fall in the Summer, when the medical profession is usually less hard pressed, rather than in February, when doctors and nurses are usually run off their feet and cannot easily spare the time for giving addresses and demonstrations.

There is nothing to prevent individuals or firms from adding to the already large number of special days and weeks. Some of those already in existence seem to serve no useful purpose apart from sales promotion. Much as we deplore this state of affairs we do not welcome the idea of the government stepping in as a regulating body. Nevertheless there is a need for greater restraint on the part of commercial interests and societies in the sponsoring of further observances. If every week is a special week the word "special" soon ceases to have any significance.

Death Penalty For Rape?

Recently a case was heard in Toronto, concerning the rape of a girl by eleven young men; it was a horrifying case, and in commenting upon it the Telegram remarked that "the public is less interested in the doubtful reform of these criminals than in the protection of its daughters." It continues thus:

> "For such a crime the Criminal Code provides the death penalty or life imprisonment and whipping. It would be difficult to imagine a case in which the death penalty would be more appropriate. The attack was in no sudden burst of passion, but bore every mark of having been deliberately and cold-bloodedly planned. It should incur a penalty that would strike terror into the cowardly hearts of ruffians who have been encouraged by a long campaign of mollycoddling of sex perverts to believe that such villainy will be regarded as evidence of mental sickness and entitled only to sympathy.
>
> "The death penalty, however, will not be imposed. The courts have rewritten the law and have virtually expunged that punishment from the Criminal Code so far as this type of crime is concerned.
>
> "The courts have even sought to eliminate use of the lash, and, in spite of the wording of the Code, have held that whipping should not accompany a life sentence."

We understand the warmth and feeling with which the above passage was written, but we think that it is somewhat confused as a result of that warmth. A raper is not a sex pervert; rape is an ordinary sexual act carried out against an unwilling person; in such circumstances as appeared in the case under discussion it was concerted assault against a helpless girl. We feel that a sex pervert is deserving of a considerable measure of sympathy and understanding; he (or she) may find a solution to the problem which life has created for him, and may do no harm to anyone else. But a raper is a person of fairly normal sexual desires who gratifies those desires in circumstances of violence and terror.

We agree with the Telegram that the reform of such people is unlikely in most cases. It is idle to be sentimental about criminals. Unless they have a good deal of intelligence they cannot be reformed, and if they have intelligence, they are often smart enough to feign a penitence which they do not feel. Anybody who recalls the case of Red Ryan will understand what such pretended reform can mean. And the sort of man who commits a rape is rarely of much intelligence. We do not suggest that clever people are never criminals; we do suggest, however, that clever people are not criminal in that particular way.

Stupid people — criminally stupid people — are amenable to fear when other appeals to their nature have failed. If, as the Telegram suggests, every raper knew that he would get a flogging as well as a heavy jail term when he was caught, we think that it might lessen the incidence of rape. But of course the only real and lasting solution to the problem is to create a nation in which low intelligence, and the lechery and criminality which go with it, are uncommon. And that is an end which is not likely to be achieved in our time.

NOTE AND COMMENT

George Santayana, after a lifetime of philosophical reflection, thinks that chaos may be at the bottom of everything. That's all very well, but chaos seems to be working its way toward the top.

Duck eggs are now unrationed in Britain. Wise, no doubt, after the Government had scored two such unmistakable "ducks" as the Groundnut Plan and the Great Hen Scheme.

Note on Canada's Brilliant New Revised Mail System: subscribers to The Examiner living in Ottawa formerly received their paper the day after publication; now they get it two days afterward. Onward and upward with our Post Office Department!

The Ohio State Senate has passed a bill which makes it unlawful to "fix" any sports event except a wrestling match. This finally puts wrestling in the class of rehearsed entertainment, and we would like to point out that nobody bets on how Hamlet is going to end.

ON THE MARGIN

The Terror Of The Twenties

DISTURBER OF THE PEACE, by William Manchester (Harper).

THE subtitle of this book is "The Life and Riotous Times of H. L. Mencken" and it is a full and well-documented account of the life of one of the remarkable men of our time. Mr. Mencken, though still living, is an invalid and will write no more; it is sad, but necessary, to say that his life as a man of letters is at an end. Therefore this may be accepted as a complete account of his career. It is sad to write of Mencken in this way because he is a man who compels affection in those whom he does not enrage. A strong feeling of affection is apparent all through Mr. Manchester's book.

Mencken's life as a literary critic, political commentator and Scourge of the Philistines was violent and harsh. He said things which his enemies could not forgive, and bitterly vindictive reprisals were taken against him. The circumstances of his married life were tragic. In the course of doing much which was undoubtedly right, he was also driven by the violence of his prejudices to do some things that were wrong. His own reputation as an editor and thinker rose to a great height in the 'twenties, and plunged — in a few months, it seemed—to obscurity in the 'thirties, only to be rescued by his brilliance as a student and recorder of the American language. And then, when he seemed to have reached a serene old age, came the stroke which left him, like Ibsen at the last, deprived of the ability to read and write. To such a man, these deprivations are virtual death.

As a biographer Mr. Manchester is perhaps a little too partisan—but then, with Mencken one is partisan or nothing. It was not a happy inspiration, however which has led him to write this book in a clumsy imitation of Mencken's own style. That style is, truly, the man, and in its felicities and apparent barbarities, H. L. Mencken lives as a man of great convictions, broad humanity and merry intellect.

THE SENSE AND NONSENSE OF PROPHECY, by Eileen J. Garrett (McClelland & Stewart).

THIS is a book the purpose of which is not entirely clear. Mrs. Garrett is a believer in prophecy, and it is asserted on her behalf that she has some skill herself in looking into the future. She considers that such ability deserves scientific investigation, and has during much of her life been engaged in such investigation with people of similar opinion. But she has said so little in her book about this side of the matter, and has said so much about the tricksters and imposters, the fortune-tellers, card-readers, teacup swamis and other fakes, that we are left in some doubt as to whether she wants to discourage all belief in prophecy, or merely wants it confined to the few people in whom a genuine ability can be proved.

It is a commonplace thing to say that there are tracts of the human personality which are still unexplored, and it appears that second-sight and the gift of prophecy exists in some measure in a few people. Indisputable evidence on such matters is rare, and the nature of the subject makes scientific investigation extremely difficult. Again and again seemingly reputable pretenders to occult powers are shown to be swindlers, and the very few prophecies which have been authenticated seem so trivial that they are hardly worth bothering about. Nevertheless, the same faith which makes the great majority of mankind believe in a life after death encourages a belief that the secrets of the future can be probed, though as yet we appear to lack the means of probing the future effectively. It is unlikely that this book will bring enlightenment, although Mrs. Garret is unquestionably sincere. But for all its confusion it is entertaining.

THE GENTLE ART OF BOOK COLLECTING, by Bernard F. Farmer (Ambassador Books).

THIS is an excellent little primer on one of the pleasantest of hobbies. If you are thinking of collecting books seriously, in however modest a fashion, this is the book for you. Canada is still pretty much virgin ground for the collector. Rare old books will not be found here, except in the libraries of people who are thoroughly aware of their value, but not all books worth collecting are old. There are first editions published within the last century which are both interesting and valuable, and you may find them anywhere. You will not find a first edition of "Pilgrim's Progress" in a Canadian attic, but you may find a first of "Of Human Bondage", which is well worth having. And for the collector who wants to take trouble, the field of Canadian books has barely been touched, and you may make some lucky finds if you are patient. Private collections of Canadiana are still uncommon, and still possible to people of moderate means. If you leave one to your grandchildren it will probably put them all through college.

TRAVELLER'S SAMPLES, by Frank O'Connor (Macmillan).

THE short story is not as popular as it was twenty years ago, but at its best it is a beguiling form. Frank Connor writes admirable short stories, and the beauty of them is that although they are real stories — not chunks of "mood" or mere descriptions of a single character—they are packed with meat and so full of suggestion that they can be turned over in the mind for weeks after they have been read. Many of his stories are about children in the poor districts of Cork; he is not sentimental about childhood, but he captures the magic of it with wonderful skill, and beyond the harsh reality of the theme he can make the reader conscious of tenderness, as well. I have read this short book eagerly and with deep pleasure, and I recommend it without reservation. R.D.

TRUTH OF A KIND

At a religious meeting a lady persisted in standing on a bench, and thus intercepting the view of others, though repeatedly requested to sit down. A reverend old gentleman at last rose, and said gravely: "I think if the lady knew that she had a large hole in each of her stockings, she would not exhibit them in this way." This had the desired effect—she immediately sat down.

A young minister standing by, blushed to the temples, and said: "O brother! How dare you say what was not a fact?"

"Not a fact!" replied the old gentleman, "if she hadn't a large hole in each of her stockings I should like to know how she gets them on?"

Victoria - Mother of Confederation -

The Heritage Of Isolationism

by SEBASTIAN HAFFNER

"ISOLATIONISM", one is told everywhere in America, "is dead". And in one sense it certainly is. Nobody in America would now pretend that his country can be indifferent to what happens in the rest of the world, or can afford to let other countries be swallowed up by a hostile Power. There is a wide, intelligent, and informed interest in foreign events, though perhaps focussed somewhat oversharply on the one issue of the progress of or check to Communism. There is also, among many Americans—far more than is generally credited in Europe—a deep and serious sense of the human responsibility that goes with great power and wealth. Some of the generous pioneering idealism that inspired the New Deal enterprises at home—like the Tennessee Valley Authority and the Hoover Dam—has now been diverted to Point Four and Technical Aid programmes abroad.

Finally, Americans are now fighting what is after all a United Nations war in Korea, and most of them are more or less resigned that they will sooner or later have to fight a third world war, in which the chief effort and sacrifice will be theirs, and which will at its end leave them with the chief responsibility for rebuilding a shattered world. Obviously, all this cannot be called isolationism.

And yet some of the psychological elements that made up the old powerful complex of isolationism do survive; and together with the fantastically growing physical and material strength of America — which will soon be greater than that of the whole rest of the world combined—they impart a factor of incalculability to American foreign policy, especially long-term policy.

The strongest of these surviving elements of isolationism is a self-absorption which is quite different from the normal collective egotism and nationalism of other nations. America is not a full-grown and settled nation which, taking itself for granted, turns its energies and interests to the outside world. It is still, to Americans, a great experiment and adventure, something constantly growing, changing and exciting; it must, of course, be protected from outside enemies and dangers—hence the now generally recognized need for a foreign policy—but it has its real meaning and interest in itself and its own still unforeseeable development, not in its influence and radiation towards the rest of the world. Americans have no imperial ambition at all, no Roman, Spanish, or British urge to shape the world in their own image. They have also no wish to merge their identity in larger unities, and they feel somewhat irked and impatient even as the leading member of a team of Allies, like a fast ship that has to sail in a slow convoy.

THE great mistake Europeans constantly make about America is to take it for granted that America in her present period of power and wealth will behave as European nations did in their comparable periods, i.e. try to expand outwards and found an Empire. Half fearfully, half hopefully, Europeans speculate that this American Empire might even have a chance to become, for once, universal.

But Americans are not Empire-builders. Anti-imperialism is built into the very foundation of their national consciousness, and they cannot be Imperialists with a good conscience, as the British are or were. Their few and half-hearted imperialist ventures—in the Philippines or in Latin America—have soon fizzled out. In Germany and Japan the Americans can now be seen to be in a hurry, after five short years, to get rid of their role as conquerors, rulers and re-educators, and to get back to a contractual relationship. The propaganda which paints America as the great imperialist Power of the 20th Century is almost ludicrously off the mark. The danger is not that America will dominate the world. It is that her refusal to dominate the world may leave the world without shape and centre, chaotic and drifting.

There is one other reason why Americans lack the urge to expand outwards. They are still employing all their energies expanding inwards — a choice the small and compact European nations never had. The Americans are still a nation on the move. Their great internal migration is far from over. In the last twelve years, e.g. they have irrigated the Southern Californian desert — with water coming from 500 miles away—and some five million have migrated to the new man-made paradise where they are now creating a new kind of urban civilization, no longer city life but life in a built-up landscape, based on the motor-car—an entirely new experiment in living. Naturally they find it more absorbing than the dreary thought of ruling and educating backward and obstreperous natives in far-off unhygienic and superstitious lands. Wherever one goes in America one meets this feeling that "we are only just beginning"—whether in physical development ("much of America is still an underdeveloped country", one government official said) in industrial productivity and management-labour relationships, in science, in education, in medicine. "Progress", which in Europe is now considered a Victorian illusion, is here the universal creed of the day.

THE Americans would not mind sharing that progress. No country could be more open, more hospitable, more unsecretive and willing to be looked over, more amiably eager to be liked and imitated. But Americans are not crusaders. Their interest in the outside world is not intense enough to force progress on it against its will. In fact, just now a reaction can be sensed, particularly vis-a-vis Europe. A little too much ignorant abuse has been heard from Europe in the last few years; and there is now a tendency among Americans to shrug and withdraw a little into themselves. There remains a necessary alliance—Western Europe obviously cannot be allowed to fall to Russia and to be converted into so much enemy potential — but some of the warmth has gone out of the relationship, and the term "Atlantic Community" is now rarely heard here.

One wonders what will happen to American foreign policy once the Russian threat has disappeared, either through a settlement and a peaceful Russian withdrawal or through America's victory in a war. It is hard to be sure that the real classical isolationism may not then rise from the dead. There is nothing in American foreign policy of that constructive eagerness, ingenuity, and positive delight which the British apply to the management of their international relationships, even in the present phase of imperial liquidation. Consider the many British experiments of the last five years—the new conception of the multi-racial Commonwealth, the equally new functionalist links with Western Europe, the attempt to make the "Atlantic Community" an operative collective factor in world diplomacy. There is no comparable initiative and enterprise in the foreign policy of the so much stronger, richer, younger, more potent America. Britain, even now in her middle age, seems still all the time to be building long-term relationships for their own sake, in an almost artistic effort to weave many strands together and create a lasting fabric, a "system". America has not really begun to think in such terms at all, and it is hard to be sure that she will.

American foreign policy is still a series of reactions to momentary stimuli. The two chief stimuli are pity and fear. The American response to pity is almost unfailing, and this is one of the most lovable traits of the national character. Europe is collapsing—it must be put on its feet. India is starving—send wheat. Underdeveloped countries are stagnating in squalor—devise technical aid. That is the one side of American foreign policy, an impulsive recurrent wave of generous human sympathy.

The other side is the sharp and hard look that espies an enemy and covers his every movement. Most of American world policy in the last few years has simply been an attempt to answer every Russian move with a countermove. Since Russian imperialism is worldwide and systematic, the American reaction to it has needs had to acquire something of the same global character and has resulted in something that might almost look like a world-wide American "system": the North Atlantic Treaty, aid to Greece and Turkey, a growing network of Pacific alliances, military conventions for air bases in North Africa, military aid to Indo-China—it looks impressive. But is there any deliberate architectural plan behind it? Certainly not in the consciousness of the broad American public. It all seems a diplomatic improvization, the haphazard result of a series of ad-hoc manoeuvres to check Russia. Once the need for checking Russia disappears in one way or another, will any of it survive? One remembers the complete and baffling collapse of the grand edifice of the American-British alliance of the last war, of Shaef, the combined boards, Lend-Lease, the Middle East Supply Centre and all the rest, in the summer and autumn of 1945. Is the present "American system" more permanent? One cannot but doubt it.

THERE is one American foreign policy idea that has deeper roots and looks more permanent: the idea of world law—the Wilsonian idea which found its provisional and imperfect embodiment in the League and the United Nations. But this lofty universalism, one sometimes feels, is really only the obverse side of isolationism. Put the world to order once and for all, so the underlying feeling seems to run, so that we need not bother any longer about the whole hideous game of international power politics and can again concentrate on our vastly more interesting, exciting, and hopeful internal progress and experiment. There is also a different, more ambitious and idealistic impulse behind the idea—the desire to achieve the unprecedented in international relations, rather like the founding fathers dared to do the unprecedented in the field of constitution—making and State-building when they created the United States. But what if the other numerous nations which have to co-operate in the new American-conceived universal order accept it only with tongue in cheek and continue in their old aspirations, jealousies, and power-politics—as they show every sign of doing for ever and ever? Will America permanently engage her own power to enforce world order, and thus become an unwilling Rome after all? Or will she, once she has become finally unchallengeable and secure, shrug and wash her hands of a hopeless world? The question seems still open. It is the central mystery of American foreign policy.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then said Solomon, The Lord hath said that he would dwell in the thick darkness. But I have built an house of habitation for thee, and a place for thy dwelling for ever. But will God in very deed dwell with men on the earth? behold, heaven and the heaven of heavens cannot contain thee; how much less this house which I have built! (II Chron. 6: 1, 2, 18.)

✧ ✧ ✧

To whom then will ye liken God? or what likeness will ye compare unto him? (Isa. 40: 18.)

✧ ✧ ✧

There is none like unto the God of Jeshurun, who rideth upon the heaven in thy help, and in his excellency on the sky (Deut. 33: 26.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Know therefore this day, and consider it in thine heart, that the Lord he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath: there is none else. (Deut. 4: 39.)

✧ ✧ ✧

God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands; neither is worshipped with men's hands, as though he needed any thing, seeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things.

For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring. (Acts 17: 24, 24, 25, 28.)

Ottawa Giants Crush Orioles 10-2

By The Associated Press

The pitching of Alex Konikowski is one of the reasons Ottawa Giants are right in the thick of the International League pennant scramble.

Konikowski was tabbed for relief work when the season started. The 22-year-old righthander came through brilliantly. He won two games and saved three others.

His excellent work in relief roles earned him his chance as a starter Tuesday night. Konikowski made the most of the opportunity. He pitched the Giants to a 10-2 victory over Baltimore Orioles. He allowed eight hits, walked one and fanned seven in bagging his third victory without a loss.

The Giants banged out 13 hits with Stan Jok and Ziggy Jasinski leading the way with three hits each. Jok and Dutch Mele drove in three runs each. The Orioles scored in the seventh on a two-run pinch-hit single by Anse Moore. The victory boosted the fourth-place Giants to within four games of the pace-setting Montreal Royals.

Down Royals

Syracuse downed the Royals, 7-5, in a game marred by 18 bases on balls. The Chiefs led all the way, but the Royals threatened in the ninth, scoring twice and loading the bases with two out. Art Hartley, fifth Syracuse pitcher, then got George Pfister to hit into a force play to end the game.

Rochester's runner - up Red Wings dropped a 7-6 decision to Buffalo Bisons. The Bisons scored all of their runs in the first three innings against previously unbeaten Kurt Krieger. Alex Carrasquel, third Bisons' pitcher, was the winner.

The scheduled game between Springfield and Toronto was postponed because of rain.

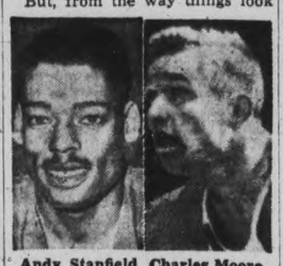
Manhattan May Celebrate With Team Title After Meet



By JIM HART
NEA Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA — (NEA) — A carnival atmosphere is planned in connection with the 75th Track and Field Championships of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America.

The site is the University of Pennsylvania's Franklin Field, May 25-26.

Former IC4-A champions will parade, following a beauty contest to select the Diamond Jubilee queen. There are to be cocktail parties and dinners.

But, from the way things look

Andy Stanfield Charles Moore

now, Manhattan College will do most of the celebrating when all is finished but the shouting.

Only six champions are defending. They are Seton Hall's Andy Stanfield, 100 yards; Manhattan's Bob Carty, 220; Cornell's Charley Moore, 440; Trinity's Bob Jachens, high jump; Princeton's Edgar Davis, broad jump, and Yale's George Appel, pole vault.

Everything else is as wide open as this season's three-year-old horse races.

Even the team title, won last trip by Yale.

But Manhattan's speedsters loom as the number one choice to bag their first crown. Sprinters unmatched in the east bolster the Jaspers' hopes.

It is conceivable that Manhattan, with Carty; Joe Schatzle, New York Metropolitan 100 and 220 champion; Lindy Remigino and John O'Connell, who were second and third in the indoor 60, could score 20 points in the sprints.

Bill Lucas placed in the indoor two-mile after losing a shoe, that's all. John Ogle holds the indoor shot put title, wants the discus crown, too. Jill Gillcrist, high jumper; Pat Duffy, miler; a likely 3:18 relay team and the ubiquitous Carty, who broad jumps like a catapulted jack rabbit, make Manhattan awfully hard to beat.

Cornell rates right alongside the Bronx aggregation with high hurdler, a six foot three-inch high jumper and a 24-foot broad jumper; half-miler Bob Mealy and weight movers Art Gardiner and Dick Brown heading up a squad which easily could take it all. The Big Red relay team clocked a record 3:13.1 at the Penn Relays.

Seton Hall and Georgetown are strong dark horses, although the Hoyas' lack of field power doubtless will prove costly. Coach Frank Sevigne should get plenty from Joe Deady, indoor 1000-yard record-breaker, and Tom Voorhees in the half-mile; Charley Capozzoli, who did an indoor two-mile in 9.07.8; Joe LaPierre and Carl Joyce, milers and one of the nation's fastest mile relay teams.

Stanfield, the super streak, holds Seton Hall's chances for the title. Only he rates over Manhattan's sprinters. He'll be shooting for a triple, entered in the 100, 220 and broad jump. His 25-foot 4½-inch leap last month established a Penn Relays record.

New York University should score with Dick Maiocco, Hugo's younger brother, and Bob Hatch back in the mile relay.

California, the west coast's only IC4-A member, keeps the games from being strictly an eastern party by entering Sam Adams, who puts the shot 50 feet 8½ inches and hurls the javelin 208 feet. Marquette, the only other non-eastern entry, has seven names on file.

Army and Navy, which have their traditional dual meet on the 26th, field token entries.

Only 10 of the group's 65 members failed to enter.

Arthur King, Savoie Signed For Bout

TORONTO, May 23 (CP). — Arthur King, British Empire lightweight champion, and Armand Savoie of Montreal have been signed for a 10-round main bout at Maple Leaf Gardens here Monday, June 4.

Signing of the two highly-rated fighters climaxed weeks of negotiations by Jack Allen, Toronto promoter.

King, a native of Toronto who now fights out of Philadelphia, is rated among the top 10 in the world lightweight class. Savoie, a hard hitter, has been beating the best Canadian lightweights and is ranked a top contender for the vacant Canadian title.

The fight will be a non-title go, and may set a Gardens' boxing attendance record. Top gate was registered four years ago when King defeated Dave Castilloux of Montreal. About 11,000 attended and receipts were $23,500.

Left-hander Clare O'Connell started for the Pavs, but was lifted in the fourth after Alex Kingsborough smashed a two-run homer to tie up the game. Eakins took over and struck out 10 and led his mates in scoring two runs in the sixth and five in the seventh.

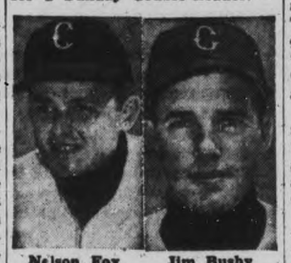
What A Man Can Do Shown By Carrasquel

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK —(NEA)— With Mickey Mantle and Gil McDougald, the new kids, the Yankees fly.

The Indians were no closer to the Yankees than seven runs in their first three meetings this season, yet Al Lopez believes the revitalized White Sox have more over-all speed.

"Jim Busby, the new centre fielder, will lead the league in stolen bases," predicts Manager Lopez.



"He perhaps has not yet earned the reputation, but we dealt the Chicago club a remarkable ball player in Orestes Minoso. I doubt that even the extraordinary Mantle boy is any swifter.

"Bob Dillinger undoubtedly will play third base. His purchase from the Pirates frees Minoso for the outfield, and gives Paul Richards another threat on the bases.

"Carrasquel, Lehner, Baker, Zarilla and Fox have above-average speed. Gus Niarhos and Phil Masi get around for catchers."

Awakening the White Sox, Frank Lane did a tremendous job for the American League. Had the potential giant continued to slumber, the 50th anniversary of the junior circuit hardly would have been golden, the Browns and Athletics being in the shape they are, and having nothing much at which to look forward.

The Indians played to 65,406 paid admissions in three days at Comiskey Park, terrific in the face of the previous figures, 37,707 for a Sunday double-header.

Nelson Fox Jim Busby

If there ever was a spot for a Negro player it was Chicago's south side, and the agile Minoso and his .375 batting average immediately caught on like a prairie fire.

Much credit for the White Sox' resurgence goes to Chico Carrasquel, who so well illustrates what one man can do for a side.

Here is the one case where someone put something over on Branch Rickey.

The Mahatma, then speaking for the Dodgers, was trying to peddle Sam Jethroe and Dan Bankhead, or both to General Manager Lane a year ago last winter. Lane wasn't interested.

Going into his best sales pitch, Rickey rattled off the names of a number of Brooklyn farm hands, told Lane he could have any one of them for $35,000.

Lane stopped him when his tongue slipped, and he said Carrasquel.

White Sox scouts had seen the Venezuelan play shortstop for Fort Worth, too.

Only three members of the White Sox—Floyd Baker, Randy Gumpert and Howie Judson—boast of more than two years' experience with the party.

Frank Lane hasn't sat still.

And in Paul Rapier Richards he brought in a resourceful manager well seasoned in the minors.

Sweeping the two-game set in Boston, Richards sent in Billy Pierce to pitch to the left-hand hitting Ted Williams in the ninth, moved Harry Dorish to third base while the southpaw helped big boy pop to the shortstop.

Dorish then returned to the mound to finish the chore.

So for the first time in the memory of the oldest inhabitant a pitcher played another position while another looked after a certain hitter.

Those who know Paul Richards best will tell you that the White Sox will continue to run and do the unexpected.

BIGGEST YEAR

The record total of annual gold production in Canada was $205,789,000 in 1941.

BEAN BALL—Orestes Minoso is as tough as he is fast. The White Sox' third baseman held his head after being struck there by a pitch thrown by Willard Nixon of the Red Sox in the first inning at Boston's Fenway Park. Catchers Buddy Rosar of the Bosox and Aaron Robinson of the Chicago club came to his aid. After a few minutes Minoso continued in the game.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The Olympic committees of East and West Germany confirmed Tuesday that they would collaborate in selecting an all-German team for next year's Olympic Games. They failed to reach agreement on any other point.

The two committees had been summoned to Lausanne by the international Olympic committee in an attempt to iron out differences and establish a single German Olympic committee.

The two delegations met all day with the executive committee of the international Olympic committee in an effort to extend the area of agreement, but all that was achieved was the signature by both sides to a statement that they agreed to differ.

The son of Canada's greatest athlete of the half-century, Lionel Conacher Jr., performed in the family tradition at the annual Upper Canada College track meet Tuesday.

He took first places in the junior 100, 220 and 440-yard dashes, the high jump, and broad jump. He set school records in the 220, 440 and broad jump.

At Los Angeles, Albert R. Scroggins, ex-jockey's agent with a record of 30 arrests on bookmaking charges, was fined $3,500 Tuesday for trying to fix a championship basketball game between Southern California and CLA.

He was convicted of attempting to bribe University of South Carolina forward Ken Flower to throw a southern division Pacific Coast Conference title game for $1,500 last March 3. Flower's team beat the University of California at Los Angeles 43-41.

Britain's Fulham Football Club arrived at Quebec Tuesday for a 6½-week tour of exhibition games in Canada and the United States.

The 21-member squad, led by club president Sir Leslie Bowker, is scheduled to play at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Edmonton, Vancouver, Victoria and New York.

A 22-year-old who has had Detroiters proclaiming him "a second Joe Louis" since he began boxing two years ago, gets his initial first-class test at Detroit Tuesday night.

He is Embrel Davidson and he meets Clarence Henry, sixth ranking heavyweight, in a 10-round bout. He's unbeaten in 23 pro fights.

Frank Loftis, Davidson's manager, said the fight of his 205-pound, six-foot-one heavyweight "means everything" and predicted: "If Embrel ever tags him Davidson will win, sure."

Lose Rugby Players

TORONTO, May 23 (CP).—University of Toronto expects to lose few football players through graduation this year. Biggest loss will be Jack Gray, star football and basketball player, who missed last season with a dislocated shoulder. Also graduating are halfback Tony Cecutti and guard Joe Errington. Doug Wigle, quarterback, is unlikely to play; he'll be in his last year of medical studies. Johnny Evans, standout tackle, will also be entering his final year in medicine.

Sox Whip Senators 9-8 Aiming At 1919 Record?

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Shades of 1919? Can the 1951 Chicago White Sox duplicate the feat of their predecessors of 32 years ago? And we don't mean "throw" the World Series.

The similarity between the two clubs is striking. Both finished in sixth place the previous campaign; both began the new season under new leadership; both were picked to finish deep in the second division, and both got off to flying starts.

The 1919 Sox, ably piloted by freshman manager Bill (Kid) Gleason, went on to win the pennant. Can the '51 Sox, under the leadership of newcomer Paul Richards, do the same?

Richards' astonishing athletes need only to win tonight and Thursday in Philadelphia to complete a clean sweep on their rampaging tour through the eastern badlands.

Third Victory

The White Sox began the trip by trouncing the Red Sox twice in Boston. Then they whipped the Yankees in New York. Tuesday night they whipped the Senators in Washington for the third straight time, 9-8. That made six victories in a row, nine of 11 on the road this year, and 18 wins against nine defeats for the season.

Tuesday's triumph kept the club in second place, two lengths in back of the defending champion Yankees, who beat St. Louis Browns 6-1. Boston's Red Sox tamed the Detroit Tigers 6-3 to move past Washington in fourth place, a half game behind the Bengals. Cleveland clipped Philadelphia Athletics 6-2 in a night affair.

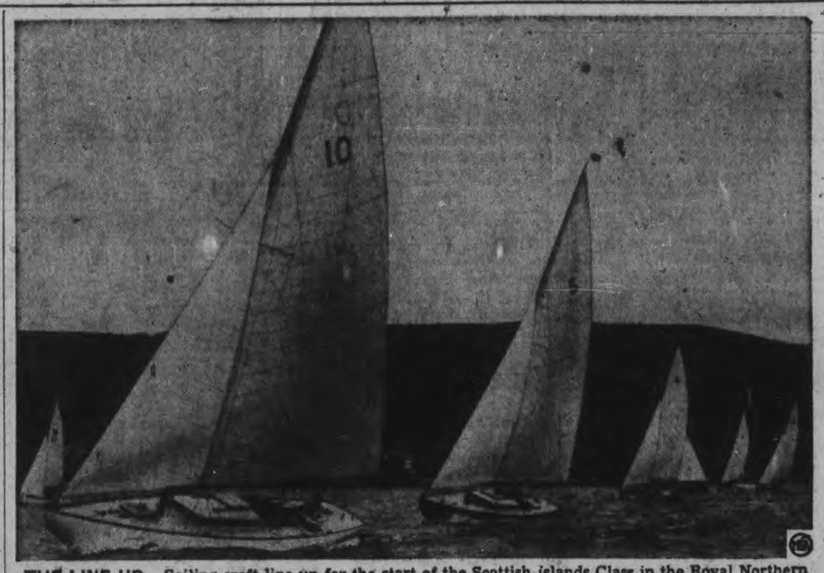
In the limited National League action, front-running Brooklyn outscored the Pirates 17-8 in Pittsburgh and Boston's Braves thrashed the Cardinals 7-2 to displace St. Louis in third slot.

2 Games Postponed

Rain forced the postponement of the scheduled contests between New York Giants and the Cubs in Chicago, and Philadelphia's Phils and the Reds in Cincinnati.

A three-run White Sox rally in the seventh, featured by Nelson Fox's home run, overcame a six-run Washington assault in the seventh to win for relief pitcher Harry Dorish. The defeat was charged to Joe Haynes.

Allie Reynolds hurled a four-hitter against the Browns as his teammates clubbed Ned Garver for nine hits, six of them for extra bases. The biggest blow was a home run by Yogi Berra. Bobby (Doc) Brown hit a triple, two singles and walked in four times at bat.



Catcher Les Moss hit a grand-slam homer off Ted Gray to spark the Red Sox to their victory over the Tigers. Lefty Maury McDermott spaced seven hits for his second straight route-going victory.

Early Wynn pitched five-hit ball for the Indians to end a personal four-game losing streak. The Indians stung Bobby Shantz and two relievers for 14 hits, including Bob Avila's first home run.

Seven Homers

Seven home runs highlighted the Brooklyn-Pittsburgh slugfest. Gil Hodges, strong Dodger first baseman, hit two, one with the bases loaded. His 14 for the season is high in the majors. Wally Westlake hit No. 13 and Ralph Kiner No. 8 for Pittsburgh. Bruce Edwards got one as a pinch-hitter for the victors. The Brooks made 18 hits to 13 for the Pirates.

The Braves took advantage of a dozen St. Louis bases on balls and chipped in with eight hits, including Bob Elliott's eighth home run to win from the Cards. Warren Spahn pitched his fourth triumph. Red Munger was the loser.

Yesterday's Stars

By The Associated Press

Batting—Les Moss, Red Sox, recently acquired catcher, hit a grand slam homer to lead Boston to a 63 victory over Detroit.

Pitching—Allie Reynolds, Yankees, hurled a four-hitter on the heels of his 1-0 triumph over Cleveland as Yankees defeated the St. Louis Browns, 6-1.

British Applaud Urzetta Golf Showing

PORTHCAWL, Wales, May 23 —(AP)—American dominance of the British amateur golf championship may rankle in the hearts of all British golf enthusiasts, but they try hard not to show it.

That was demonstrated Tuesday when more than 100 galleryites walked around the 6,658-yard Porthcawl course in a raging gale to watch Sam Urzetta, 25-year-old ex-caddie from Rochester, N.Y., chop down a local favorite, Steve Tredinnick, 3 and 2.

True Sam is the U.S. amateur champion, a title that would be a drawing card anywhere. But he also has the appeal of a fighting link competitor and one who has battled his way to the top over a rocky course.

Urzetta hasn't yet shown here the flashing game that flattened the current British titleholder, Frank Stranahan, in the 39-hole final of the U.S. amateur in the States last year.

Doesn't Mind Weather

"The rain and the wind don't bother me," Urzetta said after a so-so performance Tuesday. "Most of my trouble is with my short irons. They're not crisp enough. But I may get that touch back Wednesday. If I do I hope to be staying around for a while."

Urzetta admits candidly that he is trying to pattern his life as much as possible after his idol, Willie Turnesa, 36-year-old former British and U.S. amateur king.

"Willie helps me every way he can, both on the course and off," Sam said. "He's been like a godfather to me."

Turnesa and Urzetta are in different halves of the draw and the possibility exists that mentor and pupil will meet in the final.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Mimico Mountaineers meet the Petes for the first time this OLA senior "A" season on Friday night at 8.45 in Miller Bowl. Second game for the Crowe crew, who beat Hamilton Tigers a week ago in the opener. Art Harrison's husky Mounties include such stalwarts as Kenny and Archie Dixon, Don McPhail, Billy Horwood, Doug Beattie, Bill Rankin, Chuck Simpson, Bernie Pritchard, big Eddie Sandford and several more. They're likely to prove tough onions, and it promises to be a swell gutted-stick game before another large crowd. Haven't heard whether Harry Wipper will get the okay to play here yet or not, but otherwise the Petes should be pretty well up to strength.

* * * * * *

Men's City Softball League pries off the lid next Tuesday eve at seven in the Bowl d'Ashburnham. First game has UEW going against Revoy Motors, and the nightcap under lights has Lakefield mixing it with the Orphans. Harold Dormer has the latter while Cam Wasson leads the new Lakefield entry. Ken Guilfoyle handles Revoy's, and Howie Dalton is playing coach of UEW. The clubs have been on the prowl for talent in recent weeks and drilling regularly, so it should turn out to be another lively loop, going in two twin bills weekly, leaving Saturday nights open for exhibitions from time to time. A few more umps could be used in this circuit.

Ball On The Holiday

The May 24 attraction for ball fans is the opening here of the Viaduct Major League schedule under the lights in Riverside. It's Staffords vs. the Petes on Thursday night, and Ed Whitehill's squad will be gunning for a second decision o'er Staffs in this one. Lefty Bill Dadson threw a four-hitter to beat them a week ago in Toronto, but we don't know which pitcher will get the call on the morrow after supper. Several new players in the lineup this semester, and followers of the diamond game—the scientific sport—will probably like what they see. The Petes are garbed in neat new uniforms of big league style. This opener rates a hefty crowd.

Carl Hubbell, in a recent interview at Ottawa, says many young hurlers make the mistake of trying to master too many pitches. The former ace—who made the screwball famous—of New York Giants claims he got by with three and that's all any twirler needs. "He'll have to know those hitters, of course, and make them hit his pitch and not the one they like," he added, pointing out that control was highly important, and the change-up. As for the screwball, Carl said you have to be something of a freak to throw it as it's a difficult one to master. Anyone with even slightly stiff wrists hasn't a chance. Max Swanston once told us that Al Heckman threw few curves in a game, just bending one at the psychological moment. Otherwise, he banked on speed, great control for spot pitching, and change of pace.

Civic Loop Gets Set

Civic Softball League gets away Monday at 6.45 p.m. with PLC playing Bell in Armour Field. Next night has Police vs. Utilities there, Wednesday it's Bus Drivers against Grant & Loucks, while Thursday sees Foresters meeting Salvation Army. All tilts over east at the same hour. Deadline for having entry fees and playing lists in the mail is May 26, seven squads being in so far. More umps needed and they should phone Cliff Castle at 7120. The Firemen had planned to come in but, since Saturday's disaster, they've decided to turn over money they had laid aside for sports to the fund to aid families of the four fire victims.

* * * * * *

In line with this, Red Creighton suggests a benefit lacrosse game to raise money for this fire fund. The game to be next Wednesday under the lights of Miller Bowl between the Petes of today and the oldtime Petes. Latter would include Doug Miller, Pete King, Mick Magee, Ira Dundas, Emmett and Red Creighton, Rowan Chute, Buster Whitton, Farmer Connelly, Dutch Pammett, Pup Curtin and four or five more of the city and district. It's a good thought. When we thoughtless asked Red if the teams would switch goalies, he was quite indignant. "Certainly not," Red roared., "I'll hold my own with Wootton and I'll outbump him if he comes out of the net!"

Three Big Names Head Race Roll

INGLEWOOD, Calif., May 25 (AP) — Citation, Coaltown and Moonrush, three of the best known names in horse racing today, head a roll of 40 candidates nominated for the $100,000 Hollywood gold cup handicap July 14.

The Hollywood Turf Club announced the list today for the mile and one-quarter fixture, the only horse race which guarantees $100,000 net to the winner.

Nationally famed stables are taking at least a preliminary step toward winning the pot, notably Calumet Farms, Brookmeade, the King-Luellwitz stable and others.

Calumet nominated Citation, Coaltown, All Blue and Bewitch; Brookmeade, the nation's leading money winner last year, came in with Greek Ship, Chains and Why Not Now; Moonrush is the prize winning hero of the Grace King-Gus Luellwitz string.

Mahlon Hanover Has Designs On Classic

ROCKVILLE CENTRE, N.Y., May 23 (AP)—Mahlon Hanover, a Canadian-trained colt with designs on the famed Hambletonian trotting classic, makes his 1951 racing debut Thursday night at Fort Miami raceway, Toledo, O.

Mahlon Hanover is only three years old, and not many people have heard about him yet. But his owner, Willet C. Evans, is 72, and they know he wants that Hambletonian like nothing else.

Evans is a milkman. He owns a big dairy near here, and drove trotters to milk wagons as a boy. That's when he got acquainted with horses.

"I'm leaving today for Toledo, but don't want to make any predictions about the horse," said Evans. "The trainer should be the one to say about his chances."

His trainer is 33-year-old Joe O'Brien, the Canadian reinsman from New Glasgow, N.S., who now calls Orlando, Fla., his home.

Palmer Adjusts Five Iron Getting Out From Tree

By JOHNNY PALMER
Former Western Open Champion

One of the worst lies to plague a golfer is the kind that requires shooting out from under a tree with low, overhanging branches.

The ball is going to be played very low to miss the branches.

At the same time it will have to have the impetus to carry the green.

I use the five iron with certain modifications in manner.

I play the ball well back—off my right toe, as a matter of fact.

I make sure I hit down into the ball and not cause it to rise as rapidly as it normally would.

My left foot is withdrawn giving me an open stance and my feet are close together.

I am not going to take a full swing.

Therefore, there is no necessity to have my feet wide apart for balance and power. My follow through will be abbreviated.

It is necessary to make certain adjustments in the grip to keep the ball low.

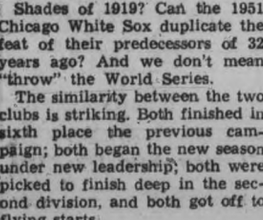
Using the five iron, the normal loft of the face will cause the ball to rise rather sharply.

To counteract this, I turn my right hand over a bit and close the face just enough to get under the branches.

I shorten my grip somewhat to be standing close, well bent over the ball, with just enough club to make a good, crisp shot with the greatest degree of accuracy possible.

The ball will have to travel 75 yards or more past the branches to reach the green. It is going to be necessary for the ball to rise somewhat after it has cleared the trees. This will take care of itself since the ball still will be rising when it passes under the branches.

Do not even raise the arms to a horizontal position on the follow through.



That will give you too much loft.

When you finish, the club should be pointing at the ground at about a 45-degree angle.

Sees US Women Soon To Dress As Early Greeks

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, May 23 (AP).—A girdle-less, brassiere-less future for American women was predicted today by Varga, veteran creator of pin-up girls.

The Peruvian artist has been watching the evolution of women since he arrived in the United States in 1916 and started drawing the female form.

"I have also made a long study of the development of the female from prehistoric times to the present," he added. "I believe the American women are reaching the point achieved by the classic Greeks. The Greeks worshipped the human body. They believed that as long as you had a healthy body you were rich.

"Their regard for the body was shown in their athletics and their sculpture. You'll notice they did not make statues of pot-bellied men or women. Their ideals were expressed in the classic forms, such as Venus de Milo.

Follow The Greek

"The Greek women wore only light tunics that showed their forms to the best advantage. They had no girdles or brassieres. The only thing under their outer garments was a perfect body."

The illustrator declared that he expects American women to follow suit.

"Why not?" he inquired. "In the last 20 or 30 years, American women have come closer to the early Greeks than any other race in history. They have acquired independence and self-assurance and that has affected them physically.

"American women are already the best formed in the world. I predict they will continue to improve and eventually will discard those clothes which tend to restrict their forms."

Varga is in Hollywood to create a billboard painting of Shelly Winters to advertise a picture ("Behave Yourself"). About Miss Winters' attributes, he commented: "She isn't the most beautiful or the most shapely girl in the world, but she makes you think so. She has an inner fire that makes her an exciting subject for an artist."

The Perfect Body

The perfect female star? Alas, he said, there is none. But he did supply a composite, which he said comprised the best parts of the community:

Face—Linda Darnell. "She has a classic face, and her beauty is aided by her Indian blood."

Torso—Marie Windsor. "Most women, like most automobiles, look good from some angles and not so good from others. But Marie looks good from the front, sides and back."

Thighs—Barbara Britton. "Perfect."

Lower legs — Betty Grable. "You can't take that away from her: they are beautiful."

THREE PROMINENT Montreal residents took an active part in Queen's annual convocation of the Faculty of Applied Science and the School of Commerce and Administration, Saturday, May 19 at Kingston, Sir James Dunn, front left and J. B. Stirling, front right, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws (LL.D.). Hon. Charles A. Dunning, front centre, Queen's chancellor, conferred the degree on his two old friends. Moose Heads Very Popular These Days Abbott, Raminsky Keep Passing Them Round

OTTAWA, May 23. (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott and Louis Raminsky, a top official of the Bank of Canada, are just like Alphonse and Gaston when it comes to moose heads.

Mr. Abbott acted as kuest auctioneer last week at an auction to raise funds for the Ottawa Philharmonic Society. Among other things, he auctioned off a moose head, donated by Max Mackenzie, deputy minister of defenec production.

"Sold to Mr. Raminsky for $16", said Mr. Abbott in his best auctioneering manner, and the unsuspecting Bank of Canada expert, who "hadn't raised my finger or even opened my mouth," had bought a moose head.

"For $16," Mr. Abbott added breezily, "I'd like to buy this myself. But" — he added before Mr. Raminsky could interject — "I wouldn't want to compete with the Bank of Canada."

This week, a package crossed Wellington Street from the office of Mr. Raminsky to the office of the Finance Minister. The moose head bore a neat card:

"Compliments of the Bank of Canada."

Traffic Deaths Climb Higher

Traffic accidents in Ontario killed at least 62 persons last month, making April the third successive month to have more traffic deaths than the same month of last year.

This brings the 1951 accident toll up to 229 in four months (77 more than a year ago). Among the victims were 30 children compared with 31 last year, the only group that has not so far shown any increase.

Pedestrian accidents are up least from last year. Collisions of two or more vehicles are up the most. In April alone, out of 19 victims of two-vehicle accidents, seven (more than one-third) lost their lives by driving into parked cars or trucks usually in the rear.

April accidents also included 18 deaths from leaving the road or hitting a fixed object. In these no other vehicle or pedestrian was involved.

Rest Of World Talks War But Weather India's Topic

By HAROLD K. MILKS

NEW DELHI, May 23 (AP) — Let the rest of the world talk about Gen. MacArthur, the Korean war or the British cabinet crisis.

In India's torrid capital the prime topic of conversation is the weather.

This is the season when searing winds from India's eastern deserts turn New Delhi into what is probably the world's hottest capital. Comfort becomes an illusion. Fighting the heat seems much more important than any productive work.

In the pre-independence days May was the month when most foreigners, and many Indians, fled to Himalaya hill stations. Minor functionaries or clerks were left to keep the wheels of government and business rolling.

Migration Halted

Since Indian independence the annual migration has been halted except for those officials who managed to schedule summer vacations or find convenient excuses for trips away from the capital.

For those who remain in Delhi May means a blossoming of sports shirts and sandals. A few of the more brave wear open-necked shirts even at dinner. Such informal attire is equally acceptable in parliament, at cabinet meetings or at the movies. Temperatures reach a peak of more than 100 degrees in midday and drop but slightly when the sun goes down.

A fortunate few boast air conditioners or desert coolers. The latter is a locally designed contrivance by which an electric fan blows air through water-soaked khus-khus mats.

In May most Indians—and many foreigners—move their beds outside. Hotel lawns are dotted with cots, each one equipped with netting to protect its occupant from malarial-bearing mosquitos. Flat roofs are a favorite location for summertime bedrooms.

6000 Workers Always Casual Employees

TORONTO, May 23 — 1(CP) — Don G. McMaster, secretary of the Ontario Civil Servants' Association, said Tuesday that more than 6,000 employees of the Ontario government can never be more than "casual" employees, even if they spend their entire lifetime working at Queen's Park.

He commented on an editorial in The Trillium, official organ of the civil servants, which said out-of-date laws continue to apply to government employment. He said existing rules make it difficult for "temporary" employees to transfer to the permanent staff.

THREE (COMMIE) JEERS FOR NEW RED BOSS—Titoism rears its head in French Communist Party circles and the result is Reds jeering Reds on a Paris sidewalk. Darius Le Corre, left, head of the new "Independent Communist Party" in France, gets a Bronx cheer from members of the regular, Russian-dominated French Communist Party. Le Corre had just told newspapermen that his new party will stress preservation of workers' rights, their closer unity and the building of a Communist organization free of the Soviet grip.

In Addressing Organizations Col. Bunton Tells Of Work With Convicts

CAMPBELLFORD, May 23 — (ENS)— A joint meeting of the Rotary and Kinsmen clubs of Campbellford was held on Monday, when the assembled members and guests of the two organizations heard an address by Lieut. Col. Bunton of the Salvation Army.

Lieut. Col. Bunton told of the activities and purposes of the Salvation Army. He told of the work of the Army in rehabilitating prisoners who have been convicted of crimes against society. Col. Bunton has travelled extensively in Army work, and has investigated prison conditions throughout this country and the United States.

"Never, during any period of the history of the world, has there been more crime than there is right now," he said. He said the worst and most serious crimes were committed by people between the ages of 19 to 25 years, and that the worst criminals were those between the ages of 16 and 19 years. In answer to the question, "Are they worth saving?" Col. Bunton answered "Yes, yes, ten thousand times yes! They are worth saving."

He went on to tell of how, through the work of the Salvation Army Prison Gate Houses, many prisoners had been rehabilitated, and now had good positions and were behaving themselves. Records show that about 87 per cent become excellent citizens. Col. Bunton told of a couple of experiences he had with prisoners and followed their lives up and told of how, today, they are men in important positions.

The Army was active in its work of correcting conditions in jails in all parts of the world, and is responsible for the closing of the infamous French prison, Devil's Island. There are now Prison Gate Houses in more than 100 countries and colonies throughout the world.

"We should re-name juvenile delinquency," "parental delinquency," he said, and showed how in the age groups of almost all prisoners, the trouble could be traced in almost every case to the home. A child's early life had a great deal of bearing on how he would conduct himself when he had to later take his place in society, the colonel said.

Rotarian Dr. Ross Richardson thanked the speaker. President Franklin Linton was chairman.

Building Strong Framework To Bolster Home Defence

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA —(CP)— The forces that would defend Canada herself and the headquarters for directing that defence in war are being built up quietly amid the clamor over creation of forces to go abroad

[illegible] tion if war came tomorrow. What Gen. Omar Bradley said about the United States goes for Canada too; this country isn't ready for a showdown with Russia either.

Canada's air defences are weak. Her navy, reported in the Mainguy report to be over-extended even before Korea, still is committing a relatively large portion of its fleet there. The army's airborne brigade is fit, but air transport for it could become a major headache if an enemy struck hard and often.

The build-up to buttress all three position is on. By the end of this year major strides will have been made but it probably will be at least a year before the forces are really in a fairly sound fighting position.

Invasion Unlikely

The basic premise of defence headquarters' thought continues to be the assumption that no large-scale land invasion of Canada is likely in the years immediately ahead. For that reason, Canada isn't doing what Britain recently did—name a trio of military leaders specifically to direct home defence if war strikes.

Britain must prepare for large-scale invasion. Canada feels this isn't necessary, at least for the present, there is no Canadian equivalent of the head of the British trio, Gen. Sir Miles Dempsey, a man closely associated with Canadians in the Second World War in England, Italy and Normandy.

The responsibility for co-ordination here rests with the chiefs-of-staff committee in Ottawa. The Committee has under it at this stage a series of operational headquarters—an air defence group headquarters in Montreal, a headquarters for the scattered airborne brigade here, naval headquarters on each coast—that would direct wartime battles.

A year ago the forces being built to defend Canada herself were all that counted. Korea changed that completely. Now the news is all about the brigade in Korea, the brigade for Europe, the destroyers off Korea or heading there, plans for an air division for Europe.

This assumption of peacetime obligations overseas has worked a revolution in military policy and in the forces. It has obscured preparations to defend Canada herself.

Position Reviewed

This briefly is a picture of Canada's own position:

Air—Canada could become a major air battlefield. Seven communities are considered potential A-bomb targets but they probably don't rate among the top 20 on the continent.

By year's end, the RCAF will be forming a new fighter squadron every month and arming them with modern jets built at home. Now it has only a few regular fighter squadrons, their planes are not of the best and radar facilities—the start of a network—are not impressive.

The air defence headquarters at Montreal is the forerunner of a fighter command, Canada's first, that would be the top factor in Canadian defence. By this time next year, the RCAF should really have something to fight with although Europe has a high priority in assignment of new squadrons.

Land—The airborne brigade, officially known as the Mobile Striking Group, is scattered across the country. It has never trained as a unit. Ottawa expects separate elements would be used to take [illegible] of Russians who [illegible] north-[illegible]

Defence Minister Claxton has said the RCAF has transport planes to fly enough men into action to handle any attack now considered likely. Some people say the transport situation could become tight swiftly if the Russians started dropping platoons or companies a various spots.

Equivalent of Division

With the Korean and Euro[illegible] brigades, Canada now will have three or the equivalent of a division.

Navy—The navy is recommissioning warships from its reserve as fast as it can and is building others. War for it would mean an even tougher North Atlantic battle plus defence of the coasts and harbor cities against subs that could lob atomic missiles or fire shells ashore. Mines would be a great headache too.

Key shipbuilding — of seven new-type anti-sub escort vessels—is slow. They won't be launched until late this year and won't be at sea for a lot longer.

In the meantime, headquarters isn't particularly happy about tying up three destroyers in Korea and a couple more to relieve them at a time when a war could make them sorely needed nearer home.

LONDON, May 23 (Reuters)— Eric Carlsson, Swedish delegate to the annual Congress of the International Federation of Newspaper Publishers, Tuesday forecast a shortage of raw materials for newsprint production. He told 140 delegates from 15 countries it would soon be hard for producers to obtain a balance between supply and demand.

Authorize Committee To Procure Minister

MILLBROOK, May 23 (ENS)— At the Sunday morning service of St. Andrew's United Church the congregation voted unanimously to give the pastoral relations committee, of which Wilfred L. Elson is chairman, authority to extend a call to a minister to fill the pulpit of the Millbrook-Cavan charge left vacant by the resignation of the Rev. T. G. Husser.

The joint boards of the two churches had voted previously to call the Rev. A. M. Butler of Cookshire, 115 miles east of Montreal. Mr. Butler's wife is also an ordained minister of the United Church. In case they are unable to procure Mr. Butler as pastor, the motion Sunday morning gave the pastoral relations committee the authority to call some other minister.

Bible Readings For Passersby

MONTREAL, — (CP) — Many persons who have used the entrance corridor to St. James United church in Midtown Montreal as a shelter from wind and rain, recently have noticed a glass case set up in the interior.

Underneath the glass are three Bibles one in English, another in French, the third in Yiddish. The unusual display has attracted considerable attention because of the combination of the languages.

There have been many queries as to the "why" of the display. The answer is simply that St. James church and its minister, the Rev. Dr. T. E. McLennan, think that giving the passerby an opportunity to read a page of scripture does a lot of good.

All three Bibles are opened at the same page. The pages are usually turned twice weekly.

Who knows whether the casual glance at the open Bible page might give a man or a woman the "spiritual lift" that turns a puzzled existence in to a positive life?

CANADIAN SPORTS PARADE

WHO said lacrosse is Canada's "forgotten game?" Current plans for [illegible] we learned from Chuck Rowan, Secretary-Treasurer of the

Growth in Ontario

Under the aegis of the O.L.A., lacrosse is particularly flourishing in the Senior A League towns (Peterborough, Brampton, Toronto, Hamilton and and St. Catharines) and in those of the Border City loop (Sarnia, Wallaceburg, Windsor and Chatham). Both are looking forward to a bangup season.

According to Chuck Rowan, there is little fear for the future as far as players are concerned. The O.L.A. has 120 minor lacrosse teams, with a constant flow of youngsters in the peewee and bantam classes.

From Chuck Rowan we also learned that the old bugaboo of stuffy, indoor playing space is gradually being overcome as more and more air-conditioned arenas are being built and this season Dundas, Alliston and Brampton (an 80-year old Club) will boast brand new buildings for Canada's national game. Many Ontario cities and towns are either discovering lacrosse for the first time or experiencing a revival of interest in the game and the O.L.A. is considering additional league teams from Ottawa, Parry Sound and Sault Ste. Marie.

Asked about the injury element in lacrosse, Chuck Rowan pointed out that strict supervision of the leagues has practically eliminated unwarranted rough play. Lacrosse today, he figures, is a much safer game to play than either football or hockey. Speaking of hockey, Rowan said: "Few sportsmen will deny the great contribution lacrosse has made to the game of hockey. Speed being the common denominator of the two games, good lacrosse players usually make fine hockey players."

Indian Baggataway:

Christened "lacrosse" by the French Canadian pioneers who first saw the Indians playing their wide-open game of "baggataway," using what appeared (to the Frenchmen) to be webbed crosses as sticks, the game caught on quickly with both the French and English settlers. No doubt its rough reputation came from the fact that the Indians used the technique of first crippling as many opposing players as possible before getting on with the game. Medicine men acted as referees (and goalposts), and often as many as 200 players appeared on a team, while the "field" ranged in width from 5 to 10 miles as the game moved in course of play, referees, "goalposts" and all.

Box Lacrosse:

Lacrosse became our national game by Act of Parliament in 1867 and the National Lacrosse Association was formed as the ruling body. Rules and regulations were drawn up by the N.L.A. (now known as the Canadian Lacrosse Association) and the game was "confined" to a field 80 yards long by 60 wide. In 1932 field lacrosse was converted, more or less, to the indoor game now known as boxla and was played in hockey cushions (both indoors and out). Strongly in favour of boxla are the closer proximity of the fans and the increased body contact, both of which make for a finer spectator sport.

With the new, air-conditioned arenas and the general air of prosperity now apparent in the O.L.A., there is every sign that lacrosse may even return to its old time popularity. Chuck Rowan says if you've never seen lacrosse and what it has to offer, take in a game. A buck to a plug nickel says you'll be back for more.

Hancock Installs Key Cub Heads

Officers of St. Peter's High School Key Club were inducted at the final meeting of the season at the YMCA Tuesday night. Gordon Hancock, president of the Kiwanis Club, and Denis Fitzgerald conducted the induction.

President-elect is John Harrison, with Edward Corkery vice-president, Bob McCormick secretary, and Jim Feeley treasurer.

Harry O'Neill, chairman, called on Bob Fitzgerald to introduce the speaker, Pete McGillen, outdoors editor for The Telegram. Mr. McGillen spoke on the responsibility of every Canadian in perpetuating and properly managing the natural resources of fish, fur, game and forests. Thanks was voiced by Jack Pearson.

Mr. Hancock spoke in tribute to the members for their fine work in connection with the recent key club convention, and said Kiwanis Club was proud of them and their colleagues at the PCVS. He stressed the value of public speaking, and learning the fundamentals of organization, both of which he said are assets in the business world.

QUICK FIRE—This Ottawa fire took only minutes to destroy an empty tenement and damage another on mid-town Waller Street. It left 34 persons homeless. The empty building—known as Hasty Row—was being demolished to make way for the Mackenzie King Bridge across the Rideau Canal.

Bank Review Opposes Many Controls

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The current monthly review of the Bank of Nova Scotia approves the measures now being taken to combat inflation.

It disapproves of any general price freeze; but it sees a possibility that controls in some form may become necessary unless there is a real effort on the part of every one to make present measures work.

To make them work, the review says in effect, there must be public co-operation and confidence, and no profiteering. It sees no widespread evidence of profiteering, but adds that "it would be foolish to suggest that it is non-existent."

It states that "the logic of over- ... of decisions involving the choice between more controls and retreat from ceilings established.

"There is no doubt that the Government would have to deal right away with the problem of export controls and import prices and subsidies; and not much later with that of wage and salary controls. . . .

"The policy of monetary restraint and fiscal measures contained in the recent budget constitute a fundamental attack against inflation. They get at the cause—excessive demand.

"It may be that they were not applied soon enough. Possibly they are not being applied to a sufficient degree. But there can be no doubt that they represent the right approach. . . .

"But if there is a problem here, it is surely not one which calls for the immense paraphernalia of general price control. Public watchfulness and consumer resistance, supported by a general indication by the Government of what constitutes profiteering and by a willingness on the part of the Government to investigate, and, if necessary, to intervene, when price increases appear to be unreasonable, should be sufficient to meet the problem."

Find Windsor Woman Named In Inquiry

TORONTO, May 23 (CP). — A woman described by Moscow radio as heading an atrocity investigation in North Korea was disclosed Tuesday to be Mrs. Nora Rodd of Windsor, wife of lawyer Roscoe Rodd, and one of six Canadians now on a visit behind the Iron Curtain.

A London dispatch quoted the Moscow radio as saying that a women's commission headed by Nora Kathleen Rudd, described as representing the progressive women of Canada, had arrived in North Korea to investigate "crimes by imperial interventionists in Korea." The Soviet Monitor in London later confirmed the spelling as Rudd.

It was learned, however, that the woman is Mrs. Rodd who left Canada April 25 as a member of a delegation headed by Jacob Penner, Winnipeg alderman, and visited London, Prague and Moscow.

Urges Britain Free Colonies In Trade

OTTAWA, May 23 — (CP) — Informed sources said Tuesday that Canada has suggested Britain's colonies might earn more dollars if Britain freed them from long-term supply commitments and allowed them to sell more of the goods to Canadian buyers.

The suggestion was made as trade officials from both countries completed the second day of discussions in the fifth session of the Canada-United Kingdom continuing trade committee.

WI To Entertain District Groups

COLDSPRINGS, May 23 (ENS) —May meeting of the Coldsprings WI was held in the township hall Monday afternoon, with an attendance of 30. The first part of the afternoon was spent weeding at the rockery in front of St. Paul's United Church.

Mrs. Keith Harper, president, presided over the meeting.

The financial report presented by the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Herbert McKinley, showed a balance of $221.98.

In the correspondence a letter was read from Fenella WI accepting the invitation to be Coldsprings WI guests at the June meeting.

Plans were made to attend the annual meeting of the West Northumberland District Women's Institute being held at Roseneath on June 1.

It was voted to have the travelling library books sent for by November for the winter months.

A miscellaneous article is to be brought to the next meeting for the fall bazaar.

In the current events an item on historical research is to be given each month.

About $12 is to be spent on plants for the rockery and it was decided that the secretary write to a Bowmanville nursery for information.

The new window drapes have now been installed at the township hall and the WI will pay $75 toward them.

I was decided to apply for a short course on "Frozen Foods," second choice "Something to Wear."

First and second choices in the district program were "We Call It Human Nature" and "Personality and Dress."

The sunshine convener, Mrs. Nixon Timlin, reported five cards and one box of fruit sent during the past month.

Mrs. Kenneth Grieve, convener was in charge of a short program: piano solo, "Little Dutch Dance," by Kathryn Harper; the motto "Lo the winter is past, the flowers appear on the earth, the time of the singing of birds is come," was given by Mrs. Hilda Newton; piano solo, "The Lark's Song," by Donald Harris. Miss Edith Hoskin gave a humorous reading on the "Origin of Charivari," which started in 1833.

A Lodging for the Night

"No rooms left," barked the clerk to the young soldier and his bride.

So Wintringer, overhearing, obeyed a generous (if embarrassing) impulse and offered to share his room with them. How could he know he was changing the course of two young lives?

In June Reader's Digest, Katharine Brush tells this true story of a simple gesture—and the amazing sequel that developed seven years later.

Ask Medical Assoc. Study Fee-Splitting

TORONTO, May 23 — (CP) — The Ontario Medical Association has been asked to investigate recent charges of fee-splitting by doctors in the province.

Hamilton representatives to the association's general council presented resolutions Tuesday at the annual meeting asking that the association study the question of fee-splitting between the referring physician and surgeon, "particularly in respect to prepaid medical plans."

The fee-splitting charges were revealed when patients in Hamilton hospitals complained that personal physicians were accepting rebates when cases were referred to specialists.

Says Senators Talk Too Much Of Selves

OTTAWA, May 23 (CP). — A 74-year-old Nova Scotia senator told his colleagues Tuesday that they talk too much about themselves.

"We've been talking about ourselves for the last 11 years," said Senator Donald MacLennan. "I should think the international situation and a $5,000,000,000 defence program would be sufficient to occupy the Senate, but it has become a tradition perhaps to talk about ourselves every year."

He spoke in the reform debate which has been occupying the Senate since February. Senator Wishart Robertson, Government leader whose motion for a special reform committee precipitated the spate of reform speeches, is expected to close [illegible]

Here's one of the recipes that make salads a hit at our house!

Says Mrs. P. MacKenzie, Wilson Heights, Ont.

"I've found the magic ingredient that makes my family love every salad," says Mrs. MacKenzie. "I use Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise."

Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise is the very finest quality you can buy. Most folks use Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise as it comes from the jar . . . its subtle flavor brings out the true salad goodness. Many women vary Real Mayonnaise . . . make it spicy, tart or sweet . . . to suit their salads. Here's Mrs. MacKenzie's favorite variation for fruit salads:

HONEY WHIP

Add ⅛ teaspoon salt to 1 egg white, beat until stiff. Add 2 tablespoons of honey slowly until mixture will stand in peaks. Fold in 1 cup Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise. Sprinkle 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind on top for garnish. Serve with your favorite fruit salad. Try Real Mayonnaise in sandwich fillings, devilled eggs, as a spread for bread.

Because it is a blend of pure salad oil, whole eggs, added egg yolks and other fine ingredients . . . because there is no starchy filler . . . Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise is worth more than ordinary salad dressings. You save with rich, Real Mayonnaise because it goes farther, so many ways! Body Of Man Found In Otonabee

To Hold No Inquest In Death of Man Missing Two Weeks

The body of 32-year-old Sydney Ernest Smith, 541 Gilchrist Street, was found early today caught in the log boom at the west approach to the London Street dam. He had been missing from his home since May 9.

Coroner Dr. Herbert Young said death was caused by drowning and there will be no inquest.

Smith, an office worker at the CGE since November, 1950, was seen in the Otonabee, up against the log boom, by Tom Wind, foreman of the dam. Wind notified city police.

The body was taken from the water by police, assisted by Bob Prescott, a Quaker Oats employee and Jack MacLean, an employee of a Montreal firm installing new turbines at the dam.

Smith was born in Peterborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Victor Smith, Shelbourne Street. He lived here a lifetime. He was married.

During the Second World War he served in Italy with the 4th Anti-Tank, attaining the rank of sergeant. He was hospitalized overseas and since his return to Canada spent some time in Kingston and Sunnybrook Military Military Hospitals.

He was a member of Branch 52, Caandian Legion, and St. John's Anglican Church.

50 Industries Start Lists Of Contributions

Subscription lists for the Mayor's Fire Fund have been opened in more than 50 of Peterborough's industries, according to reports received by Reg. Reid of the Fund committee.

Employees of the Quaker Oats Company of Canada have given $1,405 up to 9 a.m. today, and their list is not yet complete.

The company's contribution of $500, previously reported, was followed by a request to management by the employees for a convenient arrangement by which they could make a collective donation to the fund.

L. H. Ingram, vice-president, drafted a note to that effect that it was a voluntary giving by the employees themselves. The shop fund was opened at 2 p.m. Tuesday and contributions were made [illegible]

Mr. Reid also reported that the Peterborough Lumber Company had subscribed $200 and their employees $100, which is complete.

Canada Packers Limited have subscribed $250, and employee contributions are in progress. The United Packinghouse Local contribution was reported yesterday by Mr. Alf Barber.

Martin-Hewitt Containers Ltd., Park St., have made a company contribution of $250.

"From a representative of the labor organization we have learned of their group contributions and also that they are taking steps to encourage employees generally to assist in building up the total of the fund," Mr. Reid said.

"There is collection activity in many of the plants, all on a voluntary basis, for instance at Canadian General Electric Co., Dominion Woollens and Worsteds, Harry McGinness Trailers Company, McDonnel St., Peterborough Examiner, Canadian Sealright Co., Ltd., A. Wander Ltd., Outboard Marine & Manufacturing Co., and various others.

"These are mentioned only as indications of the response of industry and its employees to the fund in aid of the families of the four men who died in Saturday's fire.

"Mayor Swanston has decided to postpone until Monday morning the meeting of the fund committee which was called for Friday. By that time we should be able to report from the industrial groups substantial progress."

Four Fire Victims Buried "They Are With God" 4,000 Attend Funeral

Church Crowded As Rev. Ivan Morgan Praises Men Who Worked In Ruins, Ministers From Five Churches Take Part

"They are with God." A crowd of 4,000 solemn people heard the Rev. Ivan Morgan speak these words of the four men who died in Saturday's fire. George Reynolds, Earl Spencley, Orville Rome and Grover Deck were buried Tuesday in Little Lake cemetery. Ministers from four city churches and the Salvation Army took part in the public funeral service at St. Paul's Presbyterian church.

Inside the church, there was no room to sit. The vestry hall, the Sunday school room, the gallery and every available place was crowded by the hundreds who came, as Mr. Morgan said, "to honor the memory of four brave men who have given their lives."

The smell of spring flowers was sweet in the church; baskets of them were banked around the four coffins.

Families at Front

At the front of the church sat the families and relatives of the men.

To them, Mr. Morgan said: "To you whose sorrow is keenest, we express affection and sympathy. We extend to you our hearts and our prayers. We want to be your neighbors who will count it a high privilege to serve you in any way, great or small. May our God uphold you and give you strength."

To the citizens who watched, and listened, he said: "While words cannot express our gratitude, deeds surely can. We saw an expression of such appreciation Saturday night and Sunday morning, when it seemed the whole community went to work to find them.

"Scores of ordinary citizens and firemen stood shoulder to shoulder, and worked harder than they had ever worked before.

Wanted to Help

"For every man in the lines, there were a dozen waiting impatiently for the chance to help. The story of that toiling is an old one now, yet it is eloquent of this city's regard for four of her sons.

"Let our respect and our thankfulness continue to be shown in deeds."

In praise of the four who died, Mr. Morgan said: "There is no word that any man may utter which could express our appreciation for their deed. They entered a place of peril and remained there, endeavoring to destroy a fire which threatened the heart of our city.

Part of Job

"Three of them had done that kind of thing before. Peril was a part of their job and risks were accepted as a common matter.

Fund Reaches $10,000, All Giving

Total subscriptions to the Mayor's Fire Fund appeared to be around $10,000 this morning.

The word "appeared" suggests only a fluid condition as new contributions were being reported from time to time.

The first receipts that were published Monday were as indication of the spontaneous effect of the fatalities of the fire as they moved citizens to immediate concern for the welfare of bereaved families and also for action in their aid.

Towards the end of the week, or beginning Monday, the subscriptions will be published only as they are listed at the Bank of Montreal by Mr. William Wallace, accountant, who is assistant treasurer of the fund. The treasurer, Cummer, is out of the [illegible] days.

It should be generally understood that all monies are to be funnelled through their various channels into the hands of the treasurer. That is the only method of keeping an exact account of gifts.

A donation of $1,000 to the fund was given by the Peterborough Kiwanis Club.

Mayor's Report

Mayor Swanston reported receipt today of the following cheques:

City Factories Shuttle Holiday For Shutdowns

A survey of Peterborough industries indicated today that the factories will be observing the holiday either Thursday or Friday. None of the factories are closing Monday.

Three plants, Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Company, the Western Clock Company and the Peterborough Canoe Company will close after today for an extra long week-end. They have given the employees a four-day holiday, from today until Monday morning.

The Peterborough Lock, the DeLaval, Dominion Woollens and the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company have decided to work Thursday and observe the holiday on Friday. This gives the employees a three-day week-end.

Three plants, the CGE, the Canada Packers and the Quaker Oats Companies, will observe the holiday Thursday and return to work Friday morning.

Coventry Singers Praised As Music Festival Closes

Peterborough's Coventry Singers brought the Kiwanis Club Music Competition Festival to a climactic close Tuesday evening at Murray St. Baptist Church. Under the direction of John D. Hooper, this comparatively small ensemble was awarded the highest marks by adjudicator Gordon Thorne. They received 86 for their singing of a Diaphenia by Stanford and 89 for an Elizabethian madrigal—a total of 177 marks.

This group was the only entry in class 5—mixed voice choirs—but they were also competing for the Lincoln trophy—presented to Canadian music festivals by the Lincoln Music Festival, England. Festival choirs from coast to coast have entered this competition which will be awarded by Mr. Thorne. Results are expected to be announced at the Canadian Music Festival Federation July 1.

"I compliment you both on your choice of music and the way you handled it," Mr. Thorne told these singers. "It was excellent ensemble singing characterized by sensitiveness and intimacy. Your musical sense and style were also very good."

Mr. Thorne also praised the performance of the three choirs entering class 1—church choirs. Entered in this class were St. Andrew's United Church choir, George St. United Church choir and Trinity United Church choir, who are also competing for the Lincoln trophy.

In his general comments on the choral work in this class, the adjudicator remarked that the standard of singing was much higher than what he would have expected in comparison to the junior choirs performing during the festival.

"I was quite pleased with these performances," he stated. "There was a definite vitality in the singing. My main suggestion would be that for their second number these choirs choose secular music. This type of music needs different treatment than sacred music and as a result would broaden the choir's outlook.

George St. United Church choir received top honors in this class with total marks of 171 for their two selections. St. Andrew's United Church choir placed second with 168 marks and Trinity United Church choir, third, with 165 marks.

Another outstanding feature in the final festival session Tuesday night was a special class competition with winners of five other piano classes competing for a special award of $25.00. Phyllis Beebe, Peterborough, won this award with her performance of The Gay Cavalier.

CHARGE WITHDRAWN

A charge of vagrancy against John Moon of Madoc was withdrawn today when Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, KC, offered no evidence. Mr. Bradshaw said Moon had been held for questioning and released.

Film Council Formed For All County

NORWOOD, May 23—(ENS)—When the Peterborough County Film Council was organized Monday night in Norwood, the Rev. R. D. Duncanson, Norwood, was elected president. It will be similar to the Peterborough Film Council which has been functioning in the city for the past four years.

Other officers elected were: vice-president, Harold Hunter, Havelock, secretary - treasurer, Mr. W. Sutton, Otonabee; executive, Mrs. J. B. Leonard, Belmont-Methuen, the Rev. Lloyd Delaney, Lakefield; Harold Lewis, field man for the Federation of Agriculture, Everett Toms, Belmont-Methuen; Harold Smith, Havelock, Wilfred Buck, Belmont Farm Forum, and Mrs. William Kitchen, Belmont Women's Institute.

Non-voting directors will be K. O. Birkin, county school inspector, and Ronald Ward, National Film Board representative.

Mr. Birkin and Mr. Ward explained the organization and function of a film council to the Norwood school board.

The council plans to buy a moving picture projector and will rent films from the National Film Board for a suggested four-week period. In turn the film council will rent out the films to the school boards enabling them to be shown at 20 places during the four weeks. The school boards will pay rental for the service.

Suggested charge was $20 a year for the school boards and $10 a year for other organizations.

A preview of the films available was shown, "The Oyster Story", similar to others that will be shown in the schools for educational purposes.

Promised Depot Sends Land Values Upward

COBOURG, May 23 (ENS). — It is expected that the first sod in the construction of the 3½ million dollar ordnance depot will be turned here next month by the Hon. Brooke Claxton, minister of national defence.

Real estate values are expected to rise in the northern part of the town where some of the wise ones had already acquired property for division into building lots.

While the ordnance depot was handled outside the Chamber of Commerce, being strictly a political matter, the Chamber of Commerce has not relaxed its efforts to secure new industry and is following up every enquiry it receives from industrial agents.

Dates Back To 1513 Tragedy

Scottish Lament Mourns Four Victims

By HARRY THEOBALD

In the repository of its community memories, Peterborough today stores away for future recollection of unforgettable events the funeral Tuesday afternoon of the four men whose deaths will be forever associated with the city's major fire of Saturday, May 19, 1951.

Time will gradually reduce the record to its indelible outlines of disaster and tragedy briefly written in the journal of the Fire Department after the manner of register that may be seen in the yellowing pages of the Brigade's experience in duty back to its inception nearly 45 years ago.

The entry for last Saturday might properly be underscored with rubric effect denoting the first service fatality, and in the multiple of four names: Grover Deck, George Reynolds, Orville Rome and Earl Spencley.

Succeeding days will turn their pages of routine happenings that comprise a moving story of the department. The months will pass in review until eventually one day book is added to another in the simple library at the Aylmer St. hall.

Flowers Of The Forest

Nothing in that official notation will recapture the elegiac music of the Canadian General Electric Company's band as they passed by in the significantly slow pace of the virtually ceremonial playing of "The Flowers of the Forest." And yet, that was a profoundly impressive detail of the city's final tribute to the memory and the sacrifice of the four men who died nearby three days ago.

Pipe Major Alex Milne went back a long way in Scottish history when he chose that old lament of the Field of Flodden as an expression of public mourning.

Scotland's King, James IV, fell that day in 1513, and with him the flower of the nobility of the north. Death struck almost every family, especially of rank, in that clash of Stuart and Tudor.

Scots Mistake

The Earl of Surrey led the English forces of Henry VIII, and in the action that began late in a September afternoon took swift advantage of a mistaken tactic of the Scots. The nation was stricken by the human cost of that dark defeat, and the grief of the people eventually inspired the dirge that was invoked once more yesterday.

From the tune of that old song gradually developed the funeral custom which Scottish pipers have honored through the centuries, becoming at length a tradition and ritual of their famed regiments of British arms.

Neither will the terse record mention the deep atmosphere of silence that pervaded the city's main street, in place of its daily business and traffic. That hushed respect will remain in the memory of the crowds that lined the sidewalks, and with it a lingering vision of the almost painfully slow pace of the funeral cortege, seemingly of reluctance in approach to four fresh graves.

The footsteps of the fraternity of Fire Fighters, officers and men of many Ontario brigades, and of their associates in Peterborough's civic service, muted in the measured strides of the lament, made the only sound above the music of the pipers as it began to recede so slowly down the street.

The McRae tartan of the kilts and ribbons fluttering from the pipes, the stalwart figure of Drum Major Albert Clark in his fur busby, ten years with the Scots Guards, and the sweet sad music of "The Flowers of the Forest," must have recalled to some of the spectators the mourning of Flodden. That lament of the pipers immeasurably heightened the spirit of Peterborough's massed manifestation of respect to the four men whose public service had made them widely known in the city. It could be heard only faintly down the old main thoroughfare when the four hearses passed by.

The average citizen might have been excused if the thought came to him at the curbside that at least in public tribute of assembly Peterborough had bared both heart and head to Deck, Reynolds, Rome and Spencley.

Finally, as the band reached Charlotte St. intersection, it broke into the familiar, lively march tune "A Hundred Pipers," the pace quickened to that tempo, and presently the long file of mourners and their dead were far down the street.

The funeral took three-quarters of an hour to pass Hunter St., leaving behind it citizens still under the bemused spell of the historic music of mourning associated with Flodden Field four centuries ago.

Sports, Family Gatherings Will Mark Victoria Day

By The Canadian Press

First of the year's warm weather holidays, Victoria Day will be celebrated across Canada Thursday with sport events, family gatherings and fireworks.

In Canada, May 24 is a holiday commemorating the birth of Queen Victoria on May 24, 1819. The good Queen died just 50 years ago, and her birth date has been a holiday for Canadians ever since.

In other parts of the Commonwealth the day is celebrated as Empire Day, which always leads to a little confusion because in Canada Empire Day is a separate thing altogether. Canadians celebrate Empire Day on the last school day before Victoria Day, which means May 23 in this instance.

Empire Day is observed by school pupils who put on plays and demonstrations indicating the links which bind the Empire and Commonwealth. Victoria Day is a festive commemoration of a great queen who ruled for 63 years and six months.

No Interference

The federal government recently let it be known that no interference is contemplated with the date of the holiday this year. In recent years there has been a growing movement to celebrate holidays on the first day of the week; to provide children and grown-ups alike a long weekend.

There had been some reports that the government would fix Monday, May 28, as the holiday this year, but the government made it clear it is not altering the date.

The order paper of the House of Commons at Ottawa still holds a bill sponsored by Jack MacDougall (L-Vancouver-Burrard) that would change celebration of May 24 and Dominion Day, July 1, to the nearest Mondays. Dominion Day this year falls on a Sunday.

But the measure is not likely to come up again this session. It provokes a great argument between those who think the holiday should be celebrated on the date designated and those who would shift it around for greater convenience.

Special Significance

The fact that it is just a half century since Victoria's death lends a special significance to this year's commemoration. The period has seen two world wars, the growth of Canada to an international power, the overthrow of Hitlerism and the rise of Communism as a new threat to world peace.

Victoria, a good queen and a good woman, would undoubtedly face the tangled world of today with the same stout-heartedness she confronted the various problems of her long stay. Her uncle, William, IV, said once, "It will touch every sailor's heart to have a girl queen to fight for." They're still fighting.

U.S. Mail Rate To Be Increased

WASHINGTON, May 23—(AP)—A 60-per-cent increase in second-class mail rates was approved Tuesday by the House of Representatives post office committee. The administration had asked a 100-per-cent increase.

Second-class mail consists mainly of newspapers and other publications.

The committee action would increase rates 20 per cent annually above existing rates until the 60-per-cent boost is attained.

The committee voted to retain the present rates for non-profit, religious, scientific, philanthropic, agricultural, labor and fraternal publications in the second-class category.

It approved a minimum mailing charge of one-eighth of a cent per copy for newspapers except those distributed free in the county in which they are published.

Nickel Company Gives 23-Cent Increase

PORT COLBORNE, May 23—(CP)—A new agreement reached by the International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. and the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind|) will mean wage increases of from 23 to 26 cents an hour plus a 40-hour week.

Mike Kopinak, president of Port Colborne Local 637, made the announcement Tuesday night at a meeting of employees. He said a union meeting will be held Thursday to ratify the agreement.

New wage rates will run from $1.53 to $1.88 an hour, except for partially incapacitated employees, who will receive $1.46.

Jailed 12-15 Years For Armed Robbery

TORONTO, May 23 — (CP) — John Chylinski, 32, Tuesday was given 15 years for armed robbery and for shooting with intent to kill. The charges arose from a holdup of a west-central grill March 2.

John Stockman, 29, and Joseph Michaniak, 35, convicted on similar charges, were sentenced to 12 years each.

During a chase shortly after the robbery, shots were fired from a fleeing automobile at two pursuing policemen.

Pats Sporting Many Kinds Of Moustaches

By WILLIAM BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, May 23 — (CP).— After six months in Korea the Canadian troops look much the same as when they arrived. That is, those originals who still are with the 2nd Battalion PPCLI. The remainder are reinforcement personnel who have reached the unit since.

With berets on, the veterans are browner-skinned and generally hardier-looking than they were when thep stepped off the Pvt. Joe P. Martinez last December. Perhaps their uniforms are less natty. There's a limit to the punishment a suit of battledress will take climbing and descending mountains, fighting battles, and even in absorbing just dust.

Even so, call a parade and the same faded, worn uniforms will still take a knife-edge crease, the webbing can still be washed clean and the hat badges can still sparkle. The Patricias have turned out ceremonial guards just behind Korea's front line that have earned the admiration of British troops.

Remove the berets, and heads which adopted "cue-ball shaves" and crew cuts aboard the Pvt. Joe show that they still are in the process of growing in.

A three-quarter-inch growth is about the average in the six months that have passed since the fad started in mid-Pacific.

Coming Back

There are signs of a head-shave recrudescence, however Led by Pte. Pete Boldt of Simcoe, a few have acknowledged the approach of summer's warmth and dust by reverting to quarter-inch brush cuts.

However, what the Patricias may lack on the head, they more than compensate for on the upper lip. Many of the men, most NCO's, and almost every officer have moustaches of varying scope

They range from the crisp, debonair Clark Gable to the ample, billowing walrus, and almost as many variations of the handlebar as there are sergeant-majors.

So popular has the Canadian fashion become that it has spread to US army units working with the Patricias. Indeed, throughout the theatre US army officers, who seldom before favored the moustache, seem to be experimenting with it.

No Beards

Beards so far just haven't appeared among the Canadian troops. On ceremonial parades the Patricias are very much the battalion that paraded before Defense Minister Claxton at Fort Lewis, Wash., last November.

But in the hills here there are differences. Their boots are an assortment of Canadian, US army combat type, British and Australian makes. Their socks and shirts are Canadian, American and British. They are beginning to wear British battle-dress trousers with their Canadian tunics, the Canadian type having become scarce.

Like the Eighth Army of Italy, they wear brightly colored scarves about their necks, and to help them up the mountain faces they have taken to carrying pogo sticks. Most officers, including the CO, who has a magnificent light stick of jet black wood, now carry them when in the hills.

The simplified English needed for dealing with Koreans about the unit has been reflected in the men's vocabularies among themselves.

Something that once was pronounced first-rate or swell, now is praised as "Number 1". Worst classification is "Number 10."

Food is called "chop chop" or "chow," while the variety of meanings with which 'okay" has been endowed is endless.

Even among themselves Canadians now commonly say "Hava yes" or "Hava no" or "I haven't or "I have."

Koreans have difficulty saying "have," but manage to get out "hava."

If you read this column with any regularity you are acquainted with Dave—Pete's buddy. Dave is in "the play" too, and when the cast was invited to put on a performance in his mother's and dad's home town his Aunt Dorothy very kindly invited Dave's family and the Moore tribe for supper before the play.

When our carload arrived we walked in on a table laid with the loveliest spring setting imaginable.

A couple of dozen dainty long-stemmed narcissi were in a low silver bowl. We rated the best silver and crystal goblets, and crown derby china too. The rich blue of the Mikado pattern, the yellow of pineapple juice in glasses, the shower of flowers were enchanting.

The food was no less so, for an expert hand had worked on it.

I want to give you the recipe for the Kentucky salad Aunt Dorothy served.

Moulded salad season is here. The cooks in well-organized kitchens will make good use of them for they are standbys for those cold meals that you assemble on a large plate—ingredients for which have been prepared previously in a burst of cooking enthusiasm.

✧ ✧ ✧

Kentucky Salad

Six tablespoons boiling water, 2 or 4 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons spirit vinegar or lemon juice, shake of salt, 1½ tablespoons gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, ¾ cup pineapple juice from canned pineapple. (Shredded carrots are optional.) Mix together boiling water, sugar, vinegar or lemon juice and salt. Heat to boiling point. Soak the gelatine in the cold water, dissolve it in the hot liquid, stirring. Add the pineapple syrup. Cool, stirring occasionally. When mixture begins to thicken, add the cucumber and pineapple well-drained and if used, shredded carrot. Pour into moistened moulds to set and chill.

I want to give a special honorable mention to Aunt Dorothy's pickled cherries and tiny gherkins. She is quite famous for these two products and justly so. Every cherry retained its stem and much of its color, and the gherkins were the tiniest I have ever seen pickled—some of them not more than 1¼ inches in length. Crisp delicious little morsels that were a perfect accompaniment for the Virginia ham.

✧ ✧ ✧

Perfection Salad with Salmon or Tuna

This is a general favorite and would serve as the protein content on any summer salad luncheon plate.

One-third cup diluted vinegar, 1½ cup boiling water, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup sugar, 1½ tablespoons gelatine, ⅓ cup cold water, juice 1 lemon, 2/3 cup cabbage finely shredded, 2 cups diced celery, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 1 8-ounce can salmon or tuna flaked. Soak gelatine in cold water. Mix boiling water, vinegar, salt and sugar, bring to boiling, remove from heat and stir in gelatine. Add lemon juice and chill until thick, and stir in vegetables and fish. Chill until set.

Jenny Lind Sang In Toronto Hall Now Ballet Spot

TORONTO — (CP)— Jenny Lind once sang in the musty old hall here that is to become a headquarters for Canada's dance devotees.

The old St. Lawrence Hall — a century-old auditorium not far from the waterfront— has been taken over by Celia Franca for her dance studio.

Beneath the ornate ceiling, gingerbreaded to 19th century tastes, Miss Franca will teach advanced ballet. She came here in February on the recommendation of Ninette De Valois, her former employer and instructor at Sadlers Wells in London. She also came at the request of some of Canada's best-known dance teachers who thought it high time to set up a national ballet.

Out to Do It.

"And I'm going to do it," said Miss Franca, "— if it takes me five years, 10 years or 20 . . ."

She doesn't seem to mind the fact that her studio is smack in the middle of a vegetable market.

"It's just the sort of place I wanted," she said. "It couldn't be better. The city has rented it to me for a very nominal sum and has promised to brighten it up with some paint."

Colorful History.

Meanwhile the hall in which Jenny Lind once sang, where a Toronto audience once heard a lecture on slavery, is filled with chairs piled on tables and mattresses. During the winter it served as a hostel for homeless men.

Soon however some 60 ballarinas will be climbing its rickety staircases to spend summer mornings and afternoons learning their routines.

They will be members of Miss Franca's summer school which she will conduct this coming season, assisted by Betty Oliphant, fellow and examiner of the Imperial Society for Teachers of Dancing in London, and by Wendy Canetta of the Royal Academy of Dancing.

Students from across Canada are expected to attend.

What's Right?

You ask a child's mother to let him visit your child for an afternoon, and you are not planning to be at home but to have the children in the care of a baby sitter or servant.

WRONG: Don't mention that fact to the mother when you invite her child.

RIGHT: Explain the situation so that the mother won't assume that you, yourself, will be looking after the children.

University Alumni Told Duty of Educated People

University trained men and women of Peterborough were told Tuesday their duty to the community: to keep citizens aware of their responsibility in a democracy; to not let the "horde of terror" sweep in.

"Democracy only works by leadership" Dr. A. B. B. Moore, president and vice chancellor of Victoria College, told the University of Toronto Alumni members present at the annual meeting. "There is danger today of becoming a completely armored corpse."

"If truth, wisdom, justice and freedom in God are the ideals by which we are going to live, then they are our responsibility" he declared.

Responsible Society

"Democracy is a responsible form of society. That is, it rests back on the good order, development and defence of responsible citizens" he defined. "Each member must be a responsible person, —I'm not referring to institutions, governments nor any portion of democracy."

"The primary task of University is to make not simply learned people and academic people, but responsible people. If it is not, it is failing in its duty" he declared.

"I'm here to remind you it's the job of education to make every man in our community responsible," Dr. Moore told the Alumni. He pointed out the means of bringing this sense of responsibility, that should have been created in primary school, to the community: by its church life, interest in government and civic affairs. Tnese are effective in facing so much cynicism, etc. in the world today he said.

Dr. Moore's address under the title "Citadel of Democracy" was short and to the point. His audience regretted the brevity.

Before it he spoke in some explanation of the increased fees, announced this week by the University of Toronto, with every other University. A great part of the fee is going back into bursaries to enable students who are unable to pay to get through University. $10,000 is the sum available in bursaries for Victoria College students he said.

Dr. Moore urged the Alumni to carry on with the work they are doing—to back up local students by offering scholarships.

He was introduced by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, and thanked by Miss Margaret White, graduate of Victoria College who commented on the popularity already gained by a McGill graduate in a short time at "Vic."

A buffet supper served in the Kawartha Golf and Country Club, to about 130 Alumnists, preceded the meeting and address.

DOROTHY DIX

Find Children Overanxious To Shift Care of Parents

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a man in my late 30's, and come from a family of ten children (five girls and five boys). All are married except me. I live with my mother, who has signed her house over to me. I am to take care of her for the rest of her life. She is going on 72, and about four months ago was taken ill so that she now needs constant care. I have asked my sisters to come one day a week each to take care of our mother and prepare the meals while I am away at work. Two of my sisters live out-of-town, so they can't come but the other three sisters and one sister-in-law were taking turns at my mother's care until two weeks ago. Then my sisters refused to continue their help so I had to hire a woman to come in to do the work.

Dorothy Dix

My younger married brother wants to take mother and have his wife care for her. I will pay her board, doctor's bills and for everything she will need. But, I don't think it right or fair for my sister-in-law to take over this job when my own sisters have refused it. I am seriously considering sending my mother to a home or hospital, going out to board myself and renting the house to help pay hospital expenses. Do you think I would be doing the right thing?

WALTER

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your sister-in-law is certainly a paragon among women to be willing to assume the care of an elderly and sick mother-in-law whose own daughters are unwilling to take on the responsibility.

Sisters No Help

Your sisters bear out the truth of the old adage, "One mother can take care of ten children, but ten children cannot take care of one mother." They may resent the fact that your mother's house is signed over to you, but this seems like a fair arrangement since the financial responsibility seems to be entirely on your shoulders. Furthermore, a ten-way division wouldn't give any one child much anyway.

The most suitable solution to your problem would be, in my estimation, to continue the present arrangement of hiring someone to come in every day, but since it is the obvious answer I suppose there must be some reason why it can't be done. If the reason is financial perhaps you could get the other sons and daughters to give you a little assistance here, since they refuse to give of their time.

Your decision about a home or hospital should, I think, rest on your mother's feelings. Is she willing to go away, or does the idea upset her greatly? If she is too adverse to the suggestion, you might take advantage of your angelic sister-in-law's good nature and let her have your mother—for a while, at least, to see how matters work out. Your mother is, after all, of considerable age and probably won't be with you too long. The least you can do—and your sisters and brothers, if they could be convinced to see it that way—is to make her last years as happy and comfortable as possible.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I was engaged to be married to a girl who insisted that we should each be free to have dates with the opposite sex without interference or questioning. I met a woman who invited me to play chess with her, which was our mutual hobby. She made it very plain that our relationship was entirely platonic. I agreed, and we spent many pleasant hours at the game. Then my fiancee found out about the platonic woman and the platonic woman found out about her and they both blew up. I reminded each of her demands and agreement, but it did no good. Now each one spends a lot of time saying what a heartless man I am. Please tell us bewildered men, just what does woman thinks she wants? BEWILDERED MAN

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Well, when it comes to a man every woman is a monopolist. And even when she isn't very keen about having him herself, as I judge your fiancee to have been about you, she wants other women to keep their paws off of him. She resents his being able to console himself for her indifference by finding pleasure in the society of any other woman. That goes about as far toward explaining the inconsistencies of women as you are likely to get, and it is something that is unpredictable and that no man can ever understand.

Also, your experience goes to show that there is no such thing as platonic friendship, at least as far as women are concerned. It is the smoke screen behind which a woman does her courting.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have been going with a man for about a year, but just recently he told me that he has an ex-wife and four children. He had previously told me his wife was dead. His sister is being married and his folks have sent me an invitation to the wedding. They also sent one to his ex-wife. Should I attend or not? ELLA

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Not only would I not attend, I'd make a complete break with this man. If he would deceive you about something as important as having a former wife still living, he's not likely to stop at other deceptions. If his ex-wife is still friendly enough with him and his folks to be invited to an intimate family gathering like a wedding, she'd be around too much for your peace of mind.

Free Swimming Class To Start At YMCA

An opportunity for non-swimmers, aside from public school students, to learn to swim will be given at the YMCA during the next four weeks. Fraser Wade, physical director, said today that swimming classes will be provided free (except for towel) for non-swimming men on Monday and Wednesday nights at 7:30.

This is the first time that the YMCA swimming program has included free classes for non-swimming adults.

At present the annual public school non-swimmers' course is being held at the YMCA and YWCA. This includes pupils from Grade 6 to Grade 8 and this year 76 boys are taking the lessons Mondays and Tuesdays under Mr. Wade. Already a number have passed the preliminary test.

Battles Own Fire Till Pumper Arrives

BRIDGENORTH, May 23 (ENS) —Dousing a fire in his home with a garden hose, Ivan Kidd, R. R. 2 Peterborough, controlled a small blaze in a bedroom Tuesday night until the Bridgenorth volunteer fire brigade arrived. The firemen then prevented the fire from spreading further and stopped it when only $400 damage was done.

Within 10 minutes of receiving the call the Bridgenorth brigade was fighting the fire. It was caused by an overheated stove in the bedroom which burnt a hole through the floor and ignited the bedroom ceiling. There was considerable smoke damage.

Received Insurance Illegally, Fined

Kenneth MacArthur, of Toronto, pleaded guilty today to a charge of obtaining unemployment benefits when he was working. Eric C. Naylor, inspector for the Unemployment Insurance Commission, testified MacArthur received $52.50 in benefits.

MacArthur signed a statement which Mr. Naylor read in court. In it the accused said he didn't understand the regulations. He admitted he had been working at a theatre part time for $12 a week.

Mr. Naylor said restitution had been made. Magistrate R. B. Baxter, of Port Hope, fined MacArthur $20 and $2.50 costs.

Charges Of Failing To Stop Dismissed

A charge of failing to stop for a Rubidge St. stop sign against Mrs. Edna Corkery, King George St., was dismissed today when no evidence was offered saying she had failed to stop.

The car she was driving was in collision April 14 with an auto driven by Albert Dwyer at Charlotte and Rubidge Sts.

A similar charge against Vincent Eastwood, arising out of an accident at Water and Simcoe Sts. in which Mrs. Vera Mackie suffered leg injuries, was also dismissed on the same grounds.

Crater Stadium

AUCKLAND, N. Z. — (CP) — An extinct volcano is to be converted into a stadium seating 100,000 persons. Industrial quarrying has greatly enlarged the crater of Mount Smart, on the outskirts of the city, and now the walls are being graded at a good angle for seating spectators.

Four Fire Victims

How indifferent we have been to that fact till now. Pray God, let us never again take the service of such men for granted."

He quoted several lines of poetry.

"They shall grow not old, as we
that are left grow old,
Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun,
and in the morning
We shall remember them."

"Their lives, their personalities, their good and gracious ways are no longer resident in these bodies around which we gather today. They are with God—their real selves—and He will clothe them with new bodies fit and able for eternity.

"'I am the Resurrection and the Life,' said Jesus, 'he that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live.'

"This is our faith, this is our hope, this is our certainty today."

Ministers Assist

The scriptures were read by the Rev. H. G. Douglas, who chose one particularly appropriate line:

"I will not leave you comfortless."

The Rev. M. P. Poole of All Saints' Anglican Church led in prayer, the invocation was given by the Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's and the benediction by Major Cyril Everitt of the Salvation Army.

At the top of the program of service was printed: "They loved not their lives unto death."

Cemetery Burial

Hushed was the swiftly moving Otonabee as it flowed past Little Lake Cemetery Tuesday afternoon.

As hushed as were the wheels and marching feet that formed four processions through the cemetery to four separate graves—the graves of four brave men who gave their lives so that the property of others might be safe.

The bodies of three firemen, George Reynolds, Grover Deck, and Orville Rome were committed to the ground in the south-eastern section of the cemetery, and the body of volunteer firemen Earl Spencley was interred on the southern hillside facing west and the city he loved.

The sky was overcast. A guard of honor 30-men strong lined the hillside approach as the four caskets passed. Relatives and friends followed each to his grave, and 60 firemen and a group of policemen marched behind the cars.

Committal of the body of Fireman Reynolds was said by the Rev. M. P. Poole, rector of All Saints' Anglican Church, and of Fireman Rome by the Rev. Ivan C. Morgan of Murray Street Baptist Church.

Last Post

Comrades of the Canadian Legion, in parties of 75 men each, stood at attention by the graves of Fireman Deck and volunteer fireman Spencley, while leaders read the graveside service The Rev. H. G. Douglas, minister of Knox United Church, pronounced the committal of the body of Fireman Deck, and bugler Earl Johns sounded the Last Post. At Spencley's grave a message was given the sorrowing friends by Major Cyril Everitt of the Salvation Army, the Rev. M. J. Aiken, minister of St. Andrew's United Church, and the Rev. C. G. Boyd, minister of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, said the committal. Bugler Thomas Best sounded the Last Post.

There was no outward show of tears or emotion as four burials took place. But Mrs. Deck collapsed momentarily. Women of the St. John Ambulance Brigade went to her aid.

Patrick Burke Funeral

Funeral for the late Patrick Burke, of 103 Parkhill Rd., who died on Thursday following a short illness, was held on Monday from the Anglesey Funeral Home to St. Peter's Cathedral.

Plans for the recruiting and setting up of this squadron in the city were announced at a meeting of the RCAF Association Monday night. Further plans were completed at a meeting today of the members of the Air Cadet Squadron Sponsoring committee, which were announced at Monday's meeting.

This committee plans to establish a squadron of 100 cadets, three officers and three civilian instructors. Youths between the ages of 14 and 17 will be eligible for enlistment in what will be known as the "City of Peterborough Squadron, Royal Canadian Air Cadets." Cadet Program

"An excellent program of activities is provided for the cadets," K. C. Dalrymple, chairman of the sponsoring committee announced at the meeting this morning. Nehru Refuses To Drop Plan

NEW DELHI, India, May 23 — (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru today informed the India newspaper editors conference his government is unable to drop or postpone an amendment to the constitution relating to freedom of the press "for a variety of weighty reasons."

In a letter published today, Nehru said the amendment which would restrict press freedom in India was undertaken for "a variety of reasons unconnected with the press."

"We would be failing in discharging our responsibility if we did not pay due regard to these weighty reasons," he added.

The prime minister assured the conference, however, that he would do all in his power to prevent government abuse of press freedom, but added "we cannot obviously ignore a large number of other considerations."

Official sources said Nehru possibly has in mind the situation which may arise if the Communists or religious factions make violent speeches during the general elections scheduled for next November and December.

Seagram TELLS THE WORLD ABOUT Canada

THIS advertisement was designed by The House of Seagram to tell the people of other lands about Canada and things exclusively Canadian.

Many people in Latin America, Asia, Europe and other parts of the world are not fully aware of the richness of Canada's natural resources, wild life, scenic beauty and cultural traditions. The more the peoples of other lands know about our country, the greater will be their interest in Canada and Canadian products.

The House of Seagram feels that the horizon of industry does not terminate at the boundary of its plants; it has a broader horizon, a farther view—a view dedicated to the development of Canada's stature in every land of the globe.

Army Sets Off Biggest Non-Atom Blast

DUGWAY, Utah, May 23 (AP) —Army engineers touched off 160 tons of TNT Tuesday, the most powerful explosion to occur in the United States without the use of atomic energy

Several hundred spectators watched as a cloud of smoke and dust bollowed up, black in color, then faded to a grey.

The explosion was part of the engineers' series of tests to determine the effect of underground blasts on various types of installations.

Engineers refused to say, specifically, what types of installations were tested Suggestions have been made that structures simulating underground factories and warehouses were used.

Record Effect

Instruments, housed in underground structures, recorded the effect. But what the instruments showed was not disclosed

Spectators were permitted no closer than four miles to the blast site.

The dynamite was buried at a depth intended to be approximately the same as the hole that would be made if a bomb of similar capacity were dropped.

The explosion, made at the Dugway proving grounds, about 90 miles south-west of Salt Lake City, occurred in clay. Other tests will be made later in sandstone near Castle Dale, Utah, and in granite in Unaweep Canyon, near Grand Junction, Colo.

Russia's Secret Police Slowly Starving Brave Estonian Partisans

By THOMAS HARRIS

STOCKHOLM — (Reuters) — The resistance movement in Russian-annexed Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania are in danger of being wiped out after nearly seven years of heroic struggle against Communist aggression.

Russias' secret police are slowly starving out these "forest brethern" as the movements are termed locally.

Reports from the three Baltic countries confirm that Russia's drive is directed first and foremost against the Estonian partisans. They have been hitherto fed by patriotic farmers who were allowed to keep their own homes, although their actual land was collectivized.

But a new decree by Estonia's Moscow - dominated Communist government says that farmers' cottages shall be pulled down. The farmers will be rehoused in communal living centres on the collective farms.

This means they can be more closely watched by the Russian secret police and forced to turn over all their produce to the state instead of reserving part of it for the "brethren."

Russia in Hurry

Russia, rushing up submarine bases, radar station, military airfield and guided missiles bases on the Baltic coast, is in a hurry to carry out this measure.

Similar decrees to turn the farmers of Latvia and Lithuania out of their homes are reported under preparation.

The Estonian partisans are trying to meet this threat by slowly shifting from their forest headquarters into town factories and offices. To do this, they must obtain "workers books" in which Estonians' past and present employment is registered.

Fortunately for them, false workers' books, according to direct reports from Tallinn can be bought for about 1,000 roubles each.

The "Brethren" can afford the price because they have not yet exhausted the 4,000,000-roubles haul they made in 1948 by robbing a Russian mail train.

Intensifying Hunt

But the Russian secret police is intensifying the hunt of partisans to check this drift from the forests to the towns. They have been sending out patrols to comb the forests. One patrol ambushed and killed "Hans the Terrible," one of the key leaders of the "Brethren." The other leader, Elmar Hilp, is still safe. The Russians have put 25,000 roubles on his head but no Estonian has yet betrayed him.

At the same time Russia is having "unreliable" officials purged in the three countries.

A Red Army general, Johannes Lombak, has been appointed minister of the interior in Estonia replacing Aleksander Resev. Another Red Army man, Leonid Letzman, has taken over Aleks Kelberg's job as Communist party secretary.

In Latvia three cabinet ministers have been dismissed and replaced by Russians.

Hit Hard

Nature as well as these Russian measures has been hitting the partisans hard. They live in caves or open air camps on dry spots on wooded marshy land. Many have succumbed to this life, made harder by the increasing shortage of food.

A number of independent sources agree in estimating the number of partisans in the three countries at 7,000. Lithuania (farthest away from Russia) has 3,500, Latvia 2,000 and Estonia (nearest to Russia) 1,500.

Hunting them are a total of about 100,000 secret police, but supporting the partisans are the populations of the three countries, totalling about 6,000,000 people.

Wealthy Soldier Married In Jail

ROME, May 23. (CP) — An Italian millionaire-soldier, who went to prison 15 years ago for hitting his commanding officer with a stool, today married a poor seamstress in the chapel of grim Regina Coeli (Queen of Heaven) Jail.

He is heir to a fortune of 420,000,000 lire, about $682,000.

Owns Bicycle Built For 4

CALGARY, — (CP) — Most people have heard of the "bicycle built for two," immortalized in song since grandfather's day. But not so many have heard of a "bicycle built for four."

This relic reposes in the Calgary store of Matt B. Wolthuis, a middle-aged man who has never known any other work except that of building, repairing or racing bicycles.

Matt inherited the bicycle built for four from an old bicycle shop that went out of business many years ago.

At least eight feet long, it requires some nerve and experience to pilot it. Apparently added weight makes it considerably more difficult to steer than the ordinary kind. Four novices riding it might run into a lot of grief.

Matt, who has worked in his store for most of the 23 years since he emigrated from Holland, also has an 1880 bicycle, popularly called the "penny-farthing" in its hey-day. Its front wheel is almost five feet in diameter, while the rear wheel is only about 18 inches. The wheels are less than an inch thick.

The pioneer bicycle man occasionally rides this monster. But he has a better purpose for it. Publicity - wise, he exhibits the penny-farthing in front of his shop as an eye-catcher for prospective customers.

Matt never got rich, but he did achieve happiness with the bicycle, his first love.

He is particularly proud also of his assistant, Fred Anderson, believed the first man ever to cross Canada on a bicycle. He accomplished this feat in June, 1946, covering the 4,600 miles from Vancouver to Sydney, N.S., in 25 days.

Secret Plan For Korea General Says

Collins Believes Russians Flying Some of Red Planes

WASHINGTON, May 25. — (AP)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins told senators today a new and secret plan of campaign for the Korean war is being mapped by the pentagon.

He declined to discuss it at senate hearings on the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur but said "a definite and new directive" will be issued "shortly."

Collins said "we are quite convinced" that Russians are flying some of the Communist planes in Korea.

Collins, US Army chief of staff, also said that equipment captured from the Chinese Reds is "mostly Russian."

In a general discussion of the situation as to the air war, Collins said "The Russian air has never come down below this river up here in any strength."

Not Identified

He was using a map and the river was not immediately identified in the stenographic transcript. Presumably it was the Yalu, the river forming the boundary between Korea and Manchuria.

Then Collins said his use of the word "Russian" was a slip of the tongue "because they have not been in at all."

He added:

"But the Chinese planes some of which we are quite convinced are flown by Russians, is what I am talking about."

Briefing the senators generally on the Korean situation as of this time, Collins said the Allies have moved to the counter-offensive and the Red Chinese "are in pretty complete retreat along the front."

15 Miners Trapped

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 25. (Reuters)—Fifteen miners were trapped nearly 2,000 feet deep in an ore mine in Staellberg, Central Sweden, today when a transformer exploded and blocked the exit shaft. The explosion occurred as five other miners were going down in the elevator. Their fate was not immediately known.

Appoint Walsh To Command 27th Brigade

OTTAWA, May 25 — (CP-.—Brig. Geoffrey Walsh, CBE, DSO, a 41-year-old engineer whose army career has taken him from Spitzbergen to China, was named today to command Canada's new 27th Brigade Group and direct its preparations to serve in Europe or elsewhere.

The Army announced, too, that the only Victoria Cross winner to stay in the regular forces after the war—Lt.-Col. John K. Mahony, 39, of New Westminster, BC—will command one of the three infantry battalions in the brigade.

The Army said the brigade's four main fighting units will be commanded by these men:

Lt.-Col. Mahony, a quiet, serious Irish-Canadian who married last fall. He won the VC for holding a bridgehead over the Melfa River in Italy seven years ago this month. His leadership guaranteed final success for cracking of the Hitler line a few miles south. He will command the so-called 1st Canadian Infantry Battalion.

Lt.-Col Richard L. Rutherford, OBE, 35, of Vancouver and Kingston, married with one child. He led a company of the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders in the early stages of the northwest Europe campaign in the last war. He will command the 1st Canadian Highland Battalion

Former Attache

Lt.-Col. Edward W. Cutbill, DSO, 38, of Niagara Falls and Hamilton, married, who served in the North African, Sicilian and European war theatres in the last war. He will command the 1st Canadian Rifle Battalion. Col. Cutbill was Canadian military attache in Poland until about a year ago. The Poles have refused to allow Canada to replace him.

Lt.-Col. Marcellain L. Lahaie, DSO, 37, of Buckingham, Que., married and one of four brothers still serving in the Army. He campaigned in France, Holland, and Germany in the last war. He will command the 69th Field Regiment, RCHA, the artillery unit.

Companies Serving

Lt.-Col. Mahony's unit will be made up of companies recruited by the Loyal Edmonton Regiment, Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment from Belleville, Algonquin Regiment from Kirkland Lake, an dthe Carleton and York Regiment from Fredericton.

Lt.-Col. Rutherford's Highlanders are being recruited by the Canadian Scottish of Victoria, Seaforth Highlanders of Vancouver, 48th Highlanders of Toronto, Black Watch of Montreal and North Nova Scotia Highlanders of Amherst, N.S.

UN Troops Drive Across 38th

Counter-Offensive Closing Pincers On Retreating Reds

TOKYO, May 25. (AP) — Allied tanks and troops today slashed across the 38th Parallel at two more points in their official-designated all-out offensive to hunt down the battered and retreating Communists.

The new crossings kept up the pressure on the Reds, who already were battling an Allied spearhead now thrust four miles into North Korea on the East-Central front.

Field dispatches said the new crossings were made on the western front north of Seoul and on the central front northeast of Chunchon. Both these tankinfantry teams withdrew to South Korea by nightfall.

"The 38th Paralled means nothing to me," said Lt.-Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the US Eighth Army.

He showed he meant it by crossing into North Korea himself. Van Fleet visited a tank and infantry task force. It was sitting solidly as a huge road block north of the border astride the Reds' escape route from the east-central front. He said his army's tactics of pursuing the Reds into their own territory was a gamble but is paying off.

"The Eighth Army is in an all-out offensive," Van Fleet said. "Considerable progress" has been made.

Field dispatches told of open flight of Chinese toward the 38th parallel from some fronts, while they fought stubbornly on others. The pursuing Eighth Army, Van Fleet said, will "not be limited by such barriers as the 38th parallel in chasing them down."

Working Well

"It looks like the pursuit tactics are working well," Van Fleet said. There will be no technical limit on running down the Reds. He puts it this way:

"The 38th parallel has no significance in the present tactical situation. It means nothing to me. The Eighth Army will go wher-

Speed Up Search

TIMMINS, May 25. (CP)—Police and Lands Department officials today are pressing an extensive search of large islands on Nighthawk Lake 23 miles east of here for three missing fishermen. A fourth member of the party, Donald Spearn, 22, was discovered alive on the south shore of the lake Wednesday Using walkie-talkies for boat-to-boat and boat-to-shore communication, police are combing islands which the fishermen's swamped craft is thought to have passed while drifting.

Trawlers Collide 12 Killed, 51 Survivors

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 25 (CP) —Death toll in Thursday's collision between two French fishing trawlers on foggy Grand Banks was set at 12 in official reports today . The reports came from a rescue ship which arrived here and from the trawler's owners in France. There were 51 survivors, including a boy seaman suffering from exposure.

First eyewitnesses reports of the collision were given here today with the arrival of the French rescue frigate L'Aventure. The frigate's captain, Jean Blanchard of the French Navy, gave details of the collision 100 miles southeast of Cape Race.

The captain said the trawler Ginette Le Borgne of Fecamp, France, was rammed broadside by the trawler Jacquer Coeur.

Le Borgne went down in 10 minutes after the collision which smashed half the lifeboats and spilled her crew of 45 men into the sea.

In Heavy Fog

The two ships were moving in heavy fog that muffled warning signals. The Coeur was on her way back to France with a sick crew member and the other trawler was still towing her big net.

When the collision occurred, the impact sent a shower of steel splinters at the crew on deck and it is believed some were killed instantly. When the remaining half of the lifeboats were lowered, the survivors jumped into the sea and burdened by cumbersome oilskins made their way with dificulty to the boats.

Meanwhile ships in the vicinity raced to the scene in response to the distress signals. The Coeur had picked up the survivors and the dead were transferred to the L'Aventure which was only 35 miles away when the collision occurred.

Child's Body Buried By 6 Ft. Clay

Searchers Not Sure Youngster There For Several Hours

TORONTO, May 25. (CP)—The crushed body of 12-year-old Barbara Huntingdon was found today under six feet of clay—part of a landslide that trapped her Thursday on the beach below Scarboro bluffs on Toronto's eastern outskirts.

Police and firemen from the 200-man crew which had dug for hours in search of the girl, said she apparently tried to run out into Lake Ontario to escape the landslide.

About 100 tons of clay had broken almost every bone in her body. She was found face down, with her arms thrown over her head in a vain attempt at protection.

The girl was the second child in 10 years to die in a cave-in under the towering Scarboro Bluffs. In 1944, Thomas Burton, 10, was crushed by a falling chunk of clay.

Not Certain

Searchers had not been certain the girl was trapped under the huge fall of earth. But on Thursday they found an empty paper bag in which she had carried her lunch on the beach. Her red bicycle was at the top of a 200-foot path leading to the cliff-top. Her black-and-white collie, Joe, was standing on the beach near the landslide.

Neighbors, police, firemen and Boy Scouts began digging Thursday night, and resumed at dawn today after two youth who had been swimming near the spot said they saw the girl walking along the beach and later heard the landslide.

Customs Men Seize Diamonds Worth $200,000

MONTREAL, May 25—(CP)—RCMP Thursday arrested a Romanian displaced person at Montreal airport and seized 10,206 cut diamonds valued at more than $200,000.

The arrest was made shortly after the suspect, 21-year-old Jacob (Jack) Gross, stepped off a plane at the airport in Dorval on the last leg of a transatlantic flight.

Police would not divulge the man's last port of call.

Police said the arrest was made in co-operation with customs officials at the airport and resulted from a concerted round-the-clock check against diamond and gold smuggling into Canada.

It was said to be the largest seizure of gems ever made in Montreal.

Superintendent James R. Lemieux, head of the RCMP Criminal Investigation Branch here, said his men were investigating the source of the diamonds. He said Gross apparently was a tool used to carry diamonds into Canada, possibly for distribution in the United States.

The diamonds were hidden in two rubber containers.

It took three RCMP experts four hours to count the diamonds —two of them doing the actual counting and a third checking the counting and marking the gems off.

King Confined With Influenza

LONDON, May 25—(Reuters) —The king was confied to his room at Buckingham Paalce today with a mild attack of influenza.

Princess Elizabeth is taking his place at two public ceremonies today and Saturday

These are the presentation of new colors to the 3rd Battalion Grenadier Guards at Buckingham Palace this morning and the presentation of the king's color to the R.A.F. in London's Hyde Park Saturday.

The king was visited by his doctors this morning but no bulletin was issued.

The king was last confined to his room in March when he was suffering from a feverish chill.

Earlier this month, he had a vacation at Balmoral, Scotland, with Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret

There was no official confirmation of reports that the vacation had special significance with regard to the king's health or that he flew to Balmoral so that he could rest his right leg on which he had an operation two years ago.

During the dedication service to the Festival of Britain May 3, observers commented on his drawn appearance.

6 Railway Workers Killed In Head-On Quebec Crash

PARENT, Que., May 25. (CP)—Six Canadian National Railways employees died Thursday in a rail collision in this remote northwestern Quebec district. Five others were injured. The head-on collision between a freight train and a ballast train occurred on the Quebec-Cochrane line at a point between Dix and Langlade stations.

The two-men engine crews on both trains were killed in their cabs when the two trains met about 2:15 p.m., EDT, 335 miles from Quebec.

Two other workers aboard the heavily-laden ballast train also died.

A CNR list of dead, completed today, gave these names: B. L. Robert, Riviere du Loup, work train engineer, and his fireman, J. P. Groslouis, Loretteville; H. Stafford, Montreal, freight train engineer, and his fireman, Simeon Chretien, Reviere a Pierre; L. Desjardins, Senneterre, and Henri-Louis Bolduc, Quebec, both aboard the ballast train.

Taken Out By Plane

Two of the injured, Kelly Delisle, of Senneterre, and J. A. L. Lasante, of Parent, were taken by plane and ambulance to Val d'Or, in the gold mining district to the south.

They were picked up by a plane from Senneterre piloted by Adrien Neveu who made a landing on a lake four miles from Dix.

At Senneterre they were placed in an ambulance which made the trip by road to Val d'Or.

At Val d'Or hospital, Lasante was said suffering from burns to the body and arms, while Delisle was said to be suffering from burns and a broken nose.

New A-Tests At Eniwetok

WASHINGTON, May 25—(AP) —The United States announced today it has "successfully" carried out atomic tests at Eniwetok Atoll in the Pacific including some experiments that may lead to H-bombs.

The tests were announced jointly by the Atomic Energy Commission and Defence Department.

They included the blast and heat effects on "structures, aircraft and various other items" as well as measurement of radiation from the weapons.

The announcement said in part: "As previously announced, test activities at Eniwetok are under security restrictions including those of the Atomic Energy Act. Information obtained from research on nuclear detonations, the major purpose of the tests, is secret. In furtherance of the President's announcement of January 31, 1950, the test program included experiments contributing to thermonuclear weapons research.

"Information on several projects in fields of biology, medicine and radiology will be declassified and provided to appropriate agencies of the government when results have been analyzed and evaluated. The program also included comprehensive measurement of blasts and thermal effects on structures, aircraft and various other items."

2 Men Toss Bomb At British Embassy

DUBLIN, May 25 (Reuters) — Police searched the back streets of Dublin today for two men who tossed a bomb at the British embassy Thursday night and left leaflets threatening the lives of the King and Queen.

General opinion in Dublin is that the men are attached to remnants of the outlawed Irish Republican army. But one police official was reported as saying: "We have no doubt there is Communist influence involved in this."

The leaflets left on the steps of the embassy declared: "The English King and Queen visit Ireland at the peril of their lives." The Royal couple were due to visit Belfast, Northern Ireland, June 1 and stay there four days.

Thursday night's bomb, thrown into the basement of the embassy here, did little damage. Fleeing from police, one of the men fired a shot.

Police Inquiry Now Postponed

SAULT STE. MARIE, May 25 (CP)—The investigation into police administration here by the board of police commissioners has been indefinitely postponed, it was announced today. The hearing had been scheduled to resume tonight.

The reason for the postponement, Crown Attorney Ian Munro said, was that board chairman Judge J. H. McDonald was advised against a night meeting because of poor health.

Chief Constable I. L. Robertson, who was strongly criticized by the police association and four ex-policemen during the first two days of the hearing, has been scheduled to take the stand tonight.

Trace Stolen Bonds

NEWARK, N.J., May 25—(AP) —Five men were arrested today by the Federal Bureau of Investigation on charges of interstate transportation of $20,000 in stolen Canadian bonds. K. McKee, special agent in charge of the Newark office, said the bonds were part of the loot in a $336,000 bond robbery last Aug. 26 at the Beaverton, Ont., branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Pleads Drunk In Kidnapping

MONTREAL, May 25. (CP)—Quebec Provincial Police are holding Frank Maxwell, wanted on a Toronto warrant charging him with abducting a Toronto boy last Wednesday.

Police said they picked up the 29-year-old Toronto bread salesman at the home of one of his sisters in suburban Coteau Rouge.

When arrested, Maxwell told police he brought five-year-old Martin Frenette to Montreal in his automobile, but didn't mean to.

"I was half drunk at the time and I didn't know the kid was in my car until I was halfway to Montreal," Maxwell told arresting officers.

Two Bank Robbers Jailed Seven Years

KITCHENER, May 25 (CP) — Seven-year penitentiary terms were imposed today on two men who admitted robbing the Bank of Nova Scotia branch at nearby Linwood May 14.

Floyd Klinck, 25, of Galt, and Philip Reardon, 20, said to come from the Aylmer district of Southwestern Ontario, pleaded guilty.

Klinck was given a year concurrently on two charges of forgery and two of uttering.

Iran Prepared Fight To End

TEHRAN, Iran, May 25—(AP) — Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh tearfully asserted today that Iran will "fight to the end" to achieve oil nationalization.

The aged government head, interrupting the guarded seclusion with which he has met threats on his life, told a press conference only the nationalization of his country's chief resource could save Iran's people.

Britain announced today she is sending her tough 16th Parachute Brigade of 4,000 men to the Mediterranean Island of Cyprus — withit easy striking distance of Iran.

In Berlin Gregory Pushkin, Soviet ambassador to the East German government, was reported to have told East Germans that Russia will "resist" injection of foreign troops into the Iranian crisis.

Fate Of Baby Polar Bear Worries Churchill Residents

CHURCHILL, Man., May 25 —(CP). — The fate of Nanook is causing concern to the residents of this Northern Manitoba town on the west coast of Hudson Bay.

Nanook is a baby polar bear.

About two months ago Charles Webber, pilot of a commercial plane flying out of here, picked up two tiny cubs at Pelly Bay, 725 miles north of here in the North-west Territories. The mother bear had been kileld by a native.

Webber realized that the bears —they were only about 10 days old—would not survive without special care, so he loaded them aboard the plane for the return flight.

While in the North-west Territories he landed at Repulse Bay because one of the tiny orphans proved to be a problem in the plane. A priest, Father Didier, took him off Webber's hands and promised to give him a good home.

Nanook, without her brother, continued on and took to civilization. She soon became a source of interest and entertainment to everyone as she waddled around on her shot legs and big feet, making friends and posing for photographers.

It is the children she loves, and they love her. She likes to show off, alternately cuddling and drinking from her chocolate-milk filled bottle.

However, Webber realized Nanook could not find a permanent home here. He applied to Ottawa for permission to sell her to a Chicago zoo.

He received a telegram in reply refusing permission to remove the bear from the North-west Territories.

But to return her to the Territories would mean death because now Nanook knows nothing but friendship from the hands of man.

Patricias Winning Private War

Australians Lose First Round In Battle Of Flags

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, May 25—(CP)—Round one in the Canada-vs.-Australia "Battle of the Flags" is over and would seem to have been won by the Canadians, on points.

The battle continues.

Begun when a raiding party from rear headquarters of the Princess Patricias stole the Australian national ensign — the only one in the frontlines area—from rear headquarters of the 3rd Battalion, Royal Australian Regiment, the good-natured prank is assuming major proportions.

Strictly in fun, the units' respective areas nonetheless never had more thorough round-the-clock patrols than since the inception of the campaign.

While the Patricias still have their flag—and the Aussies' — they've conceded to the "enemy" the loss of one flagpole.

Aussies Stunned

So stunned were the Australians when they saw a great red-and-white banner advertising "ham and eggs" flying from the pole before their own headquarters, that in their confusion they forgot to haul it down.

The Patricia patrol had transferred the banner form a nearby canteen operated by the Navy, Army and Air Force Institutes.

To the Aussies' chagrin, United States Army convoys were pulling up at their HQ, placing great orders for bacon, eggs, toast and coffee.

Friendly visits continue between the sergeants' and officers' messes of the two units, the Australians casting covetous eyes on their captive flag.

Mined Area

However, guarding against further depradations in their own perimeter they have mined—yes, mined—obvious approaches, and whenever Canadian officers such as Maj. Don Grant of Vancouver (who commands the Patricias' rear HQ) arrives a general stand-to is ordered.

The subject never arises in conversation when officers of either unit are present, and ignoring the whole affair Grant blandly invited the Australians to a mess party one evening.

The opportunity was not lost on the Australians, whose drivers surreptitiously, in the dark, immobilized all nearby Canadian jeeps, placing thin paper between the rotor arm and the points in the distributor.

Not So Slow

But the Canadians weren't slow, either.

While the Australian drivers were busy elsewhere, their own jeeps were jacked up and placed on blocks, leaving the wheels a half-inch off the ground.

Well wined and at an advanced hour of the night, the Australians (whose drivers also had been entertained meanwhile) took leave of their hosts—temporarily. In the dark, and with all sorts of Canadian help, they tested transmissions, gear boxes and everything else conceivable before — more than an hour later — the "trouble" was located.

Gleefully next morning, Canadian drivers went about removing paper from their distributors, restoring their jeeps to the road.

Still There

A quick check was made to ensure that the Australian ensign had not been recaptured.

It still was there—with the Patricias' regimental crest, the initials "VP" (for Victoria Patricia, first names of Princess Patricia) now superimposed on the Union Jack in the upper left-hand corner, and the Patricias' distinctive red flashes prominent among the seven white stars on the blue background.

Still safely held, too, was the Patricias' own flag.

But it couldn't be hoisted.

The Aussies had made off with the pole.

Concussion Kills Star Athlete

Coach's Gun Blast Ruptures Heart Of Paul Vamplew

TORONTO, May 25. (CP)—A young Canadian racing star dropped dead on a cinder track Wednesday night, his heart ruptured by the blast of his coach's starting gun.

Paul Vamplew, 17, rated as future great in middle distance running, died a few minutes after a blank cartridge accidentally discharged in a revolver held by Lloyd Percival, well known athlete and sports mentor.

Dr. W. L. Christie, coroner, said Vamplew died of a haemorrhage when his heart was ruptured by the explosion in the gun at close range. The findings of an autopsy discounted an earlier theory that a paper wad in the cartridge might have penetrated to the youth's heart.

Dr. Christie said the blast penetrated the youth's chest and reached the heart. No trace of the cartridge wadding, or any other foreign matter, was found in the wound.

Rare Accident

The accident, which occurred during a break in track practice at Toronto's Pantry Park, was described by Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson as one of the rarest he had encountered in 20 years as a coroner.

The type of starting gun which caused the runner's death was described by Dr. Lawson as "very, very dangerous." He said the guns might cause more deaths unless they are banned and replaced with cap pistols.

Tests conducted with the gun showed blank cartridges were capable of splitting a board six inches away. "It proved conclusively," he said, "that any blank cartridge fired within six inches of a person could kill anyone."

Pervical, who was helping Vamplew train for Saturday's track meet at the University of Western Ontario in London, related Thursday night how the accident occurred.

"Paul had finished a race," he said. "It was a warm up and I wasn't satisfied with his performance. I knew he could do better, so I let him go over to the bleachers and sit with another runner for a half-hour.

"I went over to where Paul and the other lad were sitting. I put my left arm around his shoulder and was leaning my other arm on my right leg which was resting on the bottom seat of the bleachers.

Giving Pep Talk

"I was giving Paul a bit of a pep talk. You know what you do when you're trying to train someone into peak condition. You'll urge a lad along perhaps 50 times in a night, because you want him to give his best.

"After a pep talk, some of the boys often jump up and say 'Okay Cap'. Paul was the same way.

"The gun was in my right hand, lying limply. Paul bounced to his feet and hit my hand. The jarring must have knocked my finger against the trigger, for there was a blast and Paul shouted: 'Holy gee'!

"Paul looked all right. Then he put his hand to his chest. When he took it away it was covered with blood. He threw his arms up over his head and suddenly collapsed."

SARNAK

Mr. Stanely P. Dexter. Deep Cove, B.C., is a retired locomotive engineer and 64 years of age. Here's what Mr. Dexter says: "I tried many different kinds of medicine to relieve my pain, but nothing helped until I started taking SARNAK. I got relief from the first day."

Yes, you should try SARNAK as have thousands of others in Canada who suffer from rheumatic neuritic and arthritic pain, sciatica, backache lumbago or neuralgia, some minor forms of kidney and liver upsets, bilious dizzy spells, nutritional anemia, lack of vitality and nervousness caused by these symptoms. SARNAK is so effective for aches and pains and general run-down condition that you usually get results within the first few days.

Asks Eight Billion Help Friendly Lands

WASHINGTON, May 25. (AP) —President Truman asked for $8,500,000,000 Thursday to help friendly countries throw up a defensive shield against Russia.

"The Soviet threat is worldwide," he said in a message to Congress outlining a broad new foreign aid program covering the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952. He said the Communist attack may come through "armies marching across frontiers," or by internal subversion, political infiltration or sabotage.

In asking new billions to help puncture Russia's dreams of world conquest, Truman said the money will go to speed shipments of American arms and economic aid to nearly 50 friendly countries around the world. These include Formosa, Iran and other powder-keg centres, but the heavy accent was on Europe. Nearly two-thirds of the total was sought for arming Atlantic pact countries.

Slightly more than two-thirds of the total, $6,250,000,000 would be earmarked for military aid. The balance of $2,250,000,000 would go for economic help.

Others injured and due to be taken by train eastward to Latuque were: H Bourcier, a conductor; F R Blouin, brakeman on the freight train, and a man named Berrigan.

The two locomotives derailed after crashing together and a flat car in the ballast train was driven up on top of the engines trapping the engine crews.

Fire swept the coal tenders and burned several hours.

The other two victims were crushed.

Nine cars—five on the freight train and four on the ballast train—left the tracks.

The accident disrupted communications and hampered identification of the dead and recovery of the bodies.

The first auxiliary train left Senneterre for the scene of the crash 60 miles away almost three hours after the accident.

The freight train left Senneterre bound for Parent 140 miles to the east at 7.30 a.m. EDT. The work train, heavily-laden with ballast, had set out from Monet about 20 miles east of where the wreck occurred.

Late Thursday night emergency crews cut through the wreckage with acetylene torches to extricate the engine crews.

MONTREAL, May 25 (CP) — The American dollar today opened at 6 19/32 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, down 1/32 from Wednesday's close. That is, it took $1.06 19/32 Canadian to buy $1 American. The pound sterling was $2.98 7/16, down ⅛ from Wednesday's close.

Quebec Outlines Pension Program

QUEBEC, May 25—(CP)— As soon as federal legislation for an enlarged old-age pension program is passed, the Quebec government is prepared to enact concurrent legislation of its own, it was learned here today.

If necessary, a special session of the Quebec Legislature will be called. The Quebec Legislature's regular sessions are held at the start of the year.

The Quebec government's decision is the outcome of a two-day Federal-Provincial conference on pensions concluded Thursday.

Premier Duplessis headed the Quebec delegation to the meeting in Ottawa at which "general agreement" on the principles of the new pensions plan was reached.

The plan calls for equal sharing by Federal and Provincial governments of the cost of pensions to the needy between the ages of 65 and 69

16 Countries Fight In Korea

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., May 25—(AP)—Unofficial figures indicate that more than 50,000 fighting men of 16 countries other than the United States and South Korea are in the United Nations line as the Korean war enters its 12th month today.

The figures are incomplete here because the Pentagon declines to release them all, a United States delegation spokesman said.

But delegation sources in the UN and published figures combined give a picture of the United Nations team that has just staved off another Communist offensive in mid-Korea.

The British force remains the largest, outside the United States and South Korean, forces. American ground forces are estimated at more than 250,000 men. A Korean government official last week said that the ROK forces also number about 250,000 men.

Report Prices Firm On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, May 25—(CP)—Prices were firm as the Session progressed on the stock market today.

Industrials opened slightly lower but soon managed to edge ahead. Papers, constructions, banks, refining oils and manufacturing companies showed a majority of gains.

Steels, foods, utilities and liquors were lower and textiles, agricultures and retail stores were mixed. Most industrial price changes were fractional.

Base Metals were fairly mixed but the tendency was to advance. United Keno Hill, Steep Rock, Sherritt Gordon, Quebec Manitou and Iabrador add fractions while Golden Manitou, Falconbridge, East Sullivan and Cobalt eased.

Western oils were up pennies.

In golds, price changes were held to small amounts and gains and losses were abolt balanced.

MP Criticizes Civil Defence

OTTAWA, May 25 — (CP). — Canada's civil defence program stirred controversy in the Commons Thursday night.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC-Nanaimo), Progressive Conservative military critic, said the Federal provisions for the protection of the civilian population in case of attack are 'paltry."

Health Minister Martin, civil defence chief, said the general is wrong and Canada's precautions stack up with those of other countries.

In the civil defence discussion, Mr. Martin said the Federal government cannot operate the organization; this must be done by the provinces and municipalities. For that reason the effectiveness of the program cannot be measured accurately by the amount of Federal spending.

The military side of the debate revolved around the employment of civilians in the Defence Department. Mr. Claxton told the Commons that civilians are being hired in large numbers to free servicemen for operational work.

Civilians, Mr. Claxton disclosed, cost less than men in uniform. Their average yearly cost was $2,300, against a total of $3,200 for uniformed non- officers.

ever the situation dictates in hot pursuit of the enemy.

"We intend to exploit every advantage in carrying out our objective to find and kill the enemy."

The whole United Nations line was moving forward at the begining of the 12th month of the Korean war. Solid gains of two to six miles were punched out Thursday.

Reds Backed Up Fast

The Reds backed up fast. But they left rear guards who fought bitterly to slow the Allied advance. Communist artillery forced an Allied tank patrol to return to the main body of troops.

The Chinese retreat route in the east was blocked by a huge UN armored force astride the main highway, nearly four miles north of 38.

Infantry and artillery with the Task Force seized the Choyang River crossing near Inje and dug in on both sides after a dramatic 13-mile drive. The bridgehead was reported firmly established at 8 a.m. Friday. Allied tanks patrolled the Hongchon-Inje highway and battled with Reds in the hills.

The action split the Chinese armies and forced shattered remnants of Red forces to take to the mountain trails. There planes and plodding troops hunted them down.

Battered By Planes

Planes battered retreating Chinese and North Koreans around the clock on all roads leading north. They reported 50 trucks were knocked out during the night by flare-dropping planes.

American tanks which rumbled into Chunchon Thursday led infantrymen back into the central highway hub Friday.

Nineteen American prisoners of war—18 Marines and one soldier—were rescued in that city where Chinese in hasty flight had abandoned them.

AP correspondent Nate Poloweтzky said the general UN advance met only scattered resistance in the west and west-central sectors. Opposition was stiffer in the central and east-central areas where the US 2nd Division had shattered the Chinese second offensive.

There were stubborn, see-saw fights for isolated hills between Red rearguards and advancing UN troops. In one case American troops by-passed a ridge after three unsuccessful attempts to take it.

Fierce Turks, stopped for a time Thursday night on the central front, rolled forward Friday.

Churches Accept Organic Union

TORONTO, May 25 —(CP)—A leading figure in the United Church of Canada said today that central bodies of his church and of the Church of England in Canada accept organic union as the final goal of conversations between the two communions.

However, the Rev. Gordon A. Sisco, secretary of the United Church general council, writes in the United Church Observer that the movement toward union still faces "a long process of trying to find agreement."

"What we hope to see is a gradual growing together," he said in the article which reviews the background of discussions launched in 1943.

The article in the semi-monthly paper quotes from a series of the general synod of the Anglican Church confirming the acceptance of organic union as the objective.

One letter from the Anglican Church said: "You have every right to inform the members of your commission on union and the executive of your general council that organic union has been accepted by the Church of England as the ultimate goal of our conversations."

Father's Death Bereaves F. C. Paterson

Archibald J. Paterson, father of Frank C. Paterson, representative in Peterborough County of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, died suddenly Thursday morning at his son's home, 624 Rubidge St. His age was 91. He had been in fair health until about ten days ago. Death was an unexpected effect of his advanced years.

Mr. Paterson was born on the family farmstead, Kennedy Road, Scarboro Township. His great-grandfather and grandmother had come together from Scotland in 1818, and were pioneer farmers of York County. He had been retired from active farming since 1914.

Mr. Paterson was appointed in 1935 an honorary life member of the Ontario Curling Association. His name occupied fourth place in its enrolment of curlers to receive that distinction. He had been a curler 70 years, having joined the old Ellesmere Club in York as a youth of sixteen. Prior to coming to Peterborough seven years ago, he was a member of the Royal Canadian Curling Club, Broadview Ave., Toronto, and for the last two seasons he was attached as member to the Peterborough Curling Club. The winter game of the Scots had been his chief recreation.

Predeceased by his wife, Mary Chester, in 1929, Mr. Paterson leaves two sons, Frank C. of this city, and George R. Paterson of the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa; his sister, Mrs. W. A. Traill, Toronto; and three grandchildren, Mrs. G. L. Nix of Chilliwack, BC, Mrs. Hugh Reid of Montreal and William Paterson of Smith Falls

Service will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Bruce Gordon of Trinity United Church this evening at 7.30 o'clock at the Comstock funeral home, where the body is resting until Saturday morning.

The funeral by motor will proceed then to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Scarboro, the old church of the family. The service there at 2.30 p.m. will be followed by burial in the churchyard cemetery.

10 Fatalities In Canada Over Holiday

By The Canadian Press

Canadians celebrated Victoria Day in traditional style Thursday —setting off thousands of firecrackers for the youngsters; heading into the country to open summer cottages, and jamming sports stadiums.

Golfing, fishing trips and picnics, or just plain work in the garden were popular in almost perfect weather in Central Canada.

Rain in the Maritimes and cool cloudy weather on the Pacific Coast put a slight damper on holiday activities.

There were the usual number of fireworks accidents, none of serious nature. Probably the most spectacular was the trick of a youngster at Aurora, north of Toronto, who dropped a lighted firecracker into a gas tank. The explosion sent his chum flying 20 feet in the air. His injuries were minor.

In Toronto and Montreal, sports enthusiasts turned out in force for International League baseball. Soccer, baseball, car and horse racing sent more than 50,000 to stadiums and fields in Toronto.

Token of Friendship

At the governor-general's residence in Ottawa, a crystal-and-bronze chandelier given to Canada by the British Government as a token of friendship was formally presented.

Most Canadians were off work for the celebration of good Queen Victoria's birthday. But there were the usual number of persons on the job, including a handful of civil servants in Ottawa who had to work because the House of Commons was sitting in the afternoon and evening.

The holiday was marred by the violent deaths of at least 10 persons across Canada.

A Canadian Press survey showed six killed in a train wreck in Northwestern Quebec, two killed near Montreal and another two in British Columbia.

The two deaths near Montreal were Claire Ste. Marie, 6, and her brother, Gerard, 3, struck by an automobile while crossing a highway at St. Constant, Que.

In Vancouver, Herbert G. Smith, 40, was fatally injured in a collision between his automobile and a street car. A 14-year-old cyclist was also killed in Vancouver.

Ruled Illegal

WASHINGTON, May 25—(AP)—Racial discrimination in District of Columbia restaurants was ruled illegal Thursday by the municipal Court of Appeals. The decision resulted from a test case brought against a restaurant last year after the restaurant refused to serve three Negro customers.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 25—(AP)—Famed flyer Eddie Rickenbacker is just about set to become a rancher. Richard Frederick of San Antonio said he was selling his luxury Bear Creek ranch to the airlines owner-First World War ace for $290,000.

Oshawa Sweeps Field Meet St. Peter's Runs Second

Running, jumping, throwing and pole vaulting for a total of 149 points, Oshawa high school athletes won the first Peterborough and District track and field meet Thursday at the exhibition grounds. The sponsors, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, hope to hold the meet annually.

St. Peter's high school for once indicated supremacy over PCVS. The SPS track artists ran up a total of 110½ points, 12 more than the PCVS entrants. Uxbridge high students pulled through in third place with 84 points while one contestant from Bowmanville High, Lyle Hooper, picked up 13 points.

Oshawa easily outpointed the other schools in the boys' senior, intermediate and junior events and in the girls intermediate.

Aggregate boys' honors were divided between Rich Wilson of Oshawa Collegiate Institute and Jim Galoska of PCVS. On the last senior event Galoska pole-vaulted into the tie with a first place over Barry Lee of Uxbridge and Bruce Meredith of OCVI.

Senior Pole Vault

The senior pole vault event was easily the most thrilling of all. Contestants were whittled down to Galoska, Lee and Meredith. The bar went from eight feet to nine feet six inches before dropped by Lee. But the three continued until it rose to nine feet nine inches and the ten feet, Galoska finally victorious, with Meredith second and Lee third.

Kay Simons, also of OCVI, swept the girls' aggregate honors with five firsts for 25 points out of a possible 30. She failed to place in the intermediate ball throw but picked up first honors in the 50-yard, 75-yard and 100-yard dashes, broad jump and high jump.

St. Peter's Rita Healey was second for girls' effort with 16 points from firsts in the senior 75-yard and 100-yard dashes, a tie for a first in the 50-yard dash and thirds in the high jump and ball-throw.

Senior Mile

Jogging the mile in 5'22 minutes Bob Harris, OCVI, captured the senior mile event easily from John Jones and Harry O'Neill, both of St. Peter's. Harris finished a good 20 yards ahead of Jones while an eighth of a mile ahead of O'Neill. Both SPS milers were tired after previous events, heading the SPS team.

A PCVS miler controlled the junior mile event.. Hugh Outram, well-known member of the Peterborough Harriers Club, placed first in 5:37 minutes for Garnet and Grey, while Oshawa's McEachran placed second.

Admits Firing Shot

CHARLESTON, S.C., May 25—(AP)— Police said a negro preacher told them he fired a shot that fatally injured a white boy Wednesday after he was taunted by a group of white boys with the cry of "nigger." The boy, Edward Davis, 13, was struck at the base of the skull with a .32-calibre bullet and died Thursday. Police said the preacher Nathan Brown, 66, said in a statement he fired the shot.

Ottawa Ready To Draft Pension Program

OTTAWA, May 25 (CP)—The federal government, following a conference with the provinces, now is ready to draft legislation for an enlarged old-age pensions program.

A two-day federal-provincial conference on pensions ended Thursday with "general agreement" on principles. The conference was called to discuss legislation under which the federal government and the provinces will share on a 50-50 basis the cost of pensions to the needy between 65 and 69.

The program will be separate from the federal government's plan under which pensions of $40 a month will be paid to everyone 70 and over regardless of means, provided they have lived in Canada for at least 20 years.

In a statement issued at the conclusion of the conference, Health Minister Martin said:

"There was a full exchange of views and general agreement on the principles to be incorporated in the proposed old-age assistance legislation and on the conditions under which it would apply in the provinces."

Hope Uniform Action

In an interview following the conference, Mr. Martin said:

"It is naturally our hope that all provinces will take uniform action in this matter, not only in the interests of equitable treatment for all Canadians, but also in order to avoid the administrative complications which may otherwise arise.

"Nonetheless, if any province comes to the conclusion that it cannot, for reason of its own, implement this part of the program in its jurisdiction at the present time, or that it can only do so on a limited and partial basis, this will not affect the federal government's offer as it applies to the other provinces."

It will not affect the payment of pensions to those 70 and over.

Guard Diplomats

SINGAPORE, May 25—(Reuters)—Detectives escorted five Communist Chinese diplomats to the airport Thursday and saw them into a plane for Hong Kong. They had arrived Wednesday from Calcutta on their way to Peiping and detectives stood guard throughout the night outside thir hotel rooms. Four were from the Communist Chinese embassy in New Delhi and the fifth was a cousellor in Rangoon.

Gypsy Ceremony

MARSEILLES, France, May 25 (Reuters)—Gypsies from all over France gathered near here Thursday to sing mass and vespers in Romany in the fortress church of Our Lady of the Sea—an annual ceremony in honor of the Gypsy patron saints, Salome and Sarah. Many of the gypsies left big modern cars or luxurious car trailers to step into gaily-painted traditional gypsy caravans for the journey to the church.

Dangerous Landings

A few days ago our local drive-in theatre got into the news with an account of a plane landing in the grounds and attending the show. Now we hear that a plane from the U.S. landed on Number 2 highway between Brantford and Hamilton and refuelled at a service station. In a photograph of the incident the service station operator is smiling broadly: no wonder; aeroplanes take a good deal of fuel.

* * *

We are concerned with this craze. Highways and drive-in theatres were built for cars; they were never intended for planes. Highway Number 2 is one of the busiest and most important thoroughfares in the province of Ontario. There are regulations forbidding landing on public highways except, of course, in an emergency. We trust that investigation will be made, and if it is shown that there was no real necessity for landing on the highway the offender should be punished. As for the other landing we understand that it was made on a field adjoining the theatre and then the machine taxied into the enclosure. There is no objection to this, provided that permission from the owner of the field had been obtained. There is always a danger, however, that somebody will try to outdo this effort and go too far, like a boy who has been put on his mettle by being "dared" to do something more adventurous than anybody else.

* * *

We are glad, however, to note that the spirit of adventure is by no means dead. It is a spirit which is prized and valued in wartime. Unfortunately there is little opportunity in our ordinary and rather prosaic everyday lives to allow scope for adventure. Consequently the bold spirits are constantly getting into trouble for landing on highways, stealing stones from churches, and so on. Society should be able to devise some means of giving these people an opportunity of working off their high spirits in more useful causes. There is a need for men of this stamp in Korea today, but when the fighting is over the fighting men will come back to a world that worships money and respectability and half despises the qualities to which it gave lip-service in wartime.

Recipe For Long Life

An old lady in London, Ontario, who is due to celebrate her hundredth birthday on Sunday gives her recipe for longevity, and we pass it on to our readers. She advises us to eat potatoes with their skins on. This injunction takes us back to a jingle that we heard in the nursery. It goes as follows:

Dearly beloved brethren,
Is it not a sin
To eat baked potatoes
And throw away the skin?

Unfortunately the advice that we obtain from the old on how to attain a ripe old age is so varied that it would take a lifetime to conform to it. Not only that, but their advice is often contradictory. Some tell us to keep away from the bottle; others proclaim the life-giving properties of beer. The smokers and the non-smokers are pretty evenly divided in the centenarian age-group. One old man recently prescribed large quantities of strong coffee, which physicians assure us has a bad effect on the heart. The Russians advocate bicarbonate of soda, but this may probably be Communist propaganda. The great yoghurt craze which is sweeping the nation (hot air usually comes from a Southerly direction) is claimed to have a "long-term" effect.

In spite of all this we have not managed in recent years to equal the records of the ancients. Apart from Zaro Agha, the Turk who is reputed to have lived for 168 years there is nothing to compare with Old Parr, who lived for 152 years. What wouldn't we give for an interview with this venerable old gentleman! It is said that somebody went to visit him, and seeing an old man asked if he were indeed old Parr. "Nay," replied the greybeard, "That's me feyther," and pointed up to a tree, where the old fellow was ensconced in the branches. Such records make a hundred years seem very small beer indeed.

These records pale into insignificance compared with the records of the patriarchs of the Old Testament. Methuselah is supposed to have lived for no less than 969 years. Before we dismiss these figures too hastily we should not assume the impossibility of living such an exorbitant period. They may possibly be the result of luxuriant Oriental imagery, but at the same time it is possible that we have forgotten the secret of long life. There are other possible explanations. If months are substituted for years it solves some of the difficulties, though creating others. If, on the other hand, we adopt the thesis of "Worlds in Collision" it is quite possible that the period of the revolution of the earth round the sun might have been considerably shorter before the Flood. But such speculations have no bearing on our present conditions, and the only recipe for a long life that we can confidently give is that of Rabelais—fais ce que voudras (do as you will).

Another Side Of The Dionne Story

A book has appeared in the U.S.A. which has raised once again questions which were discussed when the Dionne quintuplets were born; it is The Dionne Legend: Quintuplets In Captivity, by Lillian Barker; it is not being sold in Canada because of what the publishers call "certain inaccuracies in the text," although these inaccuracies have not brought about its suppression in the U.S.A. And from what we hear of the book it would certainly arouse lively controversy if it were to be widely distributed here.

Whether the book is inaccurate or not we do not pretend to know. It apparently presents the story of the quintuplets from a point of view which is congenial to Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne, and it makes some statements about the late Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe which will displease those people who have attributed to that gentleman god-like wisdom, infinite tenderness and a more than maternal solicitude for the young. Dr. Dafoe appears in the book as a somewhat blundering, though well-intentioned, country physician, who was not averse from having the quintuplets displayed for money in the U.S.A., and who had the doubtful taste to allow himself to be initiated into the Saints and Sinners Club of New York as a "Doctor of Litters." Indeed the Doctor is represented as a man whose fame was due in as great a measure (at least) to phenomenal good luck and a talent for acting the part of the simple country healer, as to any medical skill he may have possessed.

The Dionne family apparently feel that the care of their children was arbitrarily taken out of their hands, and that Dr. Dafoe made himself a figure of medical renown far beyond his deserts. Whatever the truth of the matter may be, one thing is sure: the quintuplets were permitted to grow up without being exploited for money, and without suffering from the comparative poverty in which the family had lived before their birth. This is not a bad record, in a world in which there is no perfect justice.

Time For Living

The late E. V. Lucas, in one of his delightful books on Italy, remarks that the Italians cannot be a greedy race—the word for waiter in their language has five syllables. Certainly they believe in taking things in a more leisurely fashion than we would have ourselves believe that we do. But do we really hustle as much as we think we do? Is not all this talk of the busy rush of modern life part of an elaborate game of self-deception, as least as far as we are concerned in a city of the size of Peterborough? Housewives spend an immense amount of time in telephone conversations on the most trivial matters while the cake is burning in the oven. Friends and business acquaintances hold us up in the street for hours on end for the sole purpose of "chewing the rag" until it is the consistency of pulp. After all this, of course, we have to put on a spurt of frenzied energy in order to make up for lost time, but it need not have been lost in the first place!

Judging from vocabulary alone it would appear that far from us being hustlers in comparison with the Old World it is we who are the laggards. In the Old Country they talk of trams, while we prefer the sesquipedalian circumlocution of street-cars. Lifts and elevators, prams and strollers, undertakers and funeral directors, in each case the British word is shorter and pithier. We almost included pub and beverage room, but they are not synonymous, as anyone who knows will tell one. Even the words denoting affirmation and negation are often replaced by a word of two syllabic grunts roughly translitterated as "Uh-huh" and delivered in a different tone of voice to distinguish between yes and no.

So it seems that we are already leading spacious and graceful lives of leisure without realizing it. We have our noses applied to a grindstone that only exists in our own imagination. It is our kinsmen across the sea who are the real victims of the turmoil of modern life. We are sorry for them.

France Revives Stained Glass

by PIERRE d'HARCOURT

IT has become commonplace to point out the weakening of religious feeling in the art of the twentieth century. It now seems, however, as if artists are once more turning to religion for inspiration. This can be seen in novelists like Grahame Greene and Francois Mauriac, in poets such as T. S. Eliot and Paul Claudel, musicians like Igor Stravinsky, Francis Poulenc and Vaughan Williams, and most recently in the work of modern French artists, such as Henri Matisse, Fernand Leger, Georges Rouault and Lurcat, in decorating churches with paintings, stained glass and tapestries.

✧ ✧ ✧

MATISSE, now over eighty, is completing the decoration of a Dominion chapel at Vence in the south of France. Not far from Vence, the small church of Assy in the Alps is another example of modern religious art. There the decoration has been done by Leger, by Lurcat (who has supplied the altar with a magnificent tapestry) and Rouault whose paintings have been admirably transcribed into stained glass.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE is nothing particularly surprising about this return to a formerly traditional religious inspiration. It has many psychological, moral and social reasons, but an equally interesting aspect of it—and the one which will concern us here—is the resurrection of techniques which in the course of the centuries had seemed to have become impoverished to the point almost of being lost altogether. Such is the case of tapestry, which during the last dozen years or so, through the work of Lurcat, Gromaire, Matisse, Duffy, Picasso, Leger and Braque, has had a surprising renaissance. Such above all is the case of the art of stained glass which seems to have a blood transfusion enabling it currently to attain heights it has rarely reached before.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE history of stained glass in France has indeed known many ups and downs. An admirable period which stretches from the beginnings of the art until the seventeenth century, a decline at first slow and then accelerated during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, and now in our time a surprising revival which at times attains the perfection and power of the old masters.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHEN the French Revolution closed the churches in France, the art of stained glass was completely decadent. The rare glaziers who survived, contented themselves, lacking other orders, with setting pieces of colourless glass in lead. Amateur collectors, mostly British, obtained possession of the glass from the abandoned churches. Thus, by a curious reversal of events, it was from England that the taste for old stained glass was later to return to France.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN the eleventh century an artist-monk wrote: "The fresco is the art of Greece, the stained glass window is the art of France". He could have added that the fresco is the art of countries of blazing light which fear the sun, while in the cold and grey dampness of the Northern countries the stained glass window seeks and exploits the least rays of a tired sun.

✧ ✧ ✧

FRESCO and stained glass are education as well are art. When, nearly ten centuries ago, the great and the wealthy followed church services in their precious and delicately illuminated psalteries, the humble and the poor had beneath their eyes the frescoes and the stained glass windows. They were the Bibles of those who could not read.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE is no trace left of the work of the eleventh century glaziers. It was in the abbatorial church of Saint Denis, where so many French kings were buried, that the Abbe Suzer gave a place of honour to the painted window telling a story. A few fragments of glass installed about 1140 can still be admired there. The art of the glaziers of Saint Denis won them a great reputation. Their services were called for not only in the western provinces of France, but also at Rheims and Strasbourg and finally in England, as the windows of York and Canterbury cathedrals show.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE glass of that period is characterized by backgrounds of a marvellously luminous blue. In the thirteenth century the blues began to lose their limpidity and turned to violet. The glaziers of Chartres were, at the beginning of this rich century, the guardians and masters of the art of stained glass. It was the period when the Gothic cathedrals were springing up in many places and where the opportunities for the use of stained glass became so great that the output of the artists, whose numbers were insufficient for the task, was affected. The violets appeared and with them the greys which help to give the rather sad tones of the naves of that period.

✧ ✧ ✧

AT the beginning of the fourteenth century appeared the silver yellow. The glass became more luminous and lost its mosaic character. Towards the end of this century the whites and greys began to dominate and the stained glass window seemed to be more the work of the architect and of the sculptor than of the painter.

✧ ✧ ✧

AT the end of this century, however, the use of lined glass allowed a new virtuosity in tonalities and colour reasserted its pre-eminence. So began the renaissance of the fifteenth century, of which the most striking example is in the windows of Bourges cathedral. This renaissance continued throughout the sixteenth century and its influence spread beyond the frontiers of France to the Netherlands, Germany and England.

✧ ✧ ✧

TODAY, after a long stagnation, another great renaissance of the art of stained glass is taking place in France. The greatest contemporary painters are taking part in it and such moving work as that of Georges Rouault can bear comparison with the most authentic masterpieces of the old craftsmen of the Middle Ages.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Laugh, Humourist, Laugh!

(Hamilton Spectator)

WE were intrigued, in reading about the Governor - General's annual literary awards in Canada for the year 1950, to read about winner of the Medal of Humour. This achievement (it was won by a Vancouverite) rates high—and so it should. But it was the little piece about the judges in this field that took our eye, for among them were Louis Blake Duff, "humourist," Welland, and Paul G. Hiebert, professor of chemistry, and "humourist," University of Manitoba, Winnipeg. The third judge, B. K. Sandwell, for some baffling reason, was simply described as an editor.

Now how does a man rate, or why would he have to bear the label of "humourist"? We can think of no more crushing fate than to have to go through life officially ticketed as a "humourist," from the day of a child's adoration of the "funny man," to that awful moment at a big public meeting when there would be a burst of applause to greet "this man you all know, the famous Canadian ecnomist and humourist . . . John Schultz!"

Nothing could be less funny than the weight of knowing that you had to be funny—or, which is worse, funny on other people's terms. It's easy enough when a fellow is merely ticketed a "savant" (which means he knows enough to get around awkward questions) or a "publicist" (which means goodness know what), or a "raconteur" (which means the best thing to do is run for the nearest exit). But the fierce challenge of "humourist" would be deadly—("now you're all going to hear something really witty, from Frank Blitz, well-known tax collector and humourist!")

And what is humour anyway? Everything is funny, said Will Rogers, as long as it is happening to somebody else. Humour, said a critic, is gravity concealed behind the jest. No mind is thoroughly well organized, Samuel Coleridge observed, that is deficient in a sense of humour.

Frankly we can think of no more devastating strain on one's sense of humour than to be known publicly as a humourist—even if the humourist happened also to be a savant.

Ancient Libel?

(Brantford Expositor)

A British historian was so upset by what he saw on the plaque of an old cannon in the yard of a New York public school that he spent two years of dogged research to prove that it was incorrect. At stake was the military honour of an anonymous and long-dead British officer, loosely accused of a Revolutionary "war crime." As the result of the Briton's detective work, the reputation of this man, whoever he was, may be cleared and the inscription amended.

W. H. W. Sabine, British historian and author now living in New York, decided to investigate when he saw the inscription to the memory of General Nathaniel Woodhull "who on August 28, 1776, while a captive was mortally wounded by a British oficer near this spot for refusing to say God save the king." He knew that officers of opposing sides treated each other with the greatest respect in those days and he thought the story told by the inscription was highly improbable.

In a dusty old scrapbook in the New York Public Library, Mr. Sabine found an account of General Woodhull's statement to a Lieut. Robert Troup, who was with him when he died in a British prison camp on Sept. 20, 1776. The general, according to Lieut. Troup, said he had surrendered his sword to the American Tory, DeLancey, who was serving with the British against the Americans, on the latter's promise that he would observe the courtesies of war. Thereupon, General Woodhull continued, Delancey struck him with his sword, wounding him in the arm.

Because of other evidence he uncovered, Mr. Sabine thought it was more probable that the American general was wounded while attempting to resist arrest. Since the facts are none too clear, he has suggested that the inscription be amended to read: "Erected to the memory of General Nathaniel Woodhull, who, on August 28, 1776, near this spot, when surrounded by British forces and gallantly resisting capture, received wounds from which he died on September 20 in that year."

This is a far cry from the inscription that public school children there have been reading since 1904. Perhaps the record will be put straight so that succeeding generations will not be given an erroneous account of what happened on that day so many years ago.

Awkward Question

(Windsor Star)

A Michigan resident, Mr. Kenneth Gape of Grosse Ile, has decided to give up a $270,000 estate in England rather than abandon his American citizenship. At least, that's the way he tells it. A cynical person might say he's not returning to Blighty because the financial inducement is inadequate.

There is considerable evidence to support this suspicion. It turns out that the estate yields only about $5,000 a year after property taxes. Apply the high British income tax rate to that sum, and the balance will shrink to approximately $2,500.

Now $2,500 a year, and not very much to spend it on, hardly can prove attractive to one who has become accustomed to a good job and three squares per day. If one's devotion to the land of his adoption wavered even slightly on learning he had fallen heir to a foreign estate, this should be sufficient to steady it.

Besides, the law says the estate may not be sold. The inheritor must live on it. In view of all thse impediments to acceptance, Mr. Gape would seem to be acting sensibly in remaining where he is. What would you do?

CHOOSY

Tramp: "Beg pardon, but do you happen to have some pie or cake that you could spare an unfortunate wanderer?"

Lady of the House: "No, I'm afraid not. Wouldn't some bread and butter do?"

Tramp: "As a general rule, it would, but you see, today's my birthday."

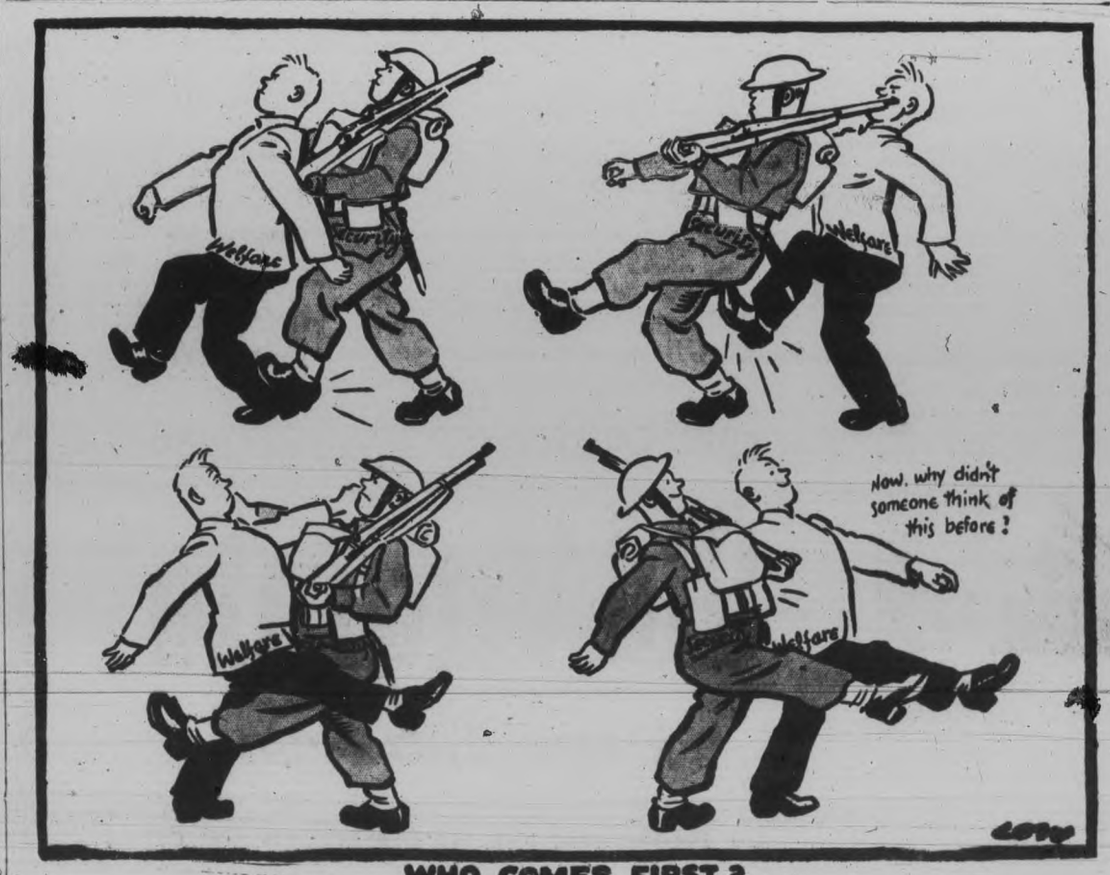
Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)



And they arrived at the country of the Gadarenes, which is over against Galilee. And when he went forth to land, there met him out of the city a certain man, which had devils long time, and ware no clothes, neither abode in any house, but in the tombs.

When he saw Jesus, he cried out, and fell down before him, and with a loud voice said, What have I to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of God most high? I beseech thee, torment me not. (For he had commanded the unclean spirit to come out of the man. For oftentimes it had caught him: and he was kept bound with chains and in fetters; and he brake the bands and was driven of the devil into the wilderness.)

And Jesus asked him, saying, What is thy name? And he said, Legion: because many devils were entered into him. . . . And there was there an herd of many swine feeding on the mountain: and they besought him that he would suffer them to enter into them. And he suffered them. Then went the devils out of the man, and entered into the swine: and the herd ran violently down a steep place into the lake, and were choked.

When they that fed them saw what was done, they fled, and went and told it in the city and in the country. Then they went out to see what was done; and came to Jesus, and found the man, out of whom the devils were departed, sitting at the feet of Jesus, clothed, and in his right mind; and they were afraid.

Now the man out of whom the devils were departed besought him that he might be with him: but Jesus sent him away, saying, Return to thine own house, and shew how great things God hath done unto thee. And he went his way, and published throughout the whole city how great things Jesus had done unto him. (Luke 8; 26-30, 32-35, 38, 39.)

Plant Breeders Seeking New Oil Seed

SASKATOON, Sask. — (CP)—Plant breeders are searching for the right varieties capable of giving the prairies a profitable oil seeds crop.

The University of Saskatchewan's Department of Field Husbandry this summer is starting a safflower breeding and production program. The safflower, or carthamus tictorious, is a member of the thistle family.

Its common varieties have spines like a thistle and are hard to handle, but there are some spineless varieties and the plant scientists here are trying to develop one of these into a high-yield, early-maturing strain suitable for the Western growing season.

Increasing demand for edible and industrial oils has stimulated interest in safflowers. Dr. B. C. Jenkins, directing the project, said safflower oil is used in manufacture of paints and varnish, but it is edible too. It does not have the same drying qualities in paint manufacture as linseed oil from flax, but this quality makes it a better edible oil.

Easy To Handle

Dr. Jenkins said he does not anticipate any great difficulty in breeding an early - maturing variety. He thinks farmers would find safflowers attractive because they can be handled like any other grain crop, without any special equipment.

The seeds look like sunflower seeds, the growing of which has become popular in Southern Manitoba for salad oil manufacture. In size the safflower is about the same as barley grains.

The seed can be planted with ordinary grain drills and the crop can be harvested with an ordinary combine. The safflower plants grow about the same height as grain crops—18 to 40 inches—and compete with weeds much better than flax, for instance, Dr. Jenkins said.

Canada Will Reintroduce Plan For Sharing Food

MEXICO CITY. — (CP) — A Canadian plan for organizing world-wide distribution of food, first advanced two years ago, will again be one of the leading topics of discussion at the fifth annual conference of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers.

The federation is an international farmers' organization with membership in 26 countries. It will meet here May 29. It acts in an advisory capacity to the food and agriculture organization of the United Nations.

In 1949 the federation met at Guelph, and elected H. H. Hannam of Ottawa as president. Mr. Hannam president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, still holds the post.

At that 1949 conference, Canada's delegation suggested that food distribution be organized under an international agency which would strive to see that needy nations were fed at prices they could afford.

There was also a plea for increased production at that time. This year again, Mr. Harmam says, [illegible] orderly distribution will be discussed by the federation.

Labor Topic

Another subject important to Canadians will be the international movement of farm workers. Delegates have been seeking a method of moving workers across international boundaries to do farm work, both on a seasonal and year-round basis. Such a system, it is felt, would provide labor in areas when and where needed.

The Federation will hear a report from the United Nations on the status of plans to relieve and reconstruct devastated areas, and will discuss practical steps which it might take to aid such work.

Leading speakers include Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, former Canadian deputy minister of mines and resources, now director of the Technical Assistance Division of the UN, and Nelson Rockefeller, chairman of the US Advisory Committee.

Canada's delegation will number 30 and will be led by W. J. Barker, vice-president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and president of the Manitoba Pool Elevators, and J. A. Marion, second vice-president of the Federation, who is president of Quebec's French-language farm organization.

Willson gave no details of what he described as a "pilot scheme" Britain is to experiment with. He said a new type of pulp-making plant will be shipped "somewhere" soon which, it was hoped, would begin to show results by fall.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Mimico Mounties play the Petes at 8.45 tonight in Miller Bowl, first clash of the OLA senior "A" season between these two clubs. The Mountaineers are rugged exponents of the gutted-stick game, and there'll be plenty of torso tossing in this tilt. It rates a big crowd. Moon Wootton made the difference in the Petes' opening win against Hamilton Tigers, and we think he'll do that frequently this OLA semester. Because the ace goalie from Owen Sound is definitely not an in-and-outer—he's solid game after game. Started as a kid in '41 and has since played on Ontario junior and senior championship clubs and with the Mann Cup winner last year.

* * * * * *

As Clayt Browne points out, the OLA goaltender today must be right on his toes the full 60 minutes of every game. He is expected to pick off long shots, angle drives, crease-edgers, backhanders and everything else incoming forwards can figure out. As well as smother rebounds and try to keep from having his head cut off in scrambles in the crease. That's a hard ball and the sticks aren't too gentle on the noggin, either, whilst rival forwards love to body a goalie when they get a chance. It's a tough, tough job, and a guy who has made the goalie grade like Wootton is really tops. He'll be a big help to the Petes this campaign.

Still Know Their Stuff

The suggested lacrosse benefit for families of the fire victims is tentatively slated for next Wednesday night in Miller Bowl. And many of the oldtime Petes—who play the present Petes — can still give an excellent account of themselves in senior play. So it might not be too one-sided at all. Red Creighton, Emmett Creighton, Rowan Chute, Mick Magee, Dutch Pammett, Farmer Connelly, Pup Curtin and others are either still in active competition or have only been out a season or two. Doug Miller, Pete King and Buster Whitton haven't played recently, but can't have forgotten their lacrosse prowess of other years. Yes, it might be a right interesting exhibition.

* * * * * *

That was a long ball game last eve at Riverside, the Petes taking it over Staffords 12-9 but requiring a bit more than three hours for the task. With 20 walks, 18 left aboard, four wild pitches, three hit batsmen, two injuries and five miscues, plus the odd argument and a 10-minute delay in starting—well, it all added up to slow going. Staffords out-hit the Petes, had a margin on earned runs and left more on base, but the Petes cashed in on walks, errors and some timely thumping to gain the verdict. Windley went the route in slow fashion for the Torontos, while Doug Plunkett took over in the fifth from Nobby Clarke for the Petes. Hayes led the losers at bat and Denofrio was tops for the victors. He and Spragge pulled off nifty grabs in the field, too.

Bowl Softball Coming

Bowl softball for girls and men starts off early next week and runs through till the autumn. On Monday, the lasses lift the lid with a twin bill, Marines meeting the Woollens at seven, followed by Ashby's versus Westclox under the lights. Haven't got their Wednesday setup yet, but the schedule will be released any day. They won't be using Friday nights for the time being, but will play some games in Cobourg those evenings. Tuesday e'en sees the males go in ntwo tussles, opening at seven—it'll be Revoy Motors vs. UEW, and then Orphans vs. Lakefield. Wimp Borland and Al Quemby are two of the umps and one or two more may be added. Pat Calladine has offereed to help out, if needed.

* * * * * *

Some late info on lacrosse trickles in. We're told the proposed benefit game here next week is off. Also, that Mimico obtained Red Hartley of Weston but the OLA awarded other Weston stars to Toronto West Yorks. Fergus Thistles were given Ralph Speck of Peterborough, as well as Don McWhirter and Harry Kazarian of Owen Sound, as Don Campbell and Bill Allum were ruled lacrosse property of Brampton. It's going to be a tough loop, eh? OLA has also decided that Harry Wipper, Nit O'Hearn and Russ Slater may perform for the Petes—which is good news, if belated. Lou Vitarelli's OLA juniors are off for Alliston tonight in tourney semi-finals against Brampton. Petes play in Toronto on Sunday.

May Pay Debt By Giving Dad Hambletonian

By FRITZ HOWELL.

COLUMBUS, O., May 25 (AP)—Gib White, harness racing son of a harness racing father, owes his 78-year-old dad a Hambletonian.

And don't be surprised if he pays the debt by winning the $60,000 classic August 8 at Goshen, NY.

It's like this. Back in 1933, in the stables of Ben White, a filly was foaled. Ben, dean of the nation's reinsmen and four-time winner of the Hambletonian, gave the youngster to his 19-year-old son Gib, who was recovering slowly from the effects of a serious illness.

Gib named her Rosalind, and told his dad that his biggest hope was that the darling daughter of Scotland and Alma Lee should win the Hambletonian, greatest of the three-year-old trotting classics.

Old Ben brought the filly along slowly, and then drove her to a straight heat victory to pick up $35,000 in August of 1936 in the top trotting race of them all.

Folks who saw the finish said there wasn't a dry eye in the face as Gib raced into the winner's circle and threw his arms around his dad. Old Ben's victory with his ailing son's filly became one of the legends of the sport, and years later a book, Born to Trot, recorded the story in detail.

But Gib has a chance, and a good one, to write the epilogue this year.

Auction Purchase

And he gets that chance because an Ohio horseman went shopping for a yearling trotter two years ago, and picked up a good one at auction.

The horseman is Bill Foster of Marion, and the yearling he bought is True Boy, son of Worthy Boy. The sire finished second to Ben's Volo Song in the 1943 Hambletonian, the last time the veteran piloted a victor in the big race.

Before True Boy ever got to the races, Foster sold a half interest in the colt to the elder White, and young Gib, now 37 and recovered from his long illness, last year drove the two-year-old to six wins in 18 starts, a 2.05 1-5 record, and purses in excess of $16,000.

True Boy hiked his Hambletonian victory hopes Thursday night at Toledo as he won the $5,000 Matron Stake, with Gib handling the reins. The win was scored over a field of Hambletonian eligibles in the first big test for the three-year-old trotters.

Gib will be up behind True Boy in the Hambletonian, and he has his sights set on driving his dad's horse right into the winner's circle to pay off that 15-year-old debt. True Boy is one of the five winter book favorites.

Cobourg Legionaires Trip Ontarios 16-12

COBOURG, May 25.—Cobourg Legionaires took the traditional 24th of May Lakeshore League baseball game here Thursday, 16-12, from Port Hope Ontarios.

Bryan Hart started for the winners, but gave way in the fourth to Ingamells, former Galt hurler, who finished it up.

Long John Holman was charged with the loss.

Bill Douglas, Port's right fielder, got the longest hit of the day in the sixth, a homer to deep centre, with two on.

George Campbell, Cobourg left fielder, led both teams at bat with three for five, one a double.

Port Hope ..... 224 003 010—12

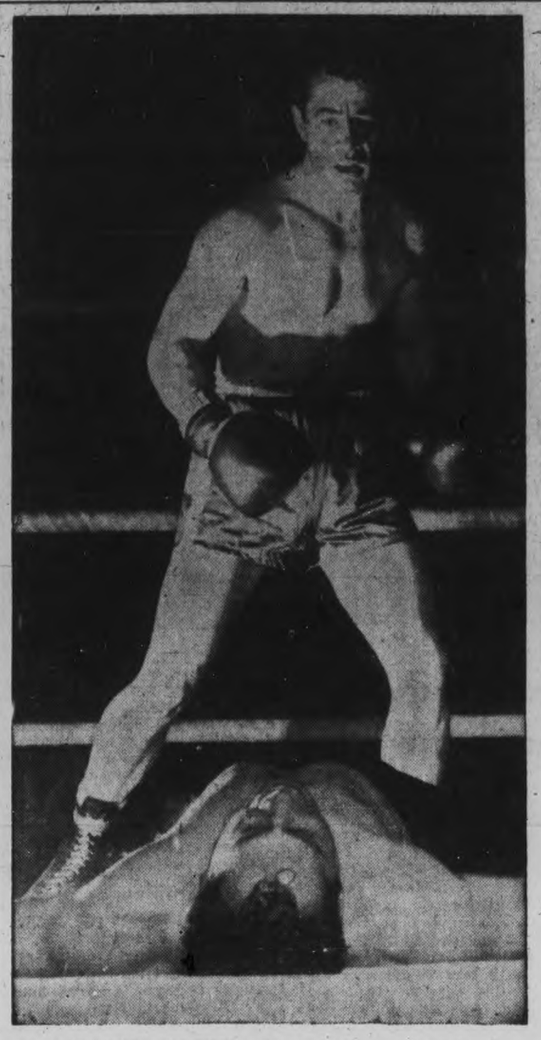
Central Victorious

Central had more power at the plate in a loose School Softball League tilt to beat King Edward 19-7 Wednesday on the latters' diamond. The losers used two hurlers without avail and the winners replaced Brooks with Gardner in the third. There were plenty of walks. J. and D. Sutherland were best with Orr for King Edward, while Harrington and Gibbs stood out for Central. The winners had 12 to eight hits and six errors to five for the losers. Teams:

Central—Patterson, Gibbs, Matthews, Gardner, Brooks, Craymer, Martyn, Dunford, Gray, Harrington, Tranter, Findlay.

King Edward—J. Sutherland, D. Sutherland, Tarkington, Orr, Chalmers, Curtis, Robbins, A. Phillips, McIntosh, Mills, Hill, J. Phillips.



Umpires, Scrutton and Corbett.

Mutuals Edge Rays

Mutuals jerked out a 3-2 win over Raybestos at Quaker Park to open the Industrial Fastball League schedule on Wednesday in a neat tussle. The Rays got a run each in the third, fourth and sixth and several other times got men as far as third. The losers only once got a man as far as second apart from their two runs in the third. Both pitchers went well and had good support in a fine fray. Teams;

Raybestos — L. Maudsley cf; Batley ss; Crampton 2b; Crary 3b; Giles rf; E. Muadsley 1b; Pryde lf; Greenlaw c; Nichols p; Halliday r.

Mutuals — O'Donoghue c; Thorburn 1b; O'Toole p; Byers ss; Plumpton cf; Thompson 3b; Moore rf; Gallagher lf; Huard 2b; Simpson r.

FLATTENED FIGHTER—Johnny Greco, the Canadian welterweight title holder, sprawled flat on his back, has just arrived at that unhappy destination because of a terrific right-hand shot to the jaw, landed by Rocky Graziano in the third round of the recent brief but torrid battle in the Montreal Forum. Not the look of complete savagery on Graziano's face.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Jack Guest Jr., six-foot-six-inch holder of Canadian and American Association intermediate sculling championships, arrived Thursday night at Southampton, England, to represent Canada in the Diamond Sculls at Henley in July.

He is accompanied by his father Jack Guest, who won the Diamond Sculls for Canada at Henley in 1930.

Guest will coach his 18-year-old son, assisted by Harry Arlett of Reading. Arlett coached Guest when he competed at Henley 21 years ago.

Tonight they will leave for Henley where Jack will begin training Monday.

Two pairs of Blades are the only racing equipment Jack and his father have brought with them. They have ordered a shell from a London boatbuilder.

Rumors that St. Michael's College might withdraw from the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League were spiked Thursday night with the announcement that Charley Cerre, Sudbury High school teacher, has been appointed coach of the team for next season.

Cerre will replace Johnny (Peanuts) O'Flaherty who coached both the junior A and major entries from St. Michael's College last season. O'Flaherty found the double-duty too much.

A House of Representatives judiciary subcommittee Thursday postponed for about a month its proposed study of organized baseball's status under the anti-trust laws. A bill was introduced Wednesday in the Senate and House to exempt organized sports from anti-trust laws.

It carries a provision to legalize baseball's reserve clause — perpetual ownership of a player.

Annual awards were set up Thursday for good sportsmanship in major-league baseball, the first such awards in the game's history. A Philadelphia company announced the Jack Singer awards, carrying a $1,500 war bond, would be presented to the player in each league voted to have been the most gentlemanly on the field during the year.

At Lake Garda, Italy, Donald Campbell said Thursday he will attempt to break the world water-speed record Sunday with his speedboat Bluebird.

The world mark of 160.324 miles an hour was set June, 1950, by Stanley Sayres, a Seattle business man, over Lake Washington in Sayres' boat, Slo-Mo-Shun.

At Brome, Que., Valdo Lillikas of Montreal track and field club Thursday broke the three-mile Canadian native, amateur track and field record. His time was 14 minutes, 34 seconds.

Rich Ferguson set the Canadian native record at Toronto in 1949 with a time of 14 minutes, 49 8-10 seconds.

At Porthcawl, Wales, Sammy Urzett, the "wonder kid" from Rochester, NY, and two other American Walker Cup stalwarts, Dick Chapman and Charlie Coe, battled their way through two gruelling rounds over the Royal Porthcawl course Thursday to reach the quarter-finals of the British amateur golf championship.

Four of their countrymen, including defending champion Frank Stranahan from Toledo, finally found the going too rough and bowed out of the classic.

The Thoroughbred Racing Associations announced Thursday the second triple crown trophy would be awarded to William Woodward, owner of Gallant Fox.

Gallant Fox won the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes in 1930 to become the second hose to capture the famous triple crown of American racing. The first was Sir Barton, in 1919.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

With a little over 100 members in attendance, the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club officially opened its 1951 season yesterday.

President A. Black was brief with his address of welcome. He paid tribute to the committees which had been working to make the day a success. The president asked for a minute's silence out of respect for those members who passed on during the year.

We saw many of last year's members on the greens and many new faces. If all other competitions coming up this season will be as well attended as was yesterday's, then the club is in for a big year.

Prior to the games, an appeal was made on behalf of the mayor's fire fund and the members responded well. The secretary will hand over to this trust fund $50.

The prizes for the day were donated by Wm. W. Jeffries, J. D. Fitzpatrick, A. Black and I. Cipen. This fine gesture was greatly appreciated.

The winning skips were: W. James, Reg. Dyer and Alex Aitkenhead.

There is nothing special at the greens this evening or Saturday evening, but on Monday we commence the annual president-vice-president competition. The draw will appear in this column Saturday and Monday nights.

Lenahan Relief Work Gives Port Hope Win

PORT HOPE, May 25.—Excellent relief work by pitcher Karl Lenahan aided the Port Hope juveniles in winning their opening ball game here Thursday afternoon as they edged Cobourg, 9-8, in a regular Lakeshore League fixture. Lenahan hurled the last three innings in which he failed to yield a hit, allowed two runs and struck out six. Mike Harrison and Lefty Lees preceded him and gave up nine hits and six runs between them.

Starting pitcher Rolly Campbell had a no-hit, no-run game under way for Cobourg until the fifth. One hit and three errors spoiled his chances in that frame and wildness forced him out of the game in the sixth when Port Hope notched six tallies.

In winning, Port Hope secured but five hits off Campbell and relief hurler McIvor, but nine Cobourg miscues aided the victory. Cobourg hitters got nine safeties and the Port Hope players committed seven errors.

Karl Lenahan and Phil Gilmer were best at bat for Port Hope with two hits each. Jim Dawe was the big gun of the Cobourg attack, batting four for five. Stulingard and Scotty McSporran collected a pair each.

Petes Rack Up Second Win Over Staffs In Long Game

The Petes defeated Toronto Staffords 12-9 here last night for their second straight Viaduct Baseball League win over this team. A fair-sized crowd took in the opener, marked with a brief ceremony by Mayor Max Swanston and a minute's silence in memory of the four firemen who died last week and of the late George Clark and Vern Dawson, former club officials.

Late in starting, the tilt ran a little more than three hours. Slow pitching, many walks, wild pitches, injured players and arguments all took their toll of time. Brabin left the game after being hit hard on the back while Spragge retired after stopping a sizzler with his hand. No less than 20 walks were issued, 10 by Dan Windley of Staffs, six by Nobby Clarke of the Petes, and four by Doug Plunkett, who relieved him in the fifth. Clarke got credit for the win, being up 6-5 when he left. None of the twirlers was in top form for the first fray here.

Errors Costly

A peculiar thing about the game is that Staffords should have won on earned runs by an 8-5 margin, but they had four costly miscues to one by the Petes. They also left 14 runners stranded on the sacks while Ed Whitehill's bunch left but four. Also, the losers outbid the winners 11 to 6 but the Petes bunched blows better and also cashed in more on free tickets and miscues. The visitors got the only double play of the game, Spragge to Stevens, while the rival third-sackers, George Denofrio and Reg Spragge, pulled off fine catches of screaming liners.

Bill Hayes led Staffords at bat with a double and three singles in six times up, Ralph Hosking having two for five. Alec Prentice clouted a triple, and Johnny Stoneburg a double. For the Petes, Denofrio led with two in four attempts, while Freddy Garvey bashed a long three-bagger to left and Andy Milne hit a double. Garvey and Milne drove in two runs apiece. The Petes had a 6-0 lead early but had to keep punching in the late innings to earn the decision.

Montreal and Rochester must be watching the National League standings for these International League farm clubs are keeping step with parent Brooklyn and St. Louis in the big show.

The Dodgers' Montreal club is out front in the International with the Cards' Rochester farm running second. Just like the National League.

Montreal picked up two more victories by downing Springfield 6-1 and 5-1 but Rochester kept step by polishing off Ottawa 10-6 and 4-0. As a result Rochester shook off Syracuse and took over second place for themselves, 2½ games off the pace.

Syracuse took a costly double loss, bowing to Toronto 2-1 and 4-1 while Buffalo sneaked into fifth place by shading Baltimore 4-3.

Montreal got tight pitching from Tom Lasorda and Bob Alexander to twice whip last-place Springfield. George Byam hit his sixth homer in the opener and Hector Rodriguez had three for four in the second game of the night doubleheader, Frank Marino and Bill Padget were the losers.

Hal Rice and Russ Derry each drove in four runs in Rochester's opening victory behind Bob Habenicht. Ed Yuhas shut out Springfield with seven hits in the seven-inning second game with Don Richmond's double and a two-run homer by Johnny Blatnik leading the attack on Frank Fanovich.

Russ Bauer and Johnny Hetki pitched Toronto past Syracuse twice with the help of Johnny Ostrowski's two doubles in the opener and Charlie Grant's three-run home in the second.

Timely hitting in the early innings and Paul Stuffel's wildness gave Buffalo the one-run edge over Baltimore. Butch Woyt's homer with one on in the ninth made it close.

Chicago Still Clicking Crush Philadelphia 5-2

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Frank Lane, the man who isn't afraid to scorch his fingers in a deal, can take a bow for the amazing success story of the Chicago White Sox.

Last by 13½ games with a sorry 8-21 record a year ago, the surprising Sox now are a driving second with 19-9 and an unprecedented clean sweep on their first eastern tour.

Paul Richards, the new manager Lane brought in from Seattle, rates the big cheer. But the man behind the scenes is Lane, the energetic go-getter who is the Chicago general manager.

This is a "made" club, put together almost entirely with deals. The Sox has no farm system worthy of the name.

Randy Gumpert gave up 11 hits to Philadelphia Thursday but went all the way to a 5-2 win, Chicago's seventh straight. Robinson's seventh homer led the Sox's 11-hit attack on Joe Coleman and Carl Scheib.

Two wins in Boston, one in New York, three in Washington and one in Philadelphia sends the White Sox west with their first sweep in many years.

But hot as they are the Sox can't gain on the New York Yankees who belted over Detroit, 11-1, for their 14th win in 15 Yankee Stadium starts.

Casey Stengel got an extra day's rest for his regulars by pitching Joe Ostrowski and the bespectacled Lefty went all the way. It was his first complete game since June 22, 1950.

Although Detroit outhit the Yanks 10-9, they made three errors and couldn't match the Yank extra base hitting. Gerry Coleman hit a home with two on and Joe DiMaggio got No. 4 with one on.

Lefty Bob Cain who beat the Yanks four times last year while pitching for Chicago, was knocked out in the sixth with his third loss.

Feller Bounces Back

Bob Feller bounced back from hit first loss at Boston to shut out Washington with two singles, 16-0, supported by a 19-hit barrage. It was the fourth straight defeat for the slumping Senators, now tied with Cleveland for fifth place.

Bobby Avilla with four hits and Larry Doby with a three-run homer and single were the stoutest sluggers for Cleveland. Sid Hudson, making his first start of the year after a long layoff due to a back injury, was racked up inside three innings.

The St. Louis at Boston game in the American was washed out.

Only scheduled action in the National brought St. Louis a 11-3 win ovre Cincinnati in a night game. Rookie Joe Presko, a Houston grad, had a no-hit game going for 6 1/3 innings. Johnny Wyrostek ended that with a double. He still had a one-hitter going to the ninth when the Reds got to him for four more hits and their three runs. It was the third straight win for the 22-year-old righthander.

Stan Musial and Peanuts Lowrey helped him along with homers. Stan Rojek and Del Rice each had three hits, like Musial and Lowrey, as Ken Raffensberger suffered his fifth loss. The win left the Cards in possession of second place, two games behind idle Brooklyn.

PITCHING IN PUDDLES—Rain doesn't spell rest for the surprising White Sox. With the game postponed, and the tarpaulin covering the infield, Pitcher Howie Judson [illegible] critical gaze at the Chicago club's driv-

Mimico Given Bill Hartley

TORONTO, May 25 — (CP) — The Ontario Lacrosse Association, ruling on disposition of players from the now-defunct Weston team, has awarded goaltender Bill (Red) Hartley to Mimico Mountaineers.

Ex-Peterborough goalie Ralph Speck was given permission to play with Fergus Thistles, and four members of last year's Owen Sound team have been placed. Don Campbell and Bill Allum go to Brampton while Don McWhirter and Harry Kazarian go to Fergus.

Owen Sound Crescents won the Mann Cup last season but have folded this year. The association ruled that any teams wanting to use former Owen Sound players must apply to the OLA.

CAHA Rulings To Curb Ganging Attacks On Ice

HALIFAX, May 25 — (CP). — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association Thursday adopted a new icing rule, designed to cut down on ganging attacks and rough-house tactics in the corners.

Under the new rule, a puck is called for icing if it passes the red goalline from outside the blueline. Previously it had to be from the centre red line.

George Slater of the Quebec Association, chairman of the rules committee, said this would eliminate some of the end-zone ganging attacks because it would tend to have the puck carried over the blue line rather than shot in the corners.

It would also reduce injuries by eliminating some of the corner battles for possession of a puck shot in.

The amendment carried 14 to 4.

Other New Rules

Several other new rules and amendments to old ones were adopted as the association held its first open sessions of its 38th annual convention.

These included:

1—A spare goalie will not be allowed to serve a penalty called against the playing goalie.

2—A minor penalty will be called against a goalie using oversize equipment but play will not be stopped for measurement.

3—Referees now will be empowered to award penalties after the game ends, until the players have reached their dressing-rooms.

4—The face-off on delayed penalties will be at the spot where the defending team loses possession of the puck, not at the spot where the offence was committed.

5—A manager, trainer, or coach ordered from the bench, must go to the dresing-room and will not be permitted to remain in the stands.

6—Any manager, trainer, or coach who throws any object on the ice or molests an opposing player will be ordered to the dressing-room.

7—A misconduct penalty will be called against any player leaving the bench to enter any altercation on the ice Previously the penalty was called only if he entered the argument.

8—When a player in control of the puck is fouled from behind and thus prevented from having a clear shot on an unattended goal, he will be awarded a goal.

9—When a player with the puck is in position to have a shot on an unattended goal without any opposing player before him and is interfered with by any opposing player illegally entering the game, he will be awarded a goal. The previous rule covered only guarded goals.

10—A minor penalty will be served by a player, to be named by the coach or manager, on a team delaying the game.

11—Players leaving the bench to deliver instructions to men on the ice will be given a minor penalty unless they remain as a substitute.

ACROSS THE BOARD — Winston Churchill leans forward, cups his ear, getting the lowdown from Tommy Gosling, who rode the former Prime Minister's Colonist II in the Churchill Stakes in London. The horse won by two lengths from King George's Above Board. Star Spangled Banner showed. Astrologists take it from there.

Fulham Soccer Team Crushes All-Stars 3-0

TORONTO, May 25 (CP)—The touring Fulham soccer team Thursday defeated an Ontario All-Star team 3-0 in the an exhibition soccer match before a crowd of 8,000 at the Canadian National Exhibition grandstand. All goals were scored in the first half.

Superior passing provided the First Division English league team with its edge in the game.

The Ontario All-Stars held a slight edge for about the first 20 minutes, keeping play in the Fulhame zone with the help of long kicks

However, Fulham turned the tide sharply when Bobby Brenner, left inside, scored at 19 minutes.

Bedford Jezzard, Fulham centre, scored at 32 minutes with a 30-yard shot which caught Ontario goaltender, Dick Arends, napping.

Foresters Win Holiday Game From Norwood

NORWOOD, May 25—(ENS)—The first softbal game of the season was held May 24 on the Norwood fair grounds with a pick-up team from Norwood playing Canadian Order of Foresters from Peterborough. The latter won by a score of 15-6. The winners counted four runs in the first and third innings, three in the second, two in the eighth and one in the fourth and seventh. The losers had no score till the seventh inning.

Canadian Order of Foresters—Parnell, Walling, Doughty, S. Tyndall, Daniels, Henry, Ferguson, Hobson, T. Tyndall.

Norwood—Kelly, Martin, Audas, Bergen Payne, Rae, Robinson, Scott, Evans, Bill Payne, Althouse.

Umpire—Albert Throop.

Walk 61 Miles

TORONTO, May 25 (CP). — Two Toronto vegetarians, Mrs. George McKinlay, 70, and Mrs. Brandt Johnson, 60, walked from Hamilton to Toronto Thursday. It was their fourth annual Victoria Day walk between the two cities. Distance between Hamilton and Toronto is about 45 miles, but the walkers covered about 61, strolling well into the heart of Toronto to meet their husbands and friends at the ferry docks.

Ball Players Ask More Money

NEW YORK, May 25—(AP)—Big league baseball players will demand a bigger slice of World Series revenue this fall, Fred Hutshinson said today.

The Detroit Tiger pitcher, who is American League player representative, said World Series income has gone up, with television and higher admission prices. But, he said, the 1950 player share was about the same as 25 years ago "with the cost of living about three times as high" now.

Hutchinson said the request will be put to the owners' committee at their annual meeting in Detroit in July. Hutchinson will meet shortly with Ralph Kiner, newly-appointed National League representative.

Hutchinson also said he plans to renew discussions concerning distribution of the radio and television money earned in the All-Star and World Series last year.

Playing Short Approach Relax With The Forearms

By HERMAN BARRON
Former Western and All-American Open Champion

Professionals have heard and said that the important part of the game is the short approach.

The player can make up for a couple of bad ones, put himself in good position for sinking putts if he can get the ball close to the pin with his short irons.

The most important single piece of advice I can give week-enders is to see how smoothly they can hit the ball.

The shot must be played with the forearms and wrists—no body movement—yet in a relaxed style that will permit the important follow through.

Judge your distance.

Select the right club.

Selecting the club for a short shot, I judge three things. I check the contour of the green to determine how far and in which direction I wish the ball to roll.

I check the speed of the green. If it is slow I won't be able to play as much roll as on a faster surface.

Of great importance is the distance the pin is set back on the green. If it's close to the edge, my ball, landing on the edge of the green, will have only a short distance to roll, indicating the proper club to be one of more loft.

I take my stance with feet close together, toes slightly open, and the face of the club slightly closed on the ball. The grip should be shortened considerably from the usual manner, with the hands well down on the grip.

HERE'S THE PITCH—Al Ciuci's feet are close together, toes slightly open. There is no body movement.

Immigrants Find Accent Hinder Chances Of Work

By JACK SCOTT

The evidence is piled too high to ignore. Immigrants from the Old Country, encouraged to start afresh in Canada, are meeting discrimination. An "accent"—be it Oxford or cockney—can be a burden.

I wrote the other day that I hoped this wasn't true. The answer was a flood of letters from immigrants. They were very similar. Canada is wonderful, they all agreed. They realized they must adapt themselves. But they are finding something less than equality of opportunity.

"As a recent immigrant myself," wrote one, "I'm not sorry I came. I like Canadians. But there is a definite bias against English immigrants.

"It's been my experience that employers here fall into two groups: those who will not employ an Englishman under any circumstances and those who will because they know that he will put up with anything in order to hold a job."

Another writes: "I resent being told by some personnel manager that he will not employ me because he thinks that the English have no guts or initiative and expect to come ou here and be spoon fed. I resent having to listen to long-winded monologues about the 'tempo' of Canada and how much faster it is than the "old country" and how it is doubtful whether I could keep up with it.

"I resent the master mind who tells me that I will have difficulty in getting a job in Canada until I have had Canadian experience.

"Most of all I resent the man who many years ago came here from the old country and tells me that its finished and suggested that the dry rot set in the day after he left."

A Few Cases

There are several cases reported of this strange kind of discrimination.

One English ex-pilot who arrived here two years ago writes, "It's been hard for me to fit in; not because life or practises here are any different than they are in England, but because of a psychological feeling of resentment I've encountered. People out here seem to think that all Englishmen are born snobs. One potential employee said to me bluntly, "I don't like the high and mightly way you Limeys act!" I suppose we do have our individual characteristics, at that, but it seems too much to ask to have us neuter ourselves."

Another case is that of an English girl who emigrated last July. A Cambridge BA she had held jobs as a teacher of history in some of the better schools in England and Jamaica and had been a British Council lecturer in Stockholm.

Dishwasher

This girl could not teach in British Columbia because she hadn't the necessary certificate. Her Cambridge diploma in teaching meant nothing. So she worked as a dishwasher in one of the larger hotels for the first six months and finally landed an office job at $125 a month.

Another case was that of an English girl of good education and exceptional ability who applied to the personnel manager of a large department store for a job.

"The money she had brought with her was almost gone," my informant writes. "Her room rent was paid up for the next month, but she had been rationing herself to three dollars a week on food.

"When her application was politely turned down she burst into tears. The personnel manager, seeing her despair, remembered that a girl was needed in the kitchenware department. He sent her down to the section manager with a note that she was to be given a job selling saucepans. The section manager sent her back with another note to the effect that he could not have her down there; she had an English accent and the customers would not be able to understand her!"

And Baseball

Must acknowledge a rather staggering number of letters from baseball lovers clouting me over the head for my pip-squeak's opinion that the game is really pretty dull.

One Jack Tanner writes: "Baseball is not a subject to be treated like the fashion of women's hats: It is a way of life, a part of our culture, a very personal love to a great many of our people. It is a grand game—the best!—and is spreading steadily and surely around the world."

Another correspondent, J. O'L., writes: "Your column gets pretty awful at times, but it was never more awful than today's cockeyed attack on baseball: I would sure like to see you up at the plate there some night and watch you go down swinging."

Marvin Fleming adds this note: "You are like my wife who never could understand what baseball was all about and who, consequently, stays at home when I have an evening up in the stands. The game is really the most subtle and mentally demanding of all and perhaps the only sport in which luck is reduced to a minimum."

One man has quit the paper because of my "attack" on baseball. The game must surely have something to inspire such loyalty. But darned, if I can see what it is.

A Lodging for the Night

"No rooms left," barked the clerk to the young soldier and his bride.

So Wintringer, overhearing, obeyed a generous (if embarrassing) impulse and offered to share his room with them. How could he know he was changing the course of two young lives?

In June Reader's Digest, Katharine Brush tells this true story of a simple gesture—and the amazing sequel that developed seven years later.

Great African Port Dakar In Grip Of High Inflation

By STANLEY CLARK

DAKAR, French West Africa —(Reuters)—Dakar, great port of French West Africa, is in the grip of a great inflation.

Its citizens are paying for the development of the port which is designed to more than double its capacity. They are paying in lack of accommodation and a continual increase in prices which outpaces all wage increases.

Nor is the inflation limited to Dakar itself. All the larger towns in the vast hinterland which it serves are paying, to a greater or lesser extent, the price of boom conditions in the territory.

The French worker in the larger towns earns between 30,000 francs and 50,000 francs a month. As the local franc is valued at more than double that of the metropolitan French franc, that means that his wages range from $182 to $308 a month.

Great Difficulty

But with rents of apartments running from about 10,000 francs a month to as much as 90,000 francs, many French skilled manual workers told me that they had great difficulty in maintaining an adequate standard of living.

The native worker is earning four times the wages he earned in 1946 and can now demand from 20.60 francs an hour to 98 francs an hour—or from $5.60 to $28 a week.

The $28 a week man is the French-educated clerk or manager in every case, however, and the majority of the natives are on the lowest wage scale.

Foods Up Too

In the towns, the price of bread is nine cents a loaf, butter costs 92 cents a pound, beef 65 cents cents a pound, tomatoes, 12 cents a pound, bananas, 20 cents a pound. There is no fresh milk for either Europeans or natives and sweetened condensed milk costs 24 cents for a four-ounce tin.

The natives, whose staple diet is couscous, a sort of wheat pudding, eat very little of these commodities. Couscous costs roughly three cents a pound. In Dakar, too, they have a good supply of fish at prices which work out at about two cents a pound. Fruit prices, to native workers, are also below those paid by the French worker but bread is the same price in all parts of the town. Clothes are also expensive.

Like Any French Town

Yet the life in Dakar and Bamako is surprisingly like that of mechanical workers and Bamako, the agricultural market, are almost replicas of a score of towns in France—if you can forget the scantily dressed natives who throng the streets.

There is, however, one great difference. All the towns of French West Africa are coming increasingly under the influence of the Syrian trader whose skill in buying and selling to the natives is winning him financial control of large blocks of property in most towns.

There is considerable animosity about this in both Dakar and Bamako where the Syrian rather than the development program is most generally blamed for the inflation.

Health Rules Drafted For Pilgrims

By OSCAR RIBEIRO

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 25 (Reuters)—World Health Organization experts have drafted a new set of health rules for the annual Moslem pilgrimage to Mecca.

The great trek, with its hundreds of thousands of pilgrims, presents one of the biggest regional health problems of its kind in Asia.

The rules, which will be submitted to the World Health Assembly are aimed not only at preventing the spread of epidemics among the numerous pilgrims who visit the Holy Land at Hedjaz but also at protecting the health of the local Arab population. At the same time, the rules seek to ease some of the existing irksome health restrictions on pilgrims.

Mecca, birthplace of Mohamet, lies in Saudi Arabia. A pilgrimage to it is one of the five sacred duties which each of the world's 200,000,000 Moslems hopes to perform during his lifetime. Last year 500,000 pilgrims visited Mecca.

Not Fixed

The pilgrimage season is not fixed because by the Moslem lunar calendar the new year comes 11 days earlier each year. This year it is in September.

During the next 10 or 15 years, WHO experts say, the pilgrimage will fall in a bad cycle of hot, unhealthy months when heat and sun stroke take heavy toll of the pilgrims.

But the main concern of the World Health Organization is epidemic diseases such as cholera and small-pox.

The spread of epidemics is helped by the absence of modern sanitary conditions in Saudi Arabia. WHO hopes that with its active financial and technical assistance, these conditions will steadily improve. The new rules stipulate that there should be at least one doctor to every 1,000 pilgrims.

Discuss Freemasonry Along With Church

LONDON, May 25 (AP)—Clerical leaders of Church of England agreed Wednesday—tentatively—to an open discussion of whether Freemasonry is compatible with the Christian faith of the church.

The subject was placed at the bottom of the program of a current convocation of Canterbury for debate, if reached before the three-day meeting ends tomorrow.

The chairman Tuesday ruled out of order a motion for a formal church inquiry proposed by Dr. Hubert S. Box, a Sussex vicar. His motion contended that Freemasonry is pagan and idolatrous.

A substitute motion today by the Rev. G. B. Bentley of Lincoln was accepted. It asks the Archbishop of Canterbury—spiritual leader of the church and himself a Mason—to name a committee "to consider what guidance should be given to members of the church" concerning membership in the order.

Write History Of Canada's Work For Veterans

By DAVE McINTOSH

VANCOUVER (CP). — Of the 1,000,000 Second World War veterans in Canada, there are probably a good many who would like to shake hands with and say thank you to Dr. Walter S. Woods.

As deputy minister of veterans' affairs from 1940 until 1950, Dr. Woods played a vital part in formulating the rehabilitation program, on which the Government spent $2,000,000,000 to put hundreds of thousands of servicemen and women back into civilian life.

Dr. Woods is retired from Government service now, but he has taken on one of the biggest jobs of his life—writing the story of the veterans' rehabilitation program.

He joined the Government's cabinet committee on rehabilitation in 1939 and became its chairman the following year. He stayed with that job for 10 years, helping to map a plan which has since been internationally acclaimed as the best in the world.

"Rehabilitation — a Combined Operation" is the title of the 200-to-250-page narrative report Dr. Woods hopes to complete this summer.

Broader Plan

"I want to tell more about the concept and the philosophy of veteran re-establishment than I do about the actual mechanics," Dr. Woods said in the study of his home in Vancouver, where he and his wife came to live last fall.

"So far, only cold-blooded statistics in Government records are available for future guidance if ever Canada needs to go through another post-war era."

Comprehensive Report

The report will tell the story, not only of the part played by Government, but by private citizens from coast to coast who voluntarily gave of their time and experience to help shape the program, and by Canada's veterans who by their own efforts made that program successful.

Dr. Woods recalled that the wheels of rehabilitation machinery were set in motion barely three months after the outbreak of war in 1939. The late Rt. Hon. Ian Mackenzie was appointed chairman of a cabinet committee to start planning for demobilization.

"Canadians should be permanently reminded that this has been a co-operative effort in the broadest sense of the term," Dr. Woods said.

Plans Drafted Early

"Long before most of our troops ever saw action, leading Canadian citizens from all walks of life were meeting in 15 different subcommittees to draft plans for their eventual return to civilian life.

"It is with extreme pride that I can report not one private citizen who was asked to serve in this capacity ever refused."

Volunteer citizens' rehabilitation committees were formed in more than 700 Canadian communities to lend assistance to returning servicemen and women.

"I am not writing this book to make money, but because I am the only one left who worked on the rehabilitation program from the very beginning," Dr. Woods said.

"When it is finished, the manuscript will be turned over to the Federal Government to use as they see fit."

Born In England

Dr. Woods came to Canada from England in 1905. His first job was on an Ontario farm, where he earned 50 cents a day.

Later he joined a railway construction gang and worked on the Grand Trunk line across the prairies. He entered the Civil Service in 1919 after returning from overseas and served for many years in Alberta on the Soldiers' Settlement Board.

In 1930, he was appointed chairman of the board to administer the newly-created War Veterans' Allowance Act and lived in Ottawa from then until his retirement last July.

Although nominally retired, Dr. Woods is still actively engaged in veterans' work. As honorary national chairman of Canadian Red Cross veterans' services, he heads a committee having under its jurisdiction all Red Cross arts and crafts workshops, hospital visiting, libraries, lodges, entertainment and film services.

In 1947, the honorary degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by the University of British Columbia in recognition of his untiring interest in veterans taking university training.

Have New Weapon In War On Cancer

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., May 25—(AP)—A new weapon in the war on cancer—an apparatus for administering radioactive cobalt—soon will be available to medical science.

The apparatus—known as an irradiator—was built by General Electric X-Ray Corporation at Milwaukee.

The metallic element cobalt gives off radiation similar to that of radium after the cobalt is bombarded in atomic furnaces.

With the cobalt irradiator, scientists will be able to direct a small, intense gamma ray to the tissue to be irradiated or treated.

Hold War Back

MONTREAL, May 25—(CP)—Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, chief of the General Staff, Thursday said Canadians have been dispatched to Korea and others will go to Europe to keep war out of Canada. In an address at Victoria Day ceremonies honoring war dead, Gen. Simonds said: "Our country has come through many conflicts unscarred and has been mercifully spared the crippling demolition and destruction suffered by many other countries."

Expect Ottawa To Write Off Most Old Debts

OTTAWA, May 25 (CP).—The public accounts committee of the Commons moved Thursday to make a special study of old debts owing the federal treasury, amounting to several million dollars. Indications are that they will be written off.

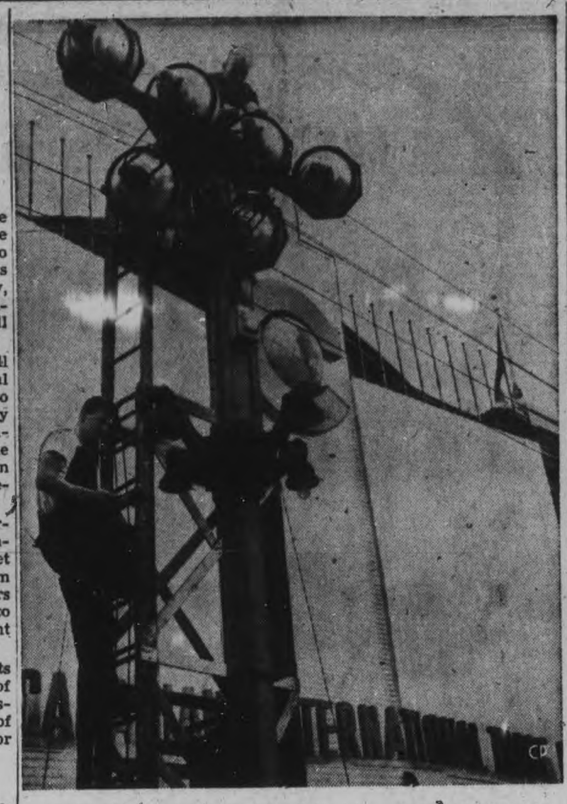
On the motion of David Croll (L, Toronto-Spadina), a special sub-committee will be formed to study a report being prepared by the finance department on hundreds of small debts. It will make a recommendation to the main committee which in turn will report to Parliament.

Watson Sellar, the auditor-general, has previously recommended it would be best to forget these old debts and write them off. Some go back scores of years and he suggested that trying to trace and collect them might prove too costly.

As the committee continued its study of the 1950 estimates of the defense department, discussion ranged from inspection of projects to married quarters for service personnel.

Faulty Work

C. E. Johnston (SC, Bow River), told the committee he had seen many cases where faulty work had been passed by departmental inspectors on building projects and suggested such inspectors, usually service engineers, should be bonded.



"It's almost impossible for the Government to be assured that inspection everywhere is up to par," he said.

G. K. Fraser (PC, Peterborough West) said a heating installation in the armory at Peterborough had proved faulty. When zero weather came along the pumps wouldn't work and had to be replaced. That was an example of faulty inspection.

Alex Ross, associate deputy minister of national defense, said the defense department took the responsibility for seeing that quality was up to standard. He knew of no cases where the department had not been satisfied with inspection.

He said the department had a plan for building three types of houses for married quarters for service personnel, "if we can get them."

The higher a man's rank the bigger house he would have. No rent as such was charged, but a married man living in such quarters received no subsistence allowance and $10 a month was deducted from his pay. The money was used to defray pay and allowance expenditures.

FINISHING TOUCHES—Workmen are putting the finishing touches to exhibits, buildings and grounds as the opening of the Fourth Canadian International Trade Fair, scheduled for Monday, May 28, draws near. The fair, which runs from May 28 to June 8, will be opened by Sir Robert Sinclair, immediate past chairman of the Association of British Industries.

Theatres Win First Round Over Tickets

QUEBEC, May 25 — (CP)—Emile Morin, Quebec City recorder, Thursday dismissed a charge against the Cinema de Paris, a moving picture theatre, for using its own admission tickets instead of tickets issued by the city.

The ruling that the Cinema de Paris committed no offence also decided cases pending against seven other movies.

The case arose as a result of new municipal taxation on movie theatre admissions last month. The city imposed a tax of five cents on tickets selling for less than $1, and 10 cents on higher-priced admissions.

The theatres refused to use city-issued tickets covering the amount of the amusement tax. They sold their own tickets and advised the city to make independent arrangements to collect the tax.

The theatres have taken action before Quebec Superior Court contesting the validity of the new tax. The case awaits hearing.

Recorder Morin ruled there was no evidence the city had received written permission from the provincial treasurer to force theatres to sell city-issued tickets. Such permission is required by law, he said

Rules Right To Picket In Illegal Strike

TORONTO, May 25—(CP)—The right to picket peacefully, even during an illegal strike, was upheld Wednesday by Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court. The Chief Justice held that even though a union contract may have been improperly broken, "it does not necessarily follow that the common law right to picket has been interfered with."

Labor men considered the ruling significant because it overrides a decision made last year by Mr. Justice G. A. Gale who ruled that in an illegal strike, picketing, peaceful or otherwise is also illegal.

Lengthen Lake By 30 Miles

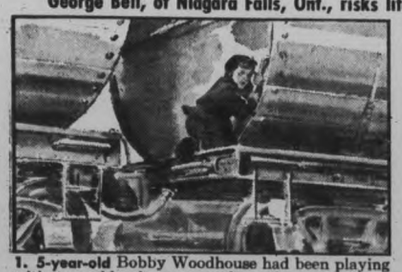
TEMISKAMING, Que.—(CP)—Lake Temiskaming, the tenuous, 95-mile-long body of water separating Northern Ontario and Northwest Quebec, will be lengthened about 30 miles this year.

The new lake will be formed by water backing up behid the La Cave hydro project now under construction near Mattawa, Ont. The man-made lake will extend 30 miles north from La Cave as far as this sulphite manufacturing town located where the Ottawa River leaves Lake Temiskaming.

The only distinction between the new Lake Temiskaming will be two dams here to span the Ottawa River via an island in its centre.

Preparations along the bed of the Ottawa as it winds through majestic wooded hills are almost complete. Logging crews have removed pulpwood and slash—low brush—from the area and dwellings have been elevated or moved back.

Even at Thorne, Ontario's newest border community right across the river from here and at the head of the new lake, eight houses and a store had to be raised from 10 to 12 feet.



Biggest job of all was removal of the Canadian Pacific Railway's Northern Quebec line from the range of flood waters. The line formerly clung to the river bank, in places, along the foot of high bluffs. New it rides atop the bluffs and has been moved farther inland. Most of the track has been laid, but bridging is not completed.

MAN RACES TRAIN TO RESCUE BOY CLINGING BETWEEN CARS

George Bell, of Niagara Falls, Ont., risks life to snatch youngster from precarious position

1. 5-year-old Bobby Woodhouse had been playing with two older boys near the railway tracks. A freight train, stopped for a few moments, proved to be too great a temptation to resist . . . and soon all three were clambering over one of the tank cars. Then the train started to move! The older lads managed to jump off . . . but, as the train gathered speed, Bobby found himself clinging to a rod just above a coupling.

2. Seconds after a witness had phoned the police station, city employee George Bell jumped into a police car with two constables. Speeding through the city streets, they were stopped by a cadet parade. But Bell leaped from the car and raced 400 yards to the railway right-of-way . . . shouting to the boy to hang on. One of the passing tank cars hit his shoulder — but he kept running.

3. Lunging in between the cars where the lad was clinging, Bell got a grip on his arm. As he started to pull him away, the platform of the car behind struck him and sent him spinning. But he was still holding the youngster! Bobby later admitted that he could not have hung on much longer. We are proud to pay tribute to George Bell through the presentation of The Dow Award.

Pension Fund Only $840 For Fireman

Insurance Plan Gives Aid To Three Families

The city's pension fund payment to two of the families of the firemen who died on duty recently is $840; and to the third family $142.

Mr. C. A. Bennett, president of the local Fire Fighters Association, gave this information to the Examiner today, "just as a matter of fact, in the place of any opinion or guessing."

"We have had several reports of questions being asked here and there about the benefits of the city's new pension scheme," Mr. Bennett said. "First of all we would like to say that we are not criticising the pensions adopted by the city council. We appreciate them, and we were grateful when the council announced them.

"For that reason, before making this report I consulted Mayor Swanston, and he said "by all means go ahead and give the people any facts that will help the Fund, especially in any explanation that may be necessary."

"This information is official. City Clerk Outram was one who helped us get it together. We need hardly mention that the city's pension plan is based on the purchase of Dominion government annuities.

"The pension benefits payable to next of kin of our three late members: Orville Rome $840; George Reynolds $840; Grover Deck $142.

Grover Deck was not a member of the Department when the plan went into effect. He had to wait about two years before its terms extended to him.

Orville Rome had contributed to the pension scheme $399.68; George Reynolds the same amount and the city came in with the equivalent sum in each case. That is the way it works. Grover Deck had paid in $137.64. There is a small item of interest that may seem to be a difference.

There is also the city's group insurance plan. Its family benefits are: Orville Rome $1,500, Grover Deck, $1,500; George Reynolds $750.

The difference relating to Mr. Reynolds has to do with his age.

So, in conclusion, the amount payable to the family of Mr. Rome will be $1,899.68, and it should be remembered that he contributed $399.68 of that amount

"May we remind ourselves again that fourteen children were made fatherless by that fire, that the benefits from the city's insurance and pensions cannot long take the place of father's earnings, and that it is a long time before these children will all be able to provide for themselves.

"We hope that there is nothing in this statement that will appear to detract from the value of the city pensions and insurance scheme."

The fourth victim of the fire, Earl Spencley, was not a member of the fire department.

FIRE VICTIMS RELIEF FUND, contribution boxes were prepared and labelled on Wednesday night by eight members of various Peterborough Boy Scout troops. Nine volunteer firemen started their distribution today to business firms throughout the city. Scouts Jim Elliott, Left, and Jack Freeman are shown above licking labels before a large pile of boxes which were given to the fund by Canadian Sealright Company.—Examiner Staff Photo.

Lindsay Man Faces 22nd Drunk Conviction In Four Years; Released On Bond Of $200

LINDSAY, May 25—"I'd certainly like to lay hands on the rats who supply him," said Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan of Lindsay when a 44-year-old Lindsay man appeared on his 22nd charge of being drunk.

The man, who is on the Indian list, gets liquor somehow, and has piled up quite a statistical record — 22 drunk convictions, 26 months in jail, six months in hospital—in four years.

"Maybe his so-called friends are his downfall," Mr. Jordan suggested. He then suggested that the man be placed on two years' probation on a $200 bond.

Mr. Jordan pointed out that the man had been out of hospital only two weeks when he was arrested for the 22nd time. He had been in a fight.

Magistrate E. A. Gee ordered the man to stay out of Lindsay except for one-day visits to his home. The reason was that he would not be in close association with friends who might supply him with liquor.

Cyclist Awarded $503 Damages For Injuries

Judge S. L. Smoke has awarded Gordon R. Wallace, 26, 268 Caddy St., $503.40 damages in compensation for injuries he received August 19, 1950, when he was knocked from his bicycle after a collision with a taxi at Murray and Water St

Wallace, an electrician employed with Grant and Loucks, was bicycling to work at 8 a.m. when he collided with a westbound taxi driven by Kenneth J. Mac Arthur, formerly of O'Connel Rd. He was thrown to the pavement and dislocated his left arm at the shoulder. He also received injuries to his head and his hip.

As a result of the accident he says that he finds difficulty sleeping on his left side and, when doing overhead work, he finds that his arms soon tire.

Wallace was bicycling south when the accident occurred. He testified that he swung his bicycle to avoid the collision but skidded into the taxi, his front wheel striking the rear door of the taxi.

The English-model bicycle received less than $10 damage.

Wallace was taken to Civic hospital where he remained for two and a half days.

MacArthur and Hugh J. Davis, owner of the taxi, were co-defendants. They were defended by T. J. Carley, KC. Gordon H. T. Farquharson was solicitor for Wallace.

Judge Smoke found MacArthur negligent and awarded Wallace $503 in general and special damages, plus the costs of the action.

Cobourg CGE Workers Get Raises Of 11 To 15 Cents

Production workers at the Cobourg CGE plant Thursday night voted seven to one in favor of accepting a company wage offer that runs from 11 to 15 cents an hour. Since September, 1950, the 200 Cobourg production workers have received increases totalling 25 to 29 cents an hour, Joe Wirtz, IUE International representative said today.

Don Markle, president of Local 534, IUE (CIO-CCL), and chairman of the negotiating committee, recommended that the workers accept the two-year contract which is retroactive to April 1.

All workers get a straight six cents an hour, plus a five-cents-an-hour cost-of-living bonus. Laborers, such as janitors and sweepers, get an extra two cents; hourly rated workers one cent; skilled tradesmen four cents; and apprentices one cent.

Escalator Clause

Included in the contract is an escalator clause providing an extra cent for each 1.3 change in the official cost-of-living index. The base is 172.5.

The shift bonus is up a cent an hour and there will be an additional half week vacation for employees with at least three years service. A pension plan, similar to the one negotiated by the Peterborough office workers (Local 599, IUE), will also be included and will run during the life of the contract.

On the anniversary date of the contract the workers will get another three cents an hour.

Mutual Agreement

Mr. Wirtz said that the new contract with the company was arrived at by mutual agreement. The previous one did not expire till September, 1951, but the company agreed to enter negotiations.

Last September, he said, the production workers received an eight-cent increase, plus the equivalent of four cents when the work week was cut from 45 to 42 hours without loss of take-home pay.

The cost of living bonus in the new contract is retroactive to April 9.

QUIET HOLIDAY

Peterborough's citizens spent a virtuous holiday on May 24. Nobody was jailed for drunkenness —and there were no accidents.

Y's Men, Friends Plant Shrubs For Fire Victim

Friends, neighbors and members of the Peterborough Y's Men's club worked throughout the holiday at Earl Spencley's Silver Creek farm on Highway 7 near St. Alphonsus school.

Spring planting was just under way on the florists's farm when the Zacks fire broke out last Saturday. Earl Spencley was one of the four victims, and his florist business seemed doomed to fail. But his friends decided to carry on where he left off.

Start Early

At 7:30 a.m. Thursday the first workers began to arrive at the farm and they kept coming throughout the day, volunteering their time when available. At one time 23 were drawing water, digging, transplanting and planting bushes, shrubs and flowers.

During the morning, before the break for sandwiches, soft drinks, tea and coffee, the volunteers had prepared the ground and then planted 1,000 various types of rosebushes besides other shrubs and flowers. In the afternoon the work continued with another 200 rose bushes planted.

Father Supervises

Supervision of the work was done by Earl's father, Al Spencley, a foreman with the Utilities, and by his brother, Frank.

The workers planned to return today and Saturday, then work whenever possible to help the family. Mr. Spencley Sr. is taking a week's holiday; most of his time will be spent on the Silver Creek farm. For there is yet to be planted approximately 10,000 trees, shrubs and bushes as well as all the flowers which include innumerable gladioli bulbs.

Kiwanis Stages Final Concert

The final concert of the Fifth Annual Kiwanis Club Competition Festival to be held at the collegiate tonight will be both interesting and diversified, W. M. Gemmell, chairman of the festival committee stated today.

"The individual performers were chosen in collaboration with the adjudicators", Mr. Gemmell explained. "Choice was not only made of award winners, but of entrants who showed outstanding concert performance in the festival."

Among the performers, who represent both Peterborough and outside centres will be Peterborough's well-known Coventry Singers, the PCVS Band and Choral Club and John Moore, promising young bass from Reaboro, who won all three competitions he entered in the festival.

Two Fraud Charges Laid In Car Deal

Two charges of false pretences involving $2,900 were read today in court against Joseph E. Paquette, 22, of 199 Crescent St. He was remanded without plea or election to June 7 on $5,000 bail.

The offences are alleged to have taken place in 1950, when chattel mortages for $1,450 each against two cars were allegedly taken out by Paquette.

Complainant is the Bellevue Acceptance Corporation.

Drivers Blinded By Lights, Crash

Thrown against the windshield of his car in a sideswipe collision late Thursday night, William Crough, 23, of 63 Aylmer St., received a deep cut on the bridge of the nose and a severe shaking up.

Two stitches were required to close the wound.

Crough was driving north on Highway 28 at 11:30 p.m. He started to round the bend near the filtration plant when he became temporarily blinded by the lights of a southbound car driven by William Foster, 17, 368 Water St.

Foster told OPP Constable J. G. Healey that he too was blinded by headlights.

The two cars met in a sideswipe collision. Crough was thrown against the windshield and his car ran into the west ditch. Foster's car went into the east ditch.

Both vehicles received $500 damage, the Foster one being nearly wrecked.

Foster was uninjured as were three passengers — Tom Junkin, Lakefield; Nancy Parnell, 17, Euclid Ave., and Doug Patterson, 7, Hunter St.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

"Come And See Day" At Heber Down's Farm Near Brooklin in June. . . . Ken Fallis Reports Rapid Change in Appearance of Ontario's Fields. . . . More Farmers Buy Nitro-Culture For Legume Seed Treatment. . . . Spring Grain Showing.

The pastures and meadows of Central Ontario, and elsewhere throughout the province, have made a remarkable recovery in the last ten days, Ken Fallis, fieldman for the crops, seeds and weeds division of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, said yesterday.

"The rains of April made a slow start, and put the brakes on work generally. Growth that was coming along as a rather sickly yellow has since then turned to a lush green, and the country is looking very promising."

The monthly report of the Department says: "Alfalfa, hay and clover crops wintered extremely well, and generally suffered only a very small amount of winter killing. An exception was Prince Edward county where a great deal of red clover and alfalfa in older meadows was badly heaved and killed. Recent warm weather and plenty of moisture is now bringing these crops along rapidly, and yield prospects are considered quite favorable.

"Pastures are now making rapid growth under the increased sunshine."

"Come and See Day"

Mr. Fallis announced something new in agricultural events. This is a "Come and See Day" at the farm of Hebert Downs, near Brooklin.

"We are inviting farmers to come and see for themselves the results of the planned work that was done there in one day in September 1944. Some of them were from Peterborough district. They have memory of what was started. Now they can see what was accomplished. They can ask the question: 'Was it worth the effort?' We think it was.

"They will see crops growing on the contours as they were laid out. Then there are the grassed waterways, the terraces which were designed to slow surface water down from a run to a walk or crawl."

There is also the reforestation that was put in that day. Some farmers may remember multiflora rose hedge. They should be interested in how it has progressed.

We would like to have a lot of visitors from Peterborough district to our 'Come and See Day.' It won't be wasted."

HERD AVERAGES $326

The purebred Holstein herd of J. Kogut & Sons, Brantford, brought $9,466, May 17, for a general average of $326. The entire sale, which included consignments from other breeders, notably 12 from the herd of J. E. Daviau, Val Gagne, Ont., averaged $355 for 47 head.

Top price was $675 paid by A. H. Dickenson, Mt. Hope, for the three-year-old Kogut herdsire Waldemear Rag Apple Bonheur Lad. He is a son of Montvic Emile Lochinvar out of a 518-lb. 305-day dam.

Highest price for a female was $650 paid by R. Schleissner, Jerseyville, for Rag Apple Supreme Posch Helen, another member of the Kogut herd. She was a six-year-old daughter of Inka Supreme Posch, all-Canadian aged bull in 1943 and was carrying the service of the top priced bull.

LIVESTOCK FROM BRITAIN

One of the largest shipments of prize British cattle to come to Canada since the war filled the quarantine station at Quebec today after being landed from the Donaldson Atlantic Line freighter Salacia out of Glasgow.

Comprising 154 cattle and four Suffolk ewes, the blooded stock is destined for various centres in Quebec, Ontario and Western Canada. The livestock includes Aberdeen Angus cows and calves, Shorthorn heifers, Highland bulls and eight purebred horses and ponies.

The horses and ponies will be landed in Montreal. They include a Shetland pony stallion, one Hackney stallion, one Clydesdale filly and three Exmoor ponies.

GRADE ALL MILK

Ontario dairy farmers are to be congratulated on the improvement they have made in the quality of milk they are delivering to dairy manufacturing plants in the province, according to C. E. Lackner, director of dairying, for the Ontario Department of Agriculture. He says the present indications are that only a very small percentage of the milk will have to be rejected as Grade C milk after June 1st. This is the date on which the new regulations requiring the grading of all milk going into manufacturing plants become effective.

To back up his statement, Mr. Lackner points out that in recent weeks, only 5 or 6 per cent of the milk going to many of these plants has been C grade, and there were some plants which received all A or B grade milk. This is a decided improvement over the record of a few months ago. As a result the Dairy Branch Instructors, who have been carrying on an educational campaign on this matter, feel greatly encouraged and anticipate no serious problems when the regulations come into force. These men report they have received excellent co-operation from the milk producers and from the operators of condenseries, cheese factories and other milk manufacturing plants in effecting this improvement in milk quality.

"FLUCTUATING" HOG PRICES

Dated last week, a letter of the Ontario Hog Producers' Association comments "that with no more apparent reason for increased prices than there was two weeks ago for a decline, the hog market has reached a high of $35.50 in Toronto and $36 in Montreal. This high price may result in the importation of American pork following by another drop in hog prices.

This matter is causing your officers much concern, and we are keeping closely in touch with developments. We feel that this extreme fluctuation in prices is not in the best interest of the industry, as it provides much room for speculaton in the trade. We feel that an even price of around 34 cents would not encourage importation of pork, and it is in the best interest of producers to keep prices at a more even level than has existed for the last four weeks."

Cost Equals 32 Cents Pork

The letter of the HPA says: "The present cost of production in Ontario is equal to a pork value of 32 to 33 cents. Until the producers can get a marketing agency which can hold the price up equal to their cost, it is the duty of this Association to advise hog producers to keep production down to a point where the market is strong. We offer no apologies for giving out this advice, and will continue to do so in spite of weak and ill-advised information reaching producers from other sources."

The "other sources," according to the letter, was "one of the leading farm papers which in its issue of May 10" criticised OHPA for having given weak advice when the price dropped to the low of $30.

FARM SCENE PLEASES

Ontario's agricultural horizon appears to be cloudless as the 24th of May passes by. The rural scene has taken on a flawless aspect as reflected in the weekly report of the provincial department.

Spring grain has already broken ground in Elgin and in other sections of western Ontario. It is a pleasing prospect in all directions. Cattle are in pasture; seeding is finished; and here and there farmers are planting corn. Some of them are already wondering whether any farm help will be available for the crops that are beginning in such favorable auspices.

Halton says "meadows are showing more growth than in the last two years."

Lambton news is blandly cheerful: "Seeding was completed in good time; spring grain is coming up very evenly; new meadows and clover fields are showing a good stand, and fair to good growth. Corn planting is about completed, possibly a week to ten days earlier than the last few seasons. Soybean planting is general. There are many loads of choice western Hereford steers to be seen on our pastures."

Hay and pasture fields in Lincoln are showing excellent prospects. In Oxford they are planting tobacco.

Prices at the Huron Hereford auction were quite acceptable. Thirty-five head brought $17,430; the average was around $500; top female sold for $825 and the high bull $700. Most of the cattle are on grass. Milk production is showing seasonal increase.

In Perth county they are still harvesting a considerable acreage of last year's corn crop.

Here are some North Simcoe prices: Grade dairy cows $275 to $325; weanling pigs $14, down in price; grade ewes and lambs $70 to $80 each; good work horses $100. "Meadows have made rapid growth in the last ten days."

Quite a number of heavy cattle fit for market are being carried over on grass in Wellington.

In Durham "beef men are profiting from the high price they are obtaining from their winter fed cattle. Even cast off dairy cows in good fit are bringing as much as a good steer . . . Some of the milk cows were on grass at the beginning of this week."

Hastings reports a considerable increase in use of commercial fertilizer.

Farmers in Ontario have begun planting of corn. Potato acreage shows a reduction. Some of the early varieties are up.

With such reports from his bailiwick, Col. T. L. Kennedy must be a happy Minister.

TREATING LEGUME SEED

More farmers than usual have been buying nitro-culture for use on their legume seed this sowing season, says Frank Paterson.

"It is a question of good crop insurance at a cost of only 25 cents a bushel of seed in treatment," he said.

Mr. Paterson said that one farmer who had convinced himself of the value of legume culture was Edgar Buck, of Norwood, who tried one field with treated seed and another with seed without inoculation. The results testified to the merits of recommendations for use of the legume culture. The purpose of it is to assist the plants in extracting nitrogen from the air, and thereby increasing the fertility of the soil.

Mr. Paterson said that it was becoming increasingly recognized that the addition of certain bacteria to the soil or seed made up for a natural deficiency of these bacteria in the soil.

Put Nitrogen In Soil

Non-legumes are dependent on the supply of nitrogen in the soil, but legumes themselves under certain conditions are able to make use of the nitrogen of the atmosphere. Four-fifths of the air is composed of nitrogen. By drawing on this supply, which s unavailable to other plants, legumes are abale to conserve in a large measure the supply of that element in the soil.

Besides, the nitrogen in the soil may be noticeably increased by growth of a legume crop if the nitrogen so gained from the air is returned to the soil, either by plowing under or by returning the manure after the crop is fed to animals.

Bacteria In Nodules

The nitrogen-gathering bacteria which enable legumes to utilize nitrogen from the air are situated inside the little swelling or outgrowths (nodules) on the roots of healthy plants. They are lightly attached to the root, and easily stripped off, but may be readily recognized when a legume plant is carefully dug up and roots washed free of soil.

The legume bacteria, like all others, are microscopic in size, and invisible to the naked eye. On the average they measure one ten-thousandth of an inch in eight, and have an enormous capacity for multiplication provided conditions are favorable to their growth, and in a single nodule millions may be found.

One farmer, Mr. Paterson said, bought several bottles of the nitro-culture for application on red clover and alfalfa seed. He said he was especially interested in the evidence this season of more inoculation because it would be a means of building up the soil in its nitrogen content, and improving fertility.

Weed Of The Week

GOAT'S BEARD

Goat's Beard is a weed which is becoming all too prominent in long-term pastures and meadows, roadsides, railway properties and vacant lots. If allowed to continue its present rate of spreading, it will become a serious problem.

This weed is a perennial, with a long, slender tap root. In its early stages, it is rather inconspicuous, since it is hidden by tall growing grasses. However, once it comes into flower, the upright stem from 1 to 3 feet high with its narrow pointed leaves and yellow or purple flowers become quite prominent. When in bloom, the origin of its common name becomes obvious, for the flower is in the shape of a goat's beard. The seed-head resembles an over-grown dandelion, being only slightly smaller than a baseball.

Goat's Beard is easily controlled with 2, 4-D applied at the rate of one pound of acid per acre, provided the spray is applied before the plant reaches the budding stage. One application at this stage usually around May 24th will prevent the flower coming into bloom and forming seed. However, more than one application is usually necessary to kill the root of this perennial. Unfortunately, the plant is frequently not recognized until it comes into bloom, and once it has reached this stage some method of control is required, if seed production is to be prevented.

Once the Goat's Beard is in bloom the only effective chemical control can be obtained through the use of a contact weed killer such as those with a sodium chlorate base, ammonium sulfamate, or pentachlorophenal. Such weed killers act rapidly and will prevent seed formation.

PRODUCTION SPEED-UP—Two litters within 24 days is the feat performed by this sow. The first litter, April 15, contained 12 pigs. The second, May 8, had 11 pigs. The owner, Joseph Shaaral, of Galesbury, Ill., pictured with his surprising sow and some of her brood, consulted two books on porcine births. One said deliveries so close together are impossible. The other said it can happen and has.

West Seeding Done May 31

Prairie weather has been mostly on the cool side during the past week, with only scattered showers being reported in a few sections. Wild oats are prevalent in Central and Southern Manitoba, occasioning delay in seeding and even necessitating discing up some early sown wheat for re-seeding. Threshing of last year's crop in sections involved in all three provinces is proceeding rapidly and should be completed by the end of the month, as reported from Winnipeg.

In Southern Manitoba weather was cool with no rain. Seeding of all grains will be practically completed by the middle of next week. Moisture conditions are generally satisfactory, although a few points would welcome early rains. Early sown grain is up four inches and prospects are generally good.

Weather was cool and cloudy in Northern Manitoba, with precipitation fairly general in the form of scattered showers. Approximately 50 per cent of the wheat and 30 per cent of the coarse grain seeding is now completed. Early sown fields are also showing above ground here. There is still a small percentage of last year's crop to be harvested.

In Southern and South-eastern Saskatchewan the weather conditions have been warmer, with only scattered showers reported. Wheat seeding is 75 per cent completed and coarse grain seeding is well under way at most points. Moisture conditions generally are excellent at this time if prospects continue favorable.

Dressed Poultry Today Finest Ever Produced

The dressed poultry that is being offered to the housewife today is the finest that has ever been produced, Mr. Fred McIndoo said in his recent CHEX broadcast in the Federation of Agriculture series.

"In the first place, genetics entered into the reason for this improvement. Breeders have developed strains that carry much-better fleshing, good color, and faster feathering has reduced pin feathers.

The research men in the laboratories have produced new high-energy feeds that give rapid gains of a very tender texture of meat that has made poultry the aristocrat of the meat merchant's counter.

Moreover, the methods of dressing the birds has added so much to their eye appeal. The days of buying a chicken with head and feet remaining on it is rapidly giving place to the new methods of eviscerated and cut-up chicken.

In many cases this product is offered in an attractive package designed for serving two people, four or more, as the case may be.

In the same way, egg quality feeds. It was truly remarkable has been improved through selective breeding and scientific the way oil-processed eggs graded out of storage last season, 90-odd per cent 'A' grade."

The Rev. Horace Kaye, pastor of the church preached a sermon on "The Good Samaritan on the Jericho Road." The speaker stressed that although the Jericho Road was ancient history it has a modern reality. There is a Jericho Road wherever one goes, and one should always try to do all one can to help others.

Two minutes silence was observed in honor of the four men who lost their lives in the fire in Peterborough, Saturday.

Miss Jean Clark sang a solo, "The Lord is My Shepherd," Mrs. T. W. Chaplin and Mrs. H. Kaye contributed a duet, and the choir sang an anthem.

Lakefield Cadets' Display Pleases Inspecting Officer

LAKEFIELD, May 25 (ENS)—An impressive display by the Lakefield district high school cadet corps at its annual inspection Wednesday raised the morale of Capt. L. J. Hyslop, cadet training officer for Eastern Ontario area.

Capt. Hyslop described the inspection to the corps, No. 446 in the area and affiliated with the 50th HAA Regiment, RCA, as "very impressive." He explained that two poor cadet inspections along the lakeshore Monday and Tuesday made him first attend the inspection "in a foul mood," thinking that the cadet movement was going down. But "my morale picked up this afternoon."

The girls' platoons' work, Capt. Hyslop said, was worthy "of the highest commendation." He praised the girls for their cleanliness, turnout and conduct.

The band was lauded for its efforts. Capt. Hyslop said that few schools as small as Lakefield manage to form a band suitable for an annual inspection.

The first platoon in the boys' group received recognition for its marching while the whole corps' work on the displays was called "excellent" also by Capt. Hyslop.

The assault course, the only such display in the 52 corps under Capt. Hyslop, received special words from the training officer. Its originality, he said, wasn't seen in other cadet corps.

Adopted from the Canadian Army training program the corps had eight obstacles, a wooden fence to climb, a rope to shinny up 10 feet, cross a rope horizontally 10 feet and drop or slid down another rope 10 feet, crawl under barbwire entanglement, creep under a pile of brush, run over eight old car tires, walk along a plank covering a watery pit, dive through two more car tires and finally climb over a six-foot fence.

The whole crowd rushed forward when a cadet fell while crossing the horizontal rope stretch. The first aid cadets raced over and carried him on a stretcher to first aid headquarters. There leg and arm splints were applied. The victim soon carried out to be participating [illegible]

A woman breathed, "That was too realistic."

Inspecting officer, Lieut.-Col. Maxwell Clarke, officer commanding the 50th HAA Regiment, congratulated the corps for its steadiness on parade, its high standard of drill and its efficiency shown by the bright badges and shoes.

He spoke briefly on citizenship and its connection to cadet training or citizenship training. Lieut.-Col. Clarke said that 'you can't get somethng for nothing and remember each contribution will be missed."

Other speakers were Erie Pearson, chairman of the Lakefield District High School Board, and Dr. Reginald Campbell, chairman of the Lakefield Public School Board.

The girls' platoons took part in the ceremonial but presented only one display, physical training. Lieutenants Denise Doubt and Elaine Wasson led Cadets B. Leonard, M. Calberry, M. Fraser, P. Nickels, J. Staples and N. Doubt through a series of physical acts.

Besides the assault course the boys had displays of physical training, signals, first aid, knots and lashings, internal combustion engines, rifle and bren gun work and map using.

For the first time in the school's history two first year cadets received both first and second year Morse signalling certificates. They were Jack Armstrong and Gael Northey.

Cadets receiving first year certificates from Morse instructor Lieut. C. A. Sisson were Jack Armstrong, Fred Barcroft, Jack Batten, Boyd Chatten, James Coones, Thomas Flynn, Larry Godfrey, Harry Hamilton, Kenneth Hilker, Denis Everett, Clare Millage, Gael Northey, John Pearson, Harry Rath, Earl Spencley, Wayne Tucker.

In the inspection party were: Lieut.-Col. Clarke, Capt. Hyslop, Major Roy Leaman, Mr. Pearson, Mr. Campbell, chief instructor L. G. Shepherd and Cadet Major Gordon Coyle.

Displays were as follows: physical training, all cadets under Sgt. Major Richard McCracken; girls physical training, Lts. Denise Doubt, Elaine Wasson, Cadets B. Leonard, M. Calberry, M. Fraser, P. Nickels, J. Staples, N. Doubt; assault course, Lt. Donald Mathews, Cadets J. Hinton, N. Wasson, H. Hamilton, R. Moore, K. Hilker, E. Spencley, E. Lowry, Bob Pratt, C. Calvert, B. Chatten, M. College Head Returns To Painting

TORONTO — (CP) — The retirement this year of Fred S. Haines as principal of the Ontario College of Art will not mean his retirement as an artist.

Mr. Haines, who in 18 years as principal has been the school's enrolment grow from 130 to more than 600 students, is looking forward to "painting professionally" again in his studio in suburban Thornhill.

Born in 1880, he was recognized as a talented student when he won the medal in figure painting at the Fine Arts Academy in Antwerp, Belgium. Since then his paintings, which feature landscapes and farm scenes, have appeared in many art galleries.

His artistic taste has been felt not only by his pupils, but by the public who have seen the exhibits of the Canadian National Exhibition and the Toronto Art Gallery, of which he was curator for some time.

Painting will not occupy all of his time from now on. He is a member of a flute club, containing players of assorted ages, and for some time has headed his own woodwind quinette which plays for its own enjoyment in his Thornhill studio.

Warkworth Church Anniversary Services

WARKWORTH, May 25 (ENS)—Anniversary services were held Sunday in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church with large attendances at both services.

At the morning service, the Rev. J. M. Ritchie was present and guest minister was the Rev. A. E. Toombs, of Campbellford. The Rev. Mr. Toombs was a missionary in India until 1949. His sermon in the morning was "The Sacredness of the Sanctuary."

Horace McAvoy, of Burnbrae, who is the son of the Rev. M. McAvoy, of Burnbrae, was guest soloist, singing "The Love of God to Me." Mrs. J. M. Ritchie also gave a solo entitled, "I walked today where Jesus walked," and the church choir sang the anthem "Let Not Zion Rejoice." Miss Alice Nelson, the church organist, was accompanist on these special musical numbers as well as the hymns.

In the evening, the Rev. A. E. Toombs' address was "The Call of God to a Great Nation" and Mr. McAvoy, the guest soloist, sang "The Glory of His Presence."

A quartette composed of the Misses Wylanne Hermiston, Jacqueline Potter, Lois Fowler and Gwen Wartman sang "Day is Dying in the West" and the anthem "Now the Day is Over" was given by the full choir of voices. All numbers were played by the regular church organist, Miss Alice Nelson.

US Not Hogging Newsprint Supplies

LONDON, May 25 (CP).—Sir Eric Bowater said Thursday night he does not believe the United States is "hogging" most of the available newsprint.

The chairman of the Bowater Paper Corporation, Newfoundland, told the International Federation of Newspaper Publishers' Congress that when the dollar situation deteriorated and prevented Britain from acquiring a share of Canadian newsprint, the Canadians naturally looked elsewhere for buyers.

"There was only one ready market available, namely the dollar area, and primarily the United States," he said.

Ottawa Board of Control promptly decided to oppose the application, which will be heard by the board in Cornwall next June 25.

Movie Column

Football Pro Finds Making Movies Easy

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, May 25 (AP) — His pro football colleagues may never let him live it down, but Bob Waterfield is making his acting debut in the movies. And he's out-Flynning Errol.

Never was Flynn so brave. In "Jungle Jim In The Forbidden Land," Waterfield plays a former football hero who is downed in the wilderness during a wartime army flight. Sort of like Tom Harmon, you see.

Unlike Harmon, who came back to announce sports on television, Waterfield remains in the jungle to become the leader of a native tribe. He likes it there. But he is sought after by a lady photographer (Sheila Ryan) and Jungle Jim, who is Tarzan with his clothes on (Johnny Weismuller).

All three become involved with a mad doctor, who is making synthetic diamonds, and the inevitable marauding natives. This problem is resolved when Waterfield tosses a forward pass with a packet of dynamite. Meanwhile, he has been throwing some passes at Miss Ryan, who also decides she likes it there in the jungle and stays with him.

Easy Money

I found Waterfield, the star quarterback for the Los Angeles Rams, taking the rigors of his new job quite easily.

"It's easy," he admitted. "I don't have much dialogue, so I don't have to study at home or anything. It's mostly action, and that's not difficult. Can you think of an easier way to make a few bucks?"

I couldn't.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"It's an atom bomb shelter we use to dress in—we've got picture windows all over the house!"

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Suggest Using Asparagus To Dress Up Spring Menus

Canadian Press Staff Writer

There may be an asparagus patch at the bottom of your garden, but if not there's certainly plenty in the stores. And the tasty green stalks will be available for at least another month, so make the most of your opportunity.

One of our favorite food connoisseurs throws up her hands in horror at mention of asparagus in cream sauce. "Don't insult it that way," she says. "On the other hand don't turn up your nose at a 'drawn' butter sauce."

Incidentally, "drawn" means melted. Some persons still strain the melted butter through fine muslin to clarify it.

Here is one way the French like to eat their asparagus. But if you're a bit delicate about table manners the expert recommends enjoying it en famille.

Special Sauce

Put a dash of pepper and salt to taste in individual sauce-dishes. Add two teaspoonsfuls of vinegar (wine preferably and nothing highly spiced) plus two teaspoonfuls of good quality olive or peanut oil. Whip the mixture with a spoon.

The reason for the etiquette hint is because this asparagus must be eaten with the fingers. Fresh stalks are chosen and they shouldn't be cooked more than eight minutes.

Asparagus is then placed on a dish. The pieces are picked up, dipped in the sauce and eaten with bread and butter.

Chill Water

Did it ever occur to you to chill the water in which you cook your asparagus? It makes an excellent vegetable juice and also may be used in soups and gravies.

An asparagus omelet also will provide a welcome change in the supper menu at this season of the year.

Heat any left-over asparagus on hand. When omelet is ready to be lifted from the pan put pieces of asparagus on one side of the omelet and fold over.

Remove crusts from thinly sliced bread and butter the pieces. Roll each slice around a piece of asparagus which has been touched with mayonnaise. Pin with a toothpick.

French Mayonnaise

By the way, have you ever tried to make French mayonnaise? Here's your recipe and your method.

Remove every bit of white from the yolk of one egg—be certain that yolk is as nearly dry as possible before you add salt and pepper and dry mustard to taste.

With spoon—preferably a wooden one—mix the yolk and seasonings, taking care to stir always in one direction only. Add a few drops of oil and keep stirring and make certain mixture is kept stiff. Add a drop or two of vinegar—but be careful here—much more oil than vinegar should be added at the beginning otherwise the mayonnaise will become liquid. Continue adding drops of oil—and vinegar when necessary—until you have the required amount of mayonnaise.

Back to Asparagus

For a really exotic asparagus dish try this pilau:

Boil some rice. Don't cook too long. The grains must remain separate.

Empty a tin of tuna fish into another dish. Add cooked asparagus cut into one-inch pieces. Add a little butter to prevent sticking.

When rice has been cooked and strained add the asparagus and tuna mixture to it. Toss lightly.

There are eight basic steps—model at left is taking first step, at right she's inspecting the finished product. Miss Marie Dorris Becomes Bride Of Elmer Crough

Monsignor P. P. Butler said the nuptial mass at St. Peter's Cathedral on Thursday morning, May 24th, and performed the marriage of Marie Alberta, daughter of Mr. Albert Michael Dorris and the late Mrs. Dorris, to Mr. William Elmer Crough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Crough of Craik, Saskatchewan.

Wedding music was played by organist Mrs. R. G. Aman and Miss Helen Hajnik sang "Ave Maria" during the signing of the register. Spring flowers decorated the altar table.

Ice blue Chantilly lace over satin fashioned the bride's gown made in crinoline design with overskirt of tulle. Her shoulder-length veil was caught in a cap headdress and she carried a prayer book with rosebuds attached. She was given in marriage by her father and attended by Miss Ethel Crough who wore orchid tulle over satin, also in a crinoline design, with hat of orchid tulle caught with sweet peas. She carried a hand bouquet of sweet peas and roses.

Groomsman was Mr. William McFadden and the ushers were Paul Dorris and James White.

The wedding reception was held at the Kawartha Country Club. The bride's aunt, Mrs. J. W. Fairhall of Vancouver, assisted to receive, gowned in grey lace with hat of pink straw and wearing a corsage of ping carnations. The groom's aunt, Mrs. Mark Crough of Peterborough, also received, attired in navy and red with hat of white with red feather and wearing a corsage of white carnations.

Leaving later for a wedding trip to the eastern United States the bride wore a navy suit with navy and white check topcoat and her accessories were red.

Mr. and Mrs. Crough will live in Peterborough.

British Woollens Popular As Festival Year Products

By MURIEL NARRAWAY.

LONDON—(CP)— With knitting history from the 15th centry, Scotland still holds her own in the sweater market.

Many overseas visitors who like a woolly for colder weather seek out the fine cashmeres, gay fair isles and feather-weight Shetland lace jumpers that have already made their name throughout the world.

This can be done without even leaving London. At most large departmental stores in the West End, Canadian and American visitors are found buying the finest "export" products of England's north country and the Scottish mills.

Sweaters, however, don't hold all the limelight. A favorite Canadian choice is a knitted "tammy" sold under a variety of names — The Rob Roy, the Blue Bonnet and the Kilmarnock Bonnet. This knitted headgear has a history traceable to 1590 and was originally made in Stewarton, near Kilmarnock.

A gift choice for boy friend is a pair of Argyll-patterned socks with matching pullover. These are made in adult and junior sizes.

Strapless Sweater.

For the ladies there is everything from thick golfing jackets to fine off-shoulder and strapless sweaters suited for the most formal evening wear. A beautiful-tailored example is a Pringle sweater with long sleeves and pointed off-shoulder neckline.

A fashion increasingly popular for country wear with tartan skirts is a sweater combining woven and knitted materials. For instance, a tartan sweater with short Dolman sleeves has deep knitted waistband of heavy rib and matching knitted collar.

Waistcoat with the same idea has tartan front and ribbed back.

In direct contrast to the plunge-neckline sweaters that have continued in favor, collared necklines are gaining popularity. Among these is a deep-pointed, double-collared effect that sets off to perfection the slim, tailored lines of a plain sweater with a single line of fancy stitching running vertically from neck to waist, accentuating the severity of line.

Another collared style increasingly popular because of its utility is the woollen jacket-sweater with roll collar, front buttoning and deep armhole.

Colonial Room with the bride's mother receiving in a grey suit and black and white hat, assisted bythe groom's mother who wore a navy suit with white trim and navy and white hat. Each had a corsage of American Beauty roses.

After a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls and Buffalo the couple will live at RR 10, Peterborough.

Meeting of the Mary K. Birdsall C.O.E. Chapter was held Tuesday evening at the home of the secretary Miss Diane Pearse. There were seven members and three guests present.

Adele Miller, one of the two girls attending the convention in Hamilton in April, gave a report on it.

Mrs. H. G. Carleton, honorary regent, gave the girls a short talk on the Peace Garden telling them about its location, purpose, history, future program and its pledge.

A new member, Marion Outram, was taken into the chapter at this meeting. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

MUNICIPAL CHAPTER

Monthly meeting of the Peterborough Municipal Chapter IODE was held in the Green Room of the YWCA Wednesday evening, May 23rd, with the regent, Miss Mary Medd, presiding.

Miss Medd opened the meeting with the stirring motto, "One flag, one throne, one empire" which has burned like a flame since the dawn of the 20th century.

Secretary Miss Marjorie Benson read a list of conveners appointed for 1951 as follows:

Post-War Convener — Mrs. G. Groombridge; Ex-Service Personnel—Mrs. R. Wilson; Film Convener—Miss June Fraser; Press and Publicity Convener — Mrs. Cliff Boate; Child and Family Welfare—Mrs. Ralph Clark; Hospitality—Mrs. W. A. Burrell; Empire and World Affairs — Mrs. Thomas Chaplin, Lakefield.

It was reported by organizing secretary Mrs. R. S. Allin that she now has application forms for the Chapters to use for memberships.

Mrs. G. Grombridge, post-war convener, reports that 45 parcels of food have been packed this months for shipment to England. She explained that Mr. Herbert Martin of Martin Hewitt Co. has again donated the boxes required for these shipments. The IODE chapters throughout the city are indeed grateful to Mr. Martin who has donated these boxes for four or five years.

Convener of the Child and Family Welfare, Mrs. D. Clark, reported that every chapter in the city had supplied drivers for transportation of a crippled boy to and from Keene for swimming classes at the YWCA twice a week. This service will be continued to the end of August or longer if needed.

Many of the IODE members are assisting with the Mayor's Fire Fund and on Thursday (the holiday) Friday and Saturday IODE members will be in charge of the booth under the direction of the Municipal Regent Miss Mary Medd.

Jeanette Scott Chapter has sent a box of clothing to a family who lived in one of the burned-out apartments above the stores on George St.

Film Convener Miss June Fraser arranged for the showing of two splendid films with projectionists Mrs. Henwood and Mrs. Wright of the Peterboro Film Council in charge of the projection. The first picture was "Opening Of Parliment" and the second a colored picture "Family Tree" the Story of the Settlement of Canada.

Several Chapter members felt that both these films would be ideal pictures to show in the local schools.

At the close of the meeting members of the 57th. Chapter served refreshments.

Danford-Rusaw

The wedding was solemnized Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the George St. United church of Annie Iva Phyllis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Rusaw of Brighton, to Elmer McMaster Danford, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Danford of Cavan. The Rev. Arnold A. Mathews performed the ceremony.

Bouquets of snapdragon and fern formed the setting at the altar. Organist Mr. Charles Allen played wedding music and Mr. Walter Farr sang during signing of the register, "Because."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a navy suit with white accessories and wore a corsage of sweetheart roses and baby breath. She was attended by her sister Mrs. Norman Ellis who wore a grey suit with pink accessories and a corsage of pale pink roses.

Mr. Donald Danford was the groomsman and Charles Danford and Norman Ellis were ushers.

The reception was held at the Campanaro, Mrs. L. Le Fave, Mrs. L. Gooley.

Guest speaker was Mr. J. C. Doyle, Separate School inspector, who chose as his subject "Education and citizenship." He was introduced to the parents by the Rev J. Greenan and Mr. Bill C'Toole expressed thanks.

A film, "The Rising Tide," was enjoyed.

Mrs. D. Campanaro rendered two lovely solos and was accompanied by Miss M. McCabe.

The attendance prize was won by Miss Flynn's Grades 2 and 3. Lunch was served.

Maternity Patients Guidance Discussed by Drs.

TORONTO, May 25 — (CP) — Education for childbirth is time-consuming for the doctor but the time spent will have excellent results, Dr. W. P. Tew, obstetrics and gynaecology professor at the University of Western Ontario said today.

Speaking to the doctors at the annual meeting of the Ontario Medical Association, Dr. Tew said education of prospectice mothers "will curtail much of the fear associated with every labor, particularly the first labor."

The maternity patient should see her doctor as early in pregnancy as possible, he said. The patient who visits her doctor early and regularly throughout the term insures herself against many complications because abnormalities may be diagnosed early and more easily managed.

Dr. D. E. Cannell of Toronto General hospital told the association that the general practitioner has an important role in the early diagnosis and treatment of gynaecological cancer.

"The general practitioner should be capable of performing the major proportion of office gynaecology, said Dr. Cannell, "Upon his conscience and efficiency depends any progress in this therapy."

In addition to knowledge and adequate equipment, time and patience on the part of the doctor were essential to proper treatment. Taking the patient's history required a "careful social, psychological and economic enquiry."

"No one is better qualified to obtain such information than the family physician," Dr. Campbell said. "A sympathetic hearing often results in greater therapeutic results than more specific treatment."

Dr. Cannell warned against the indiscriminate use of hormone preparations in gynaecological treatment.

"No such therapy should be considered or initiated until satisfactory investigation has proven its necessity," he said.

Lakefield News

The Rev. A. E. Creswell, of Lindsay, was guest speaker at Lakefield United Church on Sunday morning, and gave a talk on "Seeing the Unseen." Miss Mary Northey, of Toronto, sang two solos. The evening service was taken by the Rev. W. H. Tonge.

Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Griffiths, Bill and Glynn, of Toronto, spent several days at their summer home in the village this week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Feller, Georgetown and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lake, Powassan, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lake at their cottage on Clear Lake.

Dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Rosborough this week included Mr. and Mrs. William Nisbett, of Peterborough, and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Feller, of Georgetown.

Cavan News

DOROTHY DIX

Dissatisfied Wife Married Too Young, Regrets Move

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 20 years old. Married at 17. Have a little girl 2 years old. My husband is as kind and affectionate and devoted to me. But I am dissatisfied and don't know what to do. Don't even know whether I love my husband or not. I want to go places and have good times and stay young. He wants to stay at home. I have a high-school education and could easily get a college education if it were not for him. I want to go in training for a nurse. Could leave my little daughter with my mother. At the time I was married I saw marriage as a free life, a way to escape the close rules my family had raised me by and a way to get out of this small town, which I always hated. If I leave my husband become a trained nurse and go my own way, will my child have as good a chance in life as if I stayed with my husband who can provide amply for us? There is no other man in the case.

Dorothy Dix

TROUBLED

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Yours, poor little pathetic wife, is just another of the millions of tragedies that are the result of too-early marriages. You married before you knew what you wanted in a husband, and before you had had any playtime. Now you are restless and dissatisfied because you are wanting all the things that you have missed and out of which you cheated yourself.

It's Too Late

But it is too late to think of all that now and to shed any tears over the spilt milk of your lost girlhood. Of your own will you married, and now you must make the best of it and try not to make your good husband pay for your mistake.

Because you have a husband and a child you cannot leave them and go off to study to be a nurse or follow a career. You haven't any right to deprive your husband of a wife, or your child of a mother's care. You haven't any right to turn your husband out on the community to board or live in a club, and you certainly haven't any right to force your mother to take care of your child. That is your chore.

As for the harm you do your child by depriving it of its father's love and influence and support, there is no arguing that point. There is no wrong that can be done a child that is so great as to take away from it the security of a settled home. It is a pity, however, that you cannot try out, for a little while at least, your ambition of being a trained nurse. Believe me, you would soon find that it is no more thrilling than being a wife and mother and you would be glad enough to leave its hard work and its long hours for your own comfortable home, with a good man to support you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am the mother of a 17-year-old girl. She wishes to visit her soldier boy friend, who is approximately one thousand miles from our home. Her father is very much opposed to her making the trip, even though she could stay with friends who live near the camp. Her boy friend is willing to send her the money for the trip. Many people do not believe this is the proper thing for us to let her do, although I still think it is all right for her to go. I would like to have your opinion, and am sure many mothers will face this problem in the near future.

H. W. M.

ANSWER: Even though such a trip could be conducted with perfect propriety on the part of both boy and girl, gossip can do terrible things to besmirch a young girl's character, and there is certainly no doubt that your daughter's visit to camp will cause plenty of gossip. After all, her soldier friend will be home on furloughs, and until then I certainly think it best for them to confine their communication to the mail. Nothing looks so conspicuous as a young girl hanging around an army camp, nor gives rise to so much careless talk.

The reputation of a young girl is as fragile as a lily. No matter how right her thoughts and actions may be in her own mind, it is, unfortunately, Mrs. Grundy who calls the tune. Better avoid the possibility of any ill-natured remarks, and keep your daughter home under your care and protection. Remember, for all the vaunted independence of our young today, they can still use the loving watchfulness of Mom and Dad.

DEAR MISS DIX: What are we to do about the immoral stories brought into our homes from the neighborhood lending libraries? Our children have access to the worst form of literature and we feel that they have a right to be protected from such filth.

A DISTRACTED MOTHER

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It is a pity that children should have access to books that were not intended for immature minds, but I do not know how their reading can be censored except by their mothers. And even they cannot do it effectually. Fortunately, as a general thing, there is much in salacious books that passes over children's heads and that they do not understand. Probably the one thing that parents can do to protect their children from bad books is to cultivate their taste for good literature.

Cottons Get Many New Uses In Clothes

By GAILE DUGAS

COTTON, THE MAINSTAY of any summer wardrobe, is performing new tricks this year. It makes fashion news both in fabrics and in design.

Cotton chiffon, for instance, is not a successor to cotton satin. It's just one more example of the versatility of cotton and the ingeniousness of the fabrics people. Designer Adele Simpson uses it in a shadow check suit (left), one in muted gray ombre tones. This is paperweight cotton, deftly handled, beautifully detailed. A dress with halter neckline has cover-up provided by a form-fitting jacket, thus achieves a suit look. The bow that trims the dress provides trim for the jacket, too. Sleeves are worn pushed up to just below the elbow.

A cotton raincoat, in water-repellent striped cotton ticking, is a handy thing for any girl to own. Summer showers are just as devastating as autumn rains. This coat, by Lawrence of London, has its own beret. It's in a blue-and-white stripe with red velveteen collar and cuffs. It's pyramided, can be worn full or belted and has deeply-cut armholes that slip easily over summer suits and dresses.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Canadian Women Inexpert Cooking Meats, Vegetables

Because I am tarred with the same brush I believe that you will bear with me when I express a critical opinion. Constructive criticism though—for I intend to provide what solutions are in my power.

I believe Canadian women are more expert at making desserts than they are at cooking meats and vegetables to perfection; or at using their collective imaginations at creating attractive and different salads.

Do you agree with me?

There is no mystery in the reason for this. Desserts are vote-catchers. Who can resist the urge to play up to her public?

When I watch Marianne and Peter demolish a whole cake I resolve to have fresh cakes on hand for their delight—but resolves have a way of dissolving.

Because fresh fruits are (1) better for all of us for desserts, and (2) ever so much better to provide and prepare—nine times out of ten we have them for dessert.

(So could you—and it saves all the trouble of having to establish a reducing routine—she said slyly.)

Necessity also plays a part in the little lecture I am delivering today. The meats that are so easy to prepare are the expensive ones. It requires skill to produce an inexpensive meat dish that is tender as chicken, juicy as steak, beautiful as a luscious roast of lamb, and bustin out all over with flavor.

My revised recipe for

Braised Short Ribs Of Beef

Is one such creation.

Buy thick, well-fleshed short ribs of beef, and ask the butcher to chop them into 2½-inch lengths. You can cut through the flesh between the ribs when you get them home. To prepare 2 lbs of these put ½ cup flour in a paper bag with 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper and 1 teaspoon paprika. Shake the rib pieces in this until they are coated. Sear on all sides in a heavy frying pan in 4 or 5 tablespoons bacon fat. When dark gold all over add 1 cup boiling water and a bag full of herbs. This contains 1 slice from a clove of garlic, ½ bay leaf, 2 whole cloves, 4 peppercorns, a 1-16 teaspoon mustard seeds and if handy some shavings from a horse-radish root. Tie tightly in double cheesecloth, and drop into the liquid in pan. Cover snugly and simmer over lowest heat for 3 or 3¼ hours or until meat is tender. You will have to replenish the water from time to time. When done, transfer to hot platter, add water from boiling potatoes and carrots or asparagus or peas to the liquid in pan until you have 1 pint, thicken this with a paste of flour and water, and strain over the meat. Serve with your whitest, fluffiest mashed potatoes.

Frankly, folks, I cannot afford lamb this spring. But I was so hungry for the taste of it I made a

Lamb Meat Loaf

- bought a shoulder of lamb and hacked and chopped at it until I had 2 lbs. of meat; this I ground through medium knife of chopper followed by 4 hard crusts bread and 1 medium onion. To these I added salt, 1 teaspoon dry mustard and 2 eggs. I formed it into a loaf and baked on shallow pan 1 hour at 350 deg. Fahr. Wonderful with French fried rings and a bountiful green salad.

VITAL INDUSTRY

Value of annual coal production in Britain approximates $900,000,000.

What's Right?

Your sister is soon to be married and you would like to entertain for her.

WRONG: Have a shower for her.

RIGHT: Have a luncheon, tea or evening party, but not a shower, since no member of the family of the bride-to-be should give a shower for her.

6—In Memoriams

McINTYRE—Lovingly remembering a dear husband and father, C. L. McIntyre, who went to sleep in Jesus, one year ago May 25, 1950.
Thinking of you Daddy:
I have only your memory, dear daddy,
To last my whole life through,
But its sweetness will linger forever,
As I treasure the image of you.
Keep him in Thine home, dear Jesus,
So that he may ever be
A silent messenger of love
Between our hearts and Thee.
—Your daughter, Linda.

To my husband Charles:
We cannot think of him as dead,
Who walks with us no more,
Along the path of life we tread;
But he has gone before.
The Father's house is mansioned fair,
Beyond our vision dim:
All souls are His, and here or there
Are living unto Him.
And still his silent ministry,
Within our hearts has place,
As when on earth he walked with us
And met us face to face.
Ours is he by an ownership,
Nor time nor death can free;
For God hath given to love to keep
Its own eternity.
— Your wife, Marjorie eJan.

PETERS—In loving memory of Mrs. Frank Peters, who passed away May 25, 1944.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear mother
That we do not think of you.
—Ever remembered by children.

PETERS—In loving memory of Mrs. Frank Peters, who passed away May 25th, 1944.

Nor ever will you be,
As long as life and memory lasts,
We will remember thee.

Grenfell Mission Asks Donations

The yearly appeal for used clothing and money is being made by the Peterborough branch of the Grenfell Labrador Medical Mission. They are taking the opportunity of planning this work to coincide with annual house cleaning time.

The usual marshalling of goods for bales for Harrinton Harbour, PQ, takes place in the basement of the Grafton Company store, George St. Final packing and shipping takes place on June 14.

There is a pressing demand for all manner of wearing apparel and they stress that it should be clean before being presented. Curtain materials, trimmings, buttons, pillow slips and sheets are among the many household materials required.

Used clean clothing, diapers for infants, flanelette nightgowns for women and heavy underwear for men are perhaps the most pressing items. For the fishermen breadwinners and their sons there is need for overall trousers, heavy wool socks, long-sleeved sweaters and windbreakers. Mission members suggest that citizens who would earnestly support their clothing appeal, and have no used contributions on hand, might purchase and turn them over to the bale packers.

Toys and games that Junior is tired of are other acceptable items for poor children of the Labrador coast. Last year contributions of canned goods was a new innovation and request is being made again for these commodities.

No organization can be supported by "handouts" alone, members point out, and donations of money are being asked for. Contributions of this sort may be sent to Mrs. F. M. Somerville, 16 Inverlea St. To raise money for their commitment to Ottawa headquarters, a tea is being held on June 7th at the home of Mrs. W. E. Dorrington, Sr., of Victoria Ave.

Newly-elected executives of the Peterborough branch of the Grenfell Labrador Medical Mission are Mrs. R. R. Hall, honorary president, Mrs. G. R. Langley, president, Mrs. B. D. Hall, secretary, and Miss Clara Morris, treasurer.

Discover Body Of Youngster, 10

SANTA ANA, Calif., May 25 (AP).—The fully-clothed body of 10-year-old Patricia Jean Hull was found Thursday partially-buried under dirt and leaves in a lonely canyon 35 miles from her home. Police said she apparently had received two heavy blows on the side of the head.

Near the body, officers reported, was a bloodstained yellow bedspread. A yellow bedspread was missing, officers said, from the auto court cabin of Henry Ford McCracken, who has been held on suspicion of kidnapping since Sunday.

The discovery ended a widespread search for pig-tailed Patricia, missing since she left her home to attend a movie matinee last Saturday.

District Attorney James Davis will go before a grand jury today to ask for indictment of 34-year-old McCracken on charges of murder and kidnapping.

McCracken's lawyer said he is "strongly considering" a plea of innocent by reason of insanity if his client is indicted.

McCracken, who has a record of five sex offence arrests and one conviction, admitted attending the same children's matinee as Patricia Jean, but he has steadfastly denied seeing the girl or leaving the theatre with her.

Gardeners To Hear About African Violets

A. E. Hick of Lindsay is repeating his talk on African violets at the meeting of the Horticultural Society Monday May 28 at the YWCA at 8 p.m.

Wm. C. Wilks reports that this is the concluduing meeting of the winter season, and the last until next fall. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

"In response to many requests from those who were unable to gain admission to the meeting last year at which the speaker was Mr. Hicks, he is returning to give his interesting talk again," Mr. Wilks says. "He is a leading authority on African violets in this country. His collections numbers hundreds of varieties. Three new doubles will be awarded as door prizes.

Peterborough should be a show place of chrysanthemums next fall. Nearly 500 plants are being distributed this week.

Mr. Wilks reports: "We are again in receipt of memberships from Vancouver, B.C., indicating that former members of our society wish to retain their connection."

Stole 3 Light Bulbs From New City Hall

Charged with theft of three light bulbs from the new city hall, Terence Low, 33, 710 Water St. was given one year's suspended sentence today.

He pleaded guilty to the charge, and told Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, that he had been drinking a lot.

Low was found the morning of May 12 wandering through the new city hall, with three 200-watt light bulbs in his pockets. He was ordered to pay court costs of $2.50.

IRISH SMILES—When they were schoolgirls back in Ireland 11 years ago, Una Prendergast, left, and June Meehan, right, promised to be bridesmaids at each other's wedding. Then June met Michael Whitley of Toronto, centre, when he was attending school in Dublin, and they became engaged. When June arrived in Toronto recently, Una was with her, travelling 4,000 miles to keep the old promise. June intends to keep her half of the bargain, any time, any place.

Canadian VC Happy Mahony Back With Infantry

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA, May 25 — (CP) — Canada's stowaway VC is back where he's pined to be for seven restless years—back with the Infantry.

The Army headquarters today said Lt.-Col. John K. Mahony, 39, VC, has been named to command one of the three infantry battalions in the new 27th Brigade.

The quiet, solid Irishman from New Westminster, B.C., is undoubtedly the happiest man in the army. For he's been struggling for years against the "penalty" that says a VC can't fight again.

There's one blot on the happiness of this man who neither smokes nor drinks nor utters strong profanity, this antithesis of the flamboyant, swashbuckler of military romance—the 1st Canadian Infantry Battalion doesn't include a company from his own Westminster Regiment.

Otherwise he would be as happy as army regulations allow a soldier. He might even go out and have a drink or smoke. Listen and we'll tell you why.

Saved Line

Seven years ago this month he won the VC by holding a bridgehead over the Melfa River in Italy against heavy odds. He was wounded three times, but he and his company and a few armored corps men without armor saved the victory gained a few hours before in the costly breaching of the Hitler line. The Germans, instead of being able to throw up another line on the Melfa, were driven in rout many miles north.

Those were the greatest 24 hours in Jack Mahony's life. They became the cause of some of his worst frustrations.

His VC was awarded a month or so later. The 5th Division's commander, Maj-Gen. Bert Hoffmeister, came to the Westminsters' rest area and told him without formality and Mahony stood there, quaking and thinking somebody was pulling an enormous joke. For weeks he woke up at nights in a sweat from an impossible dream—that he had won the VC.

Nearly Collapses

The King came to Italy and made the formal presentation before the entire 5th Division. Mahony nearly collapsed from nervousness. It didn't help, he once said, to see the King was almost as nervous.

Then trouble started. They told him he had to go to hospital. He knew it. He hadn't been feeling well for weeks.

A few weeks later he reported to the reinforcement depot far beyond the lines. One of the first people he met was another VC major, Paul Triquet of Cabano, Que., just back from Canada and "browned-off" over bond-tour soldiering.

"Where are you going?" asked Triquet.

"Back to my unit," said Mahony.

"That's what you think," said Triquet.

Triquet was right.

Not Licked

But Mahony wasn't licked. He put in a few restless days and then he vanished from the reinforcement depot—went AWL for the first time in his life. He stowed away aboard a truck heading for the front.

When they got into the rear echelon area several days later, he heard queries being made about a missing Maj. Mahony. He slipped away and got all the way up to his unit.

There the commander, Lt.-Col. Gordon Corbould, now in Korea, came to him as a close but embarrassed friend to tell him to leave. It was orders, he said.

They posted Jack Mahony to division headquarters and told him to stay a discreet distance from the front. They gave him a jeep and made him a liaison officer. He hated it. He started slipping away and going back to his unit. His superiors told him he'd have to cut it out.

Paraded Before General

This went on for weeks before it finally came to a head and he was paraded before Gen. Hoffmeister. In the general's caravan, Jack Mahony recalled later, he heard more good advice and counsel than he'd ever got before in a few brief minutes.

The general, a born fighter himself, explained why VCs can't fight again. A VC might be killed or wounded and public reaction would be bad. Or he might feel he'd done his bit and not try too hard. Or he might feel he had to live up to his decoration and take risks unfair to himself and his men.

Posted To Canada

The general got the major posted back to Canada for a staff course with a promise to take him to the Pacific with the 6th Division. The 6th didn't get there because peace came.

Jack Mahony was the only VC to stay in the army. He wanted a job with the troops. For a time he worked with cadets and liked it. Then they made him director of public relations at army headquarters to use his prestige. He never quite liked the job.

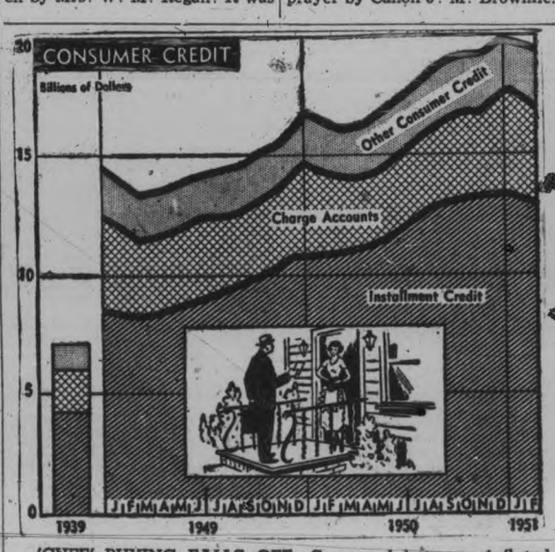
He had nothing against newspapermen but PR work wasn't soldiering. He wanted to be with the infantry.

Now, at last, he's got his wish.

Maybe the non-fighting ban will strike him again later, but for the moment he's a happy Irishman.

Marmora WA To Hold Tea, Bazaar May 31

MARMORA, May 25 (ENS). — St. Paul's WA met at the home of the vice-president, Mrs. R. G. Winters, on Thursday afternoon. The meeting opened with prayer by the lay reader, W. J. Cottrell.



Mrs. R. Frost read the scripture lesson. The roll call was taken by the secretary, Mrs. F. Leal. Mrs. R. Frost reported for the Dorcas, stating that all articles for the bale should be brought to the rectory on May 31.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. W. M. Regan. It was decided to make an extra quilt for All Saints' School (Indian), Prince Albert, Sask., to which the bale is being sent.

Plans were completed for the holding of the baking sale, bazaar and afternoon tea in the rectory on May 31.

An interesting report of the 65th diocesan annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary held in Brockville this month was given by the delegate, Mrs. E. Hewitt.

The meeting was closed with prayer by Canon J. M. Brownlie.

'CUFF' BUYING FALLS OFF—Squeezed between inflated prices and tight controls on installment buying, U.S. buyers are not going into debt as deeply as they did last year. The result is a downturn from the peak $20 billion of total consumer credit outstanding at the end of 1950. Latest government reports, on which Newschart above is based, show total credit declined about $400 million during February, 1951, in contrast with a credit expansion of $48 million in February, 1950. Preliminary reports show a further dip in March—a time when installment buying usually swings upward.
